FOR ENDEAVORERS.

Interesting Side of the Work Being Carried on by Young Christians.

(Conducted by Press Department Union County C. E. Union.)

A society of fifty young Cubans has been organized at Cienfuegos by Rev. A. DeBarritts, of the Congregational church there. At Puerto Principe there is a strong society of sixty-eight members. A society has also been organized at LaGloria, Cuba, where there is an American colony. A church building, to take the place of the tent in which meetings have been held, is almost completed.

Through the efforts of the missionary committee of its Christian Endeavor society, the Presbyterian church of Manchester, Iowa, has become self-supporting. The special collection taken made it possible to return the amount received during the year from the Board of Home Missions and to donate a neat sum besides.

Philadelphia's Floating Endeavorers are doing a marvelous work among the many hundreds of sailors who touch port there each year. There are several corps of workers, one band alone having visited 1,000 vessels during the past year. Fifty comfort bags and a vast amount of literature were distributed, seventy-seven meetings were held and 122 men received into the churches.

Rev. A. Miyake, of Osaka, Japan, who will be a delegate to the Cincinnati convention, will remain in this country for about two months, studying church work and methods. He has recently received twenty members into his church, and is greatly assisted in his work by his two live Christian Endeavor societies.

The president of the Christian Endeavor Society in the Union church at Yokahama, Japan, has sent a list of thirteen names to be enrolled as comrades of the Quiet Hour. The list represents five denominations.

Over eighty members were received into Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman's church on Easter Sunday, making nearly 200 this year.

The Ross Street Presbyterian Endeavorers, Brooklyn, have raised $494 for missions during the year.

Shudders at His Fate.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unrivaled to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by L. W. Randolph. Only 50 cents.

—If you want any linen handkerchiefs, or expect to want any during the coming season, it will pay you to come to Peck's.

—Mr. W. J. Baxter, of North Brook, N. C., says he suffered with piles for fifteen years. He tried many remedies with no results until he used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and that quickly cured him. L. W. Randolph.

—Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will hold an important meeting this evening.

—If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

How Royalty Pays Twice.

It is not out of place to mention, especially as the fact is never sufficiently remembered when royal incomes are discussed, that royal personages have the dubious privilege of paying at least twice as much for nearly everything they buy as ordinary mortals are charged. From a diamond tiara to a breakfast roll, almost every article they order is charged for by the royal purveyors at double the price at which it can be bought by a private citizen. It is not only that kings and princes cannot chaffer and bargain, but it is a tradition with them—almost a point of etiquette, at any rate in this country—not to inquire too curiously the price of anything they wish to purchase. Practically, the only exceptions to this unwritten law are when the princess of Wales, for instance, goes shopping privately, in which case it is etiquette for tradesmen to address and deal with her as a private person. But even then the royal personage, if recognized, is usually outrageously charged. For instance, two Christmases ago the princess of Wales bought two or three of the little silver "Trilby" feet that were so popular that year. For these she was charged two pounds each, while the price marked on them in the window was 22s. 6d.—Free Lance.

Earthquake In Yokohama—Deadly Explosion In China.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 13.—News was brought by the steamer Glenogle, which arrived yesterday, that a severe earthquake occurred at Yokohama on April 24, lasting fully two minutes. No damage was reported.

The Asiatic reports that on April 22 100 French and 30 Germans were killed and wounded by the explosion of mines buried on the frontiers of Shansi and Chi-li.

The China Times reports the capture of brigand headquarters where Chinese were pillaging the neighborhood under the leadership of ten foreign soldiers. The Germans killed 20 Chinese and captured a junk on which a cannon was mounted.

The new 7,000 ton liner Sobranon was wrecked on the Chinese coast near Lungying prior to the sailing of the Glenogle. The passengers and mails were saved. The vessel is a total wreck.

A mixed battalion of English, Japanese and French had a sharp engagement with 500 Boxers near Shan-back-wan. The fight lasted all day, and a number of Chinese were killed. The British lost two men wounded, the French one and the Japanese two.

There were 110 cases of plague and 104 deaths and 65 cases of smallpox and 43 deaths at Hongkong from Jan. 12 to April 15.

Judge Hardin's Estate Large.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., May 13.—Letters of administration on the estate of the late Judge George A. Hardin of this city have been applied for by his widow. Among the judge's papers nothing was found indicating his wishes as to the disposition to be made of his property. Mrs. Hardin's petition asserts that the value of the personal property of the deceased does not exceed $500,000 and that the real estate does not exceed $250,000. Besides his widow, Judge Hardin left 39 heirs, 2 uncles, 2 aunts and 35 cousins. The administratrix had to furnish a bond for $1,000,000. It was secured from a surety company and is the largest bond ever filed for a similar purpose in Herkimer county.

A Bad Character Shot Dead.

JASPER, Ind., May 13.—In a desperate battle with a deputy sheriff George Reeves was shot to death last night on a high bridge over the Potoka river while being taken from Jeffersonville reformatory to Jasper to be placed on trial for murder. Both George Reeves and his brother John, who is also to be tried for murder, broke away from custody. John was recaptured. George Reeve was about to brain a deputy sheriff when slain. The crime for which the Reeves were to be tried was the murders of two deputy sheriffs in 1885. Since then they have been incarcerated in Kentucky, charged with arson and bank robbery at Birds Eye, where it is said they secured $31,000 and almost destroyed the little town.

Observing the Pope's Jubilee.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 13.—Five thousand Catholics united in a public procession yesterday afternoon in observance of the pope's jubilee. The French Catholics gathered at Notre Dame and marched in double line to the cathedral, while the Irish Catholics marched to Notre Dame, the processions passing on Ford street and, taking possession of each other's church, held a special prayer service. A plenary indulgence is gained by order of the pope for 60 visitations to the church between Feb. 15 and Aug. 15, and this public procession took the place of these visitations. A similar procession occurred here 25 years ago.

Woman Too Much For Burglars.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 13.—Mrs. Ella Karcher, 60 years old, early yesterday morning, routed two men who had broken into her home on the estate of United States Senator John Kean. She fired one man out of the house and ran the other out. Then, after giving the alarm, she gave chase and at the point of a revolver held them up, marched both back and finally, still under her pistol point, turned them over to the police.

Organizing Against America.

VIENNA, May 13.—The Weiner Allgemeine Zeitung, reviving the recent reports of combined European action against the United States in the industrial world, asserts that Germany and Austria are negotiating with a view to the formation of a European league to resist American competition.

MRS. M'KINLEY IS ILL

President's Wife Taken to San Francisco For Rest.

A HURRIED SUNDAY JOURNEY.

Dr. Rixey Pronounces Her Condition Not Alarming—Said to Be Suffering With a Felon—Programme to Be Carried Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—The sudden illness of Mrs. McKinley has caused an unexpected change in the itinerary of President McKinley. He arrived in this city quietly yesterday afternoon several hours ahead of the time scheduled. The state of Mrs. McKinley's health was such Sunday morning that the president decided to leave Del Monte and bring his wife to this city immediately to the home of Henry T. Scott, where she could have complete rest for a few days and where a specialist could be consulted if necessary.

A special of two cars and a locomotive was made up from the president's special, and at 12:30 o'clock the president, Mrs. McKinley, Miss Barber, the president's niece; Secretary and Mrs. Cortelyou, Dr. Rixey and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Scott left Del Monte for San Francisco, leaving the remainder of the presidential party at Del Monte. Only a few hundred people greeted the president upon his arrival in this city. His coming was not generally known, and only those who chanced to see the bulletins posted by the newspapers announcing that the president would reach the city at 4. p. m. awaited his train. The president, in order to avoid the crowd that was expected to assemble at the Southern Pacific depot at Third and Townsend streets, left the train with his little party at Valencia street, a station in the southern part of the city.

Secretary Cortelyou, when questioned concerning Mrs. McKinley's condition, stated that there was nothing alarming in her present indisposition and that perfect quiet and rest for a few days would restore her to her usual health. It was the impression, however, of those who saw Mrs. McKinley that she is very ill and that her present state may result in an entire change of the president's programme.

Should his wife's health improve the president will carry out his intention to attend the celebration at San Jose today. If, however, her condition shall be no better, the president will not leave his wife's side, but will allow the cabinet officers and others of his party to represent him at San Jose.

Dr. Rixey made the following statement:

"Mrs. McKinley stood the trip from Del Monte much better than I expected. Her condition is not serious. She will stay here at least a week and have perfect rest. I think by that time she will be able to continue the journey. She has been gaining strength."

Party Starts Without the President. Mrs. McKinley Has a Felon.

DEL MONTE, Cal., May 13.—Mrs. McKinley's illness has cast a shadow on the other members of the party who remained here, and there was talk at first of abandoning the entire schedule between here and San Francisco, but Mrs. McKinley especially requested that the plans of the party should not be disarranged by her departure, and when the president left the understanding was that the programme originally fixed should be carried out. The president has himself said he would rejoin the party as soon as Mrs. McKinley shall be made comfortable.

The party left here at 8 o'clock this morning, and after a ten minutes' stop at Pajaro they went to Santa Cruz for a glimpse of the big trees. It was not the expectation of the president that he could be at either of these places, but he thought he could meet the cabinet at San Jose, where great preparations have been made to receive him and where the programme was for the party to spend the night. In that case he could enter San Francisco tomorrow afternoon, as originally contemplated, without disarranging the plans for the ovation arranged for him there. It is possible that Mrs. McKinley's condition, if it shall not improve as rapidly as hoped, may necessitate a curtailment of the programme in San Francisco and for the remainder of the trip.

The day after leaving New Orleans a bone felon appeared upon Mrs. McKinley's finger. Her hand became swollen and gave her considerable pain and produced fever that prevented her from sleeping. Dr. Rixey twice lanced the felon and gave her some relief in that way. Mrs. McKinley bore it bravely and urged that the programme at the cities and towns should not be modified in any particular on her account.

It was hoped that the rest here would do her good, but she slept little Saturday night, and yesterday morning, although her condition had improved, she reluctantly agreed to go to San Francisco at once. The party got away from the hotel so quietly that many of the guests did not know until evening that the president and Mrs. McKinley had gone.

Dr. Evans' Estate In Market.

PARIS, May 13.—Several of the residences forming part of the estate of the late Dr. Thomas W. Evans, the famous American dentist, long a resident of Paris, who during the Franco-Prussian war facilitated the escape of Empress Eugenie, were put up at auction yesterday. The Hotel des Souverains, as it became known during the Paris exposition, was offered at the upset price of 2,800,000 francs, but did not find a purchaser. The property on the Rue de la Pompe was offered at the upset price of 900,000 francs, but this also was not sold. The house on the Avenue Kleber was sold for 420,000 francs.

Esterhazy Fathers the Bordereau.

BRUSSELS, May 13.—The Independence Belge publishes affidavits signed by Count Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy before the French consul in London admitting the authorship of the Dreyfus bordereau and declaring that the bordereau was written with the connivance of Colonel Sandherr, ex-chief of the secret intelligence bureau.

The Bagley Ready For Trial.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The navy department has been informed that the torpedo boat Bagley, constructed at the Bath Iron works, is ready for her trial. The boat is named after Hasien Worth Bagley, who was killed on the Winslow at Cardenas, Cuba.

THE MAILS IN TURKEY

Some Light on the Recent Postal Troubles.

PORTE TO SUPPRESS FOREIGN OFFICES

Nearly All the Powers Maintain Independent Postal Services at Constantinople—It Is Claimed That These Facilitate Smuggling.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Mr. Leishman, our minister at Constantinople, up to this time has not communicated with the state department respecting the trouble at the Turkish capital over the efforts of the porte to suppress the foreign postoffices. Inquiry here discloses the fact that the United States government is one of a few of the great powers which do not maintain an absolutely independent postal service between Constantinople and the outside world. The others have a system of closed mail pouches by which the mails are not permitted to pass through Turkish hands while in transit between the border and the embassies at Constantinople.

The British government has a fine postoffice building not far from its embassy, and Austria and France also have suitable postal establishments in Constantinople. These were established originally not so much from a lack of confidence in the integrity of the Turks as from the very inferior character of the Turkish postal service some years ago. It is possible for any foreign citizen resident in Constantinople to receive his mails directly upon application to the postoffice at his embassy. The privilege is not limited to embassy attaches or official mail, and this fact long has been a matter of discontent for the Turks, who, having sought to improve their own postal service by placing it under the direction of German experts, feel that they have a right to get rid of these foreign offices, which they claim facilitate smuggling.

The United States government, not having a postoffice of its own, always has made use of the facilities of the French, Austrian and British postal establishments in Constantinople.

Plow Trust Likely to Succeed.

MOLINE, Ills., May 13.—The Moline Plow company of Moline, the second largest plow factory in the world, has given an option to New York capitalists which, if closed within the limit of 60 days, will bring this concern into the $50,000,000 plow combination and make sure its success. The company employs 1,000 men, and the option is for upward of $5,000,000. The company has opposed the trust, but will sell rather than fight it. C. H. Deere, president of Deere & Co., slated for the presidency of the combine, says that the stock panic has not affected the plane of the trust, as feared, and he now considers the organization of the new company sure. No other farm implements but plows and related lines will be made by the combine, of which Moline probably will be the chief manufacturing point.

Iglesias Injures Himself.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 13.—Louis Iglesias, a brother of Rafael Iglesias, president of the Costa Rico republic, and who is a student at Eastman college in this city, put his head through a window at his boarding house and received severe cuts on the forehead and neck which required a number of stitches and will probably leave his face disfigured. He had been sick with fever and was convalescent. He thought the window was open and went to look out to speak to some one in the yard. He is very nearsighted and failed to notice that the window was closed.

Killed Children and Self.

PROVIDENCE, May 13.—Mrs. Bedinah Carlson, aged 29, and two children, Gustav Arthur, aged 7, and Lillie, aged 2, were found dead from illuminating gas in a bedroom in their home on Stamford avenue yesterday. Mrs. Carlson's husband died last winter. Since then she has worked to support the family, but ill health recently has forced her to idleness, and in a fit of despondency it is supposed she arose Saturday night about midnight, turned on three gas jets and lay down to die. Another daughter, Alma, aged 8, survives, having slept in another room.

A New Coal Mining Concern.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 13.—The Melville Coal company and the West End Coal company have sold out their holdings at Shickshiny to a party of Scrantonians, who have organized a new coal mining concern under the title of the West End Colliery company. It has a capitalization of $800,000. The two collieries have a capacity of 2,000 tons a day and have 11,000,000 tons of coal to mine. Congressman William Connell was the chief owner of the Melville mine. Conyngham & Co. of Wilkesbarre were in control of the West End company.

Marsh In the Pulpit.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 13.—Luther R. Marsh, once the law partner of Daniel Webster and now in his ninetieth year, occupied the pulpit of Christ Universalist church here last night. Mr. Marsh is one of the leading spiritualists of the country. He discoursed from I Corinthian, ii, 9, exhorting his hearers to lead Christian lives. The sermon was of great length and was delivered with much vigor.

Sporting Man Dead.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Moulton T. Needham, popularly known as "Bo" Needham, the secretary and treasurer of the Washington Baseball club, is dead here of typhoid pneumonia. He was 32 years of age and unmarried. The remains have been taken to his former home at Rockford, Ills. Needham was formerly sporting editor of the Detroit Free Press and the Ohio State Journal.

What Might Have Been.

LONDON, May 13.—At a banquet of the Cornish association held in London Saturday night General Pole-Carew said, "At the beginning of the war had the Boers fully realized their strength and our unpreparedness we would have been driven to Durban and Cape Town, and we would have presented the spectacle of reconquering South Africa from the seacoast."

National League Games.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Two games of baseball were pulled off yesterday. At Chicago the home team won from St. Louis by a score of 6 to 3. At Cincinnati the home players won from Pittsburg by a score of 6 to 1.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Heavily Loaded Trolley Car Runs Away—One Fatally Hurt.

NEW YORK, May 13.—An open trolley car on which were packed 115 persons got away from the motorman yesterday afternoon near Fort Lee, N. J., and dashed down Leonia hill. Not one person on the car but what was bruised, but to the wonderment of all only three were seriously hurt, and only one of them is likely to die. Frank Sunstruck, the conductor, is the one whom it is feared may lose his life on account of possible internal injuries, and J. E. Robinson and his wife of this city are the two others who were seriously hurt.

The heavily loaded car had started down an incline a quarter of a mile in length when the motorman lost control. It went so fast no one dared jump off. The road is a winding one. At the foot of the hill it curves sharply, and the rails at this point were laid specially to counteract such an accident as happened yesterday afternoon.

When the front trucks hit the curve, they started around it and made it. The rear ones followed part of the way. The wrench upon the car, however, as it swung about was so great that the body was lifted and torn from the trucks and rolled over and hit the ground. The motorman stuck to the car, and when the jerk which pulled the car apart took place he shot into the air and landed in the soft earth near a fence at the corner.

The passengers were caught in and under the car and were piled in a screaming, praying, cursing heap. The injured were taken back to Fort Lee, where such as needed it received medical attention. What caused the car to run away will probably never be known, as it is too badly wrecked to warrant an inspection which would prove valuable to settle the point.

To Bridge the Hudson.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The World says this morning that William J. Amend, counsel for the North River Bridge company and one of its directors, yesterday made the definite announcement that the Pennsylvania railroad is back of the company's scheme to build a bridge from Hoboken to Manhattan. He said that contracts were now being negotiated between the bridge company and the various railroad companies whose traffic will be accommodated by the bridge. As soon as these could be executed, he said, work on the structure would be commenced. It is estimated that the bridge can be completed within four years. The bridge is to be only for the transportation of passengers, and the plan involves the erection of an enormous terminal, bounded by Sixth and Seventh avenues, Twenty-fourth and Twenty-eighth streets. The bridge will be the largest in the world. There will be 16 tracks for railroad trains, and the strength of the structure will be such that they can be run at full speed. Above them will be trolley tracks, driveways, bicycle paths and footways. The estimated cost of the bridge, with the approaches and the passenger terminal, is $80,000,000.

Immense Strike Ordered.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A general strike, involving directly 150,000 machinists and indirectly 500,000 men in metal working trades, is expected to take place on May 20 unless some arrangement is effected in the meantime. This is the statement made by President James O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists, who has his headquarters in this city. The demands of the men, the refusal of which threatens to precipitate the strike, Mr. O'Connell said, are for a working day of nine hours and an increase of 12½ per cent in wages, or, in other words, ten hours' pay for nine hours' work.

Traction Strike Still On.

ALBANY, May 13.—The strike on the United Traction company's lines, which affects five cities and two villages in this immediate vicinity, promises to be indefinitely prolonged because of the decision of the company's directorate not to discharge the ten nonunion men and because of the determination of the strikers not to return to work unless the road is unionized and the demands acceded to. The company's notice to the men to return to work today resulted in a canvass of the union men, and President Sheehan of the strikers' organization said that not one of the union men will return to work.

Shamrock II Ready Again.

WEYMOUTH, May 13.—The repairs on the challenger have been completed, and the Erin towed the two Shamrocks here, in readiness for the open water trials on the channel, which will commence today and continue daily until Captain Sycamore, Mr. Watson and Mr. Jameson are satisfied that the challenger is in perfect trim. Sir Thomas Lipton is the recipient of many presents from all sections of the country, but he is proudest of a photograph from President McKinley, which arrived Saturday, bearing a cordial greeting and the president's autograph.

A Movable Hitching Post.

DANBURY, Conn., May 13.—William Frisbie, a Woodbury farmer, tied his horse and wagon to a freight train, and the train moved away with the turnout attached to the tail end of a box car. The trainmen failed to see the horse and wagon. The farmer reached the station platform just as his horse, running at top speed to keep up with the train, took the cattle guard at a leap and left the wagon behind. After a few hundred yards had been covered by the horse he fell, and the hitch line broke. The horse was caught near the station practically unharmed.

To Attend the Buffalo Show.

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—The officers and directors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company have decided to attend the Pan-American exposition exercises at Buffalo May 20 as the guests of the Wabash railroad. It was decided to erect a building at the Pan-American exposition at a cost of $10,000. It will be used as the Louisiana Purchase exposition headquarters and will be ready for occupation by June 1.

Big Order For Locomotives.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The International Power company has just closed an order for a number of locomotives for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, calling for the entire capacity of its plant for the remainder of this year. These locomotives will be built in Providence and Paterson, N. J.

A FATAL COLLISION.

Straw Ride Ends Disastrously—Two Killed and Many Injured.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Of 26 young people who started from College Point, N. Y., Saturday night on what is locally known as a "starlight" ride two were carried home Sunday morning dead, five are in the Jamaica hospital, four were allowed to leave the hospital after having their wounds dressed, and every one of the remainder was more or less bruised. A collision with a trolley car caused the accident. The dead are Michael Schneir, 23 years old, and Joseph Pickel, 20 years old, both of College Point.

The 26 merrymakers were on their way to a hotel ten miles away, where they were to have a dance. They were all in one wagon, the bottom of which had been filled with straw. It was almost midnight when they reached Distler's hotel, on the edge of Jamaica. When in front of the house, the driver of the wagon saw a trolley car approaching. He thought he could cross the tracks in time to avoid a collision, but made a miscalculation. He applied the lash to the horses, but to no purpose.

Pickel and Schneir were the ones occupying the end seats at the rear of the wagon. The car hit the wagon at the rear wheels back of the hubs. The vehicle was demolished, the rear end being broken to pieces. Pickel was hurled into the air and fell 30 feet away. As he descended his head struck a fire hydrant. His skull was crushed in. He was carried into Distler's hotel, but died as he was being placed upon a couch in the parlor. Schneir was also thrown into the air. He landed head first on the macadam pavement. He was unconscious and was carried into the hotel. A few minutes later an ambulance from the Jamaica hospital arrived and started with him as the most seriously injured for that institution. He died before the hospital was reached.

The car, after breaking the rear end of the wagon, pushed it to one side and then stopped. The car itself was badly wrecked. The front dashboard and the front platform were demolished. The side of the car nearest the wagon was broken. No one on board of the car was injured, although the 25 passengers were more or less shaken up.

The motorman was arrested, though claiming to be without blame in the matter.

Not Officially Dead.

DETROIT, May 13.—Miss Dora McDonald of 185 Baker street, this city, apparently died at 3 o'clock Friday night, yet she has not been pronounced dead by her physician, Dr. George S. Field, who says it is a case of suspended animation and is one of the strangest cases ever brought to the attention of the medical fraternity of this city. Dr. Field says that aside from the condition of the body, which becomes warm in the region of the heart at irregular periods, the former history of the young woman tends to make him skeptical. "Two years ago," said Dr. Field, "the young woman remained in a state of unconsciousness for a period of four days and then regained her senses. I now feel that I must not be hasty in concluding that she is dead. Apparently she is dead. Her eyes are set, and her body is cold. Yet 26 hours after pulsation disappeared I found that her body was warm near the heart."

Rejoicing Over Eastman's Acquittal.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 13.—Charles R. Eastman, who was at half past 9 o'clock Saturday night declared not guilty of the murder of his brother-in-law, Richard H. Grogan, Jr., has been the recipient of many congratulations, and the verdict of the jury seems to give general satisfaction. The jury was out five hours. The announcement was received with cheers from a crowd that filled the courtroom and spread out into the street. It was the largest crowd at the courthouse in all the three weeks' trial of the Harvard instructor.

Governor Odell's Vetoes.

ALBANY, May 13.—Governor Odell has vetoed the bill of Assemblyman Cotton authorizing New York city to reimburse the taxpayers for attorneys' fees who began action at the instigation of Comptroller Coler to prevent the payment of confessions of judgment against the city on the part of a former corporation counsel. Governor Odell has practically completed the work of disposing of the so called 30 day bills left on his hands by the legislature. He has signed 731 chapters of the laws of 1901 and has vetoed about 180 bills.

Since the alliance started the total contributions are $1,448,900, of which more than half was raised in the last four years.

Corn Crop Ruined.

CARBONDALE, Ills., May 13.—It has just been learned that 15,000 acres of corn in Massac county, which for some time was under water owing to the overflow of the Ohio river, has been completely destroyed. The farmers hoped to secure a partial crop by replanting, but as water still remains on much of the land all hope has vanished. The loss will be severely felt.

Starbuck Still Missing.

ANDOVER, Mass., May 13.—C. E. Starbuck, the Harvard student, living here, is still missing. One hundred Phillips-Andover academy students searched the ponds, rivers and woods about here yesterday with no satisfactory results. Chief of Police Frye went to Cambridge, but was unable to get any clew of the whereabouts of the young man.

A Tannery Combine.

PITTSBURG, May 13.—Seven tanneries in Allegheny county have been optioned, together with a number in other parts of the country, until Aug. 5, before which time a consolidation will be effected, with a capital of $6,000,000 equally divided in preferred and common stock. FIRE SWEEPS TOWN.

A Detroit Suburb Suffers Loss of $800,000.

FLAMES FANNED BY A GALE.

Small Fire Department Powerless to Cope With the Conflagration, Which Followed the River Front.

DETROIT, May 13.—Fanned by a 35 mile an hour wind, fire yesterday afternoon swept the west bank of the Rouge river in Delray, a suburb to the south of Detroit, for three quarters of a mile and destroyed over $800,000 worth of property. Following are the losses:

Salliotte & Furgason, lumber mill, $50,000, covered by insurance; Brownlee & Co.'s sawmill, salt block and part of their stock of lumber, $45,000, insurance $15,000; the Western Union telegraph office, loss on cedar poles stored in a yard which was swept by the flames about $600,000, insurance unknown; Carkin, Stickney & Cram, loss on dredge which was tied up at Salliotte and Furgason's dock $70,000, insurance unknown; Maltby Lumber company, cedar poles, $50,000, insurance $25,000.

The fire originated shortly after 1 o'clock on the roof of the Salliotte & Furgason lumber mill. The mill had not been running for several months, and the roof was as dry as tinder. The building was soon in ashes, and the fire swept across a dock to where dredge No. 5 of the Carkin, Stickney & Cram fleet of dredges was tied up. Despite efforts to save her, this craft was burned to the water's edge. Great embers were picked up by the wind and dropped on the roof of Brownlee & Co.'s mill and salt block, and both these buildings were destroyed.

Delray has a very small fire department, and a call for help was sent to the Detroit department, which responded with three engines and the fireboat Battle. Even the great streams from the fireboat were powerless to check the flames which were rolling down the river bank for hundreds of feet.

From the Brownlee property the fire jumped over into the large yard which the Western Union Telegraph company used as a storage point for their cedar telegraph poles. The yard is the distributing point for ten states, and over 100,000 poles were stored there. The fire swept through the great yard, which comprises about eight acres, in less than two hours, but the poles blazed until far into the night. The streams from the fireboat Battle were centered on this yard, but they had no effect in staying the flames. The four inch streams were turned into steam almost before they reached the burning piles of poles.

The plant of the Maltby Lumber company was the last one on the river bank, and it was soon destroyed, together with a large stock of cedar poles which were stored in the company's yard.

When darkness fell, the glare from the burning poles illuminated the sky for miles. The firemen worked on the fire almost all night, but it was only to keep it from spreading to other property, for they realized that it would simply have to burn itself out in the Western Union storage yards.

While the fire was burning the lumber yard of G. A. Raupp & Co. in Ecourse, about a mile from Delray, was set on fire by sparks from a passing engine, and 500,000 feet of lumber was destroyed. The loss is about $75,000, covered by insurance.

Shot Wife Accidentally.

BARRE, Vt., May 13.—C. S. George, a stone mason, accidentally shot his wife, killing her almost instantly. He took a small Flobert rifle with the intention of practicing shooting, placed the target on the wall in the kitchen and went into the dining room to shoot. His wife had gone down stairs, but soon after came back into the kitchen, Mr. George not hearing her. Just as he pulled the trigger she stepped immediately in range of the shot. The ball struck her in the left side of the neck above the collar bone, and she soon expired. George was arrested, but after an inquiry he was released in custody of Emery L. Smith and W. W. Lapoint without bail. The couple had been married 40 years and always lived happily together.

Glass Works Shut Down.

BRIDGETON, N. J., May 13.—The glass works here and at Millville, Vineland and Quinton, comprising the South Jersey Window Glass works, have shut down for the summer. This is five weeks earlier than formerly and was done by agreement between the blowers and manufacturers on account of the large quantity of ware that is on hand and which the manufacturers want to dispose of this summer. The workmen have been promised that blowing will be resumed on Sept. 1, which is about a month earlier than usual.

Kentuckians Welcomed Home.

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 13.—The Frankfort volunteer soldiers who served with the Thirty-ninth infantry were given a royal welcome home upon their return from the Philippines. A crowd of several hundred met them at the train. The local Beckham guards acted as a military escort, and addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor De Honey and Hon. T. H. Crocket, which were responded to by Captain Noel Gaines on behalf of the returning heroes.

Klondikers Doing Well.

PORT TOWNSHEND, Wash., May 13.—The steamer Victorian has just arrived from Skaguay, bringing 100 passengers. Returning passengers report that the miners of the Klondike are having the greatest harvest in the history of the country owing to the abundant supply of surface water which is being utilized in sluicing dirt taken out during the winter months, and the yield of the yellow metal exceeds the best expectations of the mine owners.

Progress of the Shaws.

UTICA, N. Y., May 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw of Chicago passed through this city on an automobile tour from New York to Chicago. Mr. Shaw wagered $2,000 that he could make the trip in 144 hours' running time and hopes to make it in 120 hours, or 10 days of 12 hours each.

Fatal Mine Explosion.

CARTHAGE, Mo., May 13.—Charles Clabaugh and William Morrison were killed and John Paxton was seriously injured by an explosion at the Pleasant Valley mines, near here. The men were drilling and struck an unexploded shot.

The New Hospital.

The exclusive announcement made in Saturday's Daily Press that the new site for Muhlenberg Hospital had been finally selected was welcome news to the people of Plainfield. Those who have taken the pains to look at the present arrangements of the hospital have been fully aware of the great need of new quarters. For some time the members of the Board of Governors of the hospital have had the subject of a new hospital under consideration. Financial support was forthcoming, and it was decided that as soon as a suitable site could be selected, the new quarters for Muhlenberg Hospital should be erected.

A number of sites have been under consideration. The advantages and disadvantages of the different ones have not been made public by the Governors who have now simply announced their decision in the matter. The subject was given long and careful consideration, however, and the members of the board feel that they are perfectly justified in their choice.

It has been known for some time that the board favored a site in the southern part of the city close to some principal thoroughfare which would furnish easy access. The location of the present hospital buildings, so close to the railroad and the large factories with their accompanying noise, has been demonstrated as not a fit place for a hospital. These objectionable features will not affect the new site. It will also be nearer to the centre of the city than in its old location and will have the advantage of a nearby trolley line.

There are a number of proposed sites in close proximity to the one chosen. Why that one was taken and not any of the others the Board of Governors has not stated. As all the members of the board of good business men and deeply interested in the welfare of that institution, the public can readily believe that there were good reasons for selecting that particular site. Regarding the offer of a site made by James E. Martine, the board is likely to explain its reasons in that instance when it replies formally to Mr. Martine's offer.

The four members of the State Board of Assessors are not all of the same mind regarding the new president of the board. This act has caused considerable talk among the newspapers of the State. The board is a bi-partisan one, composed of two Republicans and two Democrats. The two Republicans contend that the chief honor should go to a man of the same political persuasion as the Governor who appointed them, particularly as the secretaryship goes to the other party. The Democrats argue that the oldest member of the board should be president, irrespective of party. It is on this question that the dead-lock has resulted. A meeting will be held tomorrow when an attempt will be made to secure an agreement.

Plainfield's police force turned out Saturday afternoon for its spring inspection. The local force compares very favorably in many ways with the forces of other cities of similar size. For the present condition of the force, the people of Plainfield can thank those citizens who have been at the head of the police board during the last few years. Much credit is due to Former Councilman E. T. Barrows, who began the work of reorganization of the force. The work begun by him is now being well carried out by Councilman J. F. Buckle, the present president of the police board.

One of the penalties which men high in public affairs have to suffer is the importance given to even their slightest movements. One evening last week four prominent Republicans of Essex county happened to dine together in New York. As one of them is the prospective candidate of the Republican party for the governorship and another chairman of the Republican county committee, considerable significance has been attached to the dinner. The participants all declare, however, that it was merely a social function and had no political significance.

The twelfth anniversary of the organization of the Epworth League was observed in all the local Methodist churches last evening. The Epworth League is composed of the young people of the Methodist churches of the land. It has grown steadily since its organization until now its branches are to be found in every corner of the country where the the Methodist church goes. Plainfield has the honor of having Chapter No. 1 of that organization. It is connected with the First M. E. church.

The city nurse, who is maintained at the expense of the City Union of King's Daughters, has done a good work in this city as the recent reports, made at the semi-annual meeting of the City Union, testified. It is to be hoped that the members of the local circles of King's Daughters will continue in their good work.

The fine condition of Plainfield's streets was again demonstrated yesterday when, within twelve hours after a heavy rain, the roads were so well dried up that they were actually dusty.

New Jersey has just adopted an official guidon for the signal corps of its militia. The design is an effective one, and is what is commonly known as the "swallowtail flag."

Next time there is a trolley ordinance to be granted, there will be a provision for the sprinkling of the streets before May 15.

DID NOT COME BACK.

Sad Story of Blighted Affection Reported from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Charles Pierce Sues Mrs. Isaac Spiker for Alienating the Devotion of a Pet Cat—The Plaintiff's Tale of Woe.

A sad story of blighted affection is reported from Uniontown, Pa., where Charles Pierce is suing Mrs. Isaac Spiker for damages for alienating the affections of his pet cat Thomas. The preliminary hearing in the suit was held before Justice James A. Trimble and the defendant, says the Chicago Tribune, was held over for trial in the higher courts.

The story told by Mr. Pierce of how Mrs. Spiker sowed the seeds of distrust and suspicion in the loving young heart of the susceptible Thomas was most affecting. For a long time Thomas resisted her blandishments, but at last his love for his master was turned into cold regard, then into simple endurance, and from that to hate.

One night Mr. Pierce came home and Thomas was gone. Contrary to the words of the old song, the cat did not come back. Mr. Pierce has never seen nor heard of him from that night. Now his hearthstone is cold and desolate, and he blames Mrs. Spiker for the unhappiness that has fallen upon him. In court Mr. Pierce told his story with tears in his eyes. He said: "Thomas' full name was Thomas Boothroyd Pierce. He was a most exceptional cat. He knew me as well as any of my friends do. He would wait for me on the corner near my house and when I came in sight he would mew 'Hallo' to me so that I could hear it half a block away. Then he would run up to me, and, leaping up to my shoulder, would ride home that way purring pleasantly into my ear. At night he would climb into my lap and purr out an account of what he had been doing during the day. For years he was the greatest comfort in my life. As time wore on he lost some of the beauty of his kitten days, but he was still strong and handsome, and his affection for me seemed to grow with the years.

"But one day Mrs. Spiker moved next door to me and Thomas. At first Thomas had the same mistrust for her that he had for all strangers. I myself am to blame for what followed. I became acquainted with the Spikers and insisted upon Thomas Boothroyd liking them. I would take him over to call in the evenings and Mrs. Spiker would prepare a dainty little lunch for him, and after a time he became rather fond of her.

"I thought nothing of it at first, but rather encouraged the growing intimacy between Mrs. Spiker and Thomas Boothroyd. Then I noticed that Thomas Boothroyd no longer met me on the corner at night. At times he would not come home until late in the evening, and when I would look for him I would invariably find him lying in front of the grate fire in Mrs. Spiker's house.

"One night I recall vividly. It was cold and wet outside, and lonesome within the house. I finished my supper and sat down in front of the grate. I kept listening for Thomas Boothroyd, but he did not come. Finally I went in search of him. I went over to Mrs. Spiker's, and found Thomas Boothroyd stretched out in front of the grate fire, with Mrs. Spiker tickling his back with her foot. Thomas Boothroyd was purring, and I am so well acquainted with his singing that I could readily recognize the tune he was purring. It was 'I'd leave mah happy home for you-oo-oo.'

"My heart was broken. I went back to my home, feeling that Thomas Boothroyd was gone from me forever. And so it proved, for soon the Spikers moved away, and a few days later Thomas Boothroyd disappeared, and I have never seen him since.

"Each night I fill his saucer full of cream and put it at his old place on the table, and each night I lay the fur rug on which he loved to lie in front of the fireplace. For some day, when Thomas Boothroyd is tired of his infatuation, I feel sure that he will come back to me, and we will be happy again as we were of yore."

New Star Is Disappearing.

The new star in Perseus, first seen on February 22, is now barely visible without a telescope. One astronomer says the brightness was produced by a hydrogen eruption of vast extent, and that the fires of the glowing gas are subsiding. But the point is that the unexpected may happen among celestial bodies as well as in other places.

ALIS DEFEATED BY LEAL'S.

SCHOOL BOYS WON BY A SCORE OF 12 TO 8.

No Thrilling Features Marked the Play—Alis' Team Tried Three Pitchers—The Batting Order

The Alis Athletic Association base ball team went down in defeat before the Leal's School nine in a game played on Pittis' field, Saturday afternoon. The final score was 12 to 8.

No special features attended the play of either team. Turnbull, the pitcher of the Alis nine, was hurt in the early stages of the game, but before he was taken out the Leal boys succeeded in making a number of good hits. This work was continued when the Alis boys put Rockwell and P. Smith, each in turn, in the box. Thompson, of the Alis team, distinguished himself somewhat by stopping some swift grounders to second base.

There was considerable shifting about of the players on both teams. R. Schoonmaker was given a chance to pitch for the Leal boys, while Dupee played his position at short, but they both soon resumed their regular places. Dupee put up a good game as usual as pitcher.

The batting order follows:

Leal's.	Alis.
Tilney, c.	G. Smith, 1b.
V. McGee, cf.	P Smith, cf, p.
Dupee, p, ss.	Egan, rf.
R. Sc'nm'r, ss, p.	Baird, lf.
Brown, 1b.	Thompson, 2b.
W. Sc'nm'er, 3b.	Radford, ss.
D. McGee, 2b, rf.	Rockwell, 3b, p, cf.
Griggs, lf.	Turnbull, p.
Corwin, rf, 2b.	H. Smith, 3b.
	Moore, c.

The score by innings:

Leal's	5 2 2 0 0 1 1 1 x—12
Alis	0 5 0 0 0 2 1 0 0—8

Base hits—Leal's, 11; Alis, 10. Two-base hits—Leal's, 5; Alis, 1. Three-base hits—Leal's, 1; Alis, 0. Errors—Leal's, 7; Alis, 5. Struck out—By Dupee, 8; by Turnbull, Rockwell and Smith, 2.

Daly, of Brook avenue, a clerk in Neuman Brothers' grocery on Watchung avenue, is the winner of a prize awarded in a contest participated in by all the clerks in the various grocery stores in this city. After a keen contest between the clerks of J. A. Smith & Brother, of West Front street, and those of Neuman Brothers, the prize was captured by Mr. Daly.

In a moment the priest had put on his overcoat and hat, and the two men were walking down the avenue towards the hotel just mentioned.

"I shall wait down here for you," said the priest, when they had entered the office of the hotel and been told that Dr. Fleming was in. Goddard sent up his card, and in a few moments he received permission to go up.

'Ah, Maj. Goddard!" cried Dr. Fleming, a tall, heavy-set, full-bearded man, as he came to meet his visitor. "I was half expecting to meet your wife to-day, but this is an unexpected surprise. I hope she is not indisposed."

"I think she is no worse," said the major, helplessly, as he drew off his gloves. "In fact, she did not know I was coming."

"But you are not going to fancy yourself ill, Maj. Goodard," said the physician, lightly. "You are nervous; that's all. I detected that fact when I took your hand; but otherwise you are as sound as a block of fine steel."

"It is about Blanche, who is now my wife, that I called," said the major. "You—you knew, I presume, that my first wife—"

Dr. Fleming saw that Goddard was unable to finish his remark.

"And I was awfully shocked to hear of the accident, I assure you; and I was glad to hear of your recent marriage. Your ward was one of my most interesting patients. You will pardon an old man like me, who is old enough to be her father, when I take the liberty of saying she is one of the finest characters I ever met. You know it is almost an instinct with my profession to be able to read human nature well. Maj. Goodard, you are to be envied."

"I am sorry," said the major, "that you did not speak to me of her physical condition when she began to take your treatment; but, of course, you knew best as to the advisability of taking me into your confidence. I may as well tell you that Mrs. Goddard, just before sailing for England, confided to me what you had told her about Blanche's condition."

"COME WTH ME," HE SAID, HUSKILY.

Dr. Fleming raised his bushy, iron gray eyebrows inquiringly; then he said:

"I was really somehow under the impression that you were present, major, when I talked to the ladies at your house. I am really curious to see your ward again. I'll venture she weighs ten pounds more than she did, and has a complexion that couldn't be bought by all the wealth of the earth."

"Do you mean that there is really—really hope for her?" gasped the major.

"Hope for her? Why, what do you mean?"

"My first wife told me you said Blanche had an absolutely incurable disease of the heart, and—"

"God forbid. Why, there never was a thing the matter with her, except she had some secret grief, or trouble. You must pardon me if I was obliged to suspect the cause of it, aided as I was by a little gossip I had heard. This kept her out of spirits naturally, and she needed a change of scene, but I could not persuade her to leave Lyndhurst. The medicines I gave her were only tonics. You have given her all the medicine she needed, Maj. Goddard. It seems to me that there was some suggestion that your first wife was not—not exactly sound, mentally, when she left you. Is this true?"

"Yes," answered the major, slowly; "yes!"

"Well, surely you ought not to have let any absurd fancy of hers make an impression on you."

Goddard rose to his feet. He looked like a man completely dazed.

"I have believed her life in danger ever since," he managed to say.

"Well, you certainly have nothing to fear on that score," said Dr. Fleming, as he followed his guest to the door. "It was not because I wished to see her professionally that I informed her of my return to New York, but because she reminded me of the only child I ever had—which I lost five years ago."

There was no ceremony in Goddard's leavetaking. He left the physician staring at him in wonder as he headed for the stairs leading down into the office.

Father Surtees emerged from a throng of men near the newspaper racks and came forward in the glare of electric lights.

"Well?" he inquired, eagerly.

"You were right," said Goddard.

"Thank God!" ejaculated the priest, fervently, and they made their way to the street. They walked half a block in absolute silence. Goddard's face was full of thoughts too vague for utterance.

"There is but one course before you now," counseled Father Surtees, as they paused on an isolated street corner and faced each other.

"And that is—"

"To make a clean breast of it all to Blanche."

"If she were dying it might not be so hard," said Goddard, "but—" tears of agony rushed to his eyes; "but to know that she will live on to loathe me as she would a noisome reptile which had for a moment coiled itself around her unsuspecting heart. Oh, God! advise me to kill myself!"

"You never were a coward, Rowland." And Father Surtees laid his hand on Goddard's arm with a tender touch. "It is the consequence of your fault; take it on you like a man. Go to her. Tell her the whole truth."

"Thank you," said the major; "I shall do it."

He was turning away when the priest caught his arm again.

"You say the other is here in New York?"

"I think so," was the answer.

"I know you well enough now," said the priest, reflectively, "well enough to feel sure you could never fall in her power again."

"If I meet her nothing—no power in Heaven nor beneath—could prevent my killing her."

"Nothing but Blanche," said the priest. "She would prefer to have as little publicity as possible. No; restraint must be part of your burden. The woman must live."

"To assassinate Blanche?" cried the major. "No!"

"She will never do it when she knows that you and Blanche are parted. Of course, Blanche will want to go away at once."

"Of course—" Goddard staggered away. A cab was passing, and he hailed it. The cabman smiled knowingly on the priest as he helped his friend to get in. He thought he was taking up a drunken swell. The priest gave the directions in a cold tone of reproof, and, pressing Goddard's hand, he turned away.

"Oh, God, don't desert the poor, poor fellow," he said, with his eyes raised to a star which, pale as a white diamond, gleamed above the yellow glare of Madison square.

CHAPTER XVII.

That afternoon Blanche, who remained at home, had encountered an experience more thrilling than anything which had ever befallen her.

She had tried, after the major had left for the city, to pass the time away with various amusements. She had poured out her complete happiness to the sympathetic pages of her diary; she had, when that joy had spent itself, gone to the piano and played her guardian's favorite airs, sung his favorite songs, imagining him in his smoking jacket and slippers in his usual seat on the great leathern lounge. Then a small cloud rose between her and the sun of her present happiness. It was the memory that such a short time had elapsed since another had occupied her place, and that thought had frequently beset her of late, but seldom with such persistency as now. She tried to fight against its influence, to tear herself from its grasp, but in vain. One of the most tantalizing of these thoughts was that Jeanne Goddard's room still remained just as the absent woman had left it, just as Blanche vividly remembered it on the night preceding Mrs. Goddard's departure. Its door had not been opened since its occupant had left. Blanche supposed it was locked, as she had once, in passing, seen the key to the door hanging on a nail outside.

"Perhaps," thought our poor heroine, "if I could put down my objections to seeing the room again, and go there, I might not think of it so frequently; and I really must be more generous. But—" Blanche shuddered as her thoughts ran on unchecked, "I cannot bear to think that she once had all his love. She—when God had made us for each other!"

She would not have been the woman she was if these recollections had not stung her proud nature to the quick.

"I certainly have a good opportunity now," she thought, remembering that both the maids had asked for a leave of absence that afternoon, and through the window she could see James leaning over the wall at the foot of the lawn engaged in deep conversation with an acquaintance. So the outcome of her mental arguments for and against this step was that she bravely ascended the stairs, went along the fern-decorated corridor to the door of the room which had haunted her so much of late. To her surprise she missed the key from the nail where it usually hung. Then she noticed it in the lock, and that the door was slightly ajar. Thinking this was perhaps due to the negligence of the servants, the young wife entered and stood in the center of the room—a target for sharp memories which were shooting into her heart from several objects in the boudoir—Jeanne's couch and chair, the divan where she had once seen her husband with his arm around his wife. Blanche's face was set with keenest suffering as she turned her back on the canopied bed with its lace coverings, rich tapestries and down-filled pillows. She was wondering if, after all, the visit was going to be productive of good when she heard a slight rapping noise about Mrs. Goddard's escritoire, which was hidden from her view by a tall screen of painted silk in a frame of mahogany. Blanche advanced and looked over it. To her horror she saw a man trying to fit a key into the lock of the desk. Happening to glance upward at that instant his startled eyes met hers.

Blanche uttered a scream of fright and shrank back.

"For God's sake, don't! I am not a thief, miss;" exclaimed the man, rising head and shoulders above the screen, the key falling from his hands.

Blanche paused. The thought that she was alone with him in the great house showed her the futility of flight, but it was the earnestness of his declaration of innocence which detained her. Besides, now that she had the man fully in view, there was something in the regretful expression of his rather sad face which inspired confidence. He was well dressed, his hair and short beard were white as snow, though his face did not bear testimony to more than 50 years of age.

"I—I—" began Blanche, but she was unable to steady her voice.

"I know appearances are dead against me," said the intruder, "but I hope you won't judge me too harshly. I am a sort of detective engaged in ferreting out a case touching me personally."

Boiled Water in Ancient Times.

Now that the use of boiled drinking water has become common, it is interesting to be reminded that a similar method of guarding against disease was practiced in ancient times. A Good Suggestion

After you buy your tickets for the theater, stop in at the nearest drug store and get a five-cent carton of Ripans Tabules, especially if you intend to dine before the performance. One or two Tabules will relieve the fullness or distress which over-indulgence in the good things may cause. You will enjoy the entertainment much better if you follow this suggestion. A New York gentleman in the habit of theater-going says his wife has often made him leave the theater between the acts to go across the street to a druggist or a cigar stand, for a five-cent carton of Ripans. They give her immediate relief, as they will anybody else who tries them.

FASHION NOTES.

Novelties to Be Seen Among Jackets and Skirts.

There is talk of reviving the Louis Seize jacket, with a slightly rippled basque, but whether this will be done is yet uncertain. At present the bolero, the very short jacket and the loose sack are the three forms which, in some variation or other, characterize wraps as a class. The bolero in particular is an ideal summer wrap; it is so light, small and compact.

A novelty consists of taffeta gowns ornamented with applications of black cloth—a reversal of the usual practice. Another novelty is the excessive use of ruffles, which are shown in profusion on many of the summer models. Even for walking costumes ruffled skirts are to be worn, the ruffles sometimes outlining curves, at others rising slightly toward the back.

The jacket illustrated is an attractive design composed of satin cloth. It forms a point in front and closes with clusters of buttons. The little basque is sewed on at the hips, and the entire coat is bordered with lines of stitching. The revers and high collar are entirely covered with stitching, and stitched straps constitute the decoration. The accompanying hat is of draped silk with a crown of flowers and foliage. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY NOTES.

Wide, Low Hats Will Be Popular For Summer Wear.

Millinery trimmings are all broad, low and closely massed this season. It is surprising how many varieties may be devised within these limits, for, while the general outline of the majority of hats is the same, they differ greatly otherwise. Among the novelties to be enumerated is a shape covered entirely with large, flat pansies in the natural colors. Others have the brim entirely composed of masses of yellow auriculas, tiny roses, foliage or berries, the crown being formed of lace, gauze, net or silk. Entirely gold quills are sometimes used for trimming, gold tissue and embroideries and loops of tiny black velvet ribbon. Among the simpler hats the alpine appears in light felt and manila straw, but it has a wide, rather flat, brim. The bell crowned sailor is also seen, but all sailors are also wide brimmed.

The hat shown in the sketch is of fine old blue straw. It is trimmed with foulard having blue dots on a white ground, the foulard forming fans at each side upon the hair, where they are held by silver buckles. The trimming then passes over the lifted brim and across the top of the hat, a band also going around the crown.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Sculptor's Love Letter.

Here is a love letter written by a French sculptor to a young widow who only looked upon it as a witty joke:

Divine Pebble—Were you not harder than porphyry or agate the chisel of my love, guided by the mallet of my fidelity, would have made some impression upon you. I, who have given every form to the roughest materials, had hoped, with the compass of reason, the saw of constancy, the fine file of friendship and the polish of my words, I should have made of you one of the prettiest statues in the world. But, alas, you are an insensible stone, and yet you fire my soul, yourself remaining cold as marble. Have pity on me. I no longer know what I say or do. When I have a dragon to sculpture, it is Cupid that rises under my chisel. Dear column of my hopes, pedestal of my happiness, cornice of my joy, if you make me happy, I will raise to you statues and pyramids. Tomorrow I will call for my answer.

Antiquated Methods of Transportation in China

They Illustrate Better Than Anything Else China's Unprogressiveness

NOTHING so well illustrates the unprogressiveness of China as the antiquated methods of transportation that are found all over the vast empire. Living in a country of some 70,000,000 of people, with two or more railroad trains passing through practically every community daily, carrying to and from us that which we have to buy and sell, it is practically impossible for us to draw any conception of a nation of more than five times the population of our own in which the wheelbarrow, the houseboat or the coolie laborer forms the chief means of transportation for both goods and passengers.

Ninety per cent. of the population of China have never seen a railroad train. Comparatively, China has none, neither has she wagon roads or wagons. But there are two things which she has, and of which the most is made. One is the cheapest labor in the world and the other is some of the greatest rivers forming natural waterways through her most densely populated districts.

Such streams as the Yangtse, the Min, the Yellow and a large number of other rivers are navigable for the crude native boats of the Chinese or the modern steamer that has been introduced by the trade-seeking foreigners.

Of the native boats in use on these streams there are many picturesque varieties. Many of these Mrs. J. F. Bishop, during her travels through China, secured photographs of, and these she has given to the public in an attractive little book of views entitled "Chinese Pictures," published by the firm of Cassell & Co., New York. It is from this book that the accompanying illustrations are taken. Of all of the native boats of China none are more grotesque and at the same time picturesque and typical than those used on the Min river for running the rapids. Of this Mrs. Bishop says:

"The Min river, called also the Fu, is a western tributary of the upper Yangtse, but is a great river in itself. Of the boat's four sails the lowest is of bamboo, and it let down at night to protect the boatman and his family. The feature of the boat is its high prow for protection against the rocks and rushing water."

All through China the houseboat plays a prominent part in the life of the people. It provides transportation for both products and passengers in and out of the interior of the country, and the banks of all rivers are lined with them. Countless thousands almost of these primitive craft travel up and down the great Yangtse.

While China is without roads, it is not without bridges. Some of the handsomest and most picturesque bridges in the world are to be found in China. Of these the Bridge of Ten Thousand Ages at Foochow is probably a leader. Of this bridge Mrs. Bishop says:

STATE CARRIAGE OF THE BRITISH LEGATION.

"It is built upon enormously solid piers, which are often monoliths. The roadway is constructed of single blocks 30 feet long. The balustrade as well as the roadway is of solid stone. It is one of the oldest bridges in the empire."

The most common form of bridge in China and one of the most picturesque is the single arch type. They are constructed of blocks of granite cut to the curve of the bridge, and a flight of steps leads to the crown of the arch, which is, as a rule, some 30 feet above the water. Mrs. Bishop says that when traveling by water one enters almost every town or village under one of the single arch bridges.

Crude as are the boats of China, the methods of land transportation are even more antiquated. China can boast of no roads worthy the name. The nearest the empire can come to what would be considered a good wagon road is the imperial stone road from Peking to Chengtu, a distance of nearly 1,000 miles. It is considerably more than 1,000 years old, and was at one time a great highway, being laid with immense flagstones for the entire distance. But there is now little of its greatness left. The heavy stones have crumbled away, and for great distances not a vestige of them is left. Throughout its entire course it is marked by a double line of massive cedars, a great part of which have withstood the ravages of time better than the roadway.

Without roads means without wagons. But these are not missed, as China has never risen to the need of such a luxury. The state carriage of the British legation at Peking comes as near the western idea of a wagon or carriage as China has ever known. This is but a rough, two-wheel, springless cart drawn by a small donkey. Such carts are in general use in Manchuria and other northern provinces.

But of all the typical methods of transportation in China is the coolie bearer. Two of these coolie bearers will transport a passenger in a chair a distance of from 20 to 25 miles a day at a never-ceasing, never-changing dog trot that seems as much a part of the coolie's life as the queue he wears. Merchandise is carried in much the same way, and thousands of dollars' worth of American goods that are sent to China are transported from the seacoast cities to the far interior in this manner.

We sell to China annually thousands of gallons of kerosene oil, and much of this goes to the interior of the empire. It is carried from the sea-coast to the interior in tanks composed of a wicker basket lined with oil paper, these strapped to the backs of coolies.

Another popular method of transportation in China is the wheelbarrow. The wheelbarrows of north China look very much like those in use in this country, but so strong are the coolies that one of them can wheel as much as a half a ton of merchandise over the uneven paths of China. The most densely populated portion of China is the Chengtu plain, supporting on its 2,500 square miles of territory more than 4,000,000 population. It is perhaps the best cultivated and most fertile spot in the world, and supplies to other parts of the empire much of the foodstuffs that are consumed. With such a great traffic it would be supposed that even Chinese ingenuity would have devised some speedier and more modern means of transportation than the wheelbarrow, but such is not the case. In fact, the Chengtu plain may be said to be the home of the wheelbarrow, though it is not the same vehicle that is known to north China. Of this Mrs. Bishop says, in connection with the very excellent picture which she gives:

"The traffice is enormous, and is mainly carried on by means of wheelbarrows, which are so contrived, by placing the wheel in the center and platforms beside and behind it, as to enable one man to wheel five hundredweight with ease. The narrow roads of the plain are covered with an almost endless procession of these wheelbarrows, which are often preceded by a man pulling, in addition to the man behind."

In addition to these methods of transportation one finds the camel trains around Peking and through Mongolia, and in Manchuria the donkey is used as a pack animal, with large wickerwork baskets suspended on either side, is much in evidence. Before western civilization can make much headway in China transportation methods will have to be greatly improved.

SPRING LAMB.

That is spring lamb (and not mutton) is the only kind of spring lamb that we carry. We carry mutton also, but there is a difference. When you ask for spring lamb you get it and nothing else. It is tender and delicious. If you want a very choice dinner get your spring lamb from us. You also can always rely on getting the choicest cuts of beef, mutton and veal.

PASSION FOR POWER.

It Is Directly Responsible for Congressional Profligacy.

Adding Amendments to Legitimate Bills the Favorite Method of Lawmakers of Securing "Pie" for Personal Use.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE passion for pelf and the power of public plunder were never so well illustrated in the history of our republic as during the closing days of the recent short session of the congress. The individuals comprising the senate and house of representatives were exceedingly nonpartisan in their efforts to get their hands into the treasury away up above the elbows. Statesmen of both political parties were equally culpable.

There is nothing in the constitution, nothing in statutory or common law, to authorize the expenditure of the public moneys for expositions, for river and harbor steals, for fraudulent claims, nor for any one of the many things which were put to the fore by the politicians in the national congress, at the instigation of their constituencies and commonwealths. The people should know the truth and deal with their servants according to their merits or demerits. Democrats and republicans alike have sinned, and the truth may be told without partisan feeling or partisan statement.

There were senators and representatives who desired an extra session of the congress in order that consideration might be given to Chinese, Philippine and Cuban affairs. Some of them were so much in earnest that they declared that all legislation should be blocked in order that an extra session might be compelled. The reason why they all fell down and prostrated their sincere opinions was given by Congressman Hepburn, of Iowa, the acknowledged leading debater of the house of representatives, when he said to the writer: "It was the greed of public money. The legislation which would prevent an extra session was placed upon the army appropriation bill, in the form of amendments. Then the army appropriation bill was placed on the calendar, in advance of the sundry civil and the river and harbor appropriation bills. Those bills contained the 'pie,' or 'pork,' for which many were contending.

"Those bills could not be taken up and considered until the army appropriation bill was disposed of. Consequently, in order to get at the "pie" bills, statesmen who had sworn that they would ne'er consent consented, and voted for the bill which they had sworn to kill.

"The sundry civil appropriation bill contained the provision of $5,000,000 for the St. Louis exposition; and all of the supporters of that appropriation were obliged to vote for the army appropriation bill in order to get at the sundry civil 'pie.' That measure also contained the appropriation of $250,000 for the Charleston exposition, and they also were obliged to vote for the army appropriation bill. The river and harbor appropriation bill contained aggregate sums amounting to $50,000,000. In that bill almost every member of the senate and house of representatives had an interest. They were obliged to vote for the army appropriation bill in order to get their 'pie' in that bill. Consequently they all fell down and surrendered.

"The army appropriation bill was one of the best measures of the kind that has ever passed the house of representatives. It was the senate amendments on foreign affairs which caused the hot opposition to it; but the senate amendments were all swallowed by the opponents of those amendments, in order that they might get at the 'pie' appropriations."

The Iowa statesman has always consistently opposed the river and harbor appropriation bills; and rightly, too, for they always contain point-blank steals from the treasury. Moneys are annually appropriated in that bill for the improvement of streams which are, and always will be, useless for navigable purposes; but the congressmen seek and secure appropriations in the river and harbor bills in order that public moneys may be expended in their districts for their own political interests. The men who represent constituencies and states containing navigable streams, or contiguous to ocean and lake coasts, properly present their honest interests for the national welfare. But in order to get what public spirited and national pride should cheerfully give they are obliged to allow all sorts of unworthy appropriations to be made, else they might be defeated in their laudable purposes by the votes of those who have only selfish political interests to advance.

In the house of representatives Mr. De Armond, of Missouri, caustically and bitterly referred to these facts, saying: "There has never been a day fuller of fate for freedom and liberty than this; and here, with the representatives of the people shackled with trade and bargains and connivance, with cringing and crooking of the knee that thrift may follow fawning, the rights of the people are being frittered away, their constitution is being disregarded; and, shame upon shame, this is to be done here in what is supposed to be the house of representatives of the American people, which is really the house of representatives of the bosses and traders and traffickers who have no respect for the constitution, those who have no respect for their constituencies, those who have no respect for their own manhood, those who surrender away their every right, those who grovel in the dust and seem to rejoice that they may so crawl, instead of standing erect, as God probably intended they should do."

That sounds like a part of a political speech, but it was not. It was aimed at men of both political parties who were giving up their individual opinions in order that they might get at the "pie" bills, so that political thrift should follow for their own selfish purposes.

There should be some remedy for this condition of affairs in the congress, and the remedy lies with the people. Every man in the republic should divest himself of partisan feeling in the matter. It is useless to blame either party, as a party, for their representatives are human, and in that respect are all alike. The people should give their senators and representatives to understand that appropriations for exploiting the interests of favorite localities are unconstitutional; and that appropriations for rivers and harbors must be made on the plane of statesmanship, and not on the plane of the partisan or politician.

Senator Allison, of Iowa (rep.), chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, and Senator Cockrell, of Missouri (dem.), former chairman of the committee on appropriations; the two men of different parties who know most about national appropriations, frequently spoke with earnestness, with words of warning, and with pleading, that the expenditures might be cut down; but those honest and painstaking leaders were powerless.

The regular subscribers and readers of this paper must have noticed that the correspondent has dealt in kindly manner with public men, and they will understand that it is with a very keen regret that these truths are told concerning them. Every man, including the politicians, desires to better his condition. Representatives desire to become senators, and senators desire to become presidents. Like merchants and mechanics who seek their individual betterment these public servants sometimes subordinate public interest to self-interest, and they are going too far in that direction.

Although there are many politicians who believe that he did not fulfill the requisites of his own declaration in all respects, Grover Cleveland certainly penned an axiom which all public men ought to know and understand when he said: "Public office is a public trust." The representatives of the people and the senators of the sovereign states ought to realize that fact better than they have recently done.

In the house of representatives the speaker has absolute power over the appointment of chairmen and members of committees; and every speaker selects the best men for those positions because it is to his own interest, as well as to the public interest, to do so. But during the session which has recently closed the speaker was powerless to prevent the universal demand for appropriations of almost every description. He could shut off special bills; but the representatives who failed to have their way in the house would go to their senators and induce them to place amendments upon house bills whereby their results were to be accomplished.

So, you see, you cannot blame individual leaders nor political parties, but the individuals themselves, who are seeking to accomplish their own ambitions. The sooner the people understand these conditions, and bring their moral suasion and influence to bear upon the men whom they choose to represent them in the federal government, the better it will be for all the people in every way; and the better it will be for our system of government, which is not, as it ought to be, a government "of the people, by the people and for the people."

MISS SALLIE SHORE.

Young Texas Giantess Who Is Pretty as Well as Brave.

Makes Short Work of an Impertinent Tramp Who Annoyed One of Her Friends—Her Record as a Life Saver Well Established.

If Miss Sallie Shore had not been forced to appear in a magistrate's court at Marble Falls, Tex., a few days ago to answer to the charge of assaulting a 200-pound tramp and dislocating his shoulders few people outside of her family and a limited circle of acquaintances would have known anything of this remarkable young woman's extraordinary physical powers and her admirable courage.

Miss Shore was visiting her friend, Mrs. Bridemell, a widow, when a tramp appeared at the kitchen door and asked for something to eat. Mrs. Bridemell was slightly alarmed at the appearance of the man, and she hurriedly turned away to comply with his request. As she did so the ruffian stepped upon the porch and started to enter the kitchen, saying: "I don't want any of your scraps. Hand me something fit for a gentleman to eat."

Just as he uttered the last word he felt himself lifted off his feet, and when he turned his head to take observations he discovered that a young girl had one hand fastened in his collar, and before he could protest with either tongue or arm she shook him until his teeth chattered.

"Want pie and cake, do you?" she said. "Well, take that, you lazy coward."

After slapping his jaws, she threw him head foremost over the banisters of the porch, and he landed in a barrel that was about half full of rain water. Miss Sallie had to turn the barrel over to save the man from drowning. He did not wait "for something fit for a gentleman," nor did he take time to open the gate.

LANDED IN A BARREL.

He went through it, carrying a part of the structure with him.

After hearing Miss Sallie's story the case against her was dismissed, and in the course of an hour the young woman's admirers collected money enough to buy a fine gold watch, which was presented to her before she left town.

The little affair called attention to the fact that Miss Shore is one of the strongest young women in the world, and she exhibits courage of a high order, coupled with extraordinary powers of self-possession and perfect coolness in the presence of danger.

When she was only 14 years of age Miss Shore plunged into the Colorado river and rescued a man from drowning. This occurred near a great waterfall and the current swept toward the cataract with such terrific force that several old fishermen who witnessed the rescue declared that they would not have ventured into such a dangerous flood for a deed to Texas.

The girl's parents say that she was always different from other children. From a child she possessed extraordinary courage, and in all her life she has never known the least fear in the presence of man, beast, or danger. Upon one occasion she descended into a well more than 100 feet, clinging to a rope and letting herself down with her hands for the purpose of saving the life of a child. After seeing the infant safely landed in the arms of its mother the brave girl returned to the surface as she had descended.

Only a few weeks ago she saved her father from being trampled to death by a mad bull. Hearing the old gentleman's calls for assistance, Miss Shore ran out to the cattle, arriving just in time to see a furious old bull tossing her father into the air with his horns. The brave girl ran straight to the dangerous animal and caught him by the nose and one of his horns. Her father was lying on his back under the bull's forefeet.

"I believe," says Miss Shore, "that I could have broken that bull's neck. I was mad enough to have killed him." She did twist his neck until he bellowed for mercy, and she held him until her father could put a rope on his horns and lash him to a post.

The girl's friends and neighbors never tire of telling stories of her prowess. The heroine herself is modest, and it is not an easy matter to induce her to converse about her phenomenal strength and her many brave acts. She is in her eighteenth year, and she weighs 298 pounds, and, though she is certainly a giantess, she is blessed with a sweet and gentle disposition.

The Kitchen-Garden.

Whether the "garden" be a two-acre plat or a city back yard 20 by 30 feet, there are certain things that should be planted for the infinite comfort derived through the summer from such provision. Herbs come first, that garnishings and soup or sauce flavors may always be at hand. If besides the place for herbs there be space for a fair-sized garden, let preference be given to cucumber, which are good only when freshly picked; tomatoes, and about three plantings, two weeks apart, of lettuce and radishes, which are wholesome only when fresh. If more space still be at command, give the next choice to green beans of the stringless variety, and corn, both of which are so much better if freshly gathered; then peas, carrots (a most delicate vegetable when small), beets and okra.—Ella Morris Kretschmar, in Woman's Home Companion.

A Haughty Barber.

It was a barber who had long served on the cracks of an Atlantic liner whose saloon was visited by one of the owners. The indications of the general notion trade done by this tonsorial artist were much in evidence, and were set out with a skill that would have put an Oxford street window dresser to the blush. "I don't quite like this," said the owner. "This is a ship, not a store," and then jokingly added: "I think I shall have to make a change." "I wouldn't do that if I were you," retorted the barber. "I've been with you now 15 years, and if you dismiss me I'll start an opposition line right away."—Marine Journal.

IS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR THE SHRIEVALTY.

Rumors Concerning Andrew McCardell's Candidacy Originated in Elizabeth.

BY ELIZABETH POLITICIANS.

MR. M'CARDELL WAS APPROACHED BUT GAVE NO ANSWER.

Elizabeth Wants the Surrogate and Would Clinch it By Giving Shrievalty to Plainfield—Plainfield May Want Surrogate.

An editorial appeared in last evening's Elizabeth Times declaring that Andrew McCardell, of this city, was said to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff. Rumors to that effect have been in circulation in Plainfield for some time. On being traced up, however, they have been found to originate in Elizabeth.

It is rather premature to say anything about the shrievalty nomination yet, as it will not be made until a year from next fall. There has been some talk on the subject by the Elizabeth leaders concerning it and the nomination for surrogate, which will be made at the same time. It will be manifestly impossible for Elizabeth to land them both; so, if the Elizabeth leaders desire to return Surrogate Parrott to his old place, the sheriff will have to go to Plainfield or somewhere else. The other contest for the senatorial nomination that fall will also have its influence, particularly as the Elizabeth leaders want to renominate Senator Cross

With this idea in view, several of the Elizabeth Republicans, prominent in the ranks of the Fowler faction, have considered the best candidate for their interests who can be found in Plainfield. The choice fell on Mr. McCardell and he was approached by the men from the county seat. He was asked if they might present his name to the convention if circumstances should point that way, but he declined to give any answer one way or the other.

A local Republican, who is conversant with the local situation, declared this morning that Mr. McCardell could not in any sense be considered a candidate. He had asked no man to give him any support for the place. While the nomination is not one that can be lightly accepted or rejected, he did not think that Mr. McCardell would accept it at present. He would certainly take no action until the situation developed a little more and enabled the local leaders to see just what the Elizabeth Republicans were after.

In regard to the split among the Elizabeth Republicans, Mr. McCardell has always lined up with the Fowler-Voorhees faction. It was among the leaders of that faction that the talk of McCardell as candidate for sheriff took place. It is a question as to how his candidacy would suit the adherants of Senator Kean. If Plainfield was united for him, it is doubtful whether the Kean faction would make any objection. There has been some talk, however, of Plainfield having a candidate for surrogate.

FORMER ARCHBISHOP DEAD.

Was to Have Been in Plainfield a Few Weeks Ago.

Most Rev. Dr. John Travers Lewis, former Archbishop of Ontario and Metropolitan of Canada, who sailed with Mrs. Lewis, for England on the Atlantic transport steamship "Menominee," May 1, died at sea three days later. He had been ill during the past winter in New York and started on the trip abroad, hoping that the voyage would improve his health.

Archbishop Lewis and his wife were quite well-known in this city, they having been here in the interest of the American Home for Girls at Paris. Just prior to the time they sailed, Mrs. Lewis was in this city at the home of Mrs. Fleming and gave a talk concerning her work before the Plainfield members of the movement.

KITCHEN SALE AND SOCIAL.

GIVEN BY GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY OF GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

In Guild Rooms Last Evening—Those in Charge—A Pleasant Programme Presented.

The Girls' Friendly Society, of Grace Episcopal church, held a decidely successful as well as enjoyable kitchen sale and social in the guild rooms last evening.

Although the membership of the society is not large numerically yet it is a power for the good of the parish in philanthropic work and its efforts last evening reflected much credit on the working associates, who have charge of all matters pertaining to the affairs of the organization.

At the refreshment table, which was loaded with good things, were Miss Edith Hughes and Miss Robina Richardson. Miss Burton poured the tea. The sales table, however, was the attractive spot in the room, for there were on sale aprons, towels, dusters, dish cloths, laundry bags and other similar articles which are necessities in the kitchen. All these goods were made by the society and this fact accentuated the demand somewhat. In charge at the counter were Miss Louise Egan, Miss M. E. Benedict and the Misses Emily and Edith Lacey. An amateur auctioneer disposed of the goods that did not sell readily enough in the regular way.

During the course of the evening's entertainment Mrs. George T. Ring sang a few soprano solos, accompanied by Miss Hyatt, and Miss Hyatt and Miss Mary Burton rendered several selections on the piano, all of which increased the enjoyment of the occasion.

The working associates in charge were: The Misses E. L. Adams, Robina Richardson, Anna Bennett and Louise Egan.

SENATOR SMITH TALKS OF JERSEY DEMOCRACY

Has No Choice For Gubernatorial Candidate Save a Man Who Can Satisfy the Party.

THE OUTLOOK IS HOPEFUL.

BELIEVES THERE IS GOOD CHANCE TO WIN WITH RIGHT CANDIDATE.

The Democratic Leader Declared Emphatically That He Was Not a Candidate—What is Required of the Party's Choice.

Former Senator James Smith, Jr., starts for Europe tomorrow. The New York Herald this morning publishes a lengthy interview with that well-known Democratic leader concerning the probable Democratic nominee for governor and the chances of that party in the State election next fall.

Former Senator Smith declared emphatically that he was not a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. In answer to whom, in his opinion, was likely to be the choice of the Democratic party to head the State ticket, he said:

"No man can answer that question. It is too early to name any man as the candidate. The delegates to the State Convention will do that work. But the candidate should be a man who can satisfy the party, who has created no antagonism in the ranks; a man who represents not one section of the party, but the whole party, and who has supported the State candidates of the party. He should be a man of high ability and character, one whose reputation for integrity is stainless, and in whom not only all Democrats but also the independent voters may have confidence."

As to his personal preference in the gubernatorial race, he remarked: "I have no candidate. My desire is to see a Democrat elected governor, to have the name of New Jersey again inscribed in her old place which she held for years on the list of Democratic States. The issues of the campaign will be strictly State issues, and it should be so, for then the people will vote for the best interests of the commonwealth."

Regarding the chances of the Democratic ticket, he dwelt at length. The substance of his talk was that the Democrats had an excellent chance of winning this year, but that to do so, it was necessary to agree upon a standard bearer who would command the party's united and enthusiastic support.

MUST SELL ON THE RUN.

MORE TROUBLE FOR FISH PEDDLERS AS A RESULT OF FIGHT.

Haled to Court But Sentence Suspended—Notified That They Must Keep Moving Hereafter.

John Benner and William Goff, the rival fish dealers, who fought over the location of their wagons at the corner of Front and Somerset streets last Saturday morning, appeared in the city court this morning to answer for their indiscretion in violating the city ordinance. Both men pleaded guilty to the charge of fighting, but each declared the other was to blame in starting the fracas. From the evidence given, City Judge Runyon thought they were equally responsible, but discharged them with a reprimand.

The men were then informed by Chief Kiely that nearby property owners had objected to the wagons at the corner and that hereafter they would not be allowed to remain there. As under the city ordinance they can stand at a certain spot for ten minutes and then move to another 100 feet away, fish will hereafter will be sold on the run.

WANTED TO SEE PICTURES.

BUT THE FREE SHOW WAS NOT GIVEN LAST NIGHT.

Five Hundred People Went Home Disappointed—The Man in Charge Failed to Appear.

Fully 500 people waited in vain on North avenue last evening to see the "moving pictures." The crowd was good natured and patient but though some of the people wandered about in that vicinity until after 10 o'clock, the promoter of the "moving pictures" failed to appear. So the crowd departed wondering.

A man came to town from Woodbridge early last week and announced that he would give "moving pictures" and stereopticon views on North avenue last evening. Interspercing these views were to be a number of ads for local merchants. The Woodbridge man went among the local merchants and secured a goodly number of ads. He did not collect for them, however. His announcement attracted the great crowd to North avenue last evening. Although the crowd came, the man did not and not a trace of him could be found.

As he had not attempted to collect any money for the ads, the general belief was that he was not trying to swindle the public, but that something had happened to him.

There was lots of fun in the crowd while waiting for the "pictures" to appear. It was chiefly composed of young people, who wandered up and down the thoroughfare as on the nights of the open air band concerts last summer. Everybody wanted to know where the "pictures" were, but there was not a soul who could tell. The gathering was a surprise to the police, who had received no notification of any such affair.

It is said that every shop but one is likely to accede to the demands.

The demand is in line with a general one being made in all parts of the country, the machinists uniting in the effort to secure an increase in wages and fewer hours of labor. It originated in some mysterious manner in a closet on the second floor. The family were all down stairs at the time and were not aware of the fire until the lower rooms began to fill with smoke. Herbert Buxton discovered the blaze and attempted to put it out with an extinguisher, but found it impossible.

Tyler, as governor of the society, presided, and after the invocation by Rev. D. F. Warren, of Jersey City, he welcomed the visiting members and gave a brief sketch of the objects of the society.

A feature was the singing of "Vicar of Bray," and "The Oak and the Ash," by W. B. Clarke, of Bridgeport, and the singing of an ode by Fullerton Waldo, of Plainfield. There were two addresses. One was by M. F. Dickenson, Jr. of Boston, who rehearsed some historical events and told of the early struggles of the Pilgrims. He was followed by Rev. Calvin Stebbins, of Framingham, Mass., who related the interesting features in connection with the recovery of Bradford's history of the Plymouth colony from England in 1896. It was spirited away during the Revolution, finally traced to London and is now in Boston.

There are nearly thirty members of the society in this city and over a hundred in the State. The New Jersey Society is governed by the following officers: Governor, Col. Mason W. Tyler; secretary, Charles A. Green, of Summit; treasurer, Elisha Franham, of Elizabeth; surgeon, Dr. William G. Shauffler, of Lakefield. The Plainfield members are: Colonel and Mrs. Tyler, Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Leander N. Lovell, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Wright, Boardman Wright, William S. It Was a Great Show, However, That Was Presented.

A clever entertainment was given Saturday afternoon in the barn at the home of J. Hervey Doane, LaGrand avenue, for the benefit of the baby's camp. "Two Young Patriots," a book by Everett T. Tomlinson, was dramatized by Clyde Doane for the occasion and an excellent cast presented the play. Those participating included William Doane, Harold Robins, Clyde Doane, May Doane and Maud VanAuken. The play was given in two acts, and the audience, which was quite large, enjoyed it immensely. The nominal fee of two cents brought in a goodly number of coppers.

READY FOR PARADE OF BAYONNE FIREMEN

Plainfield Exempts Have Been Given Place Next to Right of Line.

BIG DELEGATION EXPECTED.

BOROUGH FIREMEN WILL TURN OUT IN THEIR NEW UNIFORMS.

West End Hose Company Will Probably Be Represented—Apparatus is To Be Carried Free—The Special Train.

The firemen's parade at Bayonne tomorrow gives promise of being a big affair. The Exempt Firemen's Association, of this city, and Warren Engine Company, of the borough, have both made final arrangements to participate in the event.

In the line will be companies from New York, Hoboken, Elizabeth, Arlington, Port Richmond, Hackensack, Morristown, Washington and other places. To the Exempts of this city has been awarded a place in the line second only to that given to the New York Veteran Association, which heads the parade.

The Plainfield veteran firemen will no doubt present a fine appearance on parade. They will march with their silver-mounted carriage. Their uniform will consist of a blue yachting cap, white gloves and a badge. J. E. Flannery will act as marshal. The Black Prince Fife and Drum Corps, of Newark, has been engaged by the Exempts and this company of musicians will march at the head of the Plainfielders.

Warren Engine Company, the pride of the boroughites, has concluded all its plans for the demonstration and judging from the preparations it has made the company will reflect credit on North Plainfield in the long line of march. The boys will walk behind the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, of this city, and will all be regaled in the nobby uniform of the company. The handsome engine has been carefully polished and will bring up in the rear of the North Plainfielders. It is estimated that forty men of this fire company will participate in the parade, and a similar number will represent the Exempts. The boroughites have been given a good position in the line.

Although the West End Hose Company of the borough will not attend in a body, yet a number of the members have decided to witness the parade, and it is not at all unlikely that those who do go will be requested to march with the out-of-town delegates who form one section of the parade.

A special firemen's train will leave the North Avenue station at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Attached to the rear end of the passenger coaches will be two flat cars, upon which will be carried the Exempts' hose carriage and the Warren Engine Company's engine.

All the members of the two local organizations, who have not already purchased transportation, will be able to obtain tickets from the respective committees at the North Avenue station tomorrow before 1 o'clock. The railroad company has made a special reduction to the members and has also offered to convey their fire apparatus to and from Bayonne free of charge.

Prize Examination.

The pupils of the graduating class of the North Plainfield High School were given a written examination in mathematics this morning. The two pupils undergoing the best examinations will be awarded the John Valiant prizes which consist of $15 and $10 in gold, respectively. Arrangements will be made to have the papers submitted examined by some competent out-of-town mathematician.

A WONDERFUL SHOW.

Will Be Given At Fourth Street And Spooner Avenue Tomorrow And Thursday.

The most prodigious and far greatest display of wonderfully-trained ponies, donkeys, pigs, mules, apes and dogs that was ever assembled under canvas, are this season a prominent factor in the success of the famous Welsh Bros.' Railroad Shows. At every performance they are a source of staid wonder to the old and explosive delight to the young; they present extraordinary tricks and feats totally at variance with the nature of the different animals and heretofore regarded as impossible. Then there is also a large coterie of gorgeously costumed and ludicrously made-up clowns in numerous refined side-splitting capers which are always received with screams of laughter. A spectacular free street parade takes place every morning at eleven o'clock, leaving the exhibition grounds and passing through the principal streets.

A splendid appropriate announcement display for this greatest of all great one-ring entertainments. Two performances will be given, afternoon, at two o'clock, and evening at eight o'clock, at West Fourth street and Spooner avenue tomorrow and Thursday.

THE MISSISSIPPI DISASTER.

Two Passengers Drowned—Many of Steamer's Crew Missing.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Further particulars of the disaster which befell the steamer City of Paducah at Brunkhorsts Landing have been received. The accident occurred while backing out of the landing, and in less than five minutes after striking the snag the ship went down in 25 feet of water.

The bodies of the two passengers who were drowned have been recovered, and 22 members of the crew, most of them negroes, are missing. All of the officers were saved. First Mate Tobias Royal of St. Louis says only about 12 passengers were on board, and all were saved except two. The body of Dr. J. W. Bell of Bell's Landing, Tenn., was taken out of his stateroom. The remains of a young woman on which was a visiting card reading, "Mrs. Harry L. A[illegible]n, 3430 Eads avenue, St. Louis, Mo.," were recovered from her stateroom.

Only the texas and the hurricane deck are above water, which reaches to the skylights of the cabins. All the staterooms are completely filled with water.

The steamboat drifted a third of a mile below the landing before she sank. The first mate says the boat went down within three minutes after striking the snag. He was on the cabin deck and escaped by climbing through the skylight.

It is supposed that most of the missing deckhands who were on the lower deck were washed down the river. The boat lies down about 100 feet from the Illinois shore, the fore part of the hurricane deck being under water. She appears to be a total wreck.

Thomas Johnston, watchman of the boat, who is said to be among the lost, was 85 years old and had been a steamboat man for 60 years. He lived in St. Louis.

On the anniversary of that date a monument of New England granite will be dedicated to these men. A historical address will be delivered by Colonel J. Payson Bradley, who at the time of the battle was bugler of the regiment.

PLANS FOR NEW ARMY

Reorganization on a Basis of 77,287 Men.

12 CAVALRY, 30 INFANTRY REGIMENTS

Homeward Movement of Troops From the Philippines to Be Completed by July 1—New Troops to Fill Their Places at Once.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The war department has just published the reorganization order prescribing the strength of the various branches of the military service upon the basis of a total army of 77,287 men. By the order each cavalry regiment will consist of 12 cavalry troops of 85 enlisted men each, making the total strength of the cavalry branch 15,840 men. The coast artillery will consist of 126 companies of 109 enlisted men each, making 13,734, and the field artillery of 30 batteries of 160 men each, making a total artillery force, field and coast, of 18,862 enlisted men.

The 30 infantry regiments will consist of 12 companies of 104 enlisted men each, making the infantry strength 38,520 enlisted men each. The three engineer battalions will have four companies of 104 enlisted men each, with a band, and will have a strength of 1,282 enlisted men.

General MacArthur is instructed to transfer to other commands all men in the Philippine organizations in their first enlistment having more than one year to serve, also men wishing to remain in the Philippines. All men of other organizations having three months or less to serve, not intending to enlist, are to be transferred to the returning organizations.

It is expected that the movement of these troops will begin soon after the 1st of July next, by which time the homeward movement of the volunteers will have been completed. It is the intention of the department to replace the homecoming regulars, so far as the military conditions in the Philippines require it, with troops recently organized in this country under the provisions of the army reorganization act. These movements are predicated on the policy of the administration to reduce the army in the Philippines to 40,000 after the return of the volunteers.

The New Canadian Yacht.

TORONTO, May 14.—The yacht Canadian, being built at Hamilton for the trial races for the Canada's cup challenger, is a decided novelty. Her like has never been seen on fresh water. She might be called a scow, only she has sharp ends, a deep keel and a concave bottom instead of a little dead rise. Her sides slope downward for about four feet and then, curving upward, run in toward her fin. Forward and aft of the fin the boat's bottom is nearly flat, being a trifle hollowed. This gives her square bilges from stem to transom. She will be rigged as a jib and main sail sloop. Her sail area will probably be 1,400 feet. Rev. G. J. O'Brien, her designer, is positive she will be very speedy and has hopes that she may bring back the cup.

Shamrock II a Failure.

WEYMOUTH, May 14.—The Shamrock I beat the Shamrock II by five minutes over a 20 mile course. The yachts started from a little outside Portland breakwater. A triangular course was set thence to the Shambles lightship, to White Nose point and home. Mr. Watson considers the results so unsatisfactory that he has decided offhand to take the new boat back to Southampton and have her docked in order to ascertain whether any of the plates were displaced by the grounding on Dean bank last week. Opportunity will be taken to have her new gaff and mainsail fitted. The work will proceed night and day until it is finished, and the trials will then be resumed at Weymouth.

Governor's Inspection Tour.

ALBANY, May 14.—Governor Odell began his tour of inspection of state institutions today. He left this city at 9 a. m. on a special train. The governor was accompanied by Senator Ellsworth and Senator Higgins, the chairman of the senate finance committee; Speaker Nixon, Assemblyman Kelsey, Assemblyman J. P. Allds, the chairman of the assembly ways and means committee; Congressman Littauer, Captain Joseph Dickey of Newburg, the governor's brother, Hiram B. Odell, who is postmaster of Newburg; Secretary James G. Graham and J. C. McKnight, the governor's confidential stenographer. The trip is likely to last two weeks.

Phillips Buys Corn.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Speculative trade on 'change had a big day yesterday, and Phillips was the chief figure in corn. He covered nearly 1,000,000 bushels for July close around 43 cents on early break. The shorts became nervous, and there was a climbing market all day, with a strong turn to 44¾ cents for July just before the close. Phillips was the biggest seller Saturday when the bears were so anxious to hammer the price. He was the big buyer yesterday when the shorts tried to get their corn back. At the close cash corn sales for shipment were reported from 400,000 to 600,000 bushels.

Foster Out on Bail.

BOSTON, May 14.—George M. Foster, former cashier of the South Danvers National bank of Peabody, has been released on bail, sureties to the amount of $25,000 being furnished individually by E. O. M. Field of Everett and T. J. Broadrick, J. L. McManus and J. F. Connor of Peabody. Mr. Foster was arrested Feb. 8, but he has been obliged to remain in jail since that time, as he was unable to provide bail. He shows no traces of his confinement and appeared very cheerful.

Indian Troubles Settled.

PARK RAPIDS, Minn., May 14.—Indians from the Pine Point country, where trouble was feared over the timber cut under the "dead and down" act, have arrived here. They say a complete settlement is being effected with the logging companies under promise that a rescale will be made. The Indians are dispersing.

Steamer Badly Damaged.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 14.—The high pressure cylinder of the steamer Glenagle cracked, and her engine room was so badly damaged that repairs will occupy a month.

South Australia's Population.

MELBOURNE, May 14.—The census of South Australia shows the population to be 362,595, an increase during the last decade of 13 per cent.

MURDERS IN MAINE.

Another Shocking Tragedy Added to Long List.

FARMER'S FAMILY KILLED AND BURNED

Charred Remains Found In the Ashes of the House—Blood Marks and Locks of Hair Reveal Nature of the Crime.

SHIRLEY, Me., May 14.—The murders which have startled the rural districts of Maine the past few months are almost overshadowed by a tragedy in this town in which a family of three was put out of existence and fire used to hide the crime. The victims are J. Wesley Allen, a selectman, his wife and 14-year-old daughter. The charred bodies were found in the embers of their house, which stood on the stage road leading from Monson to Moosehead lake. On every hand were evidences that murder and even worse had been done.

The only clew to the identity of the murderers is furnished by a man named Johnson, who reported that he was held up on the road by four men, all being intoxicated, one of whom answers the description of the highwayman who held up the Willimantic stage last week.

The greatest excitement prevails in the community, and arms and ammunition have been obtained by farmers who fear a visit from the murderers.

Charles Tibbetts, while driving down the stage road with his children to the village school yesterday afternoon, saw the ruins of the Allen farmhouse and, out of curiosity, searched the embers, finding the bones of a body. He gathered the nearest neighbors, and the ruins were searched, and the bones of four persons, supposedly, were found. Later it was definitely shown that only three persons had lost their lives and that they were not in their beds or rooms at the time. At one place near the barn cellar there were blood and locks of Mr. Allen's gray hair.

It appears that the house and barn were burned separately, as a large pile of cut wood which stood between the house and barn was not even scorched.

The Allen farmhouse was an ordinary one story and a half wooden building, with an L adjoining. In this house Mr. Allen and his wife had made their home for nearly 40 years, and they were respected by every one.

Mr. Allen was quite prosperous.

Germany Fears Us Commercially.

BERLIN, May 14.—The Cologne Gazette, which often voices the views of the German foreign office, in the course of a leading article advocating a tariff understanding with Russia in order that the two powers might act jointly against the United States, says: "As matters stand for Europe today the struggle for existence demands that the exceptional position of the United States be abolished. The United States is a most dangerous competitor for Germany, especially in iron manufactures and hardware. Germany's tariff policy must be arranged accordingly. An understanding with Russia offers ways and means to compel the United States to adapt itself to Europe's tariff system, by which German agriculture would by no means suffer disadvantage."

A Cowboy's Fast Ride.

RAPID CITY, S. D., May 14.—Charlie Howard, president of the Western South Dakota Stock Growers' association, sent a cowboy from his ranch at Smithville, 70 miles east of this city, to Rapid City for a physician to attend his wife, who is ill with pneumonia. The cowboy was told to ride for his life. The 70 miles were covered without a stop in 4 hours and 15 minutes. The doctor was found, and by changing horses four times on the return the distance was made in a little over five hours. The 140 miles were made in less than ten hours. This breaks the record for fast riding in this part of the west. Mrs. Howard is out of danger.

Sentence In Insurance Cases.

JERSEY CITY, May 14.—Judge Blair has disposed of the Colonial Life Insurance fraud cases by sentencing Undertaker William Necker to pay $300 fine and Thomas J. Kelly and Dr. Richard Jahr to pay a fine of $300 each and serve three months each in the county jail. The frauds were exposed last winter when the Colonial Life Insurance company found that it had been swindled by conspirators who had planned to palm off poor risks and insure them with the connivance of an agent.

Terwilliger May Recover.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 14.—William Terwilliger, who is in Thrall hospital here suffering with a broken back, it is believed will recover. The physicians have reduced the dislocation, and the paralysis in the limbs is disappearing. The case is regarded as remarkable. Terwilliger fell through a trapdoor, being discovered eight hours afterward.

Coming on the Sheridan.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Secretary Root has received a dispatch from Judge Taft stating that the recommendations of the Philippine commission as to the form of civil government to be instituted in the Philippine Islands are en route to this country on the transport Sheridan, which left Manila for San Francisco on April 22.

Boer Detention Camps.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 14.—The British government has rented Tucker's and Morgan's islands to be used as detention camps for Boer prisoners. Active preparations continue at Darrell's island, obtained for the same purpose, where the camp sites are being arranged.

Commissary Employee Sentenced.

MANILA, May 14.—The military commission trying the cases of civilians implicated in commissary frauds has sentenced an employee of the commissary department to five years' imprisonment for feloniously disposing of surplus government stores.

Funds Run Low In Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 14.—Nearly 11,000 persons are being fed by the commissary department, and the resources of the relief committee are taxed to the utmost. Funds are running low, and it is hoped more cash contributions will come in.

Infantry Mustered Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The Twenty-sixth infantry, United States volunteers, was mustered out at the Presidio yesterday.

STRIKERS REFUSE TERMS.

The Albany Traction Trouble Grows More Serious.

ALBANY, May 14.—The employees of the Albany division of the United Traction company have refused to accept the terms offered by the company. The railroad now threatens to put on nonunion men at once.

The refusal of the men has developed a peculiar situation. The agreement had been approved by the executive committee of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees and indorsed by President McMahon of that organization.

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor had also sanctioned it.

Under the escort of a platoon of mounted police and surrounded by a mob of 2,000 Albanyans 200 nonunion men were taken at midnight to the Quail street car barns of the United Traction company, which is the main station of the Albany city lines of the United Traction company. Stones were hurled at the nonunion men, and oaths and derisive epithets were hurled at them from the West Shore railroad station to the barns, a distance of three miles.

This is the first step taken by the company to operate its lines with nonunion men.

THE BUFFALO ARRIVES.

Cruiser Returns From Manila With 642 Seamen.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The United States cruiser Buffalo has arrived from Manila, having come by way of the Suez canal. She left Cavite, near Manila, on April 4 and arrived outside the bar at Sandy Hook at midnight, making the run in 38 days.

The Buffalo brought 591 seamen and 57 marines, most of whom had enlisted for the war for three years. They will be discharged at the Brooklyn navy yard.

The Buffalo passed up the bay flying a long "homeward bound" pennant from the main truck. She sailed from Tompkinsville Dec. 17 last with 27 officers, 859 seamen and 25 marines for the fleet in the far east. On her outward run she stopped at Trinidad, British West Indies; La Guayra, Venezuela; St. Lucia, Gibraltar, Port Said, Colombo, Singapore and Manila.

The round trip was 29,082 miles, counting in a run over to Hongkong and Woosung, China. The run out to Manila was made in 58 days, of which 39 were steaming days.

Cashier Sentenced.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Charles R. Westervelt, the defaulting cashier of the Dime Savings bank of Newark, N. J., was arraigned before Judge Skinner in that city. He retracted a plea of not guilty to the charge of embezzlement and entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment by the court. He had several days ago pleaded guilty to two indictments for forgery and uttering. On these indictments he was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. The two terms of imprisonment are not concurrent, and he will have to serve both terms. A fourth indictment which charges embezzlement was not acted upon, and the plea of not guilty entered to it several weeks ago will stand.

Alleged Gamblers Indicted.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Twelve men have been indicted by the grand jury for keeping gambling houses. The grand jury took up for the first time the evidence presented by the committee of fifteen against the men arrested and bound over through Justice Jerome's personally conducted raiding operations. In every case considered an indictment was quickly rendered, showing the care with which the committee had gathered its evidence. The grand jury has still before it evidence against gamblers arrested in raids on 20 other places.

Revolution Spreading In Russia.

BERLIN, May 14.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger says: "The revolutionary movement among the laboring classes of Russia is spreading. There have been 400 arrests of operatives during the last few days, and a number of editors as well as women have been arrested. Two professors who were placed under arrest have been transferred to positions in the interior."

Drowned For a Satchel.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 14.—Joseph Sweitzer, aged about 70 years, of New Danville, lost his life while trying to save a satchel containing nothing of value. Sweitzer was sitting above the Conestoga creek, near the city, when his satchel rolled into the water and was carried away by the current. He went in after it and got beyond his depth and drowned before aid could reach him.

Chicago Cats Attacked.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The cats of the First ward have throat disease and are dying fast. Whether they will give the disease to persons who fondle them is still undecided. So far as is known no such case has occurred. Stricken with the disease, which many insist is diphtheria, pussy eats and drinks less and less. Finally she crawls away into some lonely corner and dies.

CUBANS IN SESSION.

Report of Washington Commission Referred to Committee.

HAVANA, May 14.—The Cuban constitutional convention met yesterday in secret session and formally considered the report of the commission that went to Washington to obtain more definite information regarding the intentions of the United States government. General Sanguily objected to the report on the ground of incompleteness, pointing out that the commission made no recommendations.

Senors Tamayo, Llorente and Betancourt replied that Secretary Root had explained that the bases could not be changed, as the Platt amendment was the final policy of the Washington administration. It was useless, therefore, they went on to say, for them to insist upon a change, but the construction Mr. Root had put upon the bases, together with his assurance that the United States would establish an independent government in Cuba and would not interfere with Cuban sovereignty, influenced them in favor of accepting the amendment, although they did not recommend this course in the report.

Senor Juan Gualberto Gomez moved that the report be referred to the committee on relations, whose last report has still to be acted upon.

An attempt was made to take an immediate vote with reference to the amendment, but the motion of Senor Gomez was finally carried, the committee being instructed to act promptly. It is expected that several days will elapse before the amended report is submitted to the convention.

BUILDERS' TROUBLES.

A General Shut Down Unless Bricklayers' Strike Is Called Off.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Mason Builders' association issued a statement yesterday regarding its decision to shut down operations on Thursday unless the bricklayers' union calls off all strikes in the meantime. The statement recites the history of the differences which have arisen between the two bodies and says:

"For 16 years no rupture has occurred between the two organizations, and an annual agreement has been signed every year. The Mason Builders' association has stood and always will stand first and last for arbitration and an amicable adjustment of differences, but the unusual and most arbitrary stand taken in this issue has compelled the above action."

The statement is signed by Otto M. Eidlitz, president, and Charles A. Cowen, secretary, of the Mason Builders' association.

Mr. Cowen said that a shut down if it is rendered necessary on Thursday will throw 50,000 or 60,000 men in other trades idle. If the deadlock lasts a number of weeks, it is liable to affect 100,000 to 150,000 mechanics ultimately. A shut down, he said, would tie up work on nearly all the principal public schools, apartment houses, churches, office buildings and residences now in course of construction.

TWO KINGS MEET.

Charles of Roumania and George of Greece Hold Friendly Intercourse.

ABBAZIA, Austria, May 14.—King Charles of Roumania and King George of Greece met here yesterday afternoon on board the Greek warship Psara.

The object of the meeting of King Charles and King George in Austrian waters, as officially set forth in Athens May 1, is to draw Roumania and Greece into closer friendship. Unofficially various reasons are ascribed to this meeting, and notable among them is the need for the two non-Slavonic Balkan states, Roumania and Greece, to come to an understanding in opposition to the pan-Slavonic states of Servia and Bulgaria on the Macedonian and other questions.

King Charles and King George have hitherto never met. The meeting which had been arranged to take place in 1898 failed because of the death of Queen Louise of Denmark.

Although the Greek and Roumanian press both indulge in great expectations as to the result of this meeting, it is probable that nothing more definite will result than an exchange of views and the strengthening of the friendly relations existing today between the two countries.

China to Ask a Reduction.

LONDON, May 14.—Dr. Morrison, wiring to The Times from Peking May 10, says: "The Chinese plenipotentiaries are drafting a reply to the ministers of the powers expressing astonishment at the amount of indemnity demanded and urging a reduction on the ground of the empire's financial difficulties, but undertaking if the full amount is exacted to pay in 30 annual installments of 15,000,000 taels from the likin, salt tax and native customs. Pending a revision of the tariff, they also ask the powers to consent to an increase of the maritime customs and the import and export duties by one-third."

Barn Carried Over a House.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 14.—There is a remarkable scene in the little town of Nantyglo, up in the mountains, a few miles from this city. A cyclone struck a large barn belonging to Patrick Riley, and scores of people who were watching the progress of the storm saw the barn carried over the residence of Mr. Riley. The house was not touched, but the chimney was knocked off. The barn was carried several hundred yards and now lies in a wrecked heap.

Galician Villages Burned.

VIENNA, May 14.—The Galician villages of Oleszyce, Altolesyce and Wolasleszyka were destroyed by fire yesterday. The flames spread so rapidly that within an hour all three villages were but a heap of ashes. Of 1,050 houses but three were saved. Six thousand persons are left homeless.

Old Forge Thawed Out.

M'KINLEY AT SAN JOSE

President Leaves Wife's Bedside to Keep Appointment.

FIRST LADY RESTING COMFORTABLY.

Many Californians Disappointed at Not Seeing the President—Great Floral Display at San Jose. Today's Programme.

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 14.—Thousands of people between Del Monte and San Jose who have been anticipating a sight of the president for months were disappointed yesterday. The president's presence in San Jose for an hour in the afternoon took the edge off of the disappointment here, where the rose carnival was being held in his honor and where the floral display surpassed anything ever before seen in this part of the country After leaving Del Monte in the morning the cabinet carried out the itinerary originally planned, stopping at Pajaro and Santa Cruz and visiting the big trees in the San Lorenzo valley, but they had no heart to put into the festivities in the absence of their chief, and the keen regret of the people was written on their countenances.

Many expressions of kindly sympathy for Mrs. McKinley were heard at each stopping place. At Santa Cruz Secretary of State Hay was the representative of the president to the address of welcome made by the mayor.

The president's presence here barely saved the day. He ran down from San Francisco in his special car, arriving here just as the cabinet train pulled into the city from the south. But he remained only for the formal exercises. When they were concluded at 3:30 o'clock, he was driven back to the station and left immediately for San Francisco. At St. James square, opposite the courthouse, a handsomely decorated stand had been erected, and here the formal exercises took place.

To the throngs who greeted him during his brief stay in this city the president spoke as follows:

"Mr. Mayor, my fellow citizens, we have had many warm and generous greetings as we journeyed from the Potomac to the Pacific slope, but none has been more interesting or more generous and memorable than the one which the people of Santa Clara county and of San Jose accord us today.

"We have seen everything in California, we have eaten of your fruits and your fishes, we have tasted the perfumes of your flowers, we have visited the ancient mission churches where the altar of religion was first raised and whose chimes have sounded through the centuries their message of hope and benediction, we have heard the dashing waves of your ocean, we have felt the sunshine, and we have been tanned somewhat by its rays, but we have all the time felt the warm touch of your hearts. We saw at Redlands the other day that they sprinkled their streets with oil, and we discovered the other day they bored for it at Los Angeles and got it. We have met your people—your brave men and women—we have met the pioneers who builded and founded this state, we have met all conditions of people, and wherever we have gone we have seen smiling, happy and contented faces and have heard the cheers of school children from one end of this state to the other.

"In peace or in war you have been faithful. We live under a constitution that was made for 4,000,000 people, and yet it has proved quite adequate for 75,000,000 people. It has embraced within it every national duty and purpose and has never stood in the way of our development and expansion. That instrument seems almost to be inspired to carry forward the holy mission of liberty. It seems not to have been made alone for those who framed it and their successors, but for all ages and all mankind. That instrument stands today almost as it left the hands of its framers. Few amendments have been added, and those have only been to enlarge the priceless blessings of liberty and free government to the people, and no amendment can ever be made to the constitution of this country that will curtail the supreme and sovereign power of the people. We have lived under it for 125 years, in storm and in sunshine, in war within and without, amid passions and tumult, and after a century and a quarter that great instrument stands unsullied by a single lapse of principle.

"To us, my fellow citizens, young and old, the preservation of that constitution is committed. It is a sacred instrument, and it is a sacred trust given to us to see to it that it is preserved in all its virtue and vigor, to be passed along to the generations yet to come.

"Glorious constitution, glorious Union, glorious flag! Seventy-five millions of people stand together as they never before stood to defend them all."

Immediately in the rear of the stand was the big bouquet of which so much has been heard. It was 90 feet in circumference and stood in its frame 25 feet high. The stem was a telegraph pole sunk in the ground. It was composed of cut flowers of every variety that blooms. The idea of presenting this immense floral offering to Mrs. McKinley originated with the ladies of San Jose, and the presentation was made to the president by Mrs. E. O. Smith, who expressed tender words of regret for Mrs. McKinley's illness and hopes for her quick recovery.

Mrs. McKinley Improved.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—President McKinley returned late yesterday afternoon from San Jose to the bedside of his wife at the Scott residence, where he remained until this morning. If Mrs. McKinley's condition shall continue to be still favorable, the president will carry out the arranged programme, with some curtailment. Today he will visit Leland Stanford, Jr., university at Palo Alto and make brief stops at San Mateo and Burlingame. At Palo Alto he will be joined by his entire party, and the president's official entry into this city will take place this afternoon in accordance with the previously arranged schedule. Secretary Cortelyou said, "Mrs. McKinley is resting well and comfortably."

Why It Was.

At the last meeting of the Common Council an amendment to the ordinance licensing taverns, inns and saloons, was introduced and passed on first and second readings. It was presented by the committee on licenses, of which Councilman Gloak is the chairman, and no explanation was made at that time why the amendment was desired.

This amendment makes it possible for a hotel, having an inn and tavern license but no saloon license, to secure another kind of license which will permit the serving of spirituous and fermented liquors with meals. There is to be no bar, but the patrons of the hotel will be able to get what they desire to drink at their meals in the hotel dining room between the hours of six in the morning and eleven at night.

This amendment was drawn for the benefit of the Hotel Netherwood which will open shortly for the summer months. There was some complaint last year that many Plainfielders haunted the bar room at the hotel. While Major Coleman did want to supply his regular patrons, he was not at all anxious to provide for the crowd of Plainfielders who visited there. The subject was discussed this winter and the result was the proposed amendment which will allow the serving of liquors at the Netherwood during the regular meals but will not provide for any bar there.

When the ordinance was passed on first and second reading, all the members of the Common Council voted for it so there is little chance but that it will be passed without opposition. The situation was explained to the Councilmen outside of the meeting and so far no objection to it has developed in that body. If the amendment is passed, a license of the kind therein provided for will be granted shortly to the Hotel Netherwood. All the other hotels in the city, except the Park Avenue Hotel, have bars attached so that the provisions of the amendment would not apply to them.

According to the franchise granted to the Plainfield Street Railway, which has since become a part of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, it is the duty of the street railway company to sprinkle the streets wherein its cars run on and after May 15. Tomorrow will be May 15. It was a great mistake that the date was not set a month earlier at least. It was not, however. Since that is the case, it is to be hoped that the officials of the street department will see that the provisions of the ordinance is rigidly enforced and that the work is begun tomorrow. The residents along the line of the trolley have been enjoying over a month of dust and relief cannot come to them too soon.

There seems to be a question about Dunellen's right to representation on the Middlesex County Board of Chosen Freeholders. The Dunellenites claim that their borough was formed under a law, since repealed, which gave them the right to representation on the board without having the population of 3,000, which is now necessary. It is probable, however, that the courts will soon have a chance to determine the truth of the matter for the Metuchen man, who was refused a seat in the board, has announced his determination to fight the decision of the board and will therefore carry the question to the legal authorities of the State.

More of the wires of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company are to go underground. This work has been opposed by some on the ground that it prevents any other company from ever getting a foothold here. The ugly ungainly telephone pole has become a thing of the past for fair suburban cities like Plainfield and the sooner it disappears entirely the better. If another company comes, its wires will have to go underground as well for Plainfield is not going to have the poles spoiling the beauty of its streets simply to provide for a possible contingency.

Every citizen who has the interests of the city at all at heart should look well at the number of his home and see that it is there in plain sight without waiting for the officials of the street department to come around. That department is now carrying out a crusade to see that the houses of the city are properly numbered. It is a worthy movement, but the people should take enough interest in it so that there should be little or nothing for the city to do.

While there has been a generous response to the appeal for funds for the erection of the new buildings for Muhlenberg Hospital, the Board of Governors is not overrun with them and more subscriptions for that worthy institution will be very gratefully received. Plainfield should have a hospital which will be the equal in equipment of any in the State. This is the time to aid in the accomplishment of that desirable object.

While the Plainfield Water Supply Company is not at all anxious to put in meters, as can be seen from the letter of its president recently published, there is no doubt but that the general introduction of high class meters would result in a state of affairs that would be far more satisfactory to the patrons of the company than the one which exists at present.

It is a subject for great regret that the property owners along Green brook in the neighborhood of the new bridge connecting Madison avenue and Duer street do not have enough pride in good appearance of the city to improve the present condition of their back yards.

Following the instructions of the Court of Chancery, the Bound Brook Council is granting an ordinance to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for the erection of poles for a trunk line through that borough as fast as possible.

Some of the present officials are criticizing the action of the New Jersey branch of the American Institute of Architects which has found fault with the conditions of the competitions for plans of the new court house.

The remarkable increase in the interest in outdoor sports is not confined to Plainfield alone, reports show that is felt all over the country.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Plainfield Press last week celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of its existence as a daily paper. It began in 1868 as The Constitutionalist, and The Press followed. It is one of the best of the county papers, and is entitled to the little self-adulation it indulges in.—Elizabeth Journal.

James E. Martine, of this county, has received a letter from William J. Bryan, congratulating him on being prominently named as a possible candidate for governor of this state on the Democratic ticket. This is pleasant for Mr. Martine and proper for Mr. Bryan, but if the latter knew how the party in this state had treated the former, another letter of censure would be written to the Democratic leaders of this county. — Elizabeth Journal.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM PLAINFIELD'S SUBURBAN TOWNS.

Daily Budget Of News Gathered By The Daily Press' Corps of Special Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, May 14 — Evidently in fear of the Plainfield police, fifteen young men and boys from that place journeyed to the borough Sunday for the purpose of enjoying a cap game undisturbed. They settled on Jefferson avenue for their base of operations and seated themselves on the small bridge below the new structure over Green brook From noon until 8 o'clock in the evening the dice was thrown, and the players became so audacious as to refuse to move out of the way for carriages. Their actions were witnessed by a number of indignant residents who have notified the authorities, and a second visit to the bridge will not be as peaceful as that of Sunday.

The first ice cream and strawberry festival, to be held in the borough this season, will take place on Thursday, May 23. It will be given in the Methodist church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The society connected with the Presbyterian church is arranging for a similar affair to be held a short time later.

One of the prettiest strawberry patches to be seen in the borough is that belonging to F. H. Gise. It gives promise of an abundant crop. Last season Mr. Gise lost nearly every berry owing to a heavy shower which flooded his garden and destroyed most of the plants.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wherly, of Somerville, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rugg, of Plainfield, were the guests of Mayor and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, Sunday.

Walter Smith, a former resident of the borough, but now of Bound Brook, was the guest of friends in town yesterday.

Paul Kratzel is making a number of improvements about his store and residence.

Mrs. Jeremiah Dunham has been entertaining relatives from Fishkill, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Gordon have been entertaining relatives from Elizabeth.

Edward Wrage, of Plainfield, has taken a position with W. G. Runyon.

Grover Kratzel enjoyed a ride to Whitehouse on his wheel Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Dickerson spent Sunday with friends in New York.

Mrs. W. H. Terry has returned from a visit with relatives at Westfield.

Roy Day has been spending a short time with Plainfield friends.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, May 14—Harry Weaver has given up the project of forming a baseball team for the Middlesex Athletic Club, on account of the dearth of available material. All games which were scheduled by the manager have been, or soon will be cancelled. It is not, however, the intention of the members of the club to disband and they will probably hold over until next winter and then become more active in the interests of the club.

The funeral services of Mrs. John Manning will be held tomorrow afternoon at the house at 2 o'clock and 3 o'clock at the South Plainfield Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member. At the church the choir will render the music and Rev. J. A. Cubberley will preach the sermon.

The Christian Endeavor Society will give a newspaper and literary social Saturday evening. Ice cream and cake will be on sale, otherwise the entertainment will be free.

A number of members from the local society will attend the Christian Endeavor Union meeting in Plainfield tonight.

First work was done yesterday upon the switching for the new tower at the Lehigh Valley yards.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The F. F. Proctor big stock company made its Broadway debut at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, Broadway and Twenty-eighth street, New York City, Monday, when it produced the three-act comedy, "The Woman Hater," in which the late Roland Reed starred for some seasons. Frederic Bond has staged the piece in a way fitting to a Broadway production and an ideal cast has been selected for the interpretation of the comedy. The regular popular prices —25c. and 50c.—prevail. Varieties of a high class order are seen before and between the acts of the weekly change of play. For the week of May 13, these variety novelties will be found: Geo. W. Monroe, "My Aunt Bridget," in his laughing specialty; J. K. Murray and Clara Lane, the operatic stars; Clemart, the ventriloquist; Lillie Weston, musical artiste, and others.

Ants, Cockroaches, Bugs.

Mix, say, a 25c. box of "Rough on Rats" carefully with a pound or so of mashed boiled potatoes, or with a loaf of finely crumbled dampened bread, or two tin cups of fine powdered sugar, and place about their haunts, out of reach of children or pet animals. Even the hardier Black Cockroaches, Beetles, Wood or Water Bugs, in one or two applications will be completely annihilated. "Rough on Rats" is the only thing that will effectually and permanently annihilate Bed Bugs, and it stands unrivalled the world over for the prompt and effective extermination of Rats and Mice. 15 and 25 boxes at druggists.

Big Time in Somerville.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 14.—Welsh Bros.' circus arrived at Somerville yesterday morning and made one of the finest parades seen in Somerville in a long time. The streets were lined for miles by the townspeople and visitors. An attractive feature of the parade was a band on horseback. Two performances were given yesterday and two more will be given today.

POEMS AND PICTURES.

Second of Series of Lantern Evenings Given by the Plainfield Camera Club.

A large and appreciative audience gathered at the rooms of the Plainfield Camera Club last evening and enjoyed a lantern evening, the second in the series. The subject was "Poems and Pictures," and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, formerly of this city, but now of Flemington, delivered the lecture. The pictures illustrating several popular and well known poems were fine and the reading of the poems by Rev. Mr. O'Donnell gave added pleasure. John Nagle operated the lantern in his usual efficient manner.

The poems illustrated were "Maud Muller," "The Seven Ages of Man," by Shakespeare; "The Courtin'," by James Russell Lowell; "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," and "Evangeline," by Longfellow. The lecture commenced with a series of patriotic pictures and concluded with an amusing series entitled "Snowball," and a patriotic series describing the American flag.

Blanche stood, her hand on the door, still agitated.

"Were you admitted by—by the servant?" she asked.

"I must confess that I avoided him," answered the intruder. "If you will let me pass you, I will go downstairs; but I want to explain. I cannot have you think—"

"I don't think I am afraid of you," said Blanche, strangely calmed by his manner and tone of voice. "I know that detectives sometimes resort to bold methods."

"But I am not a professional detective," said the man, as he picked up his hat, which had fallen to the floor. "As I said, I am seeking information that concerns me alone. If you wish you may call your manservant, and he may be near while I try to explain my presence here. You have a perfect right to hand me over to the police, and if you are generous enough to let me go, I should want to repay you by perfect frankness on my part. Besides, if I am right in my suspicions, I have a most important revelation to make to the owner of this house."

"You interest me in spite of myself," said Blanche. "But perhaps we ought to go down to the drawing-room."

"You are quite right," acquiesced the stranger, and, with a deferential bow, he passed Blanche on the threshold of the chamber and descended the stairs. Of his own accord he turned into the drawing-room. Our heroine followed and paused near the doorway. She felt perfectly secure, without knowing why.

"Will you pardon me if I ask who you are?" he said, with an apologetic inflection of voice. "Are you related to Maj. Goddard?"

"I am his wife" said Blanche, simply.

"What? Oh, no! Surely not!"

"I have not misinformed you," said Blanche.

His face had fallen.

"Then I have made an awful mistake," he said, "and I owe you and the major a thousand apologies. I hope you will pardon me. I have been following a false clew, and yet—" He seemed to have his first opinion fortified by memory, "and yet I can't see how I can be off the track so badly. It would undo me entirely. Surely you did not have a millinery establishment on Fifth avenue up to the time of your marriage.'

"No," said Blanche, with a start; "perhaps you are thinking of Maj. Goddard's first wife.'

"Has he been married twice?" cried the stranger. "Why, only two months ago—"

"Mrs. Goddard died—or was drowned about two months ago."

"My God!" he shrank back as if she had struck him in the face. "Dead? Is she dead?'

"Yes, she is dead."

"When—how—oh, my God! Was her—was she called Jeanne?"

"Yes; that was her name."

For a moment he stared. His color had gone, and he looked as if he were about to fall.

"Please—please explain."

Blanche complied with his request in a few words

"Then I have been hunting down a dead woman. May God have mercy on me."

"Was she a—a relative of—" began Blanche.

"She was my wife."

"Your wife!"

"Yes; the most misguided woman on earth. My name is Dugdale—Henry Dugdale. She was all I ever had, and she deserted me."

He sat down and covered his face with his hands. Blanche softly closed the door and took a seat opposite him.

"I see—I begin to comprehend," she said, in a gentle, tentative voice.

Dugdale looked up. The impress of his fingers was on his face.

"Do you know anything of her past?" he questioned.

"Not a thing; she kept it even from her—from Maj. Goddard. I think she refused, for some reason, to reveal her past life to him."

"When I met her," began the stranger, with a sigh, "she was the most beautiful woman that I had ever seen. It was in Denver, where we both lived. She was the daughter of a French dancing master. She was courted by every man who met her. She could have married wealth without limit, but she loved me. She left proofs that she loved me when she ran away, leaving our child in a convent. I was away at the time. I met with misfortune. She was ambitious—she had always wanted to lead society; her mother before her had been that way. She left me when I went away to the California gold fields. She had no faith in my venture; but I succeeded. It is a weak thing to confess, but I was searching for her to take the poor woman back to our child and my home. But I am too late, you see; too late!"

"Then," said Blanche, "I am the only legal wife my husband has ever had. That is true, is it not?"

"Yes, you are right; and I suppose it is only natural for you to want it so. You have been very good to trust me—to listen to me, under the circumstances. I had better go. I think I can get out of the grounds through the wood in the rear without attracting the notice of your footman."

"Would you like to meet Maj. Goddard?" ventured Blanche.

"No; I don't feel equal to it."

"Would you care if I told him what you have told me?' she asked.

"No; he ought to know the truth. I am really glad her death did not—that he has you to—" He checked himself.

In justice to herself Blanche would have liked to explain even to him that she had possessed the major's love before his meeting with Jeanne, but she refrained from this confidential disclosure. She saw Dugdale turn round the house cross the garden in the rear, and disappear in the wood behind the house.

CHAPTER XVIII.

When the major reached Lyndhurst that evening it was six o'clock. Talley met him at the steps of the veranda.

"Well," said the young man buoyantly, the semidarkness preventing him from observing the disturbed countenance of his employer; "well, major, have you seen the market reports?"

"No; I haven't had time to-day; I—I—where is my wi— Where is Blanche?"

The young man beamed and rubbed his hands together.

"Then you don't know that the G. N. & W. has taken a jump and is now actually worth two for one?"

"Is that so? Where did you say she was?" looking up towards the unlighted window of Blanche's room.

"I am afraid you don't realize that you have made a fortune out of this deal, major," said Talley, crestfallen.

"Oh, yes; I am glad, of course," said Goddard, absently. "But," impatiently, "I want to see Blanche at once!"

"She was walking in the garden on the other side of the house a few minutes ago," answered the private secretary. "I beg your pardon; I was so glad to be able to bring you good news, I wanted to ask if you would advise selling now. The prospect is glorious for an additional rise. The stock is on a boom. Even my little investment has turned out more money than I ever hoped to—"

But the major was not listening. He turned his tortured face away, and was striding through the dusk towards the garden in the rear. Near the old granite fountain in the center of the garden he saw a tall, darkly-clad figure moving slowly to and fro. It was the object of his quest. Her head was bare, but she wore a fur cape, the high collar of which encompassed her head except a triangular opening where her sweet face appeared.

"Oh, it is you," she cried, his hurried step causing her to turn suddenly, and she moved towards him quickly, her gloved hands outstretched. "I have something very important to tell you. I started to drive to the station to meet you."

"I have something to say first," he said, taking her hands.

"What is it? What is the matter?" She had noticed the strident quality in his voice.

He released her hands, his action born in the sudden realization of his unworthiness to treat her with familiarity. He glanced over his shoulder at the house, as if fearing interruption.

"Let's walk down towards the wood," he said, "I have an awful confession to make. When you have heard it you will despise me. You will wish you had never seen me. You will think me a devil incarnate."

As Blanche moved on by his side she had a suffocating sensation in her throat, and she unbuttoned her cape and threw it further back on her shoulders. She saw something of vast import had happened; she knew that by the awful alteration in his face and manner. He bore every evidence of being utterly crushed.

"Mr. Talley said he had gone into speculation," was her first thought, "and he has lost my fortune."

"Nothing you can confess could make me love you one jot less, my dear husband," she managed to say. "You have made me so happy that I would thank God for you if I were a beggar."

Plainfield citizens endorse them.

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work also increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles, as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

A Valuable Find.

Information received at Covelo, in Mendocino county, Cal., from Caspar, a seacoast town and post, 35 miles away, gives the particulars of a valuable find of ambergris afloat, discovered by a lumber steamer on her return from Skagway, Alaska. The name of the vessel is not given. A small lump of dirty, gray, greasy stuff was picked up by the crew six weeks ago after discharging a cargo of lumber at an Alaskan port. The lump weighed about 75 pounds, and when taken on board was found to be pure ambergris, more valuable than gold and worth $27,275. Ambergris is supposed to be a substance formed by a disease of the stomach or the gall ducts of the sperm whale. It is ejected by the animal and floats upon the water or is cast upon the shore and buried in the sand. It is used to fix valuable perfumes, and for that reason as well as for its rarity and the difficulty of encountering it its price ordinarily ranges from $370 to $400 a pound. Gold is worth about ten dollars an ounce and $256 a pound avoirdupois.—Kansas City Call.

The Pastor Bird.

The most entertaining resident of the zoo's birdhouse is a "pastor" bird from New Zealand. This bird has a dark-green plumage, relieved by a white feather growth at the throat greatly resembling a cravat, and with its sedate appearance very naturally suggests its name. But appearances are deceitful, for the bird has a song that seems to combine the musical features of a minstrel troupe. It whistles a couple of flute-like bars, gives utterance to a metallic speech that sounds very much like a tambourine, and winds up by manipulating its beak in a manner suggestive of a bones solo. After each musical performance the bird will do a couple of jig steps on the perch to further belie its sanctimonious appearance. The pastor likes to be noticed, and will go through its little act as long as an audience is on hand.—Philadelphia Record.

A Pair of Runaway Kites.

Two kites which were the leading members of a flight of five sent up last summer from the royal aeronautical observatory near Berlin broke away from their companions, and, dragging a long wire which touched the ground and extended two miles behind them, fled before the wind almost 100 miles before they were brought down to the earth. The resistance of the wire trailing over the land sufficed to keep the kites properly presented to the wind, and their lonely journey lasted through an entire night. When the kites started on their remarkable break for liberty they were at a height of more than 2½ miles.—Youth's Companion.

Hence Tommy Atkins.

Let it not be forgotten, however, that the "exquisite humor" displayed in the name Tommy Atkins belongs rather to the war office than to the public. That institution used to issue little pocket manuals, in which each soldier's name, age, date of enlistment, length of service, etc., were entered, and the method of filling in the form was explained by the use of a hypothetical name, not John Doe of the legal profession, but—Thomas Atkins. The books were first so called, and then the soldiers.—Academy.

Great Little Men.

The instances are certainly numerous in which the most successful leaders in the field have been far below the averages both in height and weight. Why, the "Little Corporal" himself would never have become a soldier maybe if his fate had depended on one of these war office boards, and it is a question whether the nation would now have been honoring "Little Bobs." It all seems so funny, the craze for bigness. — Army and Navy Gazette.

His Salary Inadequate.

"I should like a slight increase in my salary," remarked the sad-looking young bookkeeper. "I have a large family to support."

"Why, you've only been married two years," said his employer.

"I know that," was the reply, "but none of my wife's people have done anything since."—Philadelphia Record.

DYSPEPSIA If allowed to go unchecked will wear people down and wholly unfit them for social or business duties. Ripans Tabules will cure it. The following facts from a man living at Cramer Hill, N. J., bear out this statement: "I have been an awful sufferer from dyspepsia and biliousness," he says, "and had the former in most all its forms. My worst feeling was in the morning. I could not drink tea or coffee, but what they would sour on my stomach and make me vomit, and I became so weak that I could hardly stand. My friends noticed my condition and thought I had consumption. About four months ago a gentleman, seeing what a pitiable condition I was in, asked me to try Ripans Tabules, and I did. The next morning my wife told me to drink my coffee and then take a Tabule; and behold! I had no sour stomach, and it was the first time in two weeks that I did not vomit. That same day I took two more, and am now taking them about one a day. I am today a well man and have gained about twenty pounds since using them. They are worth their weight in gold."

SHORT SKIRTS.

They Are Beginning to Be Worn For the Street.

Although long skirts continue to be the fashionable type, there is a growing movement in favor of comparatively short skirts for the street, as a long one, even when held up in the hand, will drag in places and become extremely untidy. When the skirt is short, extra thought must be given to what goes beneath, as a silk petticoat and inside frills to the skirt itself are required to give it elegance.

One of the most elaborate forms which the loose sack takes makes it a garment of extreme elegance of black guipure lined with black taffeta, with decorations of black mousseline de soie. The wrap illustrated is in this general style, but it is of black embroidered net over black taffeta. There are a double pelerine of plaited black mousseline de soie, edged with a tiny ruche, and a collar and tabs of black taffeta with applications of white guipure. The half length sleeves of taffeta have guipure applications and a deep frill of mousseline matching the pelerine. Ruches of mousseline outline the wrap and form a collar. JUDIC CHOLLET.

BOLEROS.

Their Use to Be Continued Indefinitely.

Boleros are much used for spring costumes and will be worn all summer. They are almost universally becoming, and their shapes are so diverse that every figure may be suited. A novel idea is illustrated by boleros covered with the soft lace straw braids used in making fine hats. The effect is odd, but not specially attractive.

The bolero costume illustrated is of old red cloth. It has a corselet skirt, continued in the princess style far above the waist line. Around the foot is a deep circular flounce headed by a band of ecru cloth embroidered with red and gold. The bolero is a little longer in front than at the back and is bordered by a band of ecru cloth and ornamented by applications of the cloth. The ecru bertha is embroidered with gold and red. The bolero fastens by cloth tabs with metal ends clasped by a gold buckle. The yoke and collar are of waved red silk. The sleeves have large cuffs of ecru cloth embroidered with gold and red, below which are puffs of red silk and a wide band of red cloth. The hat of old red silk is trimmed with roses and argus plumes.

GAME THAT WORKED

How Dr. Sylvanus Craig Was Saved from Starvation.

Friendly Conspiracy to Secure a Practice in the Conservative Town of Blossomville — The Fall of Dr. Gettys.

When Sylvanus Craig graduated from the Chicago medical institution he was canny and chose a small Illinois town wherein to swing his shingle. No struggling against bitter odds in a big city for him—he preferred country air and a chance for his life. The fact that there was only one other doctor in Blossomville, and he aged and decrepit, promised a smooth pathway to competence and glory.

That was before Sylvanus went to Blossomville. Three months later he held his head and wondered how it happened. Not a solitary patient had responded to his bright new sign and old Dr. Gettys still drove busily around in his neat little phaeton and held crowded office hours attending to the invalids of the town. Dr. Gettys had been the standard physician of all Blossomville's families for three generations, and the families sniffed at the latest in medical achievement as represented by young Dr. Craig and stuck to their colors. As a new young man he was popular; as a physician he was blandly ignored.

This, as Sylvanus had discovered, did not pay bills. It was distinctly annoying, as Dr. Gettys was certainly old enough and rich enough to be willing to give another man a chance. He had no moral right in continuing to risk the health of Blossomville by antique medicines and remedies discarded by advanced practitioners two decades or more ago, and the inhabitants of the town were senseless enough not to see they were casting aside pearls and clinging to dross. It was really very hard. If something did not happen soon Sylvanus decided he would turn on the gas or go to digging ditches.

A couple of weeks later, says the Chicago Daily News, a traveling man at the Main street hotel, who had just arrived, fell violently ill. He writhed as the scared bellboy responded to a ring. "Any doctors in this bloomin' hole?" queried the sufferer.

"Old Dr. Gettys and the new one—Dr. Craig—he's young," said the boy.

"Go for the old one!" roared the traveling man. "No young green fools around me—I'm far too sick!"

Dr. Gettys hastened to the hotel and did his best. The case was a difficult one and the patient after a day or so grew steadily worse. He had the only nurse the village afforded and interest in his illness grew abroad. Dr. Gettys was in despair the fifth day, when the sufferer steadily declined in health. He grew secretly scared at his failure to produce any effect on the ravages of disease, and that was why he did not feel so bad as he might have done when the sick man, who was addicted to violent language, told him his candid opinion of his skill, peremptorily discharged him and sent for young Dr. Craig.

Naturally, as this was his first opportunity to show Blossomville what he could do, Dr. Craig bent his best energies on the situation. Well he knew not a family in town was there which was not awaiting the result of his struggle with death which Dr. Gettys had had to give up.

In three days Dr. Craig had his patient sitting up and in two more the traveling man had left town, after publicly eulogizing Dr. Craig in the office of the Main street hotel.

Blososmville capitulated. There was a mighty swerve and the tide of the sick and afflicted floated toward the office with the new glittering sign. Dr. Gettys, left stranded, retired on his income and made a collection of butterflies.

A year later, Dr. Craig, prosperous and radiant, ran up to Chicago on business. The first thing he did was to hunt up his particular old college chum and wring his hand with tears in his eyes. "It worked, old boy," he said.

The college chum grinned. "I fancy I did do my part pretty well," he responded, modestly. "I wasn't a star in amateur theatricals in my salad days for nothing. Wasn't I a dandy drummer, and oh, wasn't I sick!"

And then they celebrated properly.

GIANT OF THE HOUSE.

Congressman Sulloway of New Hampshire Is Nearly Seven Feet High, and a Great Talker.

The largest man physically in the house—and he is nearly seven feet tall, being built in proportion—one of the hardest workers, and a unique character, remarks Corry M. Staden, in Leslie's Weekly, is Cyrus A. Sulloway, of New Hampshire, recently a candidate against Chandler for the senate. Sulloway has been all things; he led the Salvation Army and later the democrats. Notwithstanding his great size, he has not been able to lead the house of representatives, but he has made a reputation as chairman of the committee on invalid pensions. Though a peace-loving man, he has nerve proportionate with his inches, and if ever his ire is aroused the one seeking the trouble will be sorry he found it.

CYRUS A. SULLOWAY.
(The Giant of the National House of Representatives.)

In New Hampshire Mr. Sulloway is regarded as an able criminal lawyer. Not long ago he was defending a client who was prosecuted under the liquor laws. The witnesses, being entitled, under the moiety clause of the law, to a share of the fine in case of conviction, did their best to earn the money, and the jury did not seem to be taking as much interest in the lawyer's argument as he thought they should. With indignation in his voice and fire in his eye, Sulloway went after the witnesses:

"The only evidence against my client," said he, "is given by two miscreants that have crawled up to this bar of justice. With what detestable objects can one compare treachery like this—with the naked dweller of Terra del Fuego, who eats his half-raw fish; with the Digger Indian that feeds upon the vermin which are nourished by his own body, or with the Wa-Wa mother that drags from the embers the roasted body of her new-born babe? No; angels all are they, and not to be compared with these two walking epidemics, whose pestilential touch breathes contagion in the pure air of this hall of justice. I apologize to your honor, and to you, gentlemen of the jury, for using these few moments to present the evidence for the favorable verdict that I know your bosoms yearn to give him; and, most of all, I apologize to my client for having withheld from him, even this short while, the liberty he is about to receive from this enlightened body of his fellow citizens."

In five minutes the client received the full penalty.

The symbol to be in red, bordered in white one and one-half inches, and edged in blue three-quarters of an inch, surmounted by a red scroll bearing the device: 'Division of the Philippines' embroidered in blue letters.

The Battle of Chickamauga.

Gen. H. V. Boynton, who has been an exhaustive student of the battle of Chickamauga, writes that "there were 583 more confederates killed at Chickamauga in two days than at Gettysburg in three, and the percentage of union loss for those engaged was greatest at Chickamauga."

Was a Real Philanthropist.

Minnesota has lost a philanthropist named John S. Harris, who found 40 acres enough to demonstrate the value of apple-growing to the state, and also to originate new varieties suited to the climate. Nobody ever hurrahed for Harris, but he was worth more han 10,000 demagogues to Minnesota.

CHARLES H. DIETRICH.

New United States Senator from Nebraska Pushed Himself to the Front by His Own Efforts.

Charles H. Dietrich is essentially a self-made man. Unswerving perseverance, indomitable determination, unflinching courage and great generosity have been recognized as his distinguishing characteristics since he first entered the political arena. He has a striking personality, and through his individual efforts has risen from obscurity to a seat in the United States senate. He was born in Chicago in 1853. His parents were born in Germany. In 1848 his father was forced to leave his native land because of his sympathy with the cause of the patriots, and he went to Quebec. A few months later his mother came to America, landing at New Orleans. After a long search, geographically strikingly similar to the search of Evangeline for Gabriel, they found each other in St. Louis, whence they came to Chicago.

At the age of 12 Charles secured employment on a farm and after remaining at that work three years he went to St. Joseph, Mo., and engaged in the hardware business. He afterward returned to Chicago, and following the same line of employment saved enough to embark in the hardware business for himself in Arkansas. In 1875 he was robbed by highwaymen, left almost destitute and dying and had to begin all over again. He encountered numberless hardships until he struck luck in a mine which he disposed of to eastern capitalists for a considerable sum. In May, 1878, he married Miss Elizabeth Slaker at Aurora, Wyo., and located in Hastings, where he embarked in the mercantile business.

Mr. Dietrich worked in his store all day, and in the evening delivered goods to customers in a wheelbarrow. His business met with success from the start, and he soon became one of the foremost citizens of Hastings. He was there instrumental in organizing the German national bank of Hastings, of which institution he was president at the time he received the republican nomination for governor of Nebraska early in 1900.

HAS GREAT POWERS.

W. W. Rockhill, Special Commissioner of the American Government at Peking, China.

W. W. Rockhill, who is now discharging the duties of special commissioner to China at Peking, has as delicate a commission as has ever been instrusted to an American diplomat. It is expressly said that he is in China merely as an observer for the president.

W. W. ROCKHILL.
(Special Commissioner of the United States at Peking.)

While that is technically true it is also a fact that he is intrusted with full diplomatic powers in the interest of an early settlement of the Chinese problem. While Mr. Rockhill is not and there is no intention of making him the successor of Minister Conger, he is the direct agent of the United States government in the field, and his powers are very great.

All Mr. Rockhill's training has been along lines to fit him for the task that is now his. When Mr. Rockhill left the United States he was of opinion that it would not be sufficient merely to look into conditions in Shan-Tung province and in Peking, but that it would be necessary for him to visit other provinces and cities where there was disquiet and danger to foreign interests. Then he will be able to give the president a comprehensive outline of the Chinese conditions up to date.

Endurance of Chilian Horses.

Chilian cavalry horses have been put through a remarkable test of endurance. Twenty-one officers mounted on their ordinary chargers rode 250 miles in three days, covering 81 miles the first day, 81 the second, and 88 the third. The route was over rough mountain roads, in some places 3,000 feet above sea level. All the horses were bred in Chili.

PRETTY NUN ELOPES.

And Marries the Man She Had Loved for Some Months.

Romance Which Had Its Birth and Fruition in the Old Convent of the Holy Cross, at New Orleans—The Story in Detail.

The New Orleans correspondent of the Chicago Record writes that, tired of life in a convent and enamored with a sturdy young engineer, Sister Mary of St. Phillippe escaped from the convent of the Holy Cross a day or two ago and quietly married the man of her choice.

Three years ago Joseph Robin, a wealthy planter of Lake Charles, La., brought Maggie Robin, a 16-year-old daughter, to the city and placed her in the charge of Mother Superior Modesta, of the convent of the Holy Cross. The young woman was a devout and willing novice and was welcomed in the holy place. In course of time the pretty young novice was assigned daily to the St. Mary's orphan asylum, where she taught primary classes. The orphan asylum is about six blocks from the convent and daily the sweet-faced young novice, always accompanied by a more mature member of the order, would walk to her labors.

It was on this daily walk that W. F. Sarrazin first met the beautiful young novice. The stern costume of the order ill concealed her charms, and with the determination born of infatuation Sarrazin determined to make his love known. With that sole purpose in view the sturdy young fellow applied at the asylum for the office of engineer. He was taken a little over a year ago, and with the title of prefect he was enabled to meet the object of his infatuation.

Acquaintance quickly ripened into a lasting love, and the young engineer and the novice from the convent of the Holy Cross were betrothed. The Sunday after2 that stolen interview Sister Mary promised an answer to the all-important question. The ardent young lover had agreed to abide by a signal given from the dormitory of the convent. It was almost dusk when a slight girlish figure appeared at the window that was so eagerly watched. She nodded and smiled on her knight. It was the signal of assent. It was a promise to leave the convent life forever on the morrow.

Short after daybreak Monday this same girlish figure, but no longer Sister Mary Phillippe, glided from the somber big convent. Sarrazin was in waiting with two friends, and jumping into a carriage the little party was driven hastily away.

Fortune favored the lovers, until at the early morning devotions the pretty young novice was missed from her accustomed place. Inquiry at the orphan asylum revealed that she was indeed gone. Prefect Sarrazin was not to be found, and then the whole was surmised. There was a frantic telephoning to the board of health, to the police, instructing that the marriage should be stopped, as the sister was under age.

When young Sarrazin applied for his license with his blushing young sweetheart he was told that the license would not be issued. With a rare presence of mind a companion, who had come as a witness, promptly announced that the ceremony could speedily be performed in Gretna, which is in the adjoining parish of Jefferson. They left the office. News was flashed to Gretna and while the authorities were congratulating themselves on outwitting the little wedding party the very ceremony was being conducted in a local city court. Thinking the Gretna declaration would have its effect, Sarrazin and his bride hastened to Judge Wynne Rogers, and before there could be any staying hand the ceremony was performed that joined the young engineer and Sister Mary, now Maggie Robin.

In a little cottage less than a dozen blocks from the big convent Mr. and Mrs. Sarrazin are quartered, awaiting the verdict of the parents, which means a great deal to their future happiness. Joseph Robin, the wealthy father of the young nun, although not told of his daughter's marriage, has been sent for by Mother Superior Modesta. W. F. Sarrazin, the groom, is of an old Creole family and the son of the late Justin Sarrazin, who in life was one of the most extensive tobacco merchants in the south.

Kansas Editor's Apology.

A Kansas editor apologizes for a typographical blunder, which made him say that a bride appeared in "shirt sleeves." "We wrote 'short sleeves,'" explains the editor, "as plain as we know how."

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The second High School team and the Grammar School team of the borough will play a game of baseball this afternoon on the Westervelt avenue grounds.

The scorekeepers of the various nines in the city and borough, as a rule, are accurate in their reports of the games, but for thoroughness of detail Robert Abbott, of the Leal's team, heads the list as a scorer

There was some talk of substituting Close for Evans at first base on the Hope chapel team for the game with Clinton Avenue Saturday, but fortunately the plan was not carried out. Evans on first base is all right.

The Hope chapel boys are in high spirits over the result of the game with the Clinton avenue nine Saturday afternoon. J. Montress' fine work in the box was the admiration of even the enthusiasts of the Clinton avenue team.

The schedule of the North Plainfield High School baseball team for the remainder of the season is as follows: Wednesday, May 15, Plainfield High School, at Plainfield; Wednesday, May 22, Battin High School, at Elizabeth; Monday, May 27, Plainfield High School, at Plainfield; Wednesday, June 5, Pingry School, at Elizabeth.

The game between the city and borough High School nines, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, is eagerly awaited by the players as well as by the supporters of the two teams. The borough lads, on the one hand, are anxious to hold the honor won in the last game, while the city boys are expected to use every effort to reclaim their unexpectedly lost laurels.

The Twentieth Century Baseball Club defeated George Linke's team on the old golf grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 14 to 13. It was a close and exciting game throughout. The batteries were Jones and Elliott for the Twentieth Century's and Lewis and Hill for Linke's team. The decisions of James O'Mally, who acted as umpire, were accurate and showed a thorough knowledge.

The Plainfield High School nine goes to New Brunswick Saturday to play the team of Rutgers' Preparatory School. Arrangements are being made to run a special car to New Brunswick to accommodate the High School boys and girls. If sufficient support is given by the pupils the car will be engaged again as it was for the football game with the same institution last fall. L. Bridgeman, the assistant manager of the team, has charge of the arrangements for transportation.

The ball grounds on Mountain avenue were the scene of an exciting game yesterday afternoon, between the American Eagles and the Orient Field Club. It ended with a score of 26 to 23 in favor of the latter. Perry and Smalley formed the battery for the Orients, while Downing, Edward and John Cooley occupied the same positions with the Eagles. The Orients are getting their schedule made up for the season and are desirous of filling in a few more dates. Managers of teams averaging twelve years are asked to communicate with Edward Perrin, 87 Grandview avenue.

A large number of spectators witnessed a close baseball game Saturday on the old golf grounds between the West End Field Club and the Panelites. At the end of the ninth inning the score stood 23 to 23 but owing to the rain it was not played off. The West Enders were the favorites throughout although the opposing team played well. The heavy hitting of Neelen and a home run by Connelly brought forth long applause. It is the intention of the team to play another game on the same grounds Saturday. The batting order was as follows: W. E. F. C., Overland, p; Meyers, c; Neelen, Sr., lf; Sullivan, 2b; McConnell, 1b; Harkins, 3b; Neelen, Jr., rf; Hughes, ss; Fitzpatrick, lf. Panelites: Harding, p; McGaul, 1b; Regan, ss; Snyder, rf; Connelly, c; Andrews, lf; Lievers, 2b; Sloyan, 3b; Fitzgerald, cf. Umpires, McNamara and Everitt.

This afternoon the Whittiers play the third class of the Plainfield High School. Tomorrow they go by trolley to Roselle where they play the High School's second team of that place.

The Battin High School team of Elizabeth comes to this city tomorrow afternoon to play a game of baseball with the nine of Leal's School. The game will be played on Pittis' field.

A game of ball was played on the cricket field, Monday afternoon, between the Whittiers and Y. M. C. A. teams. The former were the victors by the score of 18 to 14. The winning battery were Hellyer and McVoy; for Y. M. C. A., Leland and Sherwin.

A BIG BILL

won't stare you in the face if you use Hygeia Ice. It will last longer than the natural ice. You will have no doctor bill on account of germs from ice, for Hygeia Ice is made from artesian well water, filtered to make it doubly pure. Take this matter into consideration and order our wagon to stop at your door. Pure ice costs no more than the unhealthy.

Cause of Delay.

The few minutes' delay of the chemical engine of the fire department in responding to the call from box 34 this morning was due to the fact that Fred Breem, the regular driver, was at his home breakfasting at the time the alarm was turned in. ONLY THREE HANGINGS IN HUNTERDON COUNTY

Last Execution on The Scaffold Took Place Three Quarters of Century Ago.

CRIMINAL WAS A LAD.

ARREST OF ISAAC MITCHELL, FOR MURDER, RECALLS THESE FACTS.

Mitchell's Trial Will Take Place in September—Something About The Three Men Who Met The Death Penalty in Hunterdon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, May 15—The arrest of Isaac Mitchell, colored, in Florida on a charge of having murdered Edward Kane in this county in 1898, recalls the fact that only three persons have ever been hanged in Hunterdon county. Mitchell, who has just been landed in the county jail, will stand trial at the September term of court at this place. Should he be convicted and executed, he will be the first man to meet death on the gallows here in three-quarters of a century.

Of the three murderers hanged in this county two were colored and one was a white man. The last to pay the death penalty was James Guise, a fourteen-year-old colored boy, who murdered his mistress, Mrs. Beaks, with a neckyoke. He was executed on Nov. 28, 1828.

James VanNatta, thirty years old, was the first person hanged in the county. He resided in Alexandria township, where he killed a white man and buried his body in a forest. The second murderer to pay the death penalty was a slave. The crime was committed in the basement of the dwelling occupied by O. B. Davis on the outskirts of Flemington. He was executed November 11 1803.

The scaffold was erected near the home of former Senator George H. Large, in Main street. But few of the older residents recall the hanging of the negro boy Guise. The scaffold, upon which Guise was swung into eternity, was erected near the Reading Academy. When "Little Jim," as he was familiarly known, was hanged, hangings were not conducted privately, and a great crowd of curious people was attracted to the scene. Work in the surrounding country had been abandoned and it looked as though the morbid crowd was out for a holiday. They came from all directions, on horseback, in wagons and on foot.

The murder of Mrs. Beaks by "Little Jim" was prompted by her refusal to loan him the use of a shotgun. The weapon with which he killed his mistress, still blood-stained, is now in the vaults of the clerk's office in this place. The court-house was destroyed by fire in 1828, and the trial was conducted in the old Methodist Episcopal church.

Guise was too young to realize the terrible ordeal. He manifested little or no interest in the proceedings, and was not moved when the death sentence was pronounced.

GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE.

Willie Gleason Will Not Go To Reform School If He Mends His Ways.

Willie Gleason, whose foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wharton, have had so much trouble with him of late, has been given another chance by Judge Vail to mend his ways without being placed under the restraint of the Reform School.

On April 30 the lad was committed to jail for ten days by City Judge Runyon and in the meantime application was made to have him placed in the Reform School. The hearing of the application took place before Judge Vail at Elizabeth this morning, and His Honor decided to defer the matter for the present.

Fine Speaker Secured.

W. W. Clark, of New York, a very talented speaker, has been secured by Dr. Schenck to address the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church Sunday evening, on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of that society. Mr. Clark will also preach for Dr. Schenck at the morning service Sunday and in the afternoon he will speak at Marconnier chapel.

Doing Good Work.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church has sent a large box of good literature to the soldier boys in the Army and Navy in the Philippines, and also one to a mission school in East Bernstadt, Kentucky.

Planning Social.

The Young Friends Association is planning to hold a social in the future.

LARGE AUDIENCE WITNESSED IT AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Pictures Were Dramatically Described By W. D Cowland, of Washington, D. C.

Long before the hour of commencement, St. Mary's church was filled an expectant crowd last evening, when the Passion Play, as enacted by the peasants of the Bavarian village of Oberammergau, was depicted by means of animated photographs. Not only was every seat occupied but a large number were compelled to stand all through the presentation.

There were none in the audience, however, at the close, but what held the opinion that the sacred drama was never shown in a better manner. The pictures were excellent, reproducing every gesture of the originals. W. D. Cowland, of Washington, who was in charge, told the story in a dramatic, manner, making every scene clear to his hearers. Mr. Cowland sang several of the solos which intersperse the recital of the play, while the remainder were given by Miss Blanche Yewl, also of Washington, D. C.

At the close of the drama, several sacred songs, including the "Holy City" and "Rock of Ages" were sung by Mr. Cowland and Miss Yewl. They were beautifully illustrated by means of dissolving views.

VERDICT FOR SCHORB.

Jury Decided Yesterday That Wm. Trust Must Pay Mr. Schorb $175.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 15—The case of Wm. A. Schorb against Wm. F. Trust, was taken up yesterday before Judge Schenck and a jury and occupied the day. This was a suit to recover $200 for board, fines paid police justice at Plainfield, trips to New York and loan for cigars, cigarettes, beer and whiskey.

Schorb keeps a boarding house on East Front street, Plainfield, and Trust boarded with him. Schorb claims that Trust agreed to pay him $12 a week. Trust alleges that he only agreed to pay $8; that the cigars, etc., were not purchased at his request, but only to keep him soaked so that the Schorbs might get him to do anything; that they got him to sign acknowledgments of indebtedness while under the influence of liquor, and that these acknowledgments were signed under false representations.

The witnesses for the plaintiff were Mr. and Mrs. Schorb and W. V. Miller, of Plainfield. Mr. Trust went on the stand in his own defense. Robert M. Clark represented Schorb, and Former Judge W. A. Coddington was counsel for Trust.

The jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $175. The jurors were dismissed for the term.

FAMILY WAS ABSENT; HOUSE WAS RANSACKED

Mysterious Thieves Have Twice Visited Residence of John M. Burnet, Madison Avenue.

LEET NO CLUE BEHIND.

ENTRANCE WAS DISCOVERED BY MRS. CHAS. C. BURNET.

Visited the House to See That All Was Well—Second Visit Thieves Stole Bicycle Tire and Wrecked Bicycle—Reported to Police.

Twice within a fortnight have burglars entered the home of John M. Burnet, at 908 Madison avenue, and ransacked the house. Though in each instance the loss was insignificant the daring acts of the perpetrators is remarkable. Right in the heart of an aristocratic resident section of the city the burglars seemed to have worked with impunity on both occasions. In one sense the risk they ran of detection was small, for the premises are closed at present while Mr. and Mrs. Burnet are staying in New York.

The discovery of the looting in both cases was made by Mrs. Charles C. Burnet, who lives but a short distance below on the same street. During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Burnet, who have been away all winter, Mrs. Charles C. Burnet has paid regular visits to the house, 908 Madison avenue, in order to see that everything was in order.

Friday, May 3, Mrs. Charles C. Burnet, in entering the front hall of the house, noticed that all the doors were closed which was contrary to custom. Suspecting that something was wrong she made a hasty inspection of the rooms and found a condition of disorder everywhere. In the bedrooms on the second story, the bureau drawers had been removed and their contents scattered promiscuously about the floors. The globes on the chandeliers had been taken down and articles about the rooms upset.

Down stairs a similar appearance greeted her. The search of the intruders had been thorough. Strange to say nothing on the premises was missing. The matter was promptly reported to the police department. As there was no clue, the force worked under a disadvantage.

Mrs. C. C. Burnet paid another visit to the house Monday and found that during the interval between her last inspection a cellar window had been forced open and a bicycle stored on the second floor completely ruined and one tire of the machine stolen. The latter theft has also been reported to the police.

In the former instance entrance was effected by the front door presumably, as all the windows were bolted and the inside bolts on the back door were found to be unfastened.

Counting these two burglaries eight entrances have been made by thieves in that locality this spring.

IN DESPONDENT MOOD HE ENDED HIS LIFE.

John G. Haberle Committed Suicide in His Cigar Store on Somerset Street.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT.

WORRIED OVER FINANCIAL TROUBLES AND ILL HEALTH.

Said That He Had Resolved to Make an Assignment on the Morrow—Wife Worried When He Did Not Return Home

Loaded down with financial troubles and long suffering from neuralgia and rheumatism, John Godfrey Haberle, a life long resident in this vicinity, put an end to his existence in the stillness of last evening in his cigar store on Somerset street. The dead man, brooding for some time past over the ill condition of his finances as well as his body, had completely shattered his nervous system and, in this condition of despondency, he took his life.

He had already concluded, it is said, as a last resort to make an assignment of his business and had arranged to consult counsel today for that purpose. Business competition in the neighborhood had steadily decreased his income during the past few months and it is said that on the advice of a friend, William N. Pangborn, he determined yesterday to wind up his affairs on the morrow.

Mr. Haberle was in the habit of closing his store in the evenings shortly after 9 o'clock and generally went to his little home on Chatham street before 10 o'clock. Yesterday his condition was much worse and when he had not returned to his house at the usual hour, Mrs. Frances E. Haberle, his wife, became worried. To relieve her anxiety about 11 o'clock, Louis Beekman, who happened to be visiting at the house at the time, volunteered to go and bring Mr. Haberle home.

At the store, Mr. Beekman found the door securely fastened and the lights within out. Hastening back to the house he secured a key and accompanied by Mr Haberle's son, John, he returned to the store and unlocked the door.

In the back of the cigar store room, John Haberle found his father sitting on a chair between a partition and a stove. In his right hand was clenched a pistol. Quickly feeling for his pulse the son found that life was extinct and the body already cold.

Patrolman Myers, who was in the neighborhood was summoned and he immediately notified the county physician, Dr. Westcott. In the meantime Dr. Albert Pittis was sent for but he was not at home, but the aid of Dr. P. J. Zeglio and Dr Marcus L Claw son was obtained and they pronounced the man dead.

Dr. Wescott arrived later and issued the necessary permit for the removal of the body, and the news of the sad occurence was made known to Mr. Haberle's family. This morning the body was removed to the home on Chatham street.

Mr. Haberle, by trade, was a cigar manufacturer and had conducted a business at the little store on Somerset street near Green brook bridge for the last eighteen years. He was a respected citizen of the borough and was prominent in lodge circles.

His wife and four children, Miss Lillian, John, Sherman and Percival, survive him. At the time of his death Mr. Haberle was forty-nine years of age and an active member of the A. O. U. W., and Perseverence Lodge, K of P.

RECITAL BY ADVANCED PUPILS

GIVEN AT STUDIO OF E. ARTHUR JANKE LAST EVENING.

Carefully Selected Programme Was Well Rendered By Six of the Advanced Pupils.

The third recital by the advanced pupils of E Arthur Janke, pianist, was given at his studio, 931 West Sixth street, last evening. It was attended by over a hundred of the music-loving people of the city. The programme was carefully selected and comprised numbers by MacDowell, Schumann, Weber, Chopin, Liszt and Grieg. The pupils, who gave the programme, included the Misses Agnes Langhorne, Josephine Randolph, Leonora Sloane, Edith Cairns, Florence Cahoone and Clyde B. Burnet.

Miss Burnet and Miss Cahoone were already favorably known to the audience from former recitals, having studied with Mr. Janke for a number of years. All of Mr. Janke's pupils showed an earnest study, the difficult compositions being rendered in a tasteful and artistic manner.

The recital closed with the "Peer Gynt Suite" for two pianos, by Grieg, the execution of which was a remarkable one for ensemble playing. It was given by the Misses Burnett, Cairns, Cahoone and Mrs. E Arthur Janke. Mrs. Janke is an accomplished pianist, being a graduate of Stuttgart Conservatory in Germany.

At the close of the recital there was a social time and the pupils received sincere congratulations for their excellent work. Mr. Janke has indeed been very successful with his pupils, which is attested by the steady increase in numbers, of which there were twenty-four during the last season.

GREAT GATHERING OF LOCAL ENDEAVORERS.

Rev. Theo. S. Henderson Addressed Annual Meeting of Local Endeavor Union.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

ALL BUSINESS BUT ELECTION OF OFFICERS WAS OMITTED.

Huge Audience Thronged Trinity Reformed Church Where Meeting Was Held—Several Solos by F. H. Jacobs—Officers Elected.

The announcement that Rev. Theodore S. Henderson and F. H. Jacobs would participate in the annual meeting of the Plainfield Local Union of Christian Endeavor Societies had the effect of overflowing the commodious edifice of Trinity Reformed church, where the exercises were held last evening.

Not only was there an unusually large attendance of the members of the Union, but Christian people in general, young and old, from far and wide, flocked to the meeting in order to again have an opportunity of listening to an evangelist and a gospel hymn leader, who have found a warm spot in their hearts.

It had been determined by the Union to make the business part of the meeting of secondary importance in order to afford more time to the evangelistic services. This tended materially to make the meeting of far greater interest to the general public.

The forepart of the meeting was devoted to a service of sacred song lead by Mr Jacobs. A gospel hymn, entitled "Hope Song," the words of which were anonymous, but set to music by Mrs. F. H. Jacobs, was rendered as a baritone solo by the singing evangelist during the course of the special musical service. Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, read the Scripture and offered a prayer at the conclusion of the praise service.

Miss Florence G. Hawkins, the president of the Union, who acted as chairman of the meeting, announced that it had been decided to defer the reading of the annual reports on this occasion and that the meeting would proceed with the election of officers for the ensuing year. The names of the candidates as selected by the nominating committee, of which Miss Florence Dodge was chairman, was accordingly read and as there was no opposition, the secretary on motion was instructed, to cast a ballot for the tickets as agreed upon.

Those who were elected are: President, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, of the Park Avenue Baptist Endeavorers; first vice-president, Miss Clementine R. Yates, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Endeavorers; second vice-president, Rev. J. A. Cubberly, of the South Plainfield Baptist Endeavorers; secretary, Miss Ernestine M. Smith, of the Seventh-Day Baptist Endeavorers, and treasurer, Philip S. Suffern, of the Congregational Endeavorers.

Before Rev. Mr. Henderson began his remarks, that majestic hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," was rendered in an inspiring manner by the audience while standing. Mr. Jacobs then sang as a baritone solo "Thy Will Be Done," by Whittier, the musical composition of which was also by his wife, Mrs. F. H. Jacobs.

Rev. Mr. Henderson, in his discourse, did not select any particular text, but dwelt primarily upon man's duty of standing up for Jesus. He reminded his hearers that Jesus Christ stands by a downcast mortal, when he is forsaken by even those who are bound to him by earthly ties. He recalled how the Saviour stood by the Apostle Paul when he had to face the Roman tribune for a second time. Everyony else had forsaken him, said the evangelist, but Jesus Christ did not forget him.

The evangelist described how sin gradaully forced one away from his Maker. Sin's delight, said he, is the eternal damnation of people and it has the devilish faculty of destroying love. As an illustration of the effect sin has on man, he likened it unto a man dying in the quick-sand as so vividly depicted by Victor Hugo.

Jesus, in standing by one in sin, does not condone, but despises the sin and endeavors to help man out of his wrongful life. If people today, said he, gave some encouragement to one going in the wrong direction, no doubt fewer would go astray. He cited St. Peter as an example of one who, although denying Christ, was not for-

There is no let up in the business at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, where William Collier continues on his prosperous way in Augustus Thomas' charming comedy "On The Quiet." The public is certainly showing its appreciation of this most enjoyable performance. It is a delightful comedy, charmingly performed by a most excellent company of comedians, and produced with unusual scenic embellishments for a comedy. The yacht scene in the last act is so refreshing and invigorating, that you almost feel the salt breeze on your face as you watch it. Other New York theatres are beginning to close for the season, but it looks as though the Madison Square would be doing business at the old stand well into the summer.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The effort of any newspaper to build up a town is practically nullified unless it is backed up by the business men of the town. A stranger turns from the news columns of a paper to its advertising columns, and if he fails to find there the business cards of the merchants and professional firms, he comes to the conclusion that the editor is not appreciated, in which case it is a good place to keep clear from. No town can grow without the active assistance of its papers. Nor can papers grow and build up their localities without the assistance of the town. Business men should realize this, and remember that in lending support to their local paper they are not only building up their own business, but are helping to support that which is steadily working for the growth of the whole town.—Press and Printer.

While blasting in a mountain just north of Plainfield, the workmen struck a quantity of rock containing a considerable amount of copper and also a fair proportion of iron ore. This is not at all startling, for all the mountains in that locality and extending fifteen or twenty miles west, are known to contain more or less copper. Mines were worked in these mountains a century ago and at intervals since. The great drawback is that the copper is thinly distributed. There seems to be no central locality in which there is a large body of copper, or, at least, no such body has yet been discovered. Since the price of copper has greatly increased, these old mines are being worked anew and mines are being opened, but still the work is but moderately profitable.—Elizabeth Journal.

Since rural free delivery has proved such an enormous success, one cannot envy the feelings of those mistaken postmaster generals, who, for so long, refused to even try the system, despite the fact that Congress instructed them to do it and provided the money. During the four years of Cleveland's administration the heads of the Post Office positively refused to introduce the system, reporting to Congress that it was impractical and useless—this without making any trial of it.

Since Perry Heath introduced the system on a wide scale it has spread so enormously that it is entirely within the bounds of probability that within the lives of the present generation the whole people of the United States may have their mail delivered directly into their hands on their own doorsteps, whether living in the mountain fastnesses of the Rockies or the bayous of Louisiana, making the entire country, from ocean to ocean, for the purpose of mail delivery, one great city.—Camden Post-Telegram.

The Home Oil Company of Beaumont CONTROLS 13,000 ACRES of valuable proven oil lands, comprising some of the best properties in the now famous oil fields of eastern Texas.

Three thousand acres of these lands lie in twenty-two tracts in Jefferson and Hardin counties, part of which is located within 6,450 feet of the Lucas geyser with its enormous output of 70,000 barrels of oil daily. Other tracts of our land in Jefferson county are located within 4,500 feet of the Beatty Gusher and still others in the Big Hill and Pine Island districts, all valuable properties. A number of tracts are located in the Sour Lake and Saratoga districts, in Hardin county. In the Saratoga fields there is one well already down to a depth of 225 feet, at which depth oil was found in paying quantities, and which the company will immediately drill to the far larger deposits undoubtedly lying in the lower strata. Other wells are being sunk in this field and will be heard from at an early date.

Ten thousand acres of our lands cover eight tracts in Starr county, one of the most recently proven Texas oil districts, about 300 miles south of the Corsicana field, and probably a continuation of the same belt. This district is favorably spoken of in the Engineering & Mining Journal of February 9, 1901, in an article written for the Journal by Prof. W. B. Phillips, lately employed as State Geologist for Texas, and a scientific oil expert of the highest standing. These tracts show the strongest indications of oil deposits, and it is believed will develop among the richest producers of the state.

For the purpose of immediate development of our holdings the company offers a limited amount of its capital stock at which price is subject to advance without notice at any time in the discretion of the directors.

Our lands being located in different tracts surrounded by properties upon which productive wells have been developed removes the speculative feature of our proposition and makes the Home Oil Company of Beaumont an investment of real merit. In addition to the operations already being carried on by us, wells are being bored at various places in properties adjoining our holdings, so that practically all our property is being developed indirectly and is increasing in value daily. Further than this, we have a complete drilling outfit purchased from the American Well Works of Aurora, Ill., now on the ground and in actual operation. A careful consideration of this proposition will thoroughly convince even the most conservative of the value of stock in our company, while a reference to the management of the Home Oil Company of Beaumont will show that its affairs are in the hands of men of the highest integrity and unquestioned ability.

Subscriptions may be sent direct to the company's offices, as below, or money may be deposited in any bank subject to the company's draft with certificate of stock attached.

WELCOME TO FRISCO

President Is Received With Great Enthusiasm.

LARGE MILITARY AND NAVAL ESCORT

Outside Visits Postponed—The Cabinet and Members of His Party Met by McKinley at the Station—A Public Reception at Night.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—President McKinley made his official entry into this city, the objective point of his tour, late yesterday afternoon. After being formally welcomed by Mayor J. D. Phelan he was escorted through the principal streets, attended by a military and naval turnout. He attended a public reception at night in the large nave of the Market street ferry depot.

President McKinley decided early in the morning that owing to Mrs. McKinley's illness he would not visit Stanford university, as had been planned, but would limit himself to the day's exercises in this city.

At 2:40 o'clock he left the Scott residence for the Valencia street station. Here he met the train bringing the members of the cabinet and remainder of his party, who had fulfilled the programme between San Jose and this city. President McKinley was also met here by Mayor Phelan and formally received. The president, the members of his cabinet, Mayor Phelan and the reception committee were then taken by special train to the Third and Townsend street station, where the military and naval escort was waiting. Long before the hour set for the president's arrival Third street, from King to Harrison, was a solid mass of humanity. Shortly after the train arrived the procession was formed, and the march up Third street was begun. In the rear of the platoon of mounted police and a battalion of patrolmen came Grand Marshal Warfield and his aids. Behind them were swung into line Troop A, the special escort of the president, closely followed by the veteran guard of the Grand Army of the Republic, who acted as a guard of honor for the battleflags of the president's regiment.

A second later President McKinley, sitting comfortably in his carriage, was in full view of the throng that had waited so long to greet him. Accompanying him were Mayor Phelan and Irving M. Scott, chairman of the citizens' executive committee.

After the president's carriage came those of his cabinet, Governor Nash of Ohio and staff and the Ohio congressional delegation. The long line of carriages was followed by 4,000 troops—infantry, artillery and cavalry—from the Presidio, led by General Shafter, and 1,000 marines and sailors from the battleships Iowa, Philadelphia and Wisconsin, under Admiral Casey. The route was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting and evergreens. At Van Ness avenue President McKinley reviewed the procession, after which he repaired to the Scott residence for dinner.

Justice Jerome's Discovery.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Justice Jerome has in his possession a check indorsed by one of the men who are supposed to be responsible for alleged protected gambling in this city. The justice, describing the nature of some of the evidence found in the recent important raid on a place on East Fourteenth street, declared that the committee of fifteen had found in this gambling house the memorandum of a large payment of money to a man prominent in this city and that this memorandum consisted of the check mentioned, which had been indorsed at the time of payment by the man referred to. Justice Jerome was asked what he thought the income of a police captain was. He answered: "It all depends on the precinct. In one raid evidence was found to indicate that $2,500 was paid. There were ten gambling houses in that precinct. Multiply the amount by ten, and you have $25,000 a year as what could be considered a gratuity." Justice Jerome was asked what amounts he thought were paid for appointment to a captaincy. "From $18,000 to $25,000," he said. "Of course this is only an investment, and the amounts they receive are gratuities."

To Strike May 20.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The representatives of the machinery and allied metal trades national and international unions, who have been in session here for two days considering the enforcement of a demand that union machinists hereafter shall be required to work only nine hours a day, with an increase of wages that would make the daily pay the same as under the present ten hour scale, late yesterday afternoon decided that there should be a strike on May 20 in shops refusing to grant the desired concessions.

Plot to Steal the Sultan.

VIENNA, May 15.—The newspapers here print a sensational story of a plot to kidnap the sultan of Turkey. The reports say it was the intention of the conspirators to arrange for a declaration that his majesty was insane and then to keep him secretly confined and to proclaim his younger brother, Mohammed Reshad, sultan in his stead. Several exalted officers and state officials are said to have been implicated in the plot. It is stated that they were co-operating with the Young Turk party.

Stole Government Gold.

NEW YORK, May 15.—As the result of the disappearance of several thusand dollars' worth of gold during the last few weeks from the United States assay office in Wall street Charles F. Gere, who for several years has been employed there as a melter, was arrested by United States secret service agents. Gere was arraigned before United States Commissioner Thomas Alexander and held in $5,000 bail, which he was unable to furnish, and was committed to Ludlow street jail.

Injured In Peculiar Manner.

NEWBURG, N. Y., May 15.—Ernest Randolph of Union Hill, N. J., a brakeman on a West Shore freight train, was hurt at Cornwall in a peculiar manner. While sitting in the caboose, the two parts of the train, which had broken in two, crashed together. Randolph's head was driven through a windowpane and his throat terribly cut. He is in a critical condition.

RIOTING AT ALBANY.

Attempt to Start Trolley Cars Ends In Bloodshed.

STATE TROOPS ARE ORDERED OUT.

Strikers Stone Cars and Nonunion Employees—Local Police Unable to Preserve Order—Motorman's Skull Fractured.

ALBANY, May 15.—A thousand national guardsmen and a hundred mounted men occupy Albany streets today and will attempt to force a riotous crowd to let the cars of the United Traction company run with nonunion men. The Twenty-third regiment of Brooklyn, the Tenth battalion of Albany and the Third signal corps make up the complement of men. They are re-enforced by 200 special deputies, 300 policemen and over 100 Pinkerton detectives.

It is feared that the bloodshed and the riotous scenes of yesterday will be repeated with much greater fatality, as the mobs about the carhouses and street corners are in a frenzied condition.

The results of yesterday's rioting were: One man dying, fully 20 or 30 injured, 80 men out of 150 brought here by the company induced to desert, the trolley lines cut, cars demolished and the police powerless to control the thousands of men patrolling the streets.

At 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon the police practically admitted that they were powerless to take care of the large crowds on the street if cars were run, and General Manager McNamara immediately called upon General Oliver, in command of the Third brigade, for protection. He said, "We intend to run out cars if it takes the entire national guard of New York state to protect us."

The story of the riot yesterday is full of exciting features. At 10 o'clock two of the big car doors swung open, and out darted a closed car with all the windows opened. Immediately there was a roar of hisses and catcalls, and pandemonium broke loose. Several men made an effort to board the car as it shot out of the barn, but they were kept from doing so by the policemen, one of whom was stationed on each car step.

The car made rapid headway, and almost before the expectant crowd realized what had happened the car was well on its way over Quail street. It continued on to Madison avenue, to Lark street, to Washington avenue, to State street, to Broadway, to the Union station and returned by the same route, followed most of the way by bicyclists and people in rigs, all seemingly anxious to be on hand if there was any excitement to be had.

Not any of the men were injured, although they were in the midst of a rain of stones and other missiles along the route. The second car did not escape. When the doors were opened, the mob surged toward it despite the efforts of the police. The crew consisted of four men dressed in plain clothes.

As the car swung around the curve there was a rush for it, but the crowd was driven back. The committee from the strikers was allowed to approach the men.

"Do you want to come with us, boys? You won't regret it."

There was no response from any of the men. The motorman, with his smile gone, waved them aside and gave the alarm bell two rings. The conductor responded with two strokes on the signal bell, the current was turned on, and the car was off again.

Seemingly, with the turning on of the electric current, all restraint in the great crowd broke. There was no concerted action. There was no attempt to control by any others than the police. The crowd was turned into a crazed mob. There was no regard for consequence or result. Each and every one of the great mass was moving. Some were running after the car, some were stooping for missiles to hurl, and others were running and shouting.

Through the middle of the street ran men, women and children, mingled with the officers of the law, whose clubs were swinging and arms moving in vain almost to keep people from danger. Men stooped to pick up stones and were overturned to be pushed and kicked by the followers. A man's arm was seen to draw back and be sent forward to give impetus to a rock, and the next instant he was in the arms of a policeman.

Before the car had started two policemen boarded it. They simply made two extra targets for the stones and bricks. The car had not gone 50 feet before the helmet of one of the officers was crushed, and the other was in danger of having more than his helmet damaged.

There was a perfect fusillade of stones They came from all directions and seemed to have but one resting place—car No. 47. They crashed through windows, front, rear and side, rolled through the doors and crushed into the wooden panels.

The six luckless men dodged and jumped from side to side to escape them and were successful with the exception of the intrepid motorman. A great, jagged rock struck him full in the forehead, and he dropped to the floor of the platform. It was a deep, ugly gash the rock left, and the blood flowed from it in a stream. It spurted over the clothes of the policemen and the extra motorman and spattered the front of the car with great clots. The unfortunate fellow dropped into a pool of his own blood that covered the entire platform. The assistant, as soon as the injured man dropped, grasped the brakes and controlling handle and faced the mob. His daring was reckless. A few feet more and the car was upon an insurmountable barricade. With a sudden jerk the car came to a stop, and all aboard it were thrown forward, one of the conductors among a pile of broken glass to receive some ugly flesh wounds and cuts.

The conductors and one motorman joined the strikers, and the wounded man went to the hospital. He said his name was Marshall, and he lived at Greenpoint, on Long Island.

Five arrests were made, and thus ended the first day's attempt to run cars.

Several thousand strikers and sympathizers charged at dusk on a wagon load of nonunion men who had been sent out from the Quail street barns by the company to repair the trolley wires which had been cut during the riots of the morning. The wagon left the barn under the escort of 50 patrolmen, but these were powerless to protect the workmen, who were forced to retire.

Troops Start Promptly.

NEW YORK, May 15.—General James McLeer, commanding the Second brigade, New York national guard, received a dispatch from the adjutant general at Albany last evening ordering him to send the Twenty-third regiment to Albany at once. Colonel Jasper Ewing Brady went to the armory and immediately began sending telegrams to the members of the regiment. At midnight Colonel Brady started from the Grand Central depot, this city, with 300 men of the command, and the remainder of the regiment followed on other trains as quickly as they could be mobilized.

AMERICAN BANDITS.

A Band Broken Up Not Far From Manila.

MANILA, May 15.—Detectives and the police have broken up a band of American brigands who have been operating in the province of Pampanga, north of and not far from Manila. George Raymond, Ulrich Rogers and Oscar Mushmiller have been captured, and Andrew Martin, Peter Heise, George Muhn and two others are still being pursued. This band committed outrages and murdered and raped at Bacolor, Pampanga province and in that vicinity, and Sunday last they killed Henry Dow, an American. The band sometimes represented themselves as American deserters and at others as American soldiers. George Raymond wore the uniform of a captain. Raymond and Martin were formerly policemen in Manila.

The civil commission has appointed Captain Arlington U. Betts of the Forty-seventh volunteer infantry to be civil governor of Albay province. Lieutenant Howard Lee, Landers of the Forty-first infantry has been appointed treasurer of the same province. Lieutenant W. O. Thornton of the Thirty-eighth infantry has been appointed treasurer of the province of Capiz, in Panay island, vice Lieutenant Marion C. Raysor, who is ill.

Statue to General Woodward.

NEW YORK, May 15.—A heroic bronze statue of the late General John B. Woodward of Brooklyn, executed by Frederick Macmonnies, has arrived in Brooklyn for exhibition at the museum of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science. The final resting place of the figure will be the rotunda of the museum building in Eastern parkway as soon as that portion of the structure is ready to receive it. General Woodward died in the year 1894, and the head of the statue is modeled from the impression taken at the time of the subject's death. Mr. Macmonnies is soon to leave Paris, it is said, to again take up his residence in Brooklyn. He is at present at work on a heroic statue of General Slocum, who served with distinction in the civil war and was a popular Brooklynite.

Imports Decrease, Exports Increase.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The monthly statement of imports and exports of the United States just issued by the bureau of statistics shows that during April, 1901, the imports of merchandise amounted to $76,750,982, of which $36,461,728 was free of duty. The whole amount is $1,000,000 in excess of the imports of April, 1900. The exports of domestic merchandise during April aggregated $120,780,590, an increase of $2,000,000. For the last ten months the total imports of merchandise were $441,049,350 less than for the corresponding period last year. During the same months the exports of domestic merchandise exceeded those for the corresponding period in 1900 by $85,566,258.

A Fatal Tunnel Accident.

ROANOKE, Va., May 15.—News has reached here of an accident near Shawsville, on the line of the Norfolk and Western railroad, about 20 miles west of Roanoke, about 6 o'clock last evening. As a result of it four men are dead, one cannot live and two more are said to be buried under a mass of stone and dirt. The accident occurred in the tunnel one mile east of Shawsville, in which a large force of men was at work. Just how it occurred is not known, it simply being stated that a cave in took place, with the above result. All of the men killed and injured were colored laborers. There is a track around the tunnel, and trains will not be delayed. The names of the dead and injured could not be ascertained.

Bids For New Coal Depot.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Bids were opened at the navy department for the extensive new coal depot, pier, etc., on Narragansett bay. Five bids were received, ranging in the neighborhood of $500,000 each, but they are accompanied by so many alternative proposals that experts will have to determine their exact amount. The plant is to be one of the most extensive on the north Atlantic, with a coal depot of 10,000 tons capacity and an elaborate equipment of machinery for loading coal on warships at a rapid rate.

Irishmen Urged to Act.

BOSTON, May 15.—The United Irish league of Boston, which claims to adhere to the principles originally propounded by Charles Stewart Parnell, has issued an address to the "friends of Ireland" in New England urging them to take advantage of the present time, which is declared most opportune to pay back England for the wrongs of centuries and force from her an independent Irish parliament.

The Shamrock In Drydock.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 15. — Sir Thomas Lipton has arrived in Southampton to consult with Mr. Watson and Captain Jameson. The Shamrock II has gone into drydock. The next trial cannot be held before Friday and possibly not until later. The mainsail hitherto used was returned to Cowes condemned.

S'SH SLEEP AT LAST

LAXAKOLA DOES IT

NO ONE BUT A MOTHER can appreciate the benefit that sound refreshing sleep gives to an ailing, teething, feverish, colicky, fretty infant. Almost distracted by its constant crying, and worn out with weary, anxious care and watching, she tries everything possible to obtain even relief for the little sufferer.

With what comfort and delight she sees her little one drop off into a deep peaceful health-giving slumber, after its little clogged bowels are cleared of their poisonous burden by a single dose of Laxakola, the great tonic laxative and mother's remedy.

Laxakola is a pure, gentle and painless liquid laxative, and contains valuable tonic properties which not only act upon the bowels, but tone up the entire system and purify the blood. A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, which will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it. Great relief is experienced when administered to young children suffering from diarrhœa, accompanied with white or green evacuations, as it neutralizes the acidity of the bowels and carries out the cause of the fermentation. LAXAKOLA will aid digestion, relieve restlessness, assist nature, and induce sleep. For constipation, simple fevers, coated tongue, or any infantile troubles arising from a disordered condition of the stomach it is invaluable.

Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz.: laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 359 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

GIFTED WRITER DEAD.

Excessive Work Leads to Mental Derangement and Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 15. Excessive zeal and industry in her work among the poor, her friends declare, was the cause of the suicide of Mrs. Edith Thomas, a gifted writer, who shot herself through the heart last night in her office at the branch of the University settlement at 38 King street, of which she was the manager.

Mrs. Thomas, whose father is Judge Carpenter of New Hampshire, first became well known as a writer by the winning of the New York Herald's prize of $1,000 for the best novel in 1895. Among her popular books were "Your Money or Your Life," "Cross Keys" and "A Modern Rosalind."

Mrs. Thomas, who was 37 years of age, had been a sufferer from nervous prostration for years, and her physician had warned her that the consequences of her tireless activity must be disastrous.

A year ago she was compelled to give up her work and take the "rest cure." It benefited her slightly, and six months ago she took up the work at the University settlement against medical protest.

Mrs. Thomas was noticed acting strangely, but aroused no suspicion that she contemplated self destruction.

This is in pursuance of the policy announced some time ago of reducing the naval strength in the east. The Bennington, Petrel, Oregon, Newark and Brutus already have been ordered home, so that with these three ships there is a total reduction of the fleet in Asiatic waters to about 42 vessels.

CHINA MAKES REPLY

An Appeal to the Powers For Mercy.

THE COUNTRY IS IMPOVERISHED.

The Best the Chinese Can Do Is to Pay the Indemnity Demanded In Thirty Annual Installments.

PEKING, May 15.—The answer of China to the statement of the ministers of the foreign powers as to the losses sustained by nations and individuals in China has been received. The answer commences with an appeal to mercy, saying that the country is impoverished. The answer explains that the utmost China can offer is 15,000,000 taels annually for the next 30 years. This amount will be derived as follows: From salt, 10,000,000 taels; from the likin tax, 2,000,000 taels, and from native customs, 3,000,000. The communication further asserts that were this done it would leave the country unable to meet the expenses of government without assistance. It is therefore requested that the foreign customs be increased one-third, the receipts therefrom to be given to China for the purpose of government. The ministers refuse to discuss this answer until it has been considered by them in meeting.

Annual Payment of Ten Millions.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—A cablegram from Mr. Rockhill, our special commissioner at Peking, received at the state department mentions the receipt by the ministers of the response of the Chinese envoys to the ministers' demands for indemnity. The dispatch indicates briefly that the Chinese represent that an annual payment of $10,000,000 is the full extent of their power to pay on indemnity account. It will take 30 years to discharge the debt at that rate without interest. Mr. Rockhill makes no mention of the subject of interest, nor does he touch upon the means by which the money is to be raised by China or say who is to guarantee a loan necessary to be made. It appears that the Chinese feel themselves obliged to submit to the powers in this question of indemnity, as in all other things, and, though realizing their own inability to assume this indebtedness of 450,000,000 taels, they feel obliged to make the effort. Mr. Rockhill has been instructed to continue his efforts to secure an abatement of the total indemnity, but in the present disposition of the powers little hope of success is entertained.

Chaffee Sails the 25th.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Secretary Root received a cable message from General Chaffee saying that he, with the troops in China, expected to sail from Taku about May 25.

Bankers Accuse Teller.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Edward L. Chetwood, receiving teller for the international banking house of Brown Bros. & Co., at 50 Wall street, was held in a magistrate's court on a charge of taking money from that firm. The total amount he was short was said by the firm to be $20,170.50. It was all taken within the last six months and in cash. Strange to say, the money was not taken to cover speculation in stocks. Chetwood, who is 36 years old and unmarried, was arrested early yesterday morning on leaving the home of his relatives at 77 East Eighty-second street. He was taken to police headquarters and afterward to the Tombs police court. There Magistrate Brann remanded him in the custody of the headquarters' detectives for examination.

Burghers Losing Heart.

PRETORIA, May 15.—The number of burghers who are surrendering is rapidly increasing. These men state that the Boers are worn out by the incessant movements of the British troops. The majority of the burghers who have surrendered are without horses, and all are half starved and poorly clad. The local Dutch think the advent of winter will witness a general surrender of the fighting burghers. Already the nights are bitterly cold, and the veldt is dry. Commandant Beyer's force of about 400 men is reported to be near Nylstroom, north of Pretoria.

New Yorker Gets London Concession.

LONDON, May 15.—Under guarantee of £10,000 for the faithful performance of the work, a Bristol corporation has leased for a term of 75 years an important site at the Avonmouth dock to H. C. Cooke of New York for the erection of a cold storage warehouse on American plans. The new warehouse will have a capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet and will be used in connection with the Elder, Dempster & Co.'s newly established fruit trade between the island of Jamaica and Bristol.

Insanity Mrs. Nation's Defense.

TOPEKA, May 15.—In the trial of Mrs. Nation here for malicious destruction of saloon property her attorneys set up insanity as their only defense. Judge Hazen instructed the jury that it must either find her guilty or not guilty, as it was not in its province to pass upon Mrs. Nation's sanity. She was found guilty of malicious trespass.

Dominican Revolt Fails.

SANTO DOMINGO, May 15.—The revolt in the provinces of Moca and La Vega has proved a failure. The operations of government troops, led by Vice President Horatio Vasquez, have been successful. Mr. McCardell's Candidacy.

Even if Andrew McCardell, of this city, does seriously contemplate being a candidate for the shreivalty nomination of the Republican party in 1902, it would be foolish to begin his campaign so early. Fully eighteen months will elapse before the convention is held at which the Republicans of Union county will make their choice for sheriff During that interval all sorts of things may happen.

There is more than the usual interest shown in the possibility of seeing Mr. McCardell a candidate for office During the years that he has taken an important part in the Fourth ward politics, he has never run for office nor shown a disposition to. It may be that the office of sheriff will have such attractions for him that he will decide to try for it. If such is the case the election in Plainfield is likely to be unusually sharp.

Mr. McCardell possesses the faculty of either making very strong friends or very bitter enemies. There is no doubt but that he is very much liked by some while there are some workers in the Republican ranks who would joyfully "knife" him at the first opportunity. To what an extent that feeling would enter into a State campaign, it is hard to say. In the past, the people of Plainfield have had no opportunity to express themselves regarding him at the ballot box. Such an opportunity would bring to light how strong are the promises of certain politicians. It would be instructive as to the situation in Plainfield as well as being very interesting

As the man in question has not yet expressed himself on the subject, it is all a matter of speculation as to what the future will bring forth. There is little doubt, however, but that the name of Andrew McCardell would be strongly supported by the Fowler-Voorhees faction should it be presented for the shrievalty nomination in 1902. He certainly would have the backing of the First and Fourth wards in Plainfield. It is a question how the other two wards would stand.

The announcement made that the Central Railroad of New Jersey will not lose its identity since its purchase by the owners of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad has been received by the people of Plainfield with interest and satisfaction. It was hoped that the change in ownership could not affect the many employes of that company who make their homes in this city. Had the Central and Reading systems consolidated, it would mean a reduction in the working force of the Central and some of the Plainfielders would have undoubtedly suffered. The fact that Charles H. Warren has been retained as vice-president shows that the management of the road, which was inaugurated several years ago, will not be changed and that the Central is likely to continue on the same lines as in the past.

The cadet corps of Rutgers College is unusually fortunate in possessing a military instructor of such ability as Col. Quincy O'M. Gilmore. Col. Gilmore is the colonel of the Second Regiment of the New Jersey National Guard, as well as being on the retired list in the United States army. Under the charge of Col. Gilmore the college boys have attained great proficiency in military tactics. This afternoon they will hold their annual drill and inspection. The careful work of their instructor will be very evident.

Here is the opinion of the New York merchants who form the Sphinx Club, as given in the Philadelphia Record: "Business consists of but two things, which are equally important. The first is to have something that the people want, and the second is to let people know it. That the newspaper offers the best medium of communication with the largest number of people is apparent from the fact that the most successful business men rely chiefly on the newspaper for advertising."

State Geologist Smock is not a believer in the stories which go forth at intervals concerning the finding of rich gold ore in New Jersey. There has been so much talk on that subject of late that Prof. Smock has made an official statement on the subject. While there may be gold fonnd in very minute quantities, he says that there is no truth in the many tales concerning the rich gold ore reported to have been discovered in different parts of the State.

Former Senator James Smith, Jr., leader of the New Jersey Democracy, says that the man who should be the Democratic candidate for governor should be one who can satisfy the party and who has caused no antagonism in the ranks, a man who represents not one section of the party but the whole party. If his advice is followed, the Democrats of New Jersey will have a better show of winning.

The first arrest of prominence for violation of an automobile ordinance was made at Morristown last Saturday. It was on the occasion of the run of the Automobile Club, of America. The Morristown ordinance places a limit of eight miles an hour, while it is claimed that the automobilists were going nearly a mile a minute. Plainfield posseses an ordinance similar to the one in Morristown.

Plainfield and North Plainfield sent a good delegation to Bayonne this afternoon to take part in the parade of the firemen there. Next to the New York Veteran Association the Plainfield Exempts have been granted the right of the line, which honor should be appreciated. There are fewer cities in Jersey which possess such a flourishing Exempt Firemen's Association as Plainfield.

The announcement that the Mountain Park Inn will be opened to the public this summer will be received with satisfaction by the Plainfield public. It would be too bad to see that delightful resort remain closed at the time when life there is so pleasant.

Chief Kiely has announced that hereafter the fish peddlers will not be allowed to remain in any one place for more than ten minutes according to the provisions of the city ordinance. It promises to furnish a little excitement Saturday evening.

The new quarters for Muhlenberg Hospital when built will greatly improve the appearance of the southern end of the city.

Collided With Telegraph Pole.

A delivery wagon of Philip H. Currin, of Somerset street, was damaged yesterday morning by collision with a telegraph pole at the corner of Somerset street and Craig place. While Raymond Scherck, who had charge of the wagon, was away from the horse for a few moments, the animal suddenly started and dashed into the pole snapping the whiffletree.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Half Holiday at Silk Mill.

The employes of the Watchung Silk Mill unexpectedly got a half holiday yesterday morning. Steam escaping from the boiler attached to the engine prevented the supply of the necessary power to run the plant and in consequence the mill shut down until repairs were made.

Dunellen, May 15—Several of the new summer cars of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Co. were placed on the Dunellen-Raritan line yesterday, making the first that borough citizens have seen in two years. They are handsome appearing and are equipped with all modern appliances. The running of closed cars all last summer was due to the fire at the Milltown stables which destroyed nearly all of the company's summer cars.

In honor of her guests, Miss Ethel Crane, of New York, and Miss Florence Abernethy, of Jersey City, Miss Louise Brakely entertained a number of friends in a delightful manner at her home last evening. Dancing and cards were the features of the evening and made several hours pass away very pleasantly. The serving of refreshments brought the enjoyment to an end.

The ball game to be played on the Lincoln avenue grounds Saturday between the boy's class and the scrub team promises to be very exciting. The battery for the former will be William Giles and Ruliff Fisher. Just who will act in the same capacity for the scrub team has not as yet been announced.

The Middlesex County Sunday-school Association, opened their spring conference in St. James church, New Brunswick yesterday. Among those taking part in the morning session, was T. W. Day, of the borough, who read a five-minute paper on "What the Schools Seem to Need."

A number of local tennis players gathered at the new court in the park last evening and enjoyed the first game of the season. While the court has not as yet been fully completed, it will be so in a few days and a number of interesting matches will shortly be played.

The regular meeting of G. Holton Council was held last evening and arrangements were made for attending the union meet with Goodwill Council of New Brunswick, which is to be held next Wednesday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, May 15—Negotiations have been made by out-of-town parties for the purchase of Albert Manning's residence and farm. Mr Manning is not desirous of selling unless he can get his own price for the property, in which case he would probably rebuild here in South Plainfield.

MATTHEWS FINED $75.

Judge Strong Said That His Large Family Was All That Saved Him From States Prison.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 15.—Samuel Matthews, the Piscataway township farmer, who was found guilty of an attempted atrocious assault upon Frank O. Nelson, of New Market, was fined $75 and costs in the Middlesex County Court yesterday. Lawyer Freeman Woodbridge asked for an arrest of judgment on the ground that the man should have been acquitted of the charge against him under the statute and that the conviction of an attempt could not be rendered. The judge denied the motion.

Matthews said he had eight children, but Judge Strong informed him that this fact was all that saved him from State prison. He was given thirty days in which to pay the fine.

THE CIRCUS HAS ARRIVED.

WELSH BROS.' RAILROAD SHOWS WILL BE HERE TWO DAYS.

A Good Street Parade, Followed By An Excellent Tent Performance

The show grounds, corner of Fourth street and Spooner avenue, were the scene of unusual activity this morning, the Welsh Brothers' railroad shows having come to town to give their two days' engagement. The circus came by special train and was switched into the yards at Richmond street, where the work of unloading was carried out under the superintendency and satisfaction of "Young America," who had been up before daylight. It is the same show which appeared in Plainfield last summer and made a very favorable impression.

This season it is greatly enlarged and improved and presents a fine appearance. The stock, which includes fifty-five horses, twenty five ponies and several donkeys, looks very sleek. The show remains in Plainfield tomorrow giving afternoon and evening exhibitions.

The street parade, this morning, traversed the principal streets, and was fully up to all expectations. One of the novelties was a band on horseback. All along the route large crowds were grouped, all of whom enjoyed it immensely.

The performance in the main tent began promptly at 2 o'clock this afternoon with a good sized audience in attendance. The programme of attractions includes many new features, one of which is the strictly first-class band under the leadership of H. H. Whittier. This evening's performance will no doubt be witnessed by a much larger crowd than was present this afternoon. The performance is an excellent one. Perfect order is maintained about the circus grounds so that women and children may attend.

saken by Him, and drew a very realistic picture of the mental torture of this poor, wandering and vexed apostle, as he could be imagined the day after the crucifixion.

In climaxing his remarks Rev. Mr Henderson besought his hearers to stand by Jesus Christ in the home, in society, in business and in the church.

When he had finished an invitation was extended to young people who desired to signify their intention of standing by the Saviour to rise and quite a number did so, but the great impression made by Rev. Mr. Henderson upon the audience was seen when he asked all those who had a sincere determination to stand by the Saviour to rise. To this invitation the entire audience quickly arose to its feet and remained standing while the closing hymn was sung.

Arthur L. Titsworth, who for the past eighteen years has been organist at Trinity Reformed church, presided at the organ and skillfully played the various gospel selections.

Dunn, the complainant, was represented by John H. VanWinkle; Ann J. Blackford by Codington and Swackhamer, and Alpharette D. Snydam by Reed and Coddington.

FINAL MEETING.

North Plainfield School Teachers Will Meet This Afternoon in Somerset Street School.

The teachers of the North Plainfield schools will hold their final meeting of the school year this afternoon in the Somerset Street School building. Both these records are sent to the department of statistics, connected with the State Board of Education headquarters at Trenton.

Under the new system of apportionment of school funds by the State the division is based on the actual attendance for the year in the schools, and not on the number of children in the district as found by the census report.

HE HEARD THE SHARP REPORT OF A REVOLVER.

the wood, which lay so dense, dark and mysterious along the lower part of the garden. But on consoling him she put her arms round his neck. "I do love you so much—so very much," she murmured.

But he took her hands down. "You must listen to me," he said, firmly, his handsome face drawn, as from some great physical pain. "Oh, my God, help me!"

The thorns of a spreading rosebush had caught her cape and pulled it from her shoulders. It lay on the turf a few yards away.

"Please get it for me," she said. "I am a little cold."

He went back for it, and was just stooping to pick it up when he heard the sharp ringing report of a revolver, and saw a flash of light in the edge of the wood.

"It's Jeanne!" he thought, and then he heard Blanche scream.

"Run, run!" he cried out to her, but she seemed too much startled to stir. She stood staring at the smoke emerging from the trees as if turned to stone.

He ran towards her, but just as he reached her side there was another shot from the dark ambush. A metal comb in the coil of her hair flew tinkling to the asphalt walk. The next instant the major had thrown his body between Blanche and the direction from whence the shots came.

"Stand behind me, for God's sake!" he cried out, clasping her slender form in his strong arms. "Don't move for God's sake, she will kill you!"

He was trying at once to keep her sheltered behind him and to push her towards the house when there was another shot.

"Oh!" he cried out sharply in sudden pain. He started to put his hand to his right side, but he seemed to remember her peril, and with both hands still on her shoulders he continued to push her on. He heard a clatter of feet in the direction of the house. It was James and Talley coming at the top of their speed.

"Help! Help!" he cried, and then his head began to lean forward. "Oh, my God, I am shot and can't help you. Oh, darling, run, run!"

He feebly pushed her from him, and as he did so fell face downward on the walk. She stooped over him, hardly knowing what she did, but the movement saved her life, for there was another shot and a ball passed directly over her head. James and Talley were now quite near. Blanche heard retreating steps in the wood, growing fainter and fainter as the assailant escaped, but she was speechless.

Goddard raised himself on his elbow and, pointing to the wood, cried, faintly: "Police! Catch her!" Then his head fell backward. He had fainted.

Taking him up, James and Talley, aided by the butler, bore him into the drawing-room and laid him on a couch. The staring, bewildered maids came to Blanche's assistance and drew her into the house. She fell on her knees by the major, and remained there while Talley was telephoning for a doctor. His face was colorless, his eyes were closed. She unbuttoned his coat, and then the sight of his bloody waistcoat and shirt turned her sick with despair. She thought he was dead. Her head sank to the edge of the couch. His earnest cry: "Stand behind me!" rang in her ears. She told herself that he had died for her as heroically as man had ever died for woman. But there was nothing to wonder at in his action, for he had always been her hero.

For ten minutes he lay motionless. It was the sharp ring of the door bell which seemed to recall him to consciousness. He opened his eyes and recognized her, he put out his hand to her head. For a moment his face worked as if he were trying to understand what had brought him there, then as quick as a flash it all seemed to return to him.

"I think I am dying," he said, "and I must tell you what I started—my confession; you must know at once. Send the—others from the room. Quick, darling!"

"It's Dr. Randall, dear," she said with white lips. "He must see you at once!"

"No, not till—till—"

But the doctor, a tall, athletic man, full-bearded and gentle-voiced, was bending over him.

"I must make an examination, major," he said, quickly. "Everything must give way to me just now. You seem to have been struck in a vital part."

"But I must at once make a confidential disclosure to her, doctor," pleaded Goddard, his eyes fixed on Blanche's face.

"There is plenty of time for that, major," said Dr. Randall, who was hurriedly unrolling bandages and opening his medicine case. He turned to Blanche, gave her his hands and lifted her up. "I think," he said, gently, "that it would be better—it would excite him less if you would go into the next room. He seems bent on talking to you."

Reluctantly Blanche withdrew.

Dr. Randall cut away the shirt and underwear from the vicinity of the wound.

"Your assailant used a big revolver," he said. "This is an ugly wound, major."

"Is it absolutely fatal, doctor?" asked Goddard.

"It is impossible to say just now, to be perfectly frank," said the doctor. "I must probe for that big ball; it has lodged somewhere. My instruments will be here in a moment."

CHAPTER XIX.

Seated in the adjacent room, Blanche sat, her face in her hands, an awful fear griping her heart. She heard Talley, in the library adjoining, giving instructions to the nearest police station. It was like a horrible dream. Out of it all she continued to hear in the voice she loved so well: "Stand behind me!"

Half an hour later the doctor came to her. She stood up like one who is about to receive a death sentence.

"I have extracted the ball," announced Dr. Randall. "He is sleeping quietly. He ought not to be disturbed. He seems so anxious to talk to you, but it really would not be advisable. I finally agreed to allow him to telegraph to his friend, Father Surtees!"

"Oh!" groaned Blanche, quite misunderstanding him. "Is—is it so—so serious?"

"He is in a very critical condition," admitted the doctor. "It is but fair to tell you that, but he wants his friend to talk to you about some trouble that is preying on his mind. I think he may reach Lyndhurst about ten o'clock."

"Then," said Blanche, "it is not because—"

"Oh, no, it is not that, I assure you," said Dr. Randall, quickly. "It is some private matter concerning your immediate welfare. He thinks Father Surtees may explain something to you that you ought to know at once. I think it will be better for your husband to get this off his mind as soon as possible. He seems utterly hopeless, and hope would be a big help in his case."

"And may I go in now?" asked Blanche, in a pleading tone.

"I am afraid even your presence would rouse him; it is often so when there is close affinity. Perhaps you had better remain here till the priest comes. You know him, I believe?"

"Yes," answered Blanche; "he is our best friend."

A little after ten Father Surtees arrived. The doctor met him in the hall, and as the major had just waked the priest was allowed to go in to him.

"I am awfully sorry, my dear friend," he said to Goddard.

"Jeanne did it, concealed in the wood below the garden," answered the major. "She was shooting at Blanche, and I covered her. I think I saved her life, and I thank God for it. It would be better for me to die, and it looks like a benign dispensation—to be able to die for her. If only I did not have to leave her with the other stain on her name. I was starting to tell her all when the first shot was fired."

"Try to be calm," cautioned the priest, softly.

"I want you to break it to her," continued the major. "She's in the next room. You tell her the whole story. I am not strong enough. She will want to leave when she knows—"

The major began to cough, and the doctor hastily came into the room.

"You'd better stop now," he said.

Goddard motioned towards the room where Blanche sat.

"Go to her," he repeated, in a low tone.

As Father Surtees went into the next room Blanche did not rise. She seemed completely stupefied.

TAILOR MADE FASHIONS.

They Are In the Front Rank of Summer Modes.

Tailor made gowns are immensely worn. For the street, gray of all shades, black, browns, blues and greens are chosen, but for more pretentious tailor made costumes, such as are now considered appropriate for afternoon receptions, teas and similar functions, pastel blue, ivory, rose, red, delicate green and all fashionable light shades are employed. There are also tailor made jackets of peau de soie and boleros of taffeta such as have been worn.

The illustration shows a costume of silver gray cloth. The skirt has a circular flounce around the foot edged with silver embroidered galloon, and it is mounted at the back in three box plaits, connected at the top by lacings of silver cord with metal tips. The bolero is bordered with galloon and ornamented with silver buttons and has a round tab in front. The sleeves are plain and have a band of galloon and silver lacings of cords at the wrist. The collar and little plastrons are of silk. The toquet is of cloth like the gown, wrinkled and draped under tabs of embroidered velvet and is ornamented with two quills. The bolero may be worn open, the shawl revers being faced with plaited silk. A vest decorated with galloon is then displayed.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE MODE.

Long Sleeves Will Not Continue to Prevail.

Embroidered crepe de chine is used for elegant costumes and bodices. It is made up over taffeta of the same shade.

Although bright and light colors are worn in infinite variety, black and white are by no means excluded. Alone or in combination they are always used and are always elegant.

Short sleeves, or, rather, sleeves of elbow length, are to be worn again this summer and are shown on many of the advance models of costumes. This means the return of the banished bracelet, which has been kept in abeyance by the continued use of very long sleeves. It also means a corresponding lengthening of gloves, which are sometimes plain, sometimes have long wrists of silk lace.

The picture illustrates a dinner bodice of silk having corded plaits. It is decorated in front with groups of small gold buttons and has a yoke and collar of tucked mousseline de soie. The wide bertha is of Louis XIII guipure, and the full sleeves, which are of half length and are gathered in at the elbow, are finished with a frill of the guipure. There is a wide, plaited corselet belt, fastening with a buckle and long ends.

RECORD OF FUNSTON.

Kansas Hero Has Taken Leading Role in Many Daring Undertakings and Adventures.

Gen. Funston's capture of Aguinaldo is a spectacular climax to the young Kansan's adventurous career. It overshadows anything he has accomplished from the time he broke all travel records in Alaska in 1893 until he and his brave men swam the Mariabao in the face of a galling Filipino fire and dashed into Malolos—the first American soldiers to set foot in that stronghold.

Funston was born in Ohio in 1863, but went to Kansas when he was 16 years old. His first adventure of public importance was the expedition to Alaska, where the secretary of agriculture sent him to get botanical specimens He was there 18 months and during that time traveled farther than any white man before or since and underwent all the hardships known to the region at that period.

GEN. FREDERICK E. FUNSTON.
(The Kansas Hero Who Captured Aguinaldo in His Camp.)

After his return he went to Cuba as a captain of artillery in the insurgent army. He figured in nearly all the hand to hand struggles of the Cubans' last desperate campaign against Weyler and went home with three wounds—one in the arm, another in the lungs and another in the thigh. He was still lame when he left Kansas for the Philippines with the Twentieth.

Gen. Funston's most noted exploit in the Philippines was at the battle of Malolos. He has figured in other sensational adventures, however, and it was he that captured the letters and private papers of the insurgent leader, proving that the insurrection had been aided materially by persons in this country.

JOSEPH H. MILLARD.

Omaha Banker Elected United States Senator for the Long Term by Nebraska's Legislature.

After a bitter and long-prolonged struggle the legislature of Nebraska elected two republican United States senators. For the short term the legislators selected Gov. Dietrich and for the long term Mr. Joseph H. Millard, a well-known Omaha banker. Senator Millard was born in Hamilton, Ont., in 1836. He came to Nebraska in 1856, and has lived in Omaha ever since that time. In 1883 he was a candidate for the United States senate, but was defeated by Gen. Charles F. Manderson. Mr. Millard is at the head of the Omaha national bank, having risen from the position of cashier, to which he was appointed in 1867. He has a yearly income of $35,000 as president of the concern. His wealth is rated at over half a million. He was for many years a director of the Union Pacific railroad, but has not been connected with that corporation since its reorganization some time ago. He has never held a public office of any kind before. He has the reputation of being an indefatigable worker, and has for years been in the habit of arriving at his bank at seven o'clock in the morning.

Girl Shoots Second in Duel.

Another duel in Paris has resulted in bloodshed. The combatants were two shop girls in a large drapery store. Stirred by jealousy over the foreman of their department, who flirted with both girls, they challenged each other to a duel with revolvers. The woods near Vincennes was the rendezvous. Accompanied by four seconds, the girls arrived at the spot on Thursday morning and took up their positions 25 paces apart. A trembling second was about to announce the signal to fire when a forester appeared on the scene. When he appeared the seconds fled. One of the frightened principals involuntarily pressed the trigger of her revolver with the result that one of the seconds fell screaming with a bullet in her arm. The forester took the wounded girl to the nearest hospital and marched the others to the police station.

A PROSPEROUS DENOMINATION.

Presbyterian General Assembly Will Meet Under Favorable Auspices.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Arrangements have been completed for the meeting of the one hundred and thirteenth Presbyterian general assembly, which begins here tomorrow morning. The 500 commissioners have received their cards of assignment to their places of entertainment, and Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, stated clerk of the assembly, has practically completed the roll for organization. The commissioners represent 224 presbyteries and 21 synods in all parts of the world, and many have already arrived from China, India, Japan, Africa, Siam, Korea, Mexico and South America as well as from some of the more remote parts of this country.

The roll shows that more than one-half of the commissioners are comparatively new men in the assembly. The church will this year report over 7,000 ministers, 26,000 elders, 7,500 churches and over 1,000,000 members. The contributions to foreign missions are close to $900,000 and $1,000,000 to home missions, and both boards are out of debt, which has not been the case for many years. The church has given to all causes of benevolence during the year over $15,000,000, not to take into account the home work.

Congregationalists In Session.

BOSTON, May 15.—The Congregational Home Missionary society, whose work covers the United States and a limited work in Alaska and in Cuba, began the observance of the seventy-fifth anniversary here yesterday. Delegates were present from all sections of the country and every state and territory of the Union. The society for several years has been very heavily in debt, but has made a splendid reduction of the debt during the last year, and announcements are expected before the present meetings are concluded on Thursday evening of a still further reduction. The probability is that before adjournment the debt will be reduced to such limits as will not seriously embarrass the future work of the society. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Lyman Abbott, D. D., editor of The Outlook, New York.

Senator Quay Honored.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Republicans of the dominant faction from every section of the Keystone State paid homage last night to United States Senator Matthew S. Quay in honor of his reelection to the upper chamber of congress. Barring a state convention the gathering of Republicans was one of the greatest outpourings of Republicans to do honor to one man ever witnessed in this state. Governor Stone was there, as were also all the members of his cabinet, members of the legislature, the municipal heads of several Pennsylvania cities and all the prominent Quay Republicans of this city. The occasion took the form of a banquet, followed by a reception, and was under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State League of Republican Clubs.

Trolley Accident Injures Twenty.

HAVERHILL, Mass., May 15.—The derailment of an electric car of the Haverhill, Merrimac and Amesbury Street railway last night brought injuries to 20 passengers. The car left here for Merrimac and had reached Reynolds Hills, near Poet Whittier's birthplace, when it left the rails, ran 50 feet on the ground, then swung diagonally across the track and plunged over the embankment. The car did not overturn, but the journey off the iron threw about the passengers in violent fashion. The cause of the derailment probably was spreading rails. The motorman claims that the car was going at a moderate rate of speed.

Strike Against Machine Labor.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 15.—With arrival of first line boats with grain from Chicago, the shovelers at the Ogdensburg Transit company's elevator have again struck against introducing the Westbrook patent shovels operated by compressed air. This strike was made late last season and was successful. The shovels are now installed, and five men do the work of 20, and the strike is renewed, the men demanding the employment of the old gang of shovelers and increased pay if automatic shovels are continued. Nonunion men are employed, and the work is proceeding without interruption.

Refused Coal From His Own Mines.

BERLIN, May 15.—Some time ago Herr Krupp bought a coal mine at Hannibal, in Westphalia, belonging to the coal syndicate. The latter refused to allow Herr Krupp to have the output of the mine, and consequently Herr Krupp instituted suit against the coal syndicate. The Frankfurter Zeitung now announces that the case has just been decided against Herr Krupp.

Commander Roper's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The funeral of the late Lieutenant Commander Jesse M. Roper, who met a hero's death while aiding the rescue of some of his sailors during a fire aboard the gunboat Petrel in Manila harbor some time ago, will take place at Annapolis tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock.

BOULEVARD MERCHANTS FIGHT

BITTER BUSINESS RIVALRY IS THE CAUSE.

Abram Kuntzman and Samuel Sachar Have Battle With Bare Fists—In City Court

Intense and bitter business rivalry between Abram Kuntzman and Samuel Sachar, two boulevard merchants, culminated in a fistic encounter on West Third street last evening, in which they were the principals. For several months past the men have contented themselves with hurling epithets at each other from their store doors, which are about 100 feet apart. This amusement proved too tame and finally mutual challenges to a combat were accepted. In the hurry to work off each other's anger the weapons were not named, and the rivals went into the battle with bare fists, boulevard rules prevailing. It is said that during the melee someone flourished a revolver, but just who could not be learned.

After the men had succeeded in leaving the marks of their fists on each other's faces, they were apparently satisfied and retired to their respective stores. It did not occur to them, however, that they had violated a city ordinance until a patrolman appeared and ordered both to appear in the City Court this morning. The men were on hand but their statements conflicted to such an extent that the case was laid over until Saturday.

MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

Elwood Geary, of Scotch Plains, Taken for Burglar by Preston B. Goodfellow.

The mystery of the supposed burglar who made an early morning visit at the home of Preston B. Goodfellow, of Netherwood avenue, Sunday, was cleared up in the City Court this morning, when Elwood Geary, of Scotch Plains, appeared in answer to a summons from Chief Kiely. It was he who was struck by Goodfellow under the supposition that he was a burglar.

Geary explained that he had been to this city Saturday night and had gotten intoxicated to such an extent that he had lost his bearings. The only thing that he could remember was that he had met a patrolman on Netherwood avenue, who directed him home. The patrolman substantiated the statement. He was unaware that he had been about anyone's house until so informed by the police.

Mr. Goodfellow was also present in court but could not say whether Geary was the man he had struck or not. As no complaint was made against Geary he was released.

ASKS FOR PATIENCE.

Pastor Scott Wallace Says That Calvary Baptist Church Will Pay Its Debts.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I saw in last evening's issue a statement that we are to meet at Trenton, May 20, to settle financial difficulties. True, we are in debt to Mr. Smith and others, and we mean to pay, and will pay, but it should be remembered by the public that we, as a race, are not financially fortified to meet all emergencies as the most favored race. If those with whom we contract business will allow their patience not to cease to be a virtue, they will find us true, and loyal to God and humanity.

Scott Wallace, pastor.

Randolph, was admitted to the organization and the organization now includes every druggist in the city and borough. It is the intention of the association to meet again in two weeks.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL WON FROM BOROUGH

Second Game Played Yesterday Afternoon on Plainfield Avenue Grounds.

TEN INNINGS TO DECIDE.

TWO MEN OUT WHEN WINNING RUN WAS MADE.

Nip and Tuck Contest From Start to Finish—VanAuken, in the Box, Was Star of the Whole Game.

After a hard fought contest which was decided in the closing half of the tenth inning, the Plainfield High School team won the second of the series of three games with the North Plainfield High School nine yesterday afternoon, on the Plainfield avenue grounds. The final score was 13 to 12.

The winning run, coming in when two men were out in the ending of the tenth inning, brought joy once again to the hearts of the supporters of the city's High School nine. Such a lot of enthusiastic shouters as jumped about the grounds at that exciting moment would be hard to find. The player who scored this telling run was Fred VanAuken.

It was a nip and tuck contest from start to finish. From the first inning it was plain to be seen that the game was destined to be close. Both teams were composed of practically the same players as when they met a week ago yesterday, the only exception being Lewis on the North Plainfield nine, who was put in left field in place of Townsend.

The boroughites were first at the bat and they hammered out four runs, but before the inning closed the score was tie. Again at the close of the fifth inning the score was even, 8 to 8. The sixth inning made it 11 to 11 and in the following inning neither team brought in a run. One more run, however, was scored by each nine in the eighth inning.

Excitement reigned at the beginning of the ninth inning when the boroughites came to bat. Crite was first up but he was put out stealing second base. Hamilton and Jacot each in turn knocked flies safely into the hands of Auten, the city boys' pitcher. Plainfield then came to the bat. Overton in left field caught a fly off Davis. Pond, who ran for T. Mason, got first on an error and stole around to third. Meeker and Munro each failed to reach first base, and the boroughites trotted in for another trial.

Emmons drove a grounder to T. Mason and the runner failed to connect with first base. George and Lewis, respectively, were struck out by the crack-a-jack work of VanAuken. Moynihan, of the Plainfield High School team, was put out in short order as was also F. Mason. It then began to look like an eleven inning game, but VanAuken got to first on an error by Hamilton and stole around to third base. Then came the climax. Two men were out and everything depended on Pond, who was at the bat. The clever left fielder of the city boys' nine made a short outfield hit and put it at a safe distance between short and second base, and before the boroughites had time to recover themselves, VanAuken had crossed the home plate. The crowd of Plainfield High School "rooters," worked up to a state of excitement, went wild.

There is no denial of the fact that both teams played well. The outfield of the Plainfield High School, however, showed much weakness, and Davis on first base did some erratic work. Their players responded well to the coaching and as a result the base running was excellent. VanAuken in the box was the star of the whole game. He struck out fourteen men and his pitching was superior to anything he has done this season.

The feature of the boroughites' playing was their fielding. In this they showed improvement, but their batting was generally poor, and especially was this the case with Armstrong and George who are usually relied on to make good hits. Crite was not in good shape.

The batting order follows:

P. H. S.	N. P. H. S.
F. Mason, ss.	George, c.
VanAuken, p.	Lewis, rf.
Pond, lf.	Overton, lf.
Cubberly, cf.	Conover, 2b.
Davis, 1b.	Armstrong, 3b.
F. Mason, 2b.	Crite, p.
Meeker, rf.	Hamilton, ss.
Munroe, 3b.	Jacot, 1b.
Moynihan, c.	Emmons, cf.

The score by innings:

P. H. S.— 4 2 1 0 1 3 0 1 0 1—13
N. P. H. S.—4 0 4 0 0 3 0 1 0 0—12

Base hits—P. H. S., 11; N. P. H. S., 8. Two base hits—P. H. S., 6; N. P. H. S., 6; N. P. H. S., 1. Three base hits—P. H. S., 0; N. P. H. S., 1. Errors—P. H. S., 14; N. P. H. S., 8. Base on balls—VanAuken, 3; Crite, 4. Struck out—VanAuken, 14; Crite, 8. Umpires, Moore and Buell. Scorer, Vincent B. Miner.

STRUCK SCIATIC NERVE.

DOCTORS SUCCEED IN REMOVING BULLET FROM INJURED MAN.

Frank Stevens, Who Was Shot By Detective Lavorett at Bound Brook, Has Confessed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 16—Frank Stevens, the man who was shot early Saturday morning in the Bound Brook freight yard while attempting to escape from Special Policeman Lavorette, of that place, who detected him entering a Central Railroad car, has confessed that he broke into the car. He claims that he only wanted to find a place to sleep.

Drs. Wagner and Stillwell have succeeded in removing the bullet, which lodged in Stevens' right thigh. The bullet struck the man on the outside of the left thigh, passing completely through it, and became fastened in the right thigh. As the left thigh is paralyzed, the doctors believe the bullet struck the sciatic nerve.

SMALL-POX IN WESTFIELD.

SCHOOLS CLOSED AND PEST HOUSE ORDERED BUILT.

One Case Discovered—Victim's Sisters Have Been Attending School, While He Has Been Out.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, May 16—There is much excitement in this place over the discovery by Dr. R. R. Sinclair yesterday, of a case of small-pox at the home of Daniel Toms, on North avenue, where his son-in-law, Robert Knight, is down with the dread disease. Knight was taken sick Monday, and since then not knowing what was the matter, has been out and around until today, when the doctor pronounced the case to be small-pox.

The house and all its inmates were immediately quarantined and are now under strict surveillance. William Toms, his brother-in-law, is employed in the C. and O. Company's works in Garwood and his sister-in-law have been attending the public school here all the time.

A special meeting of Health Board was held last night at which time the contract was awarded to John Gollia to build a pest house out near the sewer farm. The clerk, J. M. C. Marsh, was ordered to see that it was furnished. A nurse has been hired and the patient is to be removed to the pest house tomorrow night. The schools have been ordered to be shut down and fumigated by chlorine gas and sulphur and then they will be opened Monday.

Robert Knight is employed on a Brooklyn trolley line and was recently married to Miss Phoebe Toms. They live with her father on North avenue in a thickly populated part of the town and it is reported that several persons have been in and out of the house since Monday the time Knight came there.

READY FOR TENNIS SEASON.

TWO NEW COURTS ARE NOW NEARLY COMPLETED.

Plans of The Cedar Brook Tennis Club For The Summer Season—Committees Appointed.

The wet weather of the last few weeks has delayed the opening of the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club. It is expected, however, that they will be ready for play by the last of this week or the first of next and the active season of that club will then begin.

This club was organized last December by a number of enthusiasts in the game who spent much of their spare time last season in playing their favorite sport on the court in the yard of J. Hervey Doane, on LaGrande avenue. This year the club has made arrangements to lease the vacant lot opposite the residence of Mr. Doane and two good dirt courts are now being built there. The courts are built of gravel with a top dressing of sand. They are both regulation double courts.

Now that the season for play is at hand, President J. Hervey Doane has announced his committees. They are: Tennis committee, Charles B. Morse, chairman, Dr. W. Kempton Browning and Fred J. Pope. Grounds committee, John H. Doane, chairman, Vincent B. Miner and and one member to be announced later. Entertainment committee, George Smith, chairman, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, Mrs. W. K. Browning, Miss Beatrice Miner, Miss Agnes Freeman, Miss Susie Davies and Harold Nomer.

The officers of the club now are: President, J. Hervey Doane; vice-president, Charles B. Morse; secretary, Fred M. Letson; treasurer, James A. Stafford.

WRECKED HOSE WAGON.

Apparatus From Morristown Came to Grief on Eve of Departure for Bayonne.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, May 16—It was the intention of the Morristown Fire Department to take one of the hose wagons to Bayonne in addition to the Washington Company's engine yesterday, but the handsome vehicle selected was totally wrecked by a runaway before it was loaded on a special train.

Before leaving the house, the members had covered the horse with a white sheet to protect the harness, but they did not notice the animal had no blinders. As it was being driven down Frelinghuysen avenue, the horse suddenly turned and, seeing the sheet, ran away.

Michael Callahan, the driver, was thrown from his seat and badly bruised. The wagon struck an obstruction and was almost completely demolished. The steamer was loaded on the train without mishap and was taken to Plainfield, where the remainder of the train was picked up.

MANY POPULAR SONGS WERE WELL PICTURED

Series of Tableaux to Illustrate Well Known Songs Were Cleverly Given.

CALLED A MUSICAL FOLIO.

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN AT SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Under Auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work Last Evening—Novel Form of Taking Collection.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church gave a delightful entertainment and social in the parlors of the church, last evening. It was called a "Musical Folio," and several popular songs were rendered and represented in tableaux by members of the church. The representations were clever and furnished an evening of much pleasure to all

The first selection on the piano was Little Fisher Maiden," Miss Bessy FitzRandolph gave the representation. "Dost Thou Love Me, Sister Ruth?" was represented by Evalois St. John and Roy E. Titsworth, while the solo was given by Miss Cornelia Miller. "O, Hush Thee My Baby" was represented by Mrs. C. Dunham, while Mr. and Mrs. David E. Titsworth and Miss Haven sang the selection. "Esmeralda" was sung by Mrs David E. Titsworth, while Dr. Martha B. Stillman gave the tableau.

"Hard Times," was faithfully portrayed by George Babcock, and F. T. Clawson, David E Titsworth and C. P. Titsworth sang the selection. At this time the collection was taken for the benefit of the society. Charles P. Titsworth and Miss Mary St. John represented "Coming Through the Rye," while the selection was rendered on the piano. "Darby and Joan" was given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, while Mrs. D. E Titsworth sang the solo.

The "Soldier's Farewell," was sung by Mr. and Mrs. D E Titsworth and Miss Haven, and in the tableau appeared Dr. F. T. Clawson and Miss Luella Clawson. "Foolish Little Maiden With a Foolish Little Bonnet," was sung by Miss Cornelia Miller, and the tableau was given by Miss Ethel L. Titsworth. The last tableau was "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." Miss Mary St. John was "Columbia" The entire audience joined in singing the patriotic song. Mrs. Wm. C. Hubbard presided at the piano during the entertainment.

Those who had charge of the entertainment were Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Mrs. C. H. Dunham, Mrs. J. G. Miller, Mrs. F. H. Smith and Miss Ida F. Randolph. After the entertainment refreshments were served under the direction of T. B. Titsworth and Mrs. F. A. Dunham.

A novel way of taking the offering was introduced by Mrs. George H. Babcock. Small envelopes were distributed. On these were tiny shoes. The recipient was supposed to place in the shoe twice as many pennies as the size shoe worn. In this way a handsome sum was received.

No Serious Trouble Expected.

It is not expected that any serious trouble will result in the erection of the new county Court House at Elizabeth. The Board of Freeholders have refused to be dictated to by architects who live outside, as to who shall build or how the structure shall be erected. A well-known Plainfielder who is acquainted with the situation says that the trouble will be settled satisfactorily.

LARGE CROWD AT CIRCUS.

WELCH BROS.' SHOWS MADE A FAVORABLE IMPRESSION HERE.

Attendance Was So Large at Evening Performance That Several Hundred Were Turned Away.

Welsh Brothers' circus enjoyed a patronage at both performances yesterday, which was by far the largest received by any similar organization exhibiting in this city for several years. The attendance at the matinee yesterday afternoon was unusually large while in the evening it was extraordinary. There are seats for 3,600 people, yet long before 8 o'clock every one was occupied and hundreds were standing. Soon after the performance began there was not an inch of standing room left and a conservative estimate places the number turned away at 900.

The show itself has been greatly enlarged and wonderfully improved since it played in this city last year. One of its strongest bids to popularity is that only one act is given at a time, enabling patrons to see all that is going on, instead of becoming bewildered in an effort to catch all that's doing as in a mammoth three-ring organization.

The performance opens with a tournament, followed by Ukoski and Konozawa in difficult pedal manipulations, who received long applause. Prof. Charles Rice's trick dogs and herd of educated ponies, which respond to his every word and look, made a very favorable impression, especially with the younger element. The slack wire cake walk by Prince Konozawa was a marvelous exhibition and made the hit of the evening.

The concluding exhibition of the show here will be given this evening at 8 o'clock after which it departs for Elizabeth, where it will remain for several days.

LEAL'S TEAM EASILY WON.

FROM THE BATTIN HIGH SCHOOL NINE, OF ELIZABETH.

Played on Pittis' Field Yesterday Afternoon—Schoonmaker's Great Work in the Box.

The Leal's School team easily defeated the Battin High School nine, from Elizabeth, in a game devoid of brilliant plays which took place on Pittis' field yesterday afternoon. The score was 16 to 7

Almost from the start it was apparent that the Battin High School lads were overmatched Early in the game, the Leal's boys showed their superiority both in the field and at the bat In the fifth inning alone the home team scored eight runs, and at times the Leal's lads seemed to play all 'round their opponents.

The special feature of the game was the great work of Ralph Schoonmaker in the box for Leal's. He was substituted for Dupee in the third inning. The regular pitcher overreached himself in the preceding inning and strained his side. Dupee was sent to centre field and V. McGee was brought in to short stop.

A clever piece of work was the double play by Brown and V. McGee in the fourth inning. The latter player distinguished himself by making four hits out of five chances at the bat.

The batting order follows:

Leal's School.	Battin H S.
Tiney, c.	Krentz, p.
V. McGee, cf, ss.	R. Steinke, c.
Dupee, p, cf.	Wodey, 2b.
R Sc'm'ker, ss,p.	S. Steinke, rf.
Brown, 1b.	Robinson, ss.
W. Sc'm'ker, 3b.	Weber, 3b.
D. McGee, 2b.	Patk, 1b.
Griggs, lf.	Degeuring, lf.
Corwin, rf.	Chesney, cf.

Score by innings:

Leal's....1 0 3 0 8 0 0 4 0—16
Battin....0 0 0 1 2 1 3 0 0—7

Base hits—Leal's, 14; Battin, 6. Two-base hits—Leal's, 2; Battin, 2. Errors—Leal's, 4; Battin, 5. Struck out—By Dupee, 5; by R. Schoonmaker, 10; by Krentz, 0. Base on balls—Off Dupee, 3; off R. Schoonmaker, 6; off Krentz, 4.

NEW PIPE ORGAN.

Ordered From Midmer & Son, of Brooklyn, and Will be Placed in St. Joseph's Church Next Week.

A large pipe organ will shortly be placed in St. Joseph's church. It has already been ordered and is expected to arrive during the forepart of next week. The instrument was manufactured by Midmer & Son, of Brooklyn, and is said to be very fine.

A commodious organ loft is being built in the rear of the body of the church and as soon as it is completed the organ will be placed in position. Frederick A. Pasch is making the alterations necessary to have the organ fit properly in the loft.

TO PURCHASE MELLICK FARM.

HILLSIDE CLUB WILL BUY LAND USED FOR GOLF COURSE.

Will Issue Bonds to Pay For It—Three Years' Lease Expires Next March.

The members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club have decided to issue bonds to purchase the Mellick farm, upon which they have laid out their course. The farm was leased for three years, and this lease will expire in March of next year. Provision was made in the lease for the purchase of the farm if the club so desired. The club will now buy and thus save the annual rental.

There are 100 acres in the farm and it is all so very well adapted to the game of golf that the members believe that they have decided wisely in purchasing the farm. Now that the farm is to change hands an effort will be made to secure better transportation from this city to the grounds by trolley, and if at all possible the trolley line will be extended to a point near the clubhouse. It is expected that the membership of the club will reach the 600 mark in a short time.

AFTER PRINTING.

Somerset County Papers Are Making a Fight to Get Freeholders' Report for Publication.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met this afternoon at Duke's farm, near Raritan, to inspect an old bridge in that vicinity. The structure is somewhat dilapidated and immediate steps will be taken to improve the present conditions.

There is apt to be some discussion as to the printing of the board's annual report this year. The printing committee will have to choose between a number of papers, which have made applications. In Bridgewater township four papers have asked for the contract and so has another one in Bernards township. To add to this, a paper published in North Plainfield, has entered the lists A strong fight will be waged by the various applicants.

The appropriation for the purpose is only $700. Last year the Bridgewater papers were given the job.

EXEMPTS HAD GREAT TIME AT BAYONNE.

Fifteenth Annual Convention of N. J. Exempt Firemen's Association Held.

PARADE IN THE AFTERNOON.

WARREN ENGINE COMPANY ATTRACTED MUCH ATTENTION.

Silver Hose Carriage, of Plainfield Exempts, Was Greatly Admired—Business Session Held in the Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bayonne, May 16.—The fifteenth annual convention of the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association which was held here yesterday turned out to a great success.

At the business session called to order shortly before noon, John J. Ready, of the East Orange fire department, was elected president for the ensuing year and these officers were re-elected: Secretary, Elias K Leslie, of Trenton; treasurer, Thomas Leather, of Jersey City, and statistician, John Barry, of Jersey City.

In short order a great amount of more or less important business of a miscellaneous nature was transacted. New associations in Kearney, East Rutherford and Westwood were elected to membership. The executive and standing committees were increased to ten members each, one from each Congressional district. A committee was appointed to revise the constitution and by-laws before the next annual session.

The address of welcome was made to the delegates by Mayor Egbert Seymour, and the response was delivered by the retiring president of the association, Irving Waltermire.

The parade was scheduled to start in the afternoon at 2:30 sharp, but it was long after that when the long column commenced to move. In forming the first division, which included the visiting Exempt Associations, Plainfield was given a position of honor. The association from that city was awarded first place among the many visiting associations At the head of the division came the Veteran Firemen's Association of New York city with sixty men. This association was led by the Sixty-ninth Regiment Band and Drum Corps of New York, and its old time double decked hand engine which was drawn by these firemen of long ago.

The veteran firemen, of Plainfield, made a favorable impression on parade. At their head was the Second Regiment fife and drum corps, of Newark. Each man in the association wore a blue yachting cap, white gloves and a badge. There were forty of them and marshalled by J. E. Flannery they marched very well. Their famous silver carriage attracted much attention along the route.

In all the parade, however, no body of men attracted so much attention as did the Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield. The demonstration that greeted this company all along the route was spontaneous and prolonged. Under the supervision of Capt. William Smith, the drilling of these men eclipsed the work of any other organization. When this company drew up before the reviewing stand and in a soldierly manner executed manouevres that caught the crowd, the applause bestowed on these boys was deafening.

Their position was well forward in the second division. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps of Plainfield accompanied the uniformed marchers, who numbered thirty-four. Chief J. J. Stahl and former Chiefs Debele, Fairchild and L. B. Bodine, together with Assistant Chief Keller, of the West End Hose Company, of North Plainfield, marched ahead of the men. The company's fine steamer, which brought up the rear, was the centre of attraction for envious eyes.

In the evening the visiting firemen were banquetted by the Exempts of this city. Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, were the guests of Hope Hose Company, No. 2, at the parlors of the latter company's headquarters where the visiting firemen sat down to a sumptuous feast. Everything was theirs for they had acquitted themselves nobly during the day.

The Exempts, of Plainfield, and the Warren Engine Company boys, of North Plainfield, returned home at 9 o'clock in the evening.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A Plainfielder, famous for his ready wit, was in New York one day with the mother of his wife. Differing from the proverbial mother-in law, she is very dear to the husband of her daughter and they have always been the best of friends. He was escorting her to the Grand Central depot, where she was to take a train for her home. They arrived in the depot just in time to see the gates close. They hurried to the doorway which led to the train, but the gate-keeper shook his head.

"For heaven's sake," gasped the Plainfield man, "Let her through. She's my mother in-law." It was evident that the gate-keeper was a married man. Without a moment's hesitation, he swung open the gate and allowed the mother-in-law to pass.

It was one of those invitation affairs, the cards to which read, "Ladies furnish; gents assessed." Two young women of this city planned to go and with that object in view purchased two cakes which was to be their share of the supplies. The cakes were left carefully wrapped up at the home of one of the young women until it was time to go to the dance. It so happened that en route they met two young men and the four walked along together. One of the young men was hungry and to satisfy his appetite, his companion started to unwrap her cake. Then it was that she discovered that a kind small brother had quietly substituted a bottle and some old cloth for the cake. The other supposed cake proved to be a similar collection. The young women are still wondering what they would have done had they ever taken the packages to the dance and started to open them there.

There was great excitement at one of the local hotels the other day. A guest had come in for dinner and discovered, when about to depart, that he could not find his hat. It was a derby he told the proprietor of the establishment. There was a great scurrying of waiters and porters to discover if possible what had become of the missing hat, but not a trace of it could they find "What size hat do you wear?" finally asked the proprietor.

"Seven," was the response.

With a sigh of farewell the proprietor of the place turned over his $5 Dunlap and told the guest to take it instead. It fitted well. Just as the guest was about to depart he happened to glance at a hat which lay in a chair near by. It was a soft felt hat. He examined it carefully.

"Do you know?" he said, "I believe that this hat is mine. I guess I must have worn it instead of my derby today." And then the proprietor rejoiced once more over the return of the Dunlap.

Shudders at His Fate.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. THE ALBANY STRIKE

A Quiet Day Terminates In Bloodshed.

MORE TROOPS ORDERED OUT.

An Attempt to Bring More Nonunion Men to the Traction Company's Headquarters Puts Strikers In a Frenzy.

ALBANY, May 16.—So serious is the situation here over the traction company strike that Governor Odell postponed the continuance of his trip to the state institutions and at 5:30 o'clock last night was at the executive mansion. Two thousand armed soldiers are now within the city limits, more are coming, and 2,500 are in readiness to move to Troy when Governor Odell so orders. The streets are thronged with excited men, women and children, and the otherwise quiet day terminated in bloodshed.

A dramatic element was added to the day's features by the sudden death of Adjutant General Hoffman.

As long as the traction company does not attempt to move cars or bring in nonunion men the crowds on the streets remain good natured, except for taunting the soldiers and police, but the instant an attempt is made to work on the lines or bring nonunion men in the crowd becomes frenzied and bloodshed results.

Citizens saber slashed, nonunion men with broken limbs and bloody faces, women and children trampled under foot, soldiers maimed with flying missiles and leaders in the crowds beaten with muskets were some of the results yesterday. Anticipating an attempt to move the cars in Troy, Major General Roe has ordered the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Forty-seventh regiments of Brooklyn, Troop C of Brooklyn, the Second signal corps, the Seventeenth separate company and the Third battery, which carries Gatling guns, to hold themselves in readiness to move immediately.

Mob and militia closed in combat late in the afternoon, but by the accident of fortune there were no serious casualties. It was the introduction of more nonunion men to take the places of striking traction employees that produced the violence, and it was only by the skill and forbearance of the guardsmen that the clash was not a desperately serious one. Seventy-five nonunion men reached the Union depot shortly before 6 o'clock, and their delivery at Quail street barn, a mile and a half away, was a dash under cavalry escort with mob resistance in almost every block. Frenzied men in countless numbers swarmed through the police lines, surged around the fast moving cavalrymen and fought to get at the cowed nonunion men inside the circle of galloping horses.

There was another wild scene at the barn, where thousands more had assembled. The infantry repeatedly charged into the crowd, substituting butt for bayonet and a shove for a thrust. At the points of contact a passage was opened for the scurrying cavalcade, and it was safe inside the inclosure.

Sixteen of the new men were injured during the ride, and many of them, stunned, weak and scared, had to be helped from the wagons. Of the 16 injured men Gilbert Hart of Brooklyn was the only one sent to the hospital. He was wounded in the arm, and the surgeons say he was shot. He was also cut on the head. The strikers say that 18 strike breakers deserted during the desperate ride and that less than 50 were safely landed in the barn.

In a hollow square of infantry, protected by lines of pickets that reached into every bisecting street and an outer skirmish line in circular form that encompassed all, the traction tower wagon was moved out of the Quail street barn in the afternoon at 4 o'clock and two hours spent in repairing trolley wires. The heavy force of guardsmen and the stringency of the protective measures seemed to awe the crowds that surged around the outer skirmish line, and there was no disorder.

The soldiers were jeered and derided, but no one offered them violence. The military movement was in charge of Major Chase of the Twenty-third, and he had four companies of his own regiment and two of the Tenth battalion under his command.

Governor Odell said that he had every reason to believe that Major General Roe was handling the strike matter with excellent judgment.

Cigar Makers Strike.

TAMPA, Fla., March 16.—All the cigar makers in West Tampa went on a strike yesterday morning because they had to cross the river in ferryboats. They marched to the courthouse plaza, where a meeting was held. They decided to visit all remaining factories and induce the men to walk out. The procession started about a thousand strong, and gathered force as it proceeded. Every factory was visited, and as they were reached the strike extended. By noon every factory in the city was closed. About 6,000 people are out. The men claim they lose a good deal of time crossing the river and were in much danger in doing so.

A Man Without a Stomach.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Carl Krueger is the only man in Chicago without a stomach, and he went home yesterday from the Illinois Medical college, where he had his stomach cut out three weeks and four days ago by Dr. B. B. Eads. A cancer had fastened itself upon the organ, involving every portion of it. Like a man risen from the tomb, Krueger entered the doorway of his little cottage home, every vestige of the horrible pain gone, able to walk and on the road to absolute recovery. Neither he nor his wife nor his four children ever expected that he would pass the portal alive again.

South African Outlook Dark.

LONDON, May 16.—The Pretoria correspondent of The Times, in a letter dated April 16, says: "In another fortnight the South African winter will have arrived, and unless the Boers are prevented from moving north to the bush veldt and hostilities are somehow ended there will be another spell of severe and unsatisfactory campaigning in an impossible country, together with five months of comparative peace in the two colonies."

Greater London's Population.

LONDON, May 16.—The population of the outer ring of the suburbs of London is 2,042,750 as against 1,405,489 in 1891, 950,957 in 1881 and 631,831 in 1871. The total population of greater London, including the outer ring of suburbs, is now 6,578,784.

THE TRIP ABANDONED

Mrs. McKinley's Illness Grows More Alarming.

THE PRESIDENT AT HER BEDSIDE.

Ever Since Her Arrival at the Scott Residence Mrs. McKinley Has Been Very Weak and Taken Little Nourishment.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Owing to the very serious character of Mrs. McKinley's illness the president has definitely decided to abandon his contemplated northwestern tour and to return to Washington direct so soon as Mrs. McKinley shall be able to stand the journey. The gravity of Mrs. McKinley's condition has been known to the members of the president's immediate party for several days, but had been concealed, in the belief that she would rally, as she had so frequently done in the past when suffering from one of her periods of depression, and with a few days of absolute rest be restored to normal condition. But her present illness has been attended with entirely new complications which have not yielded to treatment, and the president concluded that it was time the public should be apprised of the true situation. He is also anxious that the residents of the cities and towns along the planned route of his return trip who have made such extensive preparations for his visit should receive prompt notification of the circumstances which compel his decision.

The bulletin which Secretary Cortelyou gave out announcing the abandonment of the trip, coupled with another announcement that Mrs. McKinley's condition was better in some respects, but worse in others, prepared the way for the bulletin issued later that Dr. Henry Gibbons, a celebrated physician of San Francisco, had been called in consultation with Dr. Hirschfelder and Dr. Rixey. Dr. Gibbons has a reputation here for his skill in the treatment of bowel disorders. It was the president's wish that another physician be called in consultation, not because he did not have perfect confidence in Dr. Hirschfelder and Dr. Rixey, but because he desired that nothing that science could do should be left undone. He was especially anxious that the diagnosis of the attending physicians should agree.

After dinner last night the members of the cabinet called at the Scott residence. They reported Mrs. McKinley's condition as unchanged. When she is conscious, she recognizes the president and asks for him. She is not regarded as in immediate danger of dissolution. There is no abandonment of hope that she will rally, but in her weakened condition there could not fail to be apprehension lest the spark of life might go out.

Secretary Cortelyou at 9 o'clock last night gave out the following bulletin: "The physicians report an improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition since noon today." Secretary Cortelyou stated that no further bulletins would be issued during the night.

Ever since Mrs. McKinley arrived at the Scott residence she has been desperately ill. Her extreme weakness has been the most alarming feature of her condition. Her vitality has been at low ebb, and she has spoken seldom to those about her. The president has been continually at her bedside since their arrival here Sunday night, save the few hours Monday afternoon when he left her to go to San Jose and the three hours he spent Tuesday in the parade.

Fortunately Mrs. McKinley slept through his absence on both occasions. The strain which the president himself has undergone during the past few days has been very great. It has been a personal sacrifice for him to carry out his engagements here in order not to disappoint the people, but he has made it unselfishly and nobly. It is still his desire to carry out the prearranged programme in San Francisco to whatever extent he can. Yesterday morning he thought he would be able to be present at the unveiling of the Donahue statue and so informed the committee, but at the last moment, when his escort had already drawn up before the Scott residence, Mrs. McKinley's condition was such that he decided not to leave.

All day, except for a brief half hour in the afternoon when he yielded to the entreaties of those about him and went out for a drive, he has remained steadfastly at her side. The members of the cabinet reluctantly consented to carry out the programme at the University of California and at Oakland, but they put no heart into the festivities while their chief was grieving at his wife's bedside. The visit to Mount Tamalpais arranged for today has been entirely abandoned.

Mrs. McKinley's illness has cast a shadow over the entire city. People have shown their sympathy in a multitude of ways.

It is probable that even if she recovers Mrs. McKinley will be unable to leave San Francisco by next Monday, when the stay of the presidential party was to have terminated.

The degree of doctor of laws has been conferred upon William McKinley by the University of California. Only twice before since the founding of the university in 1868 has this degree been bestowed by the institution.

Secretary of the Navy Long may leave the presidential party and depart for the east at any moment.

He has received word that his daughter, who has been living in Colorado Springs for more than a year for her health, is dangerously ill.

Secretary Long is accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Long and a young son. The boy was also taken ill at the Palace hotel, where the Longs are staying, and the physician called in ordered the child's retirement at once.

The secretary is much worried over the illness in the family, and it is said he is not inclined to continue his trip.

New Railroad Car Shops.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 16.—It is reported here that the proposed New York Central railroad car shops will be located at Oak Grove, Clinton, Pa. The shops, it is said, will be the largest on the New York Central system, and the freightyards will also be on a mammoth scale so as to accommodate increased traffic. The big yards will have a capacity of handling 8,000 cars daily, and the whole plant will be commensurate in its proportions.

Chief Engineer Severely Hurt.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 16.—Cæsar F. Catillaz, chief engineer of the state hospital, fell from a second story window while in a somnambulistic state. He was severely injured.

COMMITTEE DIVIDED.

A Majority Favor Platt Amendment and Will So Report.

HAVANA, May 16.—A majority of the committee on relations, Senors Tamayo, Villuendas and De Quesada, are in favor of the committee making an immediate report advising the constitutional convention to accept the Platt amendment. Senors Gomez and Silva are strongly opposed to this action. It is said that Senor Gomez, in drawing up the minority report, interprets the explanations of Secretary Root as an admittance that the United States will change the Platt amendment if the Cubans insist upon it, that clauses will be added guaranteeing the absolute independence of Cuba, that the third clause will be stricken out, as the Monroe doctrine provides for intervention should this be necessary, and that coaling stations used for coal shall not be used for naval stations.

Senor Gomez was not present at yesterday's meeting of the committee. The majority claimed that he was trying to delay the bringing of the matter before the convention for final action. Word was sent Senor Gomez that he would be allowed 24 hours to draw up the minority report.

At yesterday's meeting the majority voted that, owing to the explanations made by Secretary Root to the commission, "we advise the constitutional convention to accept the Platt amendment as a basis for future treaties with the United States."

Unionist Editor Dead.

NEW YORK, May 16.—William F. Sherlock, editor of The Unionist, the official publication of Typographical union No. 6, is dead of pneumonia at his home, 549 Bainbridge street, Brooklyn. It is believed that his fatal illness was the result of his recent incarceration on Blackwell's island, where he was sent two months ago to serve a term of three months under conviction for criminal libel. Governor Odell three weeks ago pardoned the ardent unionist, and he has since then been an invalid at home with his family.

During his trip he will also investigate the industrial situation in England and Germany, and he may extend his journey through Siberia. Senator Beveridge believes that the United States can secure the immense bulk of Russia's foreign trade and that Russian and American relations should grow more and more intimate. He will be absent until October.

Still Fighting Vailsburg.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Counsel for the Social club of Vailsburg, N. J., has appealed to Sheriff Virtue of Essex county to stop the Sunday bicycle races at the Vailsburg track. The club's appeal last week to the police authorities had proved unavailing. The sheriff is quoted as saying that he does not see that there is anything to do but stop the sport, but he will first consult Chief Justice Depue and Prosecutor Riker.

A QUARREL AT CAVITE.

Bad Blood Up at Headquarters—A Court of Inquiry.

MANILA, May 16.—An unhappy situation has developed at the headquarters of marines in Cavite. Colonel Henry C. Cochrane was recently ordered home, and Lieutenant Colonel Mancil C. Goodrell, formerly commander under Colonel Cochrane at Olongapo, was ordered to relieve him. When Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell arrived to succeed Colonel Cochrane, the two officers had an altercation, which resulted in Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell's denouncing alleged acts of Colonel Cochrane in connection with the Olongapo command.

Colonel Cochrane reported to Rear Admiral Kempff that Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell was intoxicated, and that night he arrested him, ostensibly on the authority of Rear Admiral Kempff. The latter disclaimed having given such an order and reported the situation to Washington, with the result that Lieutenant Colonel Goodrell remains in custody, and Lieutenant Colonel Allan C. Kelton has been placed in command at Cavite, relieving Colonel Cochrane. All are now awaiting the result of a court inquiry.

Previous to this incident Colonel Cochrane had imprisoned Major and Assistant Quartermaster Thomas C. Prince for alleged disobedience in reference to requisitions, but Major Prince was unanimously vindicated by the court and continues his duties as assistant quartermaster. Colonel Cochrane also complained of Major Littleton W. T. Waller on account of some difficulty with Private Gardner over an alleged disturbance by Gardner of a dinner party at Major Waller's house. Gardner has just been tried and acquitted, and this, according to Colonel Cochrane, strengthens the allegation against Major Waller.

SAVED FROM RUIN.

A London Incident of the Recent Stock Panic.

LONDON, May 16.—Some dramatic details regarding English action during the panic in American stocks have just come to light. It appears that last Sunday the senior partner of the largest arbitrage concern summoned a meeting at a private house where Mr. Morgan, Lord Rothschild and others were present. He declared that if the buying in of Northern Pacific shares was not stopped his firm must announce themselves defaulters. Scarcely were the words out of his mouth before his hearers realized that such a step would mean an immediate loss of £16,000,000 to the London Stock Exchange.

Lord Rothschild and Mr. Morgan, contrary to all the rules of Capel court, pledged their word that there would be no further buying in of Northern Pacifics.

It is generally realized that if this arbitrage concern had not been able to get its needs met London would have felt the effects for three years, and houses whose names are historic would have been compelled to go to the wall, despite the fact that none of the parties in question had taken any serious initiative in the fight between the American roads.

One of the leading London stockbrokers said today, "The whole development of the last few days merely shows how much we are in the power of New York."

Churches to Form a Trust.

CLEVELAND, May 16.—A special to The Plain Dealer from Toledo says that the Toledo evangelical churches are to form a trust. The plan has been approved by the pastors' union and will be submitted to the various congregations next Sunday. The object is to concentrate force, economize effort and afford a solid front against municipal, public and private evil. There are in the city 102 religious gathering places to a population of 135,000. The erection of unnecessary churches will be opposed. A prime idea of the federation will be to stand as a unit for Sunday observance and for the abolition of gambling and other evils. The opinion now is that every evangelical church in the city will enter the federation.

Strange Accidents to Children.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Two peculiar accidents to children are reported. While Mrs. Joseph Conalis of West Hoboken, N. J., was washing clothes her 17-month-old child Antoinette was in a high chair in the same room playing with a toy. Unnoticed by her mother, the child slipped down until her chin rested on the strap which held her in the chair. In this position the mother found the little one strangled to death. John Schelpp, the young son of Sergeant Schelpp of the Newtown (N. Y.) police, was riding on a rocking horse when he lost his balance and fell off. The point of a stick which he carried in his hand pierced the boy's throat, inflicting a fatal wound.

Bank Teller Short.

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—President Charles H. Schench of the Teutonia bank announces that there is a shortage in the accounts of the bank, due to the operations of Paying Teller Philip Schumaker, who pretended to have been robbed Tuesday evening. Five pistol shots were heard. Officers rushed in to find the room in the rear of the bank strewn with money of all kinds and the paying teller on the floor covered with blood. They found, however, that he only had a slight wound in the calf of the leg. He is now under police surveillance. The amount of shortage as announced is $18,000.

"Major" Taylor In Paris.

PARIS, May 16.—Intense interest is felt in sporting and cycling circles in the bicycle match for the world's championship between "Major" Taylor, the colored American cyclist, and the French crack rider, Jacquelin, to be held today at the Parc des Princes, in the Bois de Boulogne. The distance is one kilometer. The start will be made at 3:30 p. m. "Major" Taylor has not been beaten since his arrival in Europe, with the exception of his first race in Berlin before he was trained. Both Taylor and Jacquelin have defeated this season the leading international cyclists.

Opening of Agricultural School.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The dedication and formal opening of the new school of practical agriculture and horticulture took place at Brier Cliff manor, Westchester county, yesterday. To meet the demand for a more complete and better acquaintance with nature a four weeks' course for the study of this subject will be opened on July 23.

A PEKING EXPLOSION

Chinese Suspected of Blowing Up the Arsenal.

GERMANS WOUNDED AND MISSING.

A Farewell Banquet Given to General Chaffee by the German Minister—Comment on China's Reply to Indemnity Demands.

PEKING, May 16.—An explosion at the arsenal at Kalgan yesterday wounded one German officer and four privates. Three German privates are missing. It is supposed that they were blown to pieces. The Germans generally believe that the Chinese intentionally committed the outrage, though evidence to substantiate this view is lacking. A thorough investigation will be made.

Dr. Mumm von Schwartzenstein gave a farewell banquet to General Chaffee, at which he paid a grateful tribute to the Americans and to their conduct during their stay in China.

Replying to the compliments of the German minister, General Chaffee said: "Some of my most pleasant memories of China will be of my association with the Germans, and I shall always esteem myself fortunate in having been able to meet and admire that grand old man, Count von Waldersee. I hope he will see his way to return to Germany through the United States."

Count von Waldersee, who seemed deeply touched, said he hoped it would be possible for him to do as General Chaffee had suggested.

The foreign ministers refuse to allow themselves to be quoted for publication regarding the Chinese government's answer to the indemnity demand, but three of them gave expression to their personal views of the matter.

One of these said he never expected the Chinese to agree to the demand without arguing even had the total been only 10,000,000 taels. He considers the Chinese offer of 15,000,000 taels annually for 30 years absurd and ridiculous and thinks the request that 7,000,000 be given them from the foreign customs borders upon insolence. The powers, he believes, will make a mistake if they do not exact the utmost centime.

Another says it does not matter what China says and that whatever the powers decide upon will have to be agreed to eventually.

A third expresses himself as satisfied that a majority of the powers will agree to reduce the demands in accordance with China's ability to pay.

General Liu Routs Boxers.

BERLIN, May 16.—The war office has received the following from the German headquarters at Peking: "General Liu's troops attacked and scattered 1,000 Boxers 45 kilometers south of Pao-ting-fu."

The Choate Shooting.

DENVER, May 16.—Mrs. Martha Ewart, who shot ineffectively twice at Joseph K. Choate, president of the Denver Cotton Mills company and nephew of United States Embassador Choate, at the office of Wolcott & Vaile, was released on bond of $500 yesterday. Information was filed in the criminal court charging Mrs. Ewart with attempted murder. Mr. Choate's attorney made a statement for publication as to the events that led up to the shooting. It was to the effect that in June, 1900, Mrs. Ewart filed a suit for breach of promise against Mr. Choate. To avoid publicity, although denying liability, Mr. Choate settled with the woman, paying her $4,000. Tuesday evening she went to the Choate residence, demanding additional money on account of her claim.

Porto Rican Exports.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 16.—Porto Rican exports from Jan. 1 until May 1 amount to $8,180,400, of which $5,284,311 went to the United States. Chief among these exports was sugar, of which $4,302,150 went to the United States and $20,180 went to foreign countries. Of the exports of coffee the United States received $4,330, while $1,642,554 went to foreign countries, divided between Spain, Cuba and France in the order named. There has been a large decrease in the exports of coffee since the hurricane. The United States received $220,206 worth of leaf tobacco, while foreign countries received $229,563 worth of the same property. The balance of the exports, amounting to $1,761,417, were of cattle, cigars and fruits.

A Note From the Porte.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 16.—The foreign embassies have received a note from the porte in connection with the recent controversy regarding the foreign postoffices in Constantinople, regretting that the "susceptibilities" of the embassies were wounded by the previous notes and hoping that the embassies will cooperate in bringing about a settlement of the question in accordance with the desires of the porte.

An American Boycott.

LONDON, May 16.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Geneva asserts that owing to the steel trust having caused a rise in prices many Swiss manufacturers have joined the Austrian and German manufacturers to effect an American boycott. A meeting of the representatives of the manufacturers contemplating such action will shortly be held in Basle, when the measures to be taken to this end will be discussed.

An automobilist in Morristown writes to the New York Herald and bewails the fact that all the efforts of himself and friends to gain the favor and support of the people of that city for their favorite sport were set at naught by the action of the members of the Automobile Club of America, who had their run to that place last Saturday. The writer of the communication to The Herald says that he had taken great care to ride through the town at a moderate speed and had used every precaution to prevent accidents. During the many months that he traversed the Morristown streets, he was not responsible for a single accident.

In contrast, he points out the course of the strangers. They entered the town at a racing pace, frightened horses and caused several serious accidents. So fast did they run that one of their number was arrested and fined $10. This seemed to have little effect on them, he says, for they departed at just as lively a pace as they entered.

There are a number of automobiles owned in Plainfield, but their owners have followed the same course as the man from Morristown, and there has been no occasion for complaint at any of their actions in the city. They have kept a moderate pace while riding through the city streets and have not been responsible for any accidents. This is as it should be.

It is greatly to be regretted that there exist people on this earth who have so little concern for the rest of the world that they pay no attention to the rights or privileges of others. So far Plainfield has not experienced any such invasion as Morristown suffered. If it should come, it is to be hoped that the police will act without delay.

It is very hard on the automobilists of Morristown to be compelled to suffer thus for the misconduct of others. It is to be hoped that the people of that place will put the blame where it belongs, and not let the effects of their righteous indignation fall where it does not belong.

There is a new hand at the helm in the office of the Trenton Evening Times. Beginning this week, that newspaper passed into different control. Rev. Alfred W. Wishart is the editor, while Walter H. Savory, formerly news editor of the Trenton True American, is the business manager. The retiring management of The Times has certainly accomplished wonders since it assumed control. That newspaper has been growing rapidly and the success of its policy of a Trenton paper for Trenton people seemed complete. The news of the change was therefore somewhat of a surprise. If the new management does as well as did the old, The Times has a great career before it.

Since the Central Railroad of New Jersey has been in existence, that corporation has had no more faithful servant than H. P. Baldwin, who has retired from active service at his own request. For forty-nine years Mr. Baldwin has been the general passenger agent of the Central Railroad. During that time the great suburban traffic of the Central has been built up under the eye of Mr. Baldwin who is in a large measure responsible for the great achievements made in that line. The action of the directors of the company in giving Mr. Baldwin half pay for the rest of his life is very commendable, but it is certainly deserved. No more faithful employe than Mr. Baldwin has the Central ever had.

The demand made by the local branch of the International Association of Machinists that the local shops give a nine hour working day with a slight increase in wages is by no means a local movement. The International Association has made the request general and will attempt to secure the desired change in the shops all over the country. There is not likely to be any strike in this city although both employers and employes are reticent on the subject.

The citizens of Dunellen are glad indeed to see the summer cars of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company running again. The new cars are reported to be of modern make and well equipped. The burning of the company's car barns at Milltown early last summer greatly handicapped that company last summer and compelled it to run closed cars on the Dunellen line most of the summer.

Meetings of the nature of that held Tuesday evening under the charge of the Local Union of Christian Endeavor Societies tend to keep alive the interest which was so auspiciously started at the Twentieth Century campaign. If similar meetings are held at intervals, they will tend to keep the memories of those impressive evangelistic services before the eyes of the people.

Now that the borough has laid a proper sidewalk on Duer street, between Craig place and the new bridge over Green brook, it is right and proper for the property owners on the city side to do likewise. One side of the street has a good walk but the other is greatly in need of a stone walk to connect the bridge with the short extension from Front street.

Plainfield is to have a tennis club this summer. Although it will not be conducted on as elaborate scale as have similar local organizations in the past, it promises to furnish its members with plenty of enjoyment. It is only another evidence of the revival of interest in that outdoor sport.

Fomer Senator James Smith, Jr., the well known Democratic leader, sailed for Europe yesterday. When he returns it will probably be to find the members of both political parties earnestly discussing the coming campaign and the prospective gubernatorial candidates.

The election this fall will be of special importance to the entire State on account of the election of a governor. For Union county, however, the election the year following promises to be of particular import as it will then be necessary to choose a sheriff, a senator and a surrogate.

Judging from all reports the excellence of the drill of the Rutgers College cadets amply justified the praise given to Col. Quincy O'M. Gilmore for their careful training.

Don't forget that every house in the city should be properly numbered. If it is not, a visit from some representative of the street department may be expected.

Letters From Klondyke.

Mrs. Wickoff, of this city, regularly receives letters from her husband, Robert Wickoff, who is located in the Klondyke region. He is getting along well and it is possible that he may return home next fall. The summer time is the best for making money, hence Mr. Wickoff's desire to remain in the gold fields until fall.

Old Soldier's Experience.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, May 16—Although the Plainfield streets traversed by the street railway will be sprinkled for the remainder of the summer by the trolley company, Dunellen streets will remain as dry as ever. There was no provision made for sprinkling North avenue when the trolley franchise was granted and consequently there is no relief in sight for the residents on that thoroughfare. Every passing car raises a cloud of dust which at times is almost stifling.

The work of re-macadamizing Main street, from Walnut street to the railroad, was commenced yesterday under the direction of the street committee of the Borough Council. Two coats of stone will be placed on the street and a top binding will be thoroughly rolled. If possible, the repairs will be extended along Washington avenue to North avenue.

Through the efforts of Freeholder Staats, an appropriation was made for repairs on the small bridge on Main street, opposite Grove. William Farrier, who secured the contract, commenced work yesterday lengthening the east abutment which will be overlaid with flags. Mr. Staats is superintending the repairs.

Ethel Hamilton, the little daughter of W. J. Hamilton, has been taken ill with diphtheria in a mild form. The house has been placed under quarantine and every possible precaution taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

South Plainfield, May 16—The funeral of Mrs. John Manning, yesterday afternoon, was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. At the services in the South Plainfield church the building was filled to overflowing, friends being present from New Brunswick, New Market, Dunellen, Stelton and other places. Rev. Mr. Dorward, of Stelton, and Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, were present and took part in the services, which were conducted by the pastor of the local church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. Mr. Livermore was present in the congregation. The church choir sang two selections. The floral tributes consisted mostly of lilies.

Mrs. J. E. Townsend, of 409 East Sixth street, inserted a notice in the want column of the Press yesterday to the effect that she had lost a pocketbook containing a sum of money and several articles. The paper had been out but a short time when the pocketbook was returned by a boy whose mother had seen the notice in the Press. The moral is clear.

MINISTER CONGER IN TOWN.

HE WAS THE GUEST OF GEORGE WHARTON EDWARDS.

A Few Prominent Plainfielders Were Invited to Meet Him in An Informal Way Last Evening.

Edwin H. Conger, United States Minister to China, stopped off at Plainfield yesterday afternoon on his way from Washington D. C., to New York, and was entertained here by George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place. On account of his prominent part in the siege of the Embassies at Pekin, China, and his talked of candidacy for the governorship of Iowa, Mr. Conger is considered one of the most prominent men in this country at the present day. He was in Washington yesterday bidding good-bye to Acting Secretary Hill and other State officials.

Last evening, Mr Edwards invited a few of the prominent men of the city to meet Mr. Conger in an informal way. They found him a delightful man to meet socially. He was unassuming and modest despite the prominence he gained while in China and told in an interesting way something of the land in which he had represented the United States. He was quite enthusiastic in his praise of Plainfield and thought it one of the most charming cities he had ever visited. What particularly delighted him was the great number of handsome shade trees to be seen here.

After a short drive about the city, Mr. Conger left this morning for New York where he speaks this evening at the dinner of the American Asiatic Association at Delmonico's.

"Rowland is anxious for me to make a certain disclosure to you," the priest said, taking her hand. "I must first beg you to be lenient, if you can, with a man who loves you with all his soul. Of that there is no doubt."

"He has lost my fortune?" cried Blanche, sharply. "What do you suppose I care for money when—when he is dying?"

"It is not that, my dear Mrs. Goddard," said the priest, averting his solemn gray eyes. "I am afraid it is even more serious than that."

"What is it? What is wrong, then?" questioned the young wife, laying a trembling hand on the arm of the priest.

"Can you bear a blow from a most unexpected source?" asked Father Surtees, "a revelation which will shake your faith even in the man you love?"

"Hush!" Blanche cried, firing immediately. "Do you dare to speak against him when he is dying? Oh, my God!"

Father Surtees shrank from her an instant, and a look of pain spread over his fine face. He allowed her indignant eyes to rest on him for a moment, then he said:

"He has begged me to make a confession to you of the greatest importance. My poor child, you will have to have great fortitude to listen calmly to what I am going to tell you."

"What do you mean?" Blanche questioned, the fire still kindling in her eyes.

"Would you not be shocked if I were to tell you," Father Surtees began to look about the room as if searching for the gentlest means of conveying his meaning, "if I were to tell you that there was a—a mistake about Mrs. Goddard's death?"

Blanche's eyes grew large.

"You mean that—that she is alive?" she asked, slowly.

"Yes, she is alive."

Blanche fixed his eyes with a steady stare of incredulty.

"Not dead—not dead?"

The priest nodded.

"And there is something else," he went on, "and to do Maj. Goddard full justice you must make up your mind to believe that he did not love you as he does now till—till after he married you. He has told me his full story, and my heart bleeds for him. He says he was trying to confess to you when the accident cut him short."

"He was trying to tell me what?" asked Blanche, her brows wrinkled in perplexity.

"He was trying to confess that he knew that his wife was alive when he married you."

"O-oh!" That exclamation was as sudden and sharp as if it had been caused by a crushing blow.

The priest took her hands and held them tenderly.

"But there were many, many extenuating circumstances," he continued, pleadingly. "He was the tool of a designing woman; he was out of his mind. I had noticed his downfall from the moment he met her and came under her baneful influence. She convinced him beyond doubt that you had a fatal malady which would carry you off in a few months. She wanted your money; he was temporarily insane. For God's sake pity him. I know men as a botanist knows his plants, and I could swear that he has been a man changed for the better since you became his wife. If you could only believe this it would, I know, be a crumb of comfort in your great calamity."

Blanche's head sank to the table at which she sat. Father Surtees still held one of her hands. He waited for a moment, but she did not look up or utter a word. He would have thought she had swooned but for the visible shudders passing through her frame.

"He did not find out till this afternoon that she had deceived him about your health, then he came to tell you the whole truth. He would have told you earlier, but Mrs. Goddard had made him believe that the shock would kill you. He kept back the revelation to save your life. He told me he was in a literal hell—a hell of his own creation, but if he dies to-night, dear child, he will be among the redeemed. His soul is as white as snow. The responsibility of his sin all rests on Mrs. Goddard's—"

"Don't—don't call her by that name again!" Blanche suddenly cried, drawing herself up and looking into his face squarely. "She was never his lawful wife. I am the only woman he ever married—really married!"

Father Surtees thought her mind was unsettled, and a look of deeper concern passed over his countenance.

"I—I don't understand—" he stammered.

"I did not know it till to-day—this afternoon," explained Blanche. "Her husband came here looking for her. He told me all about her. She was really married when my guardian met her."

"Then you are really his wife—she is a bigamist!" cried Father Surtees. "Oh, my dear child, this makes it all so different. There is but one Christian course open to you. He has repented more deeply than one man in ten millions. You must forgive him. He never knew what a real, pure and uplifting love meant till he married you. God Himself often puts such ordeals in the way of men to lift them above the world. If you refuse to receive the gold when it has come purified from the fire you deny the wisdom of the Almighty. Forgive your husband. He may not live through the night—remember that."

Father Surtees ceased speaking. Blanche lowered her head to the table again. The priest saw her shudder several times as if she were trying to put certain thoughts from her. At this juncture the door leading into the room where Goddard lay was softly opened. It was Dr. Randall. He advanced with a very grave face to Blanche.

"You must pardon me if I am intruding," he said to her. "But I must do my duty. I am obliged to see that Maj. Goddard is troubled about some misunderstanding with you, and as his life is really in great danger, I must appeal to you to ease his mind if it is possible. All the medical care and skill in the world cannot save him as long as he is in his present excited condition."

"Mrs. Goddard is going to him now," said the priest, speaking for Blanche.

"Yes, let me see him one moment alone," she said, her eyes filling. "I can set his mind at rest; I can and I will."

The two men remained standing where they were, and she went to the major's couch. Kneeling, she put her face against his.

"I am here, dear guardian," she said, "don't—don't worry!"

"Oh, he has not told you!" Goddard said, his eyes roving towards the adjacent room.

"Yes, he has told me everything, darling," she answered, stroking his face.

"And you can forgive me?" he asked. "You, oh, my God!"

"Fully, dear; it shall never enter my head again."

"But you must not stay here," he said, huskily. "Oh, to think that I am obliged to send you away! Blanche, this will kill me. But now that you know the truth, you must go. God only knows what will become of me, but I deserve even greater punishment."

"I am going to stay, dear guardian. I have something to tell you. I am your only lawful wife. I found out only this afternoon that when you married her she had a husband alive—Henry Dugdale. He was here looking for her."

She saw him catch his breath. For a moment he lay perfectly still. Then:

"Oh, Blanche, is this possible?"

"It is the truth. He told me his whole story. When you are stronger I shall tell you all about it, but in the meantime remember that nothing shall separate you and me."

She saw him close his eyes. His features began to work convulsively. Tears welled up under his eyelids and oozed out on his cheeks.

"It is the blessing of God," she heard him murmur. "He has answered my prayer."

She wiped the tears from his face and kissed him. Then he opened his eyes and smiled.

"The blessing of God, darling," he said, in a louder tone.

"Will you not try to get well, now, for my sake?" Blanche asked.

"Yes, for your sake," he said, and she rose to call the doctor.

This gentleman, when he entered the room, and looked at his patient, remarked:

"He stands a fair chance of pulling through, Mrs. Goddard, and the credit will be yours. Now he must sleep."

Plainfield citizens endorse them.

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work also increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles, as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

Tiny Anvils.

The anvil that rings to the sturdy blacksmith's sledge may weigh 200, 300, 400 pounds, but there are anvils whose weight is counted in ounces. These are used by jewelers, silversmiths and various other workers. Counting shapes, sizes, styles of finish, and so on, these little anvils are made in scores of varieties, ranging in weight from 15 ounces to a number of pounds each. Some of these little anvils, weighing perhaps two pounds, are shaped precisely like big anvils. Others have shapes adapted to their special uses. All the little anvils are of the finest steel. They are all trimly finished, often nickel-plated, and those surfaces that are brought into use are finished with what is called a mirror polish, the surface being made as smooth as glass. These little anvils are made up to five pounds and some of them up to ten pounds in weight. They are made some in the United States and some in Germany.—N. Y. Sun.

A MOTHER'S TESTIMONY

Mrs. E. M. Smith, whose address is Bryn Mawr, Montgomery County, Pa., writes: "I feel it my duty to write a few words in praise of Ripans Tabules. I have been a user of them in my family since they came on the market, and I can truly say I never saw anything like them. I used to be worried about my little boy, who is 8 years old, as he seemed so frail; the cause was natural constipation. Now I never have a bit of trouble; just as soon as he finds he needs any medicine he goes and takes a Ripans Tabule, which always acts like a charm. My husband was troubled with his kidneys and pains in his head, side and back, but since using the Tabules he is not troubled any more. He thinks they are indispensable, and always carries them in his pocket. I also use them for my baby, and I think there is nothing equal to them for young children. I mash a Tabule fine for baby. Everyone wonders why my children are all so healthy and fat. Ripans is the secret."

SUMMER SKIRTS.

They Maintain the General Forms Already Seen.

Skirts are very long, very close at the top, very soft and undulating, with no stiffening except such as is afforded by an inside frill sewed to the lining. Double tunic skirts are still seen, although they will not be so much worn as they were for a short time after they were first revived. This style is rather pleasing for thin fabrics like crape or voile, and some attractive models are shown. The one illustrated is of soft satin cloth of pastel blue. The long tunic is bordered with a wide band of lace and falls over a full flounce of silk. The bolero is of lace and has a wide collar and sleeves of elbow length. It fastens at the left side with three bows of black velvet with gold tipped ends. The lower part of the sleeves consists of a full puff of silk gathered into a tight band at the wrist. The cravat is of silk, the soft belt of blue panne. The hat of white straw is trimmed with a wreath of roses veiled in embroidered tulle and has bows of black velvet. Black guipure may be substituted for white lace for the bolero and tunic border if a quieter effect is desired.

SUMMER FASHIONS.

Pretty Neckwear to Accompany Thin Gowns.

Boas of feathers are more and more in vogue, but the long, straight form has given place to a shorter style, tapering toward the ends. The boa is fastened at the waist at each side by ornamental pins made for the purpose.

Flounces are gaining a strong hold on favor and are seen on many of the new skirt models, even of street gowns. They have not driven plaited costumes from the field, however, as numerous varieties of the latter are shown. The one illustrated is of pearl gray voile. The skirt has a plain tablier, but is laid in corded plaits at the sides and back, the plaits being held near the foot by a series of gold buttons, below which they are free. The bodice is plain at the back, but plaited in front, the plaits being secured at the top by gold buttons. The crossed and draped chemisette is of gray and straw colored printed taffeta, and the belt and collar are of straw satin striped with black velvet. The plaited sleeves have a large puff at the elbow, and the plaits are held at the wrist by small gold buttons. The hat of black tulle is embroidered with gold and is trimmed with bows of black silk and a black plume.

CAT ROUTS POLICE.

Outraged Feline Mother Terrorized the Officers of One of the Most Prominent Chicago Stations.

The desk sergeant and operators at the West Chicago avenue police station, at Chicago, were completely routed a few days ago by a pet cat that has made the station her headquarters for several months. The officers were forced to flee from the desk sergeant's room and seek safety in the captain's office until the wrath of the animal subsided.

The cat recently gave birth to five kittens. They were the pride of her existence and she carried them from one part of the building to the other.

LEAPED ON THE SERGEANT'S BACK.

Several of the kittens were killed and one given away while the mother cat was out one day, and when on her return she found but one of her little ones she became frantic. She first searched the station from top to bottom, and failing to find any of her kittens she bounded into the desk sergeant's room, spitting and gnashing her teeth. So ferocious was her entry into the room that the occupants were warned of the danger and prepared for the attack. The cat leaped on the desk sergeant's back and was about to imbed her teeth in his neck, when Operator Hunt knocked her to the floor. Now infuriated, the cat went after the officers like an enraged bull after his tormentors, and the police fled from the scene in a hurry. Not until the cat's fury had abated did they dare return to the room, and even now they keep a keen eye on the revengeful mother whenever she comes near them.

DIED WITH HER DOG.

Little Dora Davids Sacrificed Her Life in an Effort to Save Her Devoted Canine Chum.

Little Dora Davids, daughter of a small farmer whose acres ran down to the banks of the Kankakee, often was remarked by the neighbors as too small for the long rambles that she took. But for answer the Davids only pointed to Noble, the big, black Newfoundland that always went with her.

One day Dora did not come home. Search was begun, and signs led the searchers straight for the banks of the river. There, in a pool near the farmhouse gates, the body of the child was found. Further out, where the current twisted and swirled, was a mass of weeds, tangled and knotted. Boatmen dragged beneath these weeds and brought up the body of the Newfoundland. A long rope of weeds was twisted around his neck, and the current had dragged him down.

The story was grimly written by the river. The dog had gone into the current and had been dragged down. Without another thought in her young heart the child had flung herself in to save her friend, and they had died together.

Blinded in a Peculiar Way.

A remarkable accident befell Charles Shivley, living near Madison, Boone county, W. Va., the other day. He was pruning a tree, using a sharp-bladed knife, and in severing a tough branch the knife slipped and struck him in the right eye, cutting the ball fairly in two. Excited with the pain, he quickly placed his hand over the blinded eye, and in so doing jabbed the point of the knife into the other eye, cutting the ball of it so that the sight was completely destroyed.

Case of Posthumous Fame.

Omar Khayyam, the great Persian poet, philosopher and astronomer, died in the year 1123, and for over 700 years little more than his name was known in Europe.

GENERAL HOFFMAN DROPS DEAD

Adjutant General of New York Dies Suddenly at Albany.

ALBANY, May 16.—Adjutant General Edward M. Hoffman dropped dead at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had gone to his hotel for luncheon and, not feeling well, retired to his room. The clerk was assisting him to undress when he fell on his bed dead.

Dr. Milbank, who was called, said that death had resulted from heart disease and that General Hoffman had only been complaining for a short time before he was assisted to his room.

General Hoffman was at his office in the capitol in the morning as usual and attended to his mail.

General Hoffman was named by Governor Roosevelt as adjutant general to succeed Adjutant General Avery D. Andrews, resigned on Jan. 1, 1900, and he was reappointed by Governor Odell. He was one of the best known and most popular officers in the guard.

Company D of the One Hundred and Tenth battalion, with which General Hoffman was identified, saw service in the railroad riots of July, 1877, and the switchmen's strike in Buffalo in 1892.

General Hoffman was born in Elmira about 45 years ago. By occupation he was a horticulturist and nurseryman. He was married about 15 years ago and is survived by a widow and one son. During the Spanish war he was colonel of the Third regiment, New York volunteers.

EXPLOSION IN A MINE.

Nine Men Killed and Several Injured at Farmington, W. Va.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 16.—By an explosion in the George's Creek Coal and Iron Company's mine at Farmington nine men were killed.

The dead are Carl Hunter, Dan Alferie, Tony Romenic, J. H. Everson, Joe Nichols, Manor Beatty and at least three others whose bodies have not been recovered.

Jeff Fast, Joe Blaney, Herschel Everson, Tom Bambridge and Charles Carpenter were injured.

Little information can be obtained from the officers of the company, and the report that many Italians were fatally hurt cannot be verified. There were 40 men in the mine when the explosion occurred, and many of them have not been accounted for. It is said the accident was caused by the taking of a lighted torch into the mine.

Ran Away From Philadelphia.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Harry Wiggins, 14 years old, and Julius Wahl, 15 years old, of 2336 Sharswood street, Philadelphia, admitted to the chief of police of Jersey City that they ran away from home last Monday. They wanted to see the world, they said, so went to Jersey City and engaged a furnished room. They had a supply of cheap novels, and in Wahl's pocket was a story which has on the outside a picture of a masked burglar with a dark lantern and mask. The lads had no weapons. They are ambitious to be detectives. Arrangements were made to send them back to Philadelphia.

Albany to Buffalo by Trolley.

UTICA, N. Y., May 16.—The Cleveland syndicate which recently purchased the street railroad properties in this city has bought the Herkimer, Mohawk, Ilion and Frankfort Street railroad. The Utica road will be extended to Frankfort and to Rome, rails being now on hand for that purpose. The link just purchased is seven miles long and very finely equipped. It is an important move in the scheme to parallel the New York Central and Hudson River railroad from Albany to Buffalo with a double track electric line.

Railroad Sale Blocked.

ROME, Ga., May 16.—The sale of the Rome, Chattanooga and Southern to the Central of Georgia failed of ratification here because J. F. Kempell of Columbus, Ga., filed an injunction praying the court to prevent the sale. Kempell alleges that he is a minority stockholder in the road, owning stock to the value of $7,000. He alleges that the road is worth $3,800,000 and that the purchase price for which it had been sold to the Central railroad is only $1,800,000.

May Corn at Sixty Cents.

CHICAGO, May 16.—May corn sold at 60 cents shortly before the closing of the board yesterday, after opening at 54 cents. Trading was light and chiefly in 50,000 bushel lots. Probably not over 120,000 bushels changed hands. The price is the highest since the celebrated Coster-Martin corner in May, 1892.

Strike In Havana Harbor.

HAVANA, May 16.—The stevedores and lightermen are out on a general strike against Zaldo & Co., who control the lighter privileges in Havana harbor. The steamers Morro Castle and Segurancia are consequently being unloaded at the wharfs. The strikers have several grievances.

Indicted For Murder.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 16.—The grand jury in the superior court returned an indictment of murder in the first degree against Josephine Zavatsky. The woman is accused of having strangled her child, aged 5 months, to death.

SPORTING.

GOLF.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers has decided to enter the Woman's Championship Tournament, to be played next month at Ardsley. She will play from the Baltusrol Club. Mrs. Rogers will also engage in several other events of importance in the golf world.

Green-keeper Barry, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, together with several assistants, is constantly improving the course under the direction of the greens committee. New sod is being placed in worn out spots and wherever the course needs attention it is being given.

The course of the New Brunswick Golf Club was opened last Saturday afternoon with play for two trophies. There was a good turnout, and the course was found in fair condition, considering the recent rains. The members of that club expect a very prosperous season for golf in New Brunswick this year.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will meet some of the best clubs of this neighborhood in team matches. So far nothing has been done about forming another league of the principal golf clubs of this section but the Hillside team has scheduled matches with most of the clubs which would be in such a league.

Albert B. Glover, the new professional at the Park Golf Club, has very pleasantly impressed the members who have met him. He has shown himself a conscientious worker in preparing the course and the results of his efforts are to be seen in the fine condition of the course. He is also a good instructor and club repairer and will keep a full stock of golf supplies on hand at the club-house. His wife is acting as stewardess at the club-house.

—Members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., are requested to meet in their lodge rooms tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock to attend the funeral of John G. Haberle.

—Skin affections will readily disappear by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Look out for counterfeits. If you get DeWitt's you get good results. It is the quick and positive cure for piles. L. W. Randolph.

LAUNDRY BURNED.

Big Establishment of Morey-LaRue Company in Elizabeth Destroyed by Fire This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 16.—A fire, which broke out early this morning, completely destroyed the five-story building of the Morey-LaRue Laundry Company on West Jersey street. The building had just been completed and fitted up with costly machinery. A conservative estimate places the loss at $250 000.

Most of the laundry work of the local store of the firm is done at the Elizabeth establishment, but the management declared the fire would in no way interfere with the Plainfield business. If any Plainfield laundry is destroyed it will be a very small amount.

WARRANTS ISSUED.

Both West Third Street Grocerymen Are Complaintants and Defendants.

On the complaint of K. Sachar, a grocer of West Third street, Justice Huff issued a warrant yesterday for the arrest of A. Kunzman, also a grocer of West Third street, charging assault and battery. Kunzman was arrested and held in $100 bail for his appearance May 27.

Immediately afterward the defendant wanted Justice Huff to issue a warrant for the arrest of Sachar on a similar charge. This request was refused and the defendant went before Justice Hand, where his wish was granted. Justice Hand issued a warrant and the case was set down for next week.

This is the outcome of the trouble between the grocerymen, an account of which appeared in The Daily Press yesterday.

WON LARGER PRIZE.

Correction Concerning Contest Among Retail Grocery Clerks.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In correction of an article which appeared in last Monday's issue of The Daily Press under the heading "Daly Won the Prize," I wish to state that last November the H. O. Cereal Company offered to the retail clerks of the United States 388 cash prizes, ranging in value from $100 down to $2, according to the number of coupons sent in by each. The largest number sent in by any one clerk in the country was 12,000. I sent in nearly 7,000 as against 2,000 sent in by J. B. Daly. While he received a small prize, I received a much larger one. J. L. Bennett.

ENDEAVORERS' CAREER FOR THIRTEEN YEARS.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel Celebrated Its Anniversary.

MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT.

BUSINESS MEETING AND ENTERTAINMENT WERE BLENDED.

Many Interesting Reports Were Presented at the Meeting—Address by Rev. G. H. Payson, of Rahway—The Programme.

In honor of the thirteenth anniversary of its formation, the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel celebrated the occasion last evening with an excellent entertainment, in which the annual business meeting was blended. Although the latter was the most important part it did not interfere with the musical programme, and the reading of reports was enjoyed by the members and friends alike. There was a very large number of the latter.

Of the reports that of the secretary, Miss Hattie Squires, was probably the most important as it gave an insight to the work which has been accomplished by the society within the past twelve months. It now numbers fifty active, six associate and twenty-nine honorary members, all of whom are greatly interested in its welfare. Forty-six meetings were held during the year with an average attendance of twenty-nine. By contributions of money it has assisted numerous missions and in many ways aided the work in the chapel with which it is connected.

The financial condition of the society was made known from the report of the treasurer, Miss Georgia Galloway. The year was commenced with the sum of $5.01. To this amount, $70.78 was added by collection, making a total of $75.79. This has all been expended with the exception of sixty cents.

Frank Whitely, secretary of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society, presented the report of that growing organization in a very able manner. In it he told of the formation of the society last October with twenty-six members. Since then it has grown steadily, but its growth has been offset by the graduation of a number of members to the older society, so that it has made a total gain of nine. In various ways it raised $10.50, and expended $10, leaving fifty cents in the treasury.

The entertainment part of the programme interspersed the reading of reports and consisted of a stirring address by Rev. G. H. Payson, of Rahway, on Christian Endeavor work in general, a flute solo by Clarence Wheeler accompanied by Miss Coddington, vocal duets by E. Maxwell Honeyman and Henry B. Drake and instrumental selections by a quartette. At its conclusion refreshments were served and an hour was spent socially.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of Mrs. W. A. Wilson, chairman; Miss Dora Bennett and Charles Bryant.

In Justice Smalley's Court.

A case on contract has been commenced in Justice Smalley's court by Wm. Burton against Sarah Lewis. The summons was issued yesterday and is returnable Thursday. In the same court a summons has been issued against Walter G. Smalley in a case on contract brought by Edward E. Cooper. The writ is returnable Thursday.

Sold His Farm.

Henry Clay Randolph has sold his truck farm of sixty acres on the Rahway road, near Netherwood, to Mrs. Isabella Drain, of East Front street. Mrs. Drain will take possession as soon as Mr. Randolph has an auction sale of his household goods.

No Superintendent Yet Selected.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital has not yet selected a successor to Miss Messler, the superintendent, who is to leave as soon as a person is selected. There have been several applications made for the position.

Mr. Saltzman in Town.

Auguste Saltzman, who will sail for Berlin, May 22, where he will represent the fire chiefs of the United States, is spending a few days in town with friends. It will be a long time before he returns to Plainfield again.

Workman Entertain.

Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W., will hold an entertainment and social this evening for the members, wives and friends.

CALLS LETTER MISLEADING.

LEROY J. ELLIS WRITES CONCERNING CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST'S STATEMENT.

Declares That It Was Far From Precise and That the Use of His Name Was Unauthorized.

The letter from William A. Childs, one of the publicity committee of the Christian Scientists, was read with considerable interest as being the first formal statement made by that sect regarding the circumstances in the Ellis case at Fanwood. Certain statements were therein made concerning Mr. Ellis.

A communication was received from LeRoy J. Ellis last evening in which he has something to say concerning the statements made by Mr. Childs.

His letter is as follows:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I have today for the first time seen the letter of William A. Childs, the Christian Scientist, in your issue of the 11th inst, purporting to give a "precise statement" etc. Please say for me that the use made of my name is entirely unauthorized and the references to me inaccurate, and greatly misleading, and that statement in respect of giving all the facts, vital to the case, is far from "precise."

I have refrained from noticing the numerous references to these matters in the newspapers, but as Mr. Child's letter implies my agreement with his statement I feel it my duty to make this denial.

LAST NIGHT OF CIRCUS.

Great Crowds Were Well Pleased With The Performances Of Welsh Bros. Shows.

The popularity of Welsh Brothers' circus seems to be safely established in this city judging from the size of the crowds which yesterday attended the second day's afternoon and evening performances.

The large audience continually showed its appreciation of the numerous feats of skill and strength exhibited by the performers. The troupe of Japanese acrobats and pedal manipulators caught the crowd which thoroughly appreciated their marvelously daring acts. Prof. Rice's trained dogs and ponies constituted a show by themselves for the exhibition made by them would lead one to believe that were endowed with more than animal instinct.

The trapeze horizontal bar and slack wire performances held the attention of all, but the small boy was interested more especially in the clowns.

Next spring the management promises to bring the circus once more to Plainfield.

MOVED TO PEST HOUSE.

Westfield's Small-Pox Case Now Separated From All But Nurse And Doctor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, May 17.—The Board of Health has hired William Williams, of Somerville, who was assistant nurse in the Cranford small-pox cases, to take charge of Robert Knight who was taken to the pest house last evening about twelve o'clock. Williams accepted early last evening and agreed to take charge of the patient at the rate of $4. a day.

The pest house is finished and completely furnished with everything required. No new cases are looked for.

The Board of Education yesterday visited the various schools, and finding that a pupil of the First Street School had played with one of the Toms family, promptly closed that school.

Boys' Mission Band Met.

The regular monthly meeting of the the Boys' Mission Band of Earnest Workers was held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church Wednesday afternoon. Most of the members were present. The subject of the meeting was "Siam and Laos."

Reception To New Members.

The Junior Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will give a reception to new members this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the church edifice. Miss Jessie Bellett will superintendent the affair.

Vacations For Firemen.

The firemen connected with the city department will get their vacations this summer the same as usual. Commencing June 1, the fire laddies, each in turn, will receive a ten days' furlough.

Miss Mears Will Sing.

Miss C. J. Mears, known professionally as Mlle. Mira Marisona, will render some solos at the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon.

Nearly The Limit.

There are twenty-one patients at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment. This is nearly the limit.

FRED R. LELAND WEDDED.

Married to Young Woman From Poughkeepsie Where He was Employed.

Word was received in Plainfield yesterday telling of the marriage of Fred R. Leland, formerly of this city, but late of Poughkeepsie, to Miss Mary T. Maroney, of the latter place. Mr. Leland has, for some time past, been an attendant at the Hudson River State Asylum at Poughkeepsie, and while in that city he met the young woman who is now his wife. Mr. Leland has since secured a much more lucrative position as an attendant at a private asylum in Tarrytown, N. Y.

HOW TO REACH YOUNG MEN.

CONFERENCE OF Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS AT FREEHOLD.

Begins Tomorrow And Sessions Continue Sunday—Something About Programme.

A conference of the corresponding members of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the fourth district of New Jersey, which includes Union county, will be held at Freehold, tomorrow and Sunday. The programme promises to be one of unusual merit.

A school of methods, which will be held tomorrow afternoon, is one of the unique features arranged. The purpose of the school is to give instruction in the best methods in reaching young men. In order to cover the ground fully the school will be reconvened at the evening meeting. At this latter session an address on "Our Opportunity in the Small Towns," will be delivered by a competent speaker.

Special preparatory services followed by platform addresses in various churches is the programme for Sunday morning. The crowning feature of the conference will be the mass meeting for men to be held at the Opera House in the afternoon. It will be addressed by able speakers. Simultaneously other meetings will be conducted elsewhere. A union service in the evening will mark the close of the conference.

The object of the meeting is to endeavor to spread the usefulness of the organization to the small towns, and for this purpose delegates have been invited from this city, as well as Elizabeth, Rahway, Woodbridge, South Amboy, Perth Amboy, Matawan, Red Bank, Jamesburg, New Brunswick, Asbury Park, Long Branch, and other places in the association district.

ROSTER COMPLETED.

Vacancies In Non-Commissioned Ranks of Company K Were Filled Last Night.

At the regular drill of Company K, last evening, the non-commissioned officers were elected, completing the company's roster. Asa Randolph was raised from corporal to sergeant, and A. M. Selders was made corporal. First Lieutenant John Lewis had charge of the proceedings.

The members of the company have now become sufficiently acquainted with military tactics to have but one drill a week instead of two. Hereafter Wednesday night will be the regular drill night.

Conference on Boys' Work.

A conference of the boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A. was held last evening at the residence of W. D. Murray, of West Ninth street. The committee took advantage of the fact that E. M. Robinson, International secretary of boys' work, was to be Mr. Murray's guest and with him discuss the coming Y. M. C. A. jubilee which is to be held at Boston. Chas. R. Scott, State secretary of boys' work, was also present. The conference was a very profitable one.

Officers in College Cadets.

Among the appointments of company officers made at the conclusion of the Rutgers College Cadet Corps' exhibition drill, Wednesday, were Arthur E. Smith, of North Plainfield, and William A. Fisher, of Bound Brook, as first sergeants, and Edward Coriell, of Bound Brook, as second sergeant. Fisher and Coriell are graduates of the Plainfield High School.

Will Close Park Avenue Store.

A great many people will be sorry to hear that the delicatessen store, 217 Park avenue, run by Johnson & Barnes, will close up business in that place about the first of June. They have a large fruit and vegetable place at 131 West Front street, and are unable to keep both places going, the extra expense attached compelling them to sacrifice one of the places.

Sentence Suspended.

Mrs. Charles Vardon was arraigned in the city court this morning charged with intoxication. City Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

—Neuman Bros. have all the fresh vegetables in the market.

HISTORY OF FAMOUS SILVER HOSE CARRIAGE

Something About the Carriage Which Exempts Took to Bayonne.

SAID TO COST $10,000.

HAD SEVERAL NARROW ESCAPES FROM DESTRUCTION.

After a Remarkable Career it is Now the Property of the Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association.

The handsome silver hose carriage of the Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association was the most interesting feature in the Bayonne parade Wednesday afternoon. An admiring crowd gathered about this unique carriage when the opportunity was afforded. Some could not be induced to believe that it is composed of solid hand beaten silver, though such is really the case.

It was built years ago for the wealthy and aristocratic firemen of New York, who were known under the name of the Amity Hose Company. For a long time the carriage was the pride of the old New York volunteer fire department and attracted attention all over the country. What its value is no one seems to be aware; but B. Ogden Mills, the banker, once remarked that he did not know how much over $10,000 was paid for it.

The history of the carriage has been an eventful one. Some years ago it was on exhibition in the famous Crystal Palace in New York and narrowly escaped destruction in a fire that burned the building to the ground. Some time afterwards it was stored on Randall's Island, and while it was there John W. Murray, of this city, bought and shipped the carriage to Plainfield. Mr. Murray presented the carriage to the old Alerts, and when that organization disbanded it was donated to the Exempts, who now treasure it highly.

When the old volunteers in New York reorganized they used every means to again own the carriage. It is said that they even went so far as to hire a gang of men to come to this city and take it by force. Their plans, however, were happily frustrated. Four years ago in July it was rescued from a fire in Pliny Fisk's barn where it had been stored away for safe keeping.

ELECTED AND INSTALLED.

Meeting Of Retail Clerks' Association Was Held—Working For Early Closing.

There was a meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association, last evening, in the rooms of the Building Trades' Council. The charter now contains the names of sixty eight paid members, and a complete organization was effected. New officers were elected and installed, but, as the members are sworn to secrecy, the names will not be published.

In the near future an effort will be made to secure early closing. A committee has been appointed to confer with the employers of the city, looking toward the early closing movement.

Sent South For Interment.

The bodies of Ida and William Ellis, the children of LeRoy Ellis, of Fanwood, who died several weeks ago from diphtheria were this morning taken from the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery by Undertaker George W. Cole and shipped to Jersey City. From there they will be sent by way of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Nashville, Tenn., where interment will be made.

At Army Meeting.

Mr. Nims, of Boston, Mass., visited the Salvation Army here last evening and gave a very interesting and effective talk. Mr. Nims is a traveler visiting all parts of America and conducts meetings in various institutions. He spoke of some of these and the good work being done.

Ill With Typhoid.

Clarence Slape, of New York, who recently came to Plainfield to visit his brother, William Slape, of East Second street, was taken ill a few days ago. Dr. Gaston was called and diagnosed the case that of typhoid fever. A quarantine has now been established at the home.

Thrown From Wheel.

Peter Kane, West Third street, while riding his wheel on West Fourth street near Spooner avenue last evening, was thrown from his wheel, but received no injuries. The bicycle, however, was badly damaged.

ANOTHER POLICEMAN.

Will Probably Be Appointed at Next Meeting of the Common Council.

It is expected that at the next regular meeting of the Common Council Mayor Jenkins will appoint Arthur McGinley as a special policeman for regular duty. The need of another man in the police department is apparent. Patrolman Flanagan has been off on the sick list for some time and it will probably be many weeks before he can return. Provisions have to be made for such happenings, hence the desire of the Police Board to have another regular man appointed.

FAITHFUL WORKERS FORMED.

AN OUTGROWTH OF THE SEWING CIRCLE OF MT. OLIVE CHURCH.

Which Celebrated Its Second Anniversary in An Appropriate Manner Last Evening.

Mt. Olive Baptist church was crowded last evening by colored people who were there to witness the exercises held in celebration of the second anniversary of the Sewing Circle of that congregation.

The principal feature of the affair was the address of the pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson, who, in reviewing the work accomplished by the Circle, paid high tribute to it for the services rendered since its organization in May, 1899. He thanked the members for the united and harmonious work done by them, and incidentally reported that $488 had been raised by the Circle for various church purposes.

Among the numbers on the programme was a recitation by Miss Cora Pierson and a solo by Miss Grace Manning. W. A. Kline acted as master of ceremonies and Horatio Randolph as organist. On behalf of the Circle, Rev. E. E. Jackson presented to its president, Mrs. Wm. Dempsy, a photograph album in recognition of her services, and announced that a life size likeness of the former treasurer, the late Mrs. Mary A. Kline, would also be given to her at the Sunday evening services. The society itself presented to the church a purse as a thankful offering.

When the formal exercises were concluded the members of the Circle together with their guests repaired to the lecture room, where supper was served. The remainder of the evening was devoted to social intercourse.

Announcement was made during the evening that the organization had decided to adopt a name more typical of its character and had chosen to be known in the future as the Faithful Workers.

RESETTING POLES.

Work of Changing Location of Poles On Somerset Street Has Begun.

Things are now in shape along Somerset street for the removal of the poles used for wiring purposes by the various corporations.

Yesterday morning the Plainfield Street Railway Company commenced to move its iron poles to positions within the curb lines. The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company is also at work. An attempt will be made, it is understood, to do away with the large poles used by this company along Somerset street by running the wires through cross streets from Duer street. Larger poles, it is said, will be placed at convenient points along Duer street, and the wires from them will be connected with the poles of the trolley company on the Somerset street line.

A Detective Will Speak.

The men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon will be addressed by Todd B. Hall, a detective from the Baltimore Police Department. He will picture in a realistic way his experience in catching all kinds of crooks, and will tell how he has been used of God in leading some of them to become Christians.

Nash's Building Located.

The building owned by Justice Nash and which stood on Park avenue, near the Unitarian church, has been moved to South Second street, opposite the Pond Tool Works. The building has been enlarged to two stores, the dimensions being 19x42.

Closing of Boys' Club.

The seventh season of the Boys' Club comes to a close tomorrow night. It has been decided to keep open house to which every body is invited. No exhibition of work will be given this year.

Will Visit Y. M. C. A. in New York.

Several members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will visit the New York branches Saturday on a tour of inspection.

Gave Judgment.

Justice Mattison yesterday gave judgment to James B. Guttridge in his suit on contract against Edward J. Phillips, Jr.

MEN PLAYED THE HOSTS.

GAVE SOCIAL IN CHAPEL OF FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Entertainment Consisted of Musical And Stereopticon Views—Refreshments Served.

A pleasant entertainment and social was given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church last evening under the auspices of the men of the church. The interesting part of the whole affair was that the men did everything. They arranged the entertainment, secured the refreshments, entertained those who attended and even washed the dishes at the conclusion of the affair.

A feature of the evening was the musicale given by Martin Korff's orchestra of a number of pieces. A delightful programme was rendered and helped to make the event one of great pleasure to all. Another decided feature was the exhibition on a canvas of many views of Porto Rico. These were given by Edgar Williams, who spent much time in the islands with Special Commissioner Dr. H. K. Carroll. The collection is an especially fine one and Mr. Williams gave an interesting descriptive talk as the views were thrown on the canvas by Augustus Searing.

During the evening refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served by the men, and a period of sociability was enjoyed. John Burrough was chairman of the general committee, comprising most all of the men of the church. They were all highly complimented upon the success of the affair.

MANY WOMEN MEET.

Sixth Semi-Annual Meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at Boonton.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Boonton, May 17—The sixth semi-annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs was held here yesterday under auspicious circumstances.

Altogether there were nearly 500 persons present, representing women's clubs in all parts of the State. The papers read were for the most part of special interest. An address on the ethics of shopping by Mrs. G. W. B. Cushing, and the recital of the history of the methods of the Mothers' Congress, by Mrs. E. O. Grice, commanded more than usual attention.

Three years ago the Plainfield clubs—the Monday Afternoon Club, the Rasores, the Parliamentary Club, the Current Events, and the Town Improvement Association—joined in entertaining the Federation at a meeting held in that city.

Among those who sat on the platform during the meeting here yesterday was Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Plainfield.

SOLD BUTCHER SHOPS.

Plainfield Packing Company Has Disposed of Its Two Stores to Local Butchers.

The Plainfield Packing Company has disposed of its two butcher shops. The sale was consummated yesterday and the purchasers took possession this morning.

The stand at 153 West Front street was sold to Peter Zimmerman, of New Brunswick. Samuel B. Hibbs, of this city, who has managed both stores for some time past at 108 Somerset street.

Both Mr. Zimmerman and Mr. Hibbs have established a reputation as butchers and will undoubtedly succeed in their respective ventures. Mr. Zimmerman, at one time, was the proprietor of the stand on West Front street that he has just purchased.

It is the intention of Mr. Hibbs to improve the business he has purchased and announced that only first class meats will be handled.

For Study of Lesson.

The Sunday-school teachers of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet tomorrow evening for the study of the lesson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lowry, 1031 Sherman avenue. Dr. Shott, of Scotch Plains, will teach the lesson.

Capt. and Mrs. O'Neil of the local Salvation Army Corps have received a promotion to the staff. It came through Commander Booth Tucker who is in charge of the United States forces. They now hold the rank of ensign.

CHARGED WITH SELLING GLASS FOR DIAMONDS.

J. Harry Milligan Arrested on Complaint of Morris Abrams—Held For Grand Jury.

TROUBLE OVER RING.

ALLEGED MILLIGAN SIGNED STATEMENT DECLARING DIAMOND REAL.

Abrams Says He Paid $40 For the Ring—Jeweller Silbert Said That Alleged Diamond Was Only Glass.

On the complaint of Morris Abrams, of West Front street, J. Harry Milligan, of West Fourth street, was arrested last evening on a warrant issued by Justice Huff. The complaint charges the obtaining of money under false pretences. The accused was arraigned in court, and held in $200 bail before the Grand Jury. Henry Haurand, of East Front street, furnished bail.

According to the story of Mr. Abrams it appears that Mr. Milligan had a ring, reported to be a diamond. He had shown it to Mr. Abrams several times and the latter had expressed a willingness to buy. If Mr. Milligan would give a written statement that the ring was a diamond Mr. Abrams offered to purchase it. Last evening at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. Milligan, it is alleged, called on Mr. Abrams and told him that he would sell the ring for $40. The latter said all right, but he still adhered to his first plan, that he should receive a statement as to the genuineness of the ring. Mr. Abrams did not care to write the statement himself, so he got a boy to write it. Mr. Abrams declares that Mr. Milligan signed it. The paper served as a receipt for the $40 as well as testifying that the ring was a diamond.

In the meantime Mr. Abrams had sent for Marcus Silbert, the Somerset street jeweler, for the purpose of testing the ring. Mr. Silbert appeared and said that if the ring was a diamond it would be worth twice the amount asked for it. Mr. Abrams then took the ring. Before Mr. Milligan left the place, Mr. Silbert tested the ring and to his surprise discovered, so he alleges, that the ring was glass.

Mr. Abram then sought Lawyer William Newcorn, who in turn had Justice Huff issue the warrant for the arrest of Mr. Milligan, as stated. The latter was eventually found and arraigned. It is quite likely that the present Grand Jury will consider the case. Mr. Milligan has secured Lawyer Wm. G. DeMeza as his counsel, and they intend to fight the case stubbornly. Mr. Newcorn now has the ring alleged to have been sold to Mr. Abrams and also the alleged receipt. It is written in a large hand, boy fashion. Both the ring and paper will be presented to the Grand Jury for its consideration.

LAST DANCE.

Given By Clerks From Boehm's Store at T. A. B. Hall Last Night.

The last of a series of sociables and dances held during the winter under the auspices of the employes of Boehm's store, took place in T. A. B. Hall last evening. The attendance was unusually large, but that did not deter anyone from having a delightful time. Prof. O'Reilly furnished the music for dancing. It was kept up until an early hour this morning, with a brief rest at midnight, when refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. I. H. Boehm, Miss Daisy Snyder and Miss Margaret Kennedy.

CLIMATE BULLETIN.

Weekly Statement of the New Jersey Section of the Weather Bureau.

The weekly climate and crop bulletin of the New Jersey section of the Weather Bureau, issued from the central office at New Brunswick, is as follows:

The temperature during the week has averaged about one degree above the daily normal, and the rainfall was again largely in excess of the average. At the Central Station, the excess from March 1 to date is 6.04 inches, as against a deficiency of 1.87 inches for the same period of last year. During the first part of the week the weather was exceptionally fine, and much plowing, planting and seeding was done, but during the latter part, frequent showers (local thunderstorms), brought all work to a standstill. Wheat, rye, grass and oats are advancing rapidly and many fields of rye are out in head. Fruit prospects, in all sections, most promising.

The reports of the nearby correspondents are:

Martinsville—Grain and grass growing finely; cherries, plums and peaches promising; ground in fine condition for plowing. D. S. Campbell.

Piscataway Township—Wheat and grass growing nicely; ground ready for corn; early planted potatoes have rotted badly; farm work at a standstill, ground too wet. John S. Smock.

Plainfield—Early planted potatoes and oats are coming up; all fruit trees give promise of a large crop; rainfall, 1.75 inches. John Neagle.

Somerville—Spring work backward on account of wet weather; oats sown; some sod ground plowed for corn; recent showers very beneficial to grass. H. V. N. Garretson.

Shudders at His Past.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unrivaled to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by L. W. Randolph. Only 50 cents.

BOERS APPROACH MAFEKING.

Driven Off a Kopje, but Remain In Vicinity After Sortie by British.

CAPE TOWN, May 17.—Four parties of Boers visited Krall Pan, south of Mafeking, Cape Colony, on the morning of May 10. During the night they took position on the kopje from which the Boer guns opened fire on Oct. 12, 1899. They pillaged the natives who were living on the kopje, killing two and seriously wounding three others. Then they crept up on the garrison at the siding, but a sentry discovered the presence of the burghers, and their attempt at a surprise was frustrated.

At daybreak the mounted scouts composing part of the garrison made a sortie, while at the same time the British opened fire with a Nordenfeldt on the Boers, who scattered. Captain Taylor followed the retreating burghers until nightfall, when the chase was abandoned. One scout was seriously wounded.

Later advices are to the effect that the Boers are still in the vicinity of Krall Pan.

Wheeler claims that he fired in the air and that the killing was accidental.

IN DEATH'S SHADOW.

Mrs. McKinley May Pass Away at Any Moment.

KEPT ALIVE BY STRONG STIMULANTS

All Festivities In San Francisco Abandoned, and the President a Constant Watcher—A Slight Rally Kindles Faint Hope.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—Mrs. McKinley is in the valley of the shadow of death and may pass away at any moment. Yesterday morning shortly before dawn she sank rapidly, and it was feared she would die before restoratives could be administered, but she responded to the powerful heart stimulants that were given to her and during the day improved to such an extent that hope of her recovery, slight though it was, revived. But her life hangs by a thread. She has taken no solid food since she reached here on Sunday, and the physicians do not believe she could survive another sinking spell such as she experienced in the morning. She suffers little and bears up bravely. During her periods of consciousness her mind is clear. The president is constantly at her bedside and although worn by his long vigil is standing the awful strain with remarkable fortitude.

Every banquet and public function planned in his honor here has been abandoned, and the city, with heavy heart, is watching Mrs. McKinley's battle for life. If the end should come, the president and his party will be ready to start back with the remains within 24 hours.

During the long, weary watches of the night the president did not leave Mrs. McKinley's bedside. Shortly before midnight, when Drs. Hirschfelder and Gibbons departed and Dr. Rixey laid down for a little rest, there was hope that her life would be spared. All day the president watched the doctors' faces and scanned the demeanor of the nurses for a sign of encouragement, and they urged him not to despair.

At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the police patrolling outside and the little group of newspaper watchers on the corner opposite saw a stir in the house. Lights flickered here and there, and a carriage with rubber tires rolled swiftly up to the door and Dr. Hirschfelder alighted. The word was whispered that Mrs. McKinley was sinking. For a time it was thought she was dying, but powerful artificial heart stimulants revived her slightly. When daylight came the doctors held another consultation, and the news of Mrs. McKinley's sinking spell was given out by Secretary Cortelyou, but no word of encouragement. With it went formal notification that all engagements for the remainder of the president's stay in San Francisco were canceled. The president no longer had the heart to hold out false hope that he would be able to attend any of the functions arranged here in his honor.

Meantime an air of death itself pervades the Scott residence. The room in which Mrs. McKinley lies is a sunny chamber at the southeast corner of the residence, but the flood of sunshine is excluded lest the bright light might disturb the patient.

At about 2:30 yesterday the president decided to go for a walk, and, accompanied by the postmaster general and the secretary of the interior, he strolled through the neighboring streets, returning the respectful salutations which were met with from all who recognized him, and once or twice he stopped to shake hands with those who stepped up and requested the privilege.

Upon his return to the house he cheerily told a group of newspaper men assembled there that Mrs. McKinley was holding her own.

Late last night Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following statement:

"Physicians in attendance on Mrs. McKinley report her condition as decidedly improved since morning; pulse and temperature satisfactory. Patient resting well.

Minority Seeks Delay.

HAVANA, May 17.—At yesterday's meeting of the committee on relations of the Cuban constitutional convention a majority voted to submit to the convention next Saturday a report advising the acceptance of the Platt amendment. The minority faction asked for further time to draw up a minority report and were granted until today, when another meeting of the committee will be held.

Celebrated Seward's Birth.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 17.—The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of William H. Seward was celebrated last night at his birthplace, Florida, Orange county. Addresses were delivered by his son, General William H. Seward of Auburn, and the Rev. S. S. Seward of New York.

Wireless Telegraphy For a Train.

Will Be Privately Launched.

BOSTON, May 17.—The yacht Independence will not be launched publicly at the Atlantic works, as anticipated, as Mr. Thomas W. Lawson fears that the risk of loss of life in a crush that would attend the ceremony is too great.

MORE BLOOD IS SHED

State Troops at Albany Shoot to Kill.

CARS RUN UNDER HEAVY GUARD.

The Day Had Been Quiet, and the Disturbance at Nightfall Which Drew the Fatal Volley Was Not Serious—A Settlement Attempted.

ALBANY, May 17.—Five hours of conference last night, with all the warring elements represented, failed to settle the Albany strike of the street railway employees.

The strikers waived all demands for the removal of the nonunion men. The executive committee of the United Traction company will consider the proposition today and may accept it and settle the strike.

In the meantime Major General Roe intends to take every precaution and at midnight ordered out the Ninth regiment of New York, commanded by Colonel Morris. It will arrive here this afternoon, 800 strong, and if the strike is not settled will assist in opening up the other lines of the traction company in this city.

William Walsh, one of the men wounded by a bullet from a squad of the Twenty-third regiment defending a car, died at 10:15 last night.

Leroy Smith, shot in the same melee, was slightly improved at midnight. He said to his pastor, the Rev. Mr. Fairchild, shortly after he was shot: "It's all right. They were perfectly justified in shooting, and I had not any business to be there."

One of the curious features of the night is that the surgeons say that Walsh, who is a brother of an officer of the Tenth battalion, was struck by a shot from a revolver. The only man on the car who had a revolver was Lieutenant Wilson, who says that he saw a man throw a brick and fired at him. He is positive he hit him.

It was Lieutenant Wilson of Company E who gave the fatal order to fire, and his action has received the approval of his superiors, for an investigation by high military officials held last night exonerated him from blame. According to Wilson's statement, he fired at and hit a man who struck him with a stone. The official investigation was made by General Barnes, who took the statements of Wilson and his men, the car crew and several witnesses.

The shooting of Smith and Walsh had a very depressing effect upon the members of the Twenty-third regiment, and last night when stones were hurled at the pickets around the Quail street barn they did not fire into the dark. Two privates were hit and hurt, but they did not care to take a chance by firing. It was held by the officers and men generally that the order to fire was entirely justified, but there was general regret at the consequences of the volley.

With the addition of the Ninth regiment there will be over 3,000 guardsmen in Albany.

The day began with an imposing show of military strength. In the western portion of the city the massing of troops began at 8 o'clock on a plan outlined in official orders from Brigadier General Robert Shaw Oliver and executed by Brigadier General Barnes. The Twenty-third infantry drove back the crowds that surrounded the Quail street barn in a series of spirited charges. These rushes were theatrical and exciting, but not especially dangerous.

Once the area about the car barn was clear, the dispatch of detachments to guard the lines during the prospective movement of troops began. Simultaneously Colonel Lloyd of the Second regiment began extending his men southward into the city over Broadway to a junction with the troops from the west at the foot of State street. This movement completed a great right angle, with two arms of equal length. When the defensive lines were completed, the movement of cars began from the Quail street barn. A car manned by triple crews of nonunion men and ten militiamen was run out first to pick up the first of the wrecked cars stalled in the street. Then another car slid out and picked up the second one, and in quick succession eight other cars were brought out. Lieutenant Colonel Brady, with Captain Hamlin and all of Company I of the Twenty-third, boarded the first car, and in succession all the other cars were manned with heavy guards. Nettings had been hung down over the sides of most of the cars, but Brady ordered them removed.

"Tear them down," he called out. "I don't want the people to think my men are afraid of stones."

The traction company's tower wagon and repair wagon fell in behind the procession of cars, and the mounted signal men of the Third brigade, acting as cavalrymen, divided into two troops and surrounded the wagons. The men had orders to fire if assaulted and sat with their rifles ready for action.

Lieutenant Colonel Brady, clinging to the front rail of the first car, gave the word to start, and the electric cars went humming and buzzing up the street, with the cavalry clattering along behind. It was the effort upon which the traction company had centered its every resource, and the guardsmen viewed it as the most serious undertaking of the strike campaign. Trouble seemed inevitable, and the spirit of the enterprise thrilled every man who participated in it. But there was no trouble.

The cars charged down over the hill past the capitol at high speed and spun around into Broadway for the run north toward Troy and met no opposition. There were men in the crowd who viewed the partial triumph of the traction people with unconcealed hatred, but the military arm was too strong for resistance. Men and women cursed and jeered the strike breakers and soldiers as they dashed past, and there were some small individual clashes between pickets and excited strike sympathizers, but the main movement was executed without a single serious row.

The military measures of the morning represented the limit of stringency. Householders were given warnings to see that their premises were kept orderly, and every head that showed on a roof top had a Springfield pointed at it. The two wrecked cars were switched off and left at the north power house, and the ten cars returned over the line to Quail street. The service with soldiers as passengers was kept up until noon and then discontinued for lunch.

It was on the final run of the group of soldier lads on the cars that the great tragedy of the day occurred. The cars were on Broadway, moving northward, and a constantly swelling crowd was gathered about the Union depot. The first of the workday folk had been released by the whistles that sounded through the manufacturing district, and they were pouring into the crowd. When near Columbia street, a truck blocked the way of car 31 and, urged on by the crowd, the driver refused to move on as speedily as desired. Some one in the crowd threw a stone, but it went wide of its mark. The crowd was very noisy, and there was much confusion. The car finally moved forward into the next block, and another stone was hurled at it.

There was a sharp command, and as the car slowed down four shots were fired from it. Leroy Smith lounged on the steps of his store. William Walsh, his business neighbor from across the street, was his immediate companion, and a small crowd hung about near them. It was into this crowd that the guardsmen fired at a range of less than 20 feet. Smith and Walsh were both shot in the abdomen and fell where they stood. A third man, William Rooney, was slightly hurt by a glancing bullet.

Some of the guards stepped from the car and reloaded their pieces. The startled crowd fell back at the first shot, and a moment later the guards sprang aboard the car and were rapidly wheeled from the scene. Smith and Walsh were hurried away to hospitals for surgical care, and an angry mob swarmed into the street to curse and denounce the guardsmen. Leroy Smith is a member of the shoe manufacturing firm of Smith & Herrick and a citizen of wealth, respectability and prominence. He is a member of the Albany club and a whist expert of national reputation. He is 50 years of age and has a family. One of his sons serves with the signal corps of the Third brigade and was in the scrimmages that occurred after the arrival of the second batch of nonunion men.

Walsh is the head of a plumbing house and well known in business circles. His brother, Charles Walsh, is assistant chief of the fire department and is serving with the Tenth battalion, of which he is a lieutenant on strike duty. He is the son of a former Republican county clerk and 26 years old. Neither man had taken any part other than as spectators in the demonstration that provoked the shooting.

Conger and Ament Speak.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Edwin H. Conger, United States minister to China, was the guest of honor at the third annual dinner of the American Asiatic association at Delmonico's last evening and spoke freely about the prospects for American trade and missionary effort in China. He said that "notwithstanding the unparalleled barbarism of last summer the present situation has still most alluring promises for commercial and philanthropic work in the orient." The Rev. Dr. William S. Ament of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions was a guest at the dinner and responded to the toast, "American Missionaries In the Siege of the Legations." He referred to attacks which had been made upon missionaries by writers, but did not speak directly of Mark Twain's personal attack upon him.

Presbyterians Organize.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The Presbyterian general assembly, which began its one hundred and thirteenth meeting here yesterday, disposed of two important matters during the afternoon session. Rev. Henry Collin Minton, D. D., of San Anselmo, Cal., was elected moderator, and by an emphatic vote the assembly decided to accept the "Peoria plan" of choosing standing committees, though an effort was made to obviate the system. Rev. Dr. Minton's only opponent was Rev. George T. Purves, D. D., LL. D., of New York, and of the 613 votes cast Dr. Minton received 337 and Dr. Purves 276.

Killed by a Motor Cycle.

PATERSON, N. J., May 17.—Three weeks ago Lawyer Frederick J. MacMahon told his friends that he was going to buy a motor cycle. They told him that it was dangerous. "Oh," said he, "I am safe. See, I have just taken out a $10,000 accident policy insurance, and you may be sure that nothing will happen to me now!" Yesterday he died in Newark from the effects of an accident on his first ride on his new machine. He forgot how to put on the brake, and he guided the machine till he became utterly fatigued and ran at high speed against a building.

GOVERNOR NASH ILL.

Programme For the Entertainment of the Ohio Visitors Given Up.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—The programme for the entertainment of Governor Nash and the Ohio visitors has been declared off on account of the illness of Governor Nash. While attending the christening of one of the big trees in his honor near Santa Cruz Monday last he was poisoned with poison oak. He was partially blinded and suffered very much while addressing the Union League club. Yesterday he was not out of bed and is attended constantly by a physician and nurses. While his affliction is not serious, it prevents him from participating in any of the functions that had been arranged in his honor.

Yesterday was Ohio day at Golden Gate park. The tallyho rides and the banquet were given, but the open air reception and the speaking were abandoned, as Governor Nash was not present. At the banquet Governor Geer of Oregon responded for his state, and Messrs. Burkett, Langworth, Allen, Zerebe, Collier, Whiting and others from Ohio were called on by Toastmaster M. H. De Young, who paid high tributes to President McKinley, Governor Nash and other Ohioans and referred to the affliction of Mrs. McKinley as the cause of such general sympathy that no festivities could be participated in. After drinking to the health of the president and Governor Nash the party drank to the recovery of Mrs. McKinley in impressive silence, all standing.

Among other events that were declared off was the banquet of the Ohio Society of California to the president, at which over 100 visitors from Ohio were expected to be present.

Dying of an Assault.

NEW YORK, May 17.—John M. Powers, one of the most prominent citizens of Paterson, N. J., is near death from a mysterious assault. The family claim that if the sick man dies another murder will be chronicled. Powers is a coal merchant and besides is the owner of the largest brickyards in New Jersey. He is wealthy and resides at Mountain View. Two weeks ago Mr. Powers drove to Paterson and drew a large sum from the city bank to pay off the brickmakers. On the way home he stopped at several places and displayed his roll of money. His long absence from home alarmed his family, and they telephoned to the nearest hotel asking if he were there. On being told that he was the barkeeper was asked to keep Mr. Powers until a member of the family called for him. But before this member arrived Mr. Powers started for home. Between the hotel and the Powers' home, the family say, he was assaulted and robbed. Only 30 cents was found in his pockets. He was found lying on the highway. The prosecutor's office is busy gathering every clew that may lead to the arrest of the assailants.

A Head For Jacksonville Relief.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 17.—At yesterday's meeting of the Relief association it was deemed necessary, owing to the conflicting reports sent through the country by individuals which tend to confuse the public mind, to create an authoritative channel through which must be sent all information relating to the suffering people. A press representative was appointed in the person of Edwin G. Weed, bishop of the diocese of Florida, and the press as the channel of transmission of the appeals and statements of the needs of the people. So the public is informed that all statements as to the needs, all requests and all proclamations, unless signed by Bishop Weed or sent by his direct authority, are not to be given credence by the people and in no way voice the organization that is charged with the relief work of Jacksonville.

Harsh Words For Englishman.

DUBLIN, May 17.—The Irish People, Mr. William O'Brien's paper, contains a nine column attack on Mr. Wyndham, the Irish secretary, for the recent seizure of the paper because of its insulting references to King Edward. The general policy of Mr. Wyndham is also assaulted. Some of the subheads are the following, "Fools or Assassins, or Both," "Better Castle Lawlessness Than Castle Cant" and "The Meanness of the Rascals." "Villany," "treachery," "hypocricy" and "mendacity" are frequently used with reference to Mr. Wyndham, who in conclusion is called "a liar, speak and backbiter." Nothing is said against the king.

Peking Explosion Serious.

CAMBON IN CHICAGO.

French Embassador Greatly Honored by the City.

A BANQUET AT THE UNION LEAGUE.

Distinguished Frenchman There to Represent His Government In Behalf of an Alliance to Increase Use and Study of French.

CHICAGO, May 17.—M. Jules Cambon, the French embassador to the United States, was the guest of Chicago yesterday, and from the time of his arrival over the Pennsylvania road at 9 a. m. until late in the evening, when a banquet given in his honor at the Union League club was concluded, he was the central figure in a series of receptions and feasts. M. Cambon came to the city officially to recognize in behalf of the republic of France the union of the Alliance Francais with the University of Chicago. The purpose of the alliance is to increase the use and study of the French language in all countries.

At the station M. Cambon was met by a committee of prominent Chicago men, among them being Mr. James Deering, whose guest the embassador is during his stay in this city.

EMBASSADOR CAMBON,

He was driven at once to the residence of Mr. Deering, where for a short time he held an informal reception to meet the many callers who commenced to pour in upon him within a short time after his arrival at Mr. Deering's home.

At 11 o'clock, in company with his host and members of the reception committee, the embassador went to the Chicago club, where he was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Martin Ryerson. At the conclusion of this he was driven along the boulevards to the grounds of the Chicago university, about five miles distant. Here he was given an elaborate reception by President Harper, the members of the faculty and several hundred students. After being escorted to Kent hall, in which the formal exercises of the day were held, M. Cambon was greeted on behalf of the university by Professor Edmund J. James, who delivered the formal address of welcome.

In closing Professor James expressed the sentiment that the universities of France and the United States may cooperate in ever increasing measures to pomote that better mutual understanding which is at once the basis and one of the surest guarantees of international sympathy and peace.

The embassador was greeted with cheers when he arose to reply to the address of Professor James. In doing so he began by thanking the Chicago university for the reception given him. To the country to which he represented rather than to himself, he said, must the honor be rendered. France and the United States have ever been united by bonds of friendship, which time will only strengthen. He particularly thanked the university for having given a domicile to the Alliance Francaise, which is devoted to extending the knowledge of the French language and the taste for its literature and its spirit. This knowledge and the taste should be sufficiently profound to permit a penetration to the very truths of French literature. Continuing, he said:

"The University of Chicago in giving an abiding place to this society follows the role which should be undertaken by universities everywhere. The object of education is the preparation of men for the combats of life and in leading them by the notions that it furnishes to them of fulfilling honorably and faithfully the duties of their professions. But university studies do even more. They permit men to raise themselves above the limitations of the professional spirit, above even the horizon of the country in which they may live. They make of a man one who belongs to humanity as a whole, and thus they aid in universal progress. They facilitate union between peoples. They aid in the maintenance of the spirit of peace, so necessary to the development, moral and economic, of the world at large.

"Thus the Chicago university in aiding the French alliance in its special work lends itself to the progress of scholarship. It does more, and, in fact, it permits the young people of this great city to have a better comprehension and understanding of its immortal and classic monuments in the past and the immense contribution it makes today to philosophy, to history, to the physical and mathematical sciences."

The embassador concluded by saying: "I can only, therefore, praise in the highest degree the union between the Chicago university and the French alliance, which we celebrate today, and concerning it I congratulate myself both as a Frenchman and a friend of the United States."

Plainfield's Fine Trees.

One of the things which particularly appeared to Minister Edwin H. Conger on the occasion of his visit to Plainfield was the general prevalence of shade trees in this city. At his home on the western prairies, there are comparatively few trees. In China, where he has represented this country for several years, trees are very scarce. So it was, when he saw Plainfield, the sight of so many noble trees lining the streets caught his attention at once.

Plainfield people do not, as a rule, appreciate how greatly favored this city is in that direction. New Haven and Cleveland are both famous for the fine growth of trees to be found in those places, and yet Plainfield has, in proportion to its size, just as many and as fine trees as have those two cities, one in Connecticut and the other in Ohio. There are no trees in the centre of the business section, but that portion of the city is so relatively small that it makes little difference.

A view of the city obtained from Washington Rock or any other commanding point on the Watchung mountains reveals little of the city itself. Only a few church spires and the top of an occasional building rise above the great mass of foliage which marks the location of Plainfield. A stroll along the older streets in the residential part of the city and borough reveal many grand specimens. The maples largely prevail with a number of elms and an occasional oak tree. In the newer parts of the city trees have been planted, but it will require a number of years before they will reach the proper size.

All the care in the world given to the lawns of the city would not produce the beauty of the city streets which so impressed such an eminent personage as Minister Conger. Those who see it every day do not fully realize how beautiful Plainfield is in comparison to the other cities of the land. It takes a stranger to really appreciate it.

Complaints are again being made about the manner in which the streets are being sprinkled. Nobody objects to a proper wetting but a drenching is not pleasant. Wheelmen and owners of handsome vehicles seriously object to being compelled to ride or drive through a succession of mudpuddles. These complaints are heard every year. For some reason, there seems to be trouble on adjusting the amount of water needed and a howl has to come from the wheelmen and the horsemen before it is settled properly.

The purchase of the Mellick farm by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is a pretty sure evidence that the game of golf is here to stay. There are careful business men at the head of that club and they would not vote for any measure of that kind unless they felt that the circumstances would perfectly justify them in that action. They realize that the game is bound to continue in popularity for an indefinite period so that they will take no risk in purchasing the land required for the course.

Plainfield took a prominent part in the firemen's parade at Bayonne Wednesday. The Firemen's Exempt Association of this city made a good showing and attracted much attention with its fine silver hose carriage. Wherever that carriage goes, it always wins universal praise for its beauty. Then the members of the Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, were highly praised for the precision and excellence of their marching. They were without doubt the best drilled company in line.

Although the game between the baseball teams of city and borough High Schools last Wednesday was very close and extremely exciting, the best of feeling prevailed between the opposing teams. This is as it should be. The game is only played for the pleasure of playing and the petty jealousies and troubles, which too often tend to hurt athletics of any kind, should find no place there.

Plainfield is a good circus town. The management of the shows, which have been giving performances in this city for the past two days, reports that the two days here have been the best since the summer circuit began.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Mercer County Freeholders have been successful in their attempt to stop Sunday traffic on the Delaware and Raritan Canal by refusing to allow the draws of the county bridges to be turned on the Sabbath. The moral suasion of the Trenton Ministerial Union failed to work on the canal officials, but it was more effective with the county officers. This is but another illustration of the Biblical assertion that "faith without works is dead," and the preachers will hold a special meeting to thank the Freeholders for proving the truth of the text.—Newark News.

HANDICAPS AT PARK CLUB

LIST OF ALLOWANCES GIVEN IN COMPETITIONS IN THAT CLUB.

Handicaps Are Based on a Bogey Score of Eighty—Change in the Method of Handicaping.

Announcement was made two weeks ago at the Park Golf Club of the new handicap list which had been prepared by the golf committee for the coming season. Last season the best players in the club were started at scratch and the limit was thirty strokes. A change was made this year in the method of handicapping. The bogey score of 80 was taken as scratch and the members were handicapped in comparison with it. That placed the best players at 10, and advanced the limit to 40.

While the handicaps are subject to revision at the judgment of the golf committee, no changes have yet been made. They will be changed, however, by comparison with the average scores turned in. Failure to turn in any score at all will be figured as if the player did his best.

The list of handicaps is as follows:

10—Morgan T. Townsend, Fred P. Taylor, W. J. R. Thiers, Gustavus Faber.

14—W. de la R. Anderson, Charles Dupee, J. H. Simpson.

Too Far Away.

Chicago is noted, among other peculiarities, for the gigantic policemen that guard the crossings in its downtown district.

Several of these men exceed six feet four inches in height, and one, a colossal Irishman usually stationed at the intersection of State and Washington streets, stands six feet seven inches in his stockings, and is well proportioned.

"Why do you let your streets get so awfully dirty?" complained a visitor in the city one windy day, rubbing his eyes.

"I think," replied the friend who was showing him around, "the reason is that our policemen are so high up above the dirt they never see it."—Youth's Companion.

Deepest Well in France.

The deepest hole in France is a well in the coal mines of Ronchamp, Upper Seine, which was completed in December, 1900. Its depth is 3,609 feet and its utilizable diameter is 13 feet. The shaft is walled frm top to bottom and lined with copper where it traverses water-bearing strata. To complete it 60 months were required. At 30 feet below the surface the temperature of the rock is 50 degrees Fahrenheit; at the bottom the temperature is 117 degrees Fahrenheit, although the highest temperature of the air in the shaft (without artificial ventilation) is 88 degrees.—N. Disadvantage of Delicacy.

The editor sent her little story back with a polite note praising its delicacy, but saying it was unsuitable to his magazine. Again she sent it forth. Once more it was returned with kind words for its delicate touches and regrets that it was unavailable. When a third time the little story had been praised for its delicacy, but rejected, the authoress was in despair.

"It looks to me," she said, "as if my story was so delicate that it had gone into a decline."—N. Y. Advertiser.

Fish Worms a Yard Long.

Before long the average boy, if he lives near water, will be out with a shovel, digging for fishworms. Wouldn't it surprise him if he found one as thick as a man's finger and a yard long? Such earthworms are found in Madagascar. When dry, one of them weighs from 4½ to 6½ ounces. They eat earth and behave exactly as our little fishworms do.—Little Chronicle.

Tips by Government Officers.

When officers are traveling under government orders, tips to sleeping car porters and steamship stewards are regarded as legitimate expenses, and allowed for; but for some unexplained reason tips to dining-room waiters and all other servants are not so regarded, and must be paid out of the officers' pockets.—N. Y. World.

None Worth the Strain.

Uncle George—Honest, now, Hannah; do you believe it is possible for a woman to keep a secret?

Aunt Hannah—Of course it is; but I don't think, to tell the truth, that there ever was a secret that was worth keeping.—Boston Transcript.

A Compliment.

The Old Man—Your love for my daughter seems to have grown very fast since you found out I was worth so much money.

CHAPTER XX.

A month later Maj. Goddard was enabled to move about the house and grounds with a cane. He had had the best nursing in the world, and considering the great load which had been removed from his mind it is little wonder that he did recover. The secret of the identity of his assailant was kept by Blanche, Father Surtees and the major from the other members of the household. A report had become current that the attack was made by a robber, whom Blanche and the major had met on the grounds, and who fired on them to make his escape. These three knowing ones thought it was likely Jeanne had given up her murderous plans, but for fear that she might cause further trouble, Father Surtees was making strenuous efforts to find her that he might inform her that they knew of her marriage to Dugdale.

One bright, sunny day Talley, who still lived at Lyndhurst, persuaded the major to go into the city with him to see the new bank, of which Talley was cashier and the major vice president. They had both disposed of their G. N. & W. stock at an enormous increase in value, and had invested part of their earnings in the stock of the new bank.

The major was writing some letters in his office at the bank that afternoon when the office boy announced a lady. And when the visitor entered, despite a long, heavy veil, Goddard recognized Jeanne. As the office boy withdrew she closed the door and stood with her hand on the handle.

"I see you recognize me, Rowland," she began.

"Yes, I recognize you," said the major, grown white with excitement. "Won't you sit down?"

She took a seat opposite his revolving chair, and threw back her veil, disclosing a white, wasted face.

"I have not come as an enemy, Rowland," she said, softly.

"Oh, you have not?" he said.

"No; for I am completely in your power. I knew I was taking a big risk; but I could not have any peace of mind till I had seen you. I have met my husband, Henry Dugdale, and he said he had told Blanche about my first marriage. I know you can hand me over to the law as a bigamist, but I don't think you will do so, considering—considering your love for Blanche. My spell over you is broken, Rowland."

"Yes, it is broken, Jeanne. I could look you in the face for a thousand years and only wonder how—"

"Don't say it," she broke in. "Let's part friends."

"After you tried to kill her—poor child?" he asked. "Jeanne, I cannot forgive that."

"I was out of my head," said Jeanne, pleadingly. "I did not intend to shoot at her till I overheard you about to confess. That maddened me. I would not have shot at you even then, if you had not run between me and her, but I have sorely repented. You see I can repent, too, Rowland. You have, and I know there is a sort of light in your face that never was there before. Do try to pardon me, and let me go away and try to live a better life. I am so, so tired of wrong-doing. It has never led me anywhere. Henry still loves me, and will take me back to Denver, where no one will ever associate my name with yours. He says our child is longing for me. He sent me to you. He wants to feel that we will not be troubled by your preferring charges against me. Will you do this?"

"I shall be glad to, Jeanne," said the major, slowly. "I want to tell Blanche that she need no longer be afraid of you. She is very nervous. Ever since that night she starts at the slightest sound. She seems to feel that her life is constantly in danger."

"Well, tell her we are going away to-morrow. I shall never come to New York again. My husband is a good man, and he has suffered."

Jeanne rose and held out her hand.

"Good-by," she said. "I am very sorry I wounded you. When I heard you were about to die, I came near killing myself. I would have done so if Henry had not saved me. He told me you were recovering."

"Good-by." The major gave her his hand. "I think you had better draw your veil and go at once. Talley is in the counting-room, and might recognize you."

Half an hour later Blanche drove up to the bank in a cab, and remained seated in it while she sent in a message to her husband that she would wait for him outside. He came out ready to go home at once.

"I was afraid to trust you alone with Mr. Talley," she said, with a smile. "I had some shopping to do, and I decided to come by for you."

He got in by her side, and they started for the station.

"Blanche, you are fibbing," he said, seriously. "You were afraid something might happen to me. I see it in your face."

She made no denial as she caught his hand and held it warmly.

"Of what were you afraid, darling?" he asked.

"You know well enough," she answered, abruptly. "I have been nearly crazy all afternoon, thinking—thinking, oh, darling, you said yourself that she is in New York!"

"Yes; but she is going away to-morrow."

"Have you seen her?"

"Only a few minutes ago. She came to ask my forgiveness, and to beg me not to prosecute her. Her husband has taken her back. Blanche, you will never see her again."

"And you pardoned her, dear?"

"As you did me, darling. I am a better man for what I have been through, may she not be a better woman?"

"I suppose so," exclaimed Blanche. "Oh, dear, I am so happy now—that was the only thing left to trouble me."

THE END.

The Cluck in Speech.

Among the Geckos of Asia and the clucking sand lizards of the South African veldt the (lingual) suctional note is probably a sex call. On the other hand, the "clocking" of a "broody hen," as John Ray, the seventeenth century naturalist, termed the sound by which fowls, both cocks and hens, summon their families to a feast, ostensibly signifies a bidding to come to a selected trysting place. It is in many respects the antithesis of the sibilant. Although banished for centuries from European speech yet just as the hiss of an old-time language lingers on the lips of an English mother, while she soothes a fractious child to sleep, or can be heard from the mouth of a hostler when he is grooming a restless steed; so, too, the click of the driver still rouses the dormant energy of the English hack, as it doubtless did for generations before English was spoken. The short, sharp note, best represented, perhaps, by the letters cl-k, gl-k, cr-k (and vocalized as E. clack, click, G., glucken, E. cluck, crack, etc., which are really the outbreathed equivalents of certain lingual clicks), is almost as widely, although not so generally distributed throughout the animal kingdom as the explosive hiss. Owing to its mode of production, the click (or cl-k) is, I believe, only uttered by animals possessing fleshy tongues.—Humanitarian.

TRAGIC LOVE STORY.

Why Jane Swank Has Not Spoken a Word to a Living Soul in Twenty-Five Years.

In the Richland county infirmary, near Mansfield, O., sits a white-faced woman, who seldom raises her eyes from a heavy gold band ring on the third finger of her left hand. For 25 years Jane Swank has never spoken a single word to a human being.

Twenty-eight years ago the Swank family moved to Jackson township, in Richland county, O., from Pennsylvania. Part of the purpose of Jane's father in moving west was to separate the girl from the young man with whom she was very much in love and whom the father hated. The young man soon came out to Ohio for a visit with his sweetheart. Jane promised to marry him, and a date was set for the wedding. The young man gave Jane a heavy gold engagement ring, and then, with many avowals of love and promises to be faithful, the two parted.

After her sweetheart had gone Jane watched eagerly every day for his letters, but none came, for her father intercepted them. Finally, one night he commanded the girl to throw away her ring and to promise to give up her lover. When she refused and wept, the father beat her until she lay unconscious at his feet. The neighbors heard of the tragedy, and a lynching party was organized to hunt for the elder Swank, but while he was hiding in the woods near his house during a storm a tree fell on him and killed him. The suitor to whom Jane had been engaged hunted her up in the asylum in which she was incarcerated and tried to call her back to reason. But she did not know him, screamed when he came near her, and he finally went away a heart-broken man.

The gold ring was the only thing in which Jane took any pleasure. During a fire in the infirmary some years ago it was lost, and the poor woman procured a piece of twine and wore that on her finger instead. Some of the women in Mansfield, knowing her story, bought her another gold band ring in close imitation of the one she had lost, and gave it to her. She believed it was her own ring, and her joy on receiving it was pitiable.

Now poor Jane Swank sits with the gold ring on her finger, as she has done for 25 years, and moans through long days with vague thoughts of her lover of 25 years ago fighting vainly for a place in her poor demented brain.

THE CHURCHYARD LAMB.

At the Risk of His Life John Thorpe Went Down a Deep Well to Save the Poor Creature.

In the churchyard at Wye, in New Hampshire, is a deep well, long since disused, but which has its crazy walls still lining it and in the bottom the black, slimy ooze-water.

John Thorpe, bricklayer, on his way to work, passed through the churchyard one morning. As he neared the well the plaintive bleat of a lamb attracted his attention. He went over to the broken cover and, looking down, saw the creature swimming feebly round and round.

The sight was too much for the honest bricklayer. Hurrying to a neighboring house, he got a rope and volunteer to help him. Down the rope, hand over hand, Thorpe went, but in the middle of the shaft it narrowed so from bulging walls that Thorbe had to remove stones in half a dozen places.

Then, with the crazy walls still crazier from the disturbed stones, Thorpe went on down. The lamb was tied to the rope and hauled up to safety. Then the rope was lowered again, and after having spent nearly two hours in the dark depths Thorpe climbed out.

Anybody who has stomach trouble is to be pitied. They cannot fully enjoy life themselves or make others happy. Their existence is miserable. Ripans Tabules will positively cure stomach trouble. The following case is only one of thousands where the Tabules have proved effectual. "Last summer I became weak, had a swimming in my head and a terrible backache," writes a housewife from Roseville, Ill. "I had a tired feeling all the time and my stomach hurt. It felt like a great load grinding round. The doctor said it was one kind of dyspepsia. I could get nothing to help me and I became discouraged. I saw Ripans Tabules advertised in the 'Roseville Times,' and I at once sent for some. It was only a few days until I felt better, and all that swimming in my head left me entirely. I feel like a new person and would not do without the Tabules in the house. I was hardly able to do anything when I began taking them, but in three weeks I was able to do all my work, including the washing, and have done it ever since."

A Successful Woman Farmer

IN a pretty home upon a hill commanding a rarely picturesque view of the winding Ohio river lives Mrs. Laura A. Flanegan, farmer. Her husband, Captain Flanegan, has his interests to attend to; she has hers. In the early years of her married life the captain's affairs required him to be away from the river hill home most of the time.

Mrs. Flanegan was a college bred woman, but circumstances demanded that she should steep herself in agricultural lore—to be farmer while her husband was absent. Later it fell to her lot to take charge of her mother's estates, rural lands. She has done this so successfully that she is known as one of the best farmers in that part of beautiful southern Ohio.

Her first task was to put fences and farm buildings in thorough repair, to clear up villainous briers and undergrowth and to fill the gullies of the hill lands. These preliminaries took all the profits of Mrs. Flanegan's first years of farming, but she persevered. The next thing was to make the land pay her mother a per cent of profit in these bad times for agriculture—times when farm men and boys are walking away and letting their rooftrees fall in and their lands go back to the desolation of wilderness because they cannot make farming pay.

Mrs. Flanegan held the levers of things in her own hands and worked them. She is a woman of remarkable physical strength and perfect health.

A PRETTY COUNTRY HOME.

She possesses strong, clear intellect and great character force, so that whether to farm men or to anybody else "what she says goes." She has been able to put her farms in excellent condition. She watches carefully the demands of the city markets and prices of commodities. When the prices are satisfactory, she rushes the commodities in. She changes her farm products and live stock from time to time to meet the demands of the market.

She has noted the growing American taste for mutton and so has every year a considerable number of spring lambs ready just when prices are good. Sheep are one of her main dependences. The wool pays and the lambs yield excellent returns. As a judge of sheep and live stock in general she is unexcelled. Poultry also claims a good share of her attention, and every year there are tender young broilers and later fat turkeys for the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets.

Her pride is perhaps in her cows, mostly of Jersey blood. She has learned how to make farm butter that city folk will not sniff at and turn away from. It is a cold, sorry fact that hardly one farm woman in ten can do that. None of Mrs. Flanegan's butter is ever sold for rancid grease at 5 cents a pound, to be turned into a boiling vat and done over with fresh buttermilk to make it salable at all. Her butter is engaged by one purchaser, who pays top price the year round, and if she had four times as much she could dispose of it at the same rate. She has no more than four or five cows, but these are kept up to their best.

Here is this one woman with two farms, a dairy, poultry yard and vegetable garden and the care of her house on her hands. All the dairy work is performed by herself and much of that in connection with the poultry. She also does her own housework mostly.

She has not made a fortune, but she has already done what half the men farmers say they cannot do—make the soil yield a profit. Her success is partly owing to her magnificent physical health and strength, but still more to the study and thought with which she plans and executes enterprises. The brain that coped with trigonometry in college is able to run cows and chickens.

JANE STORY.

King Edward requested from parliament an increase of more than a million a year wages over the amount received by Queen Victoria. The Woman's Journal says this is the most conspicuous example on record of a man's getting more pay than a woman for the same work.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 19, "A Nameless Girl Heroine." Text, II Kings v, 1-4.

It is a simple story. She was heroic because so artlessly true. This is no romance of great physical suffering and courageous endurance. It is the plain tale of an honest child with no genius but straightforward trust in God and regard for men.

The little girl was a Hebrew child. She had been surrounded in the land of Israel by varied religious influences. Idol temples and heathen worship with its superstitions and immoralities were so common that many lost hope for the cause of pure worship. But there was a prophet of Jehovah also in Samaria, and he was known through all the land, as his teacher had been before him. Elisha and Elijah were great names among the children in the land of Israel. Whatever the influences under which she had been reared, she had learned two facts thoroughly—Jehovah was God and Elisha was His prophet. Together they could do anything needful. That was a great lesson to learn. But it is oftener learned in childhood than we realize. The difficulty is that it is so frequently forgotten in after years.

A second matter of importance is she did not forget her lesson. Captivity in a strange land, the land of her nation's hereditary enemies, and servitude in the family of the great general of the army—what effect will it have on the child? Will it turn her head because of the luxury and display so she will be ashamed of her own land and people and religion and speedily forget all the past? That is not an uncommon experience. Will the strange new life make her pine for the father's house and hate all this strangeness and all these strangers and fill the life with fretful discontent? It would not be singular if it worked that way.

But it didn't do either. She was a sober sensed little maiden. Furthermore, she had no overstock of timidity. She believed in God wholly and in Elisha, she had proper regard for Naaman and was sorry that he was a leper even if he did hold her as a slave, and she had courage to speak out and tell facts which, if she had been older, she might have thought imprudent to declare in an enemy's land, since it reflected on their gods. Because she was a child, a godly child, and had the heroism of perfect honesty and loving heartedness she said, "Would God, my Lord, were before the prophet in Samaria, for he would recover him of his leprosy!"

That is the whole story, so far as she is concerned. It is enough to give her a secure place among the heroines of history. She was the means of giving health to the great man Naaman and, what was of vastly more importance, pointing by that means all the people of that time and after ages to the God Jehovah of Israel as the only one who can cleanse from the leprosy of sin and give salvation.

Equal opportunities for faithfulness are open to every child now and ever. There may be no such dramatic episodes connected with our lives, no such combination of circumstances and public record of our deeds. But the important facts are not these, but the heroic soul of the child and her unfearing testimony.

It is well for us to make clear to all the children the elements of moral courage in this case—the unquestioning faith in God and His prophet, the deep sympathy with suffering and the open direction to needed help.

Shall the League Live?

In places the first enthusiasm of organization is past. The numbers which flocked to the meetings when something new was under discussion have dropped off. The initial momentum is spent. Shall the League still keep going or shall it gradually slow up and close up?

There are very few places where the League cannot be made of decided benefit to the people, old and young. It should not be discontinued unless it is manifestly impossible to continue it helpfully to the life of the church. It will need new adjustment and adaptation quite likely. Some have given it a one sided development of one sort or another. Right it up and round it out. Too exclusive attention to devotional, literary or social aims alone will result in stagnation after awhile. Combine all features harmoniously; put thought and work into it; don't expect everybody to "enthuse" over it; put your own energy into it and energize others. If others shirk, then shoulder the more work yourself. You can make it live if you are alive. If old methods have grown inoperative, devise new ones. Above all other things, be genuine and do not simulate interest, zeal or care. Let the fire be real and not a make believe blaze. Do a deal of thinking and a deal of praying.

Incoming Tide.

There has been an apparent season of ebb tide in religious affairs in the past few years. The churches of all denominations have made less than their usual gains and in some cases have decreased in numbers. But at the same time there have been in preparation forces destined to make success later. The gathering and training of the young people have not been a hindrance to the onward movement of the cause of Christ. A multitude of causes has operated to produce the condition complained of and lamented.

Now the tide has turned. The indications show a different current. The student volunteer movement is significant of improvement. The young people in our schools are offering themselves for mission work in greater numbers than ever before. Teachers, preachers, doctors, directors of industrial education, anything that will help forward the kingdom of Christ, they are ready to do.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 19—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—A nameless girl heroine.—II Kings v, 1-4. (A union meeting with the Juniors.)

The study of the life and character of the little Jewish maid who is the "nameless girl heroine" of the topic is both interesting and profitable. Her name is unknown, as are the names of myriads of God's heroes and heroines. Though a Jewish maid, she was a captive in the family of Naaman, the captain of the Syrian army. Naaman was a great man, great in all particulars but one; "he was a leper." The possession of this disease must have darkened and saddened his whole life. What would be the world's wealth and victories and power to a leper? In her sympathy for her master the little Jewish maid spoke of the prophet of Israel to Naaman's wife, and the result of her action was that Naaman went to Elisha the prophet and was healed, and became a believer in the true God.

This story teaches us that when away from home we should not forget our God or our religion. This little heroine was far away from home. She was a captive in the home of the enemy of her country. Yet she did not forget her God or his prophet. She must have had many temptations to meet. There would be many things about her in her new life that would tend to make her forget God and home, and yet she did not do so. In this she should be an example to all Endeavorers. Many people today, when they go from home, leave their religion behind them. Many think that when they are in Rome they should do as Rome does. This is a mistake. We should always do right, no matter where we are. We should be true to God, whether at home or abroad. We should be faithful to Christ, no matter where we may be. God is everywhere, and from any place we may be called before the judgment seat of Christ.

This story teaches us that even the young can be used of God for great good. This little heroine did not say, "I am too young to do anything." She was young, but she had faith in a great God. She could not cure her master, but her God could, and she believed it and acted accordingly, and the result was that her master was cured of a hated and loathsome disease, and, what was even better, he was led to a knowledge of the true God, believed in Him and confessed his faith. What a work for a little captive maid to do! God has a work for all to do—young as well as old. He has a work for us to do, and we should be faithful in doing it. We should not hesitate because we are young or in a humble position or in an obscure place. "Whatsoever our hands find to do we should do it with our might." Results should be left with God. Above all we should do what we can to bring others to a knowledge of the true God. Many have been led to Jesus and have been saved through the efforts and influences of children. As this Jewish maid led Naaman to the true God, can we not lead some to Christ, the physician of the soul, that they may be cured of the leprosy of sin?

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Prepare a special programme, appropriate for a union meeting.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxxvii, 1-3; Ex. ii, 1-18; I Sam. ii, 18, 19; iii, 1-10; II Sam. xviii, 9-18; II Kings xxii, 1; Est. ii, 5-9; Luke ii, 1-20, 52; Eph. vi, 1-3; II Tim. i, 1-5.

A Cure For Nerves.

You are on the verge of what some physicians call "nervous prostration," though really there is no such disease. It is simply a lack of will power, a sinking into imagination which plays havoc with religion and usefulness. If God is your God indeed, why, you need not be troubled either in body or spirit. Go on and live. Go on and work. Exercise your will power and make yourself move. Perhaps that seems heartless, but it is only by determined, fearless struggle that this difficulty can be overcome. If one submits or if one yields to emotion to suffer the weakness to increase, the nerves gain the victory.

Nerves are strange things even to physicians. As a minister I am free to say they can be controlled in many cases by a pure, healthy trust in God and by an active, happy, determined life. A nervous religion is abnormal. A balanced religion places self control as its first necessity and asks God for it and takes it as from Him.—Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins in Congregationalist.

The Spirit of Love.

The spirit of love, wherever it is, is its own blessing and happiness because it is the truth and reality of God in the soul and therefore is in the same joy of life and is the same good to itself everywhere and on every occasion. Would you know the blessing of all blessings? It is this God of love dwelling in your soul and killing every root of bitterness, which is the pain and torment of every earthly, selfish love, for all wants are satisfied, all disorders of nature are removed, no life is any longer a burden, every day is a day of peace, everything you meet becomes a help to you because everything you see or do is all done in a sweet, gentle element of love.—William Law.

Away With Pessimists!

I here part forever with all the cynical and saturnine. I do not want to live on the same street with them in heaven. They will always be singing out of tune and searching for fractures in the amethyst and finding fault with the country. Give them a world to themselves where they can have an eternity of pouting, a sky full of drizzle drozzle, an owl in each tree to hoot away the hours and a kennel of snarling rat terriers to nip the robe of every angelic intruder.—Christian Herald.

A BIG BILL

won't stare you in the face if you use Hygeia Ice. It will last longer than the natural ice. You will have no doctor bill on account of germs from ice, for Hygeia Ice is made from artesian well water, filtered to make it doubly pure. Take this matter into consideration and order our wagon to stop at your door. Pure ice costs no more than the unhealthy.

SPORTING.

GOLF.

The managers of the Westfield Golf Club are planning to open their course on Decoration Day with several interesting events. The course is gradually being put in fine condition.

The secretary of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is preparing a new list of members to be published in book form. It is earnestly desired that those who are going to propose persons for membership do so early so that the book may be made as complete as possible.

So far in any of the competitions at the Park Golf Club this season, none of the club's best players have turned in any remarkable scores. There are several players in the club who used to turn in a card which was very close to 90 while over half a dozen have been below the hundred mark. There have been, however, no scores below the even hundred turned in this season. Morgan T. Townsend has been very close in several occasions but has never fallen below that mark.

There will be the first play tomorrow morning on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course for the Fisk handicap cup. This cup is given by Mrs. Charles J. Fisk for women, competition for active, associate and junior associate members to be played for each month except August, until October, the four winners to play off at (handicap) match play, no one being allowed to score more than one preliminary win for the cup. In the afternoon there will be the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup.

Much interest is being shown this spring on the links of the Park Golf Club over the weekly competitions for the President's cup. The contest has now been running three weeks, but it will be impossible to get any idea of the finish until the summer is well over. By that time the contest may have narrowed down to a few competitors. Last season Edgar I. Serrell, who finally won the cup, did not appear among the leaders until the summer was nearly over. He then came to the front very fast and won out without much trouble. At present Charles W. McCutchen, who gave the trophy, is in the lead. His handicap is likely to suffer very soon from a visitation from the golf committee in which case he will have to do some great playing to retain his lead. Next to him is Morgan T. Townsend, who is one of the virtually scratch men.

—Skin affections will readily disappear by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Look out for counterfeits. If you get DeWitt's you get good results. It is the quick and positive cure for piles. L. W. Randolph.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Hope chapel and the St. Mary's nines will play a game of baseball tomorrow afternoon on the Plainfield avenue grounds.

This afternoon the second team of the North Plainfield High School will cross bats with Conover's team on the Westervelt avenue grounds.

Armstrong, of the borough High School team, has recovered from his strained ankle. He shows no effects from his injury and is as fleet of foot as ever.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team has no game scheduled for tomorrow. Its next contest is with the Battin High School nine at Elizabeth Wednesday afternoon.

Townsend Mason, the captain of the Plainfield High School team, strained his back in the first game with the boroughites' team Wednesday of last week and the injury handicapped him in Wednesday's game.

It is feared that Dupee's injury will interfere with his playing for some time. The swift pitcher for the Leal's team strained his back in trying to do too much work in the game with Battin High School Wednesday afternoon.

The Westfields have secured Burke and Beck of the Hobokens. Burke will catch VanZant and Beck will play right field. Saturday's game will be against the Murray Hills who will have Burchell, Cranford's pitcher of last year, in the box.

Howard George, the catcher for the North Plainfield High School team, did not put up as good a game as usual Wednesday afternoon in the contest with the city High School nine. In the early stages of the game he hurt a finger which bothered him much and was responsible for some poor work during the contest.

A new local baseball team was formed yesterday among the enthusiasts at the Pond Tool Works. It will be known as Pond's baseball team. Wm. Connelly was elected manager and is already preparing a schedule. All teams in this vicinity desirous of arranging games are requested to communicate with him. The first game will be played within a few weeks.

S. D. Drake has offered a silver cup as a prize to the winner of two games to be played between the Plainfield High School team and the Rutgers Preparatory School nine. The conditions are that one game be played annually and that the cup be held by the principal of the school which wins the games until it is finally awarded. The Plainfield High School team's manager has not yet responded to Mr. Drake's offer.

Great interest is being manifested in the ball game to be played between the Clinton Avenue Club and the Plainfield A.A. on the latter's grounds, South Second street and Clinton avenue, tomorrow afternoon. A great deal of rivalry exists and that lovers of the game will see a fine exhibition is without doubt. Either Squires or McLaughlin will pitch for Clinton Avenue while the P. A. A. will line up as follows: Jackson, cf; Connors, 2b; Scott, 3b; Lederer, 1b; Doyle, p; Crouty, c; Mumford, lf; Connolly, rf; Dodd, ss. Howard Higgins, who proved so efficient as umpire last Saturday, will again act in that capacity tomorrow.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL SONG.

WILL BE USED IN GAME WITH RUTGERS PREP.

City High School Boys Are Getting Ready For Baseball Game at New Brunswick Tomorrow.

The boys of the Plainfield High School today practiced the school yells lately adopted which will be heard during tomorrow's game with the Rutgers' Preparatory School team. In addition they will sing the following song composed by Linn Bridgeman and Richard Lovell:

More work for the undertaker,
Another little job for the casket maker,
A local cemetery very very busy
On a brand new grave.
No hope for the Rutgers Prep.
Um, yah, yah.
Three cheers for Capt. Mason,
Pitcher first, then second baseman,
Angel dear and Fred VanAuken
Pitcher for our team,
No hope for Rutgers Prep.
Um, yah, yah,
Robert Meeker, Horse and Sherry
Are all right, and so is Merry.
There's Herb. Munroe and Harvey M.
Fred Mason follows him,
No hope for Rutgers Prep.
Um, yah, yah.
Now boys yell and make a racket
A little more noise and then we'll have it
Let them hear about Plainfield High,
For there soon will be
No hope for Rutgers Prep.
Um, yah, yah.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Estella Brooks, of Duer street, is enjoying a new bicycle which she recenty purchased.

The members of the bicycling division of the Y. M. C. A., have made arrangements for a run on Decoration Day. The destination will be Fort Lee and after a short ride along the Palisades, the return home will be made by way of the Hudson county boulevard.

Some progress has been made in the arrangements for the Memorial Day celebration at Dewey Park. The Reading Standard Wheelmen of Newark, N. J., have entered ten men in the bicycle race, and four entries have been received for this contest from Plainfielders as well as one from Garwood, N. J.

George L. Apgar, of East Front street, is desirous of forming a division of cyclers to enter the New York Journal Century run which is to take place Saturday, June 15. Twenty-five riders are necessary for a division and half the number has already been secured. The run will be over the Long Island course and all finishing within the time limit will be presented with a gold medal. Wheelmen in this city wishing to enter may procure entry blanks and all information by addressing Mr. Apgar.

Marshall Is Helping Them Out.

Owing to the handicapped condition of Morey & LaRue's laundry in this city on account of the fire at Elizabeth yesterday, Harry W. Marshall, of the American Steam Laundry, is rendering assistance to the former company's branch in Plainfield at present.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR THE JERSEY CENTRAL.

Change in Rules Governing Engineers and Firemen Recently Made.

REGULATES THE PAY.

PROVIDES FOR DISCIPLINING AND FOR DISMISSAL.

Required Hours of Service And Basis For Promotion Are Also Fixed—Other Rules Governing Engineers and Firemen.

A new schedule of rules and regulations for engineers and firemen on the Central Railroad of New Jersey has just gone into effect.

It replaces the old schedule, which has been used ever since 1887, and is claimed to be a great improvement in every way. The need for this new set of rules and regulations has been evident for a number of years, but it was less than a year ago that the first definite steps were taken to formulate the existing schedule.

The required hours of service, rates of pay, basis for promotion and demotion, the procedure in disciplining and dismissing an engineer or fireman as well as a numerous other regulations, which go to make a complete schedule, are all elaborately detailed.

Under the provisions all passenger engineers will receive 3.50 cents per mile except those assigned regularly to runs between Jersey City and Newark, who will get 3.60 cents. Ten miles per hour is guaranteed. On road service, engineers will be paid on freight and coal trains 3.50 cents per mile, on runs of 120 miles or less, and 3.75 cents on runs of 121 miles or more.

The firemen on the passenger service will receive 2.20 cents per mile on all runs of 100 miles or less, and on the road service 2.15 cents per mile on all runs of 100 miles or less. Provision is also made for extra pay for all runs over 100 miles, and this applies to all firemen as well as to engineers. A guarantee of ten miles per hour is made. The pay of engineers and firemen on the N. J. Southern and L. and S. divisions are particularly set forth.

Other rules governing firemen and engineers of special interest are: Attendance at court as witnesses, by request of the company, carries with it the regular day's wages given by the company, and also reasonable expenses. Witness fees are to accrue to the company.

Sufficient time for rest will be given and no man will be called upon to go out sooner than ten hours after his arrival.

An engineer running a train taken off will be replaced on the train he had before or on a train in the same class.

When no assignment to a regular run is practicable, they shall run first in first out and this is termed "pool service."

If a reduction in the force becomes necessary, preference for retention will be given the most competent men and they will rank according to age.

Men leaving the service and then returning will rank as newcomers. Those who have been employed at least ninety days will be given a clearance card or letter upon leaving the service. Loss or breakage of tools will not be charged against the engineers or firemen.

An impartial investigation will be made before any man is disciplined or dismissed on any charge, and the accused will have the right to call in a brother engineer or fireman to act as his counsel at the hearing.

All vacancies and new rules will be bulletined for ten days on the division effected and the oldest engineer or firemen in the service will be given the run, provided he is competent for the position. Engineers and firemen in yard service who have not asked to be assigned to road service in two years lose their rights to such service.

Wants Larger Quarters.

The Ingersoll-Sargeant Drill Company, the largest manufacturing industry in Easton, is considering the advisability of removing its plant to another location where more room can be obtained. Wm. L. Saunders, of Rockview avenue, is the vice-president of the concern, which employes 1,300 men.

FINE HOSTS WERE WORKMEN.

COLUMBIA LODGE ENTARTAINED A NUMBER OF GUESTS.

At Lodge Rooms in Exempt Firemen's Hall — Address by Rev. Dr. Snodgrass.

Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A. O. U. W. and a host of friends enjoyed one of those pleasing socials last evening for which the former is rapidly becoming popular. It was given in the lodge rooms in Exempt Firemen's hall which was well filled with the invited guests.

It was the intention of the committee in charge to have District Deputy Deifendorf, of Newark, make an address, but an alteration in plans made it impossible for him to come. But the committee was equal to the occasion and secured Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass, who is competent to speak on lodge matters, having been a member of the Workmen for fifteen years. His remarks were very timely, and though savoring of lodge work were interspersed with much humor.

He was followed by Grand Overseer Nash, who for the benefit of the non-members present, cited a few interesting statistics of the order's formation and growth and the good work it has performed.

The remainder of the programme consisted of dialect selections by the inimitable and ever popular John H. Carney, who was encored several times, a well rendered trombone solo by Garrett Dunham and selections by an orchestra composed of Martin Korff, Vincent Sokol, Garrett Dunham and George Smith. The members of the orchestra gave their services gratuitously. The evening's enjoyment terminated with the serving of refreshments and during their disposal sociability reigned among hosts and guests.

The committee, which arranged the details of the affair and was responsible for its success, was composed of V. W. Nash, chairman, R. V. Kenney, Corra Ryno, F. M. Lunger and George S. McGinnis.

MOTORMAN HURT.

Amos B. Stites, of Watchung Avenue, Injured in Trolley Accident Near Roselle.

Amos B. Stites, a trolley motorman, lies at his home on Watchung avenue, suffering great pain from a broken ankle, which was caused in an effort to escape what seemed to be instant death.

The accident happened on Main street, in Roselle, yesterday morning. Mr. Stites was acting as motorman on one of the trolley company's street sprinklers at the time. While going at a fair rate of speed, a wagon of the Hygeia Ice Company, it is said, suddenly attempted to cross the track directly ahead of the car. The motorman applied the brakes, and then with presence of mind jumped from the trolley car. Unfortunately landing on the ground, his right ankle bent and the heavy fall caused it to break.

The injured man was placed aboard a trolley car and brought to his home, Dr. Sherman Cooper, of Westfield, accompanying him. Dr. Cooper, assisted by Drs. J. T. Fritts and Marcus L. Clawson, reset the ankle. Mr. Stites is suffering great pain and will not be able to move for some time.

Motorman Stites occupies the upper floor of the house on Watchung avenue, near Second street, used by the trolley company as its office.

The conductor of the sprinkler was John Vroom, a former Daily Press employe, who resides in this city also.

EPWORTH LEAGUE GAVE A CARNIVAL SOCIAL.

Novel Form of Entertainment Given in Vincent Chapel Last Evening.

A MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

GIVEN IN CONNECTION WITH PAPERS ON FAMOUS CARNIVALS.

Epworth League of First M. E. Church Concluded Its Social Season With a Well Attended Affair Last Evening.

The literary committee of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church gave the last entertainment and social of the season last evening in Vincent chapel. There was a large attendance of members and friends and the affair was one of the most enjoyable of the season. The rooms were prettily decorated in spring fashion, wild flowers being used in abundance.

The affair was styled a "carnival social." Aside from the other pleasant features of the programme, there were several papers presented telling of the famous carnivals held in the various parts of the world. The carnival of Rome was described by George A. Horne, and Miss Edith Dyer graphically portrayed the beauties of the carnival at Venice. A very interesting paper was that given by Mrs. A. B. Meredith, in which she told of the carnival of Nice. Robert F. Fenno, who lived for some years in New Orleans, gave a delightful talk concerning the Mardi Gras carnival. He related many interesting features concerning this fete.

In addition to these there was a musical programme of much merit. Miss Clyde Burnet gave several piano solos, and Mrs. Burnett, of Sandford avenue, sang several pleasing alto solos. C. Maynard Evans rendered whistling solos to the delight of all. William Holmes, baritone, favored the audience with popular selections and each one of those taking part in the programme was accorded hearty applause. Miss Gertrude Sharp was the efficient accompanist.

After the entertainment sociability was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

FUNERAL OF J. G. HABERLE.

K. of P. and A. O. U. W. Assisted at Service Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of John G. Haberle took place yesterday afternoon. Services were conducted at his late residence on Chatham street by Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church.

Many were present as a mark of respect to their departed friend. Members of the lodges of which Mr. Haberle was a member attended in a body. The floral tributes were especially elaborate.

At the house and also at the grave the services were short and impressive. At the graveside in the Methodist cemetery the Knights of Pythias performed their burial ritual and Rev. Dr. Snodgrass said the benediction.

The pallbearers represented the two orders to which Mr. Haberle belonged. The bearers were J. J. Crouse, W. H. B. Drake and Joseph Cooney, of the K. of P., and Michael Koller, Henry Nischwitz and V. W. Nash, of the A. O. U. W.

Jury Disagreed.

A jury trial was held yesterday afternoon in the case on contract brought by Jett Brothers against Richard O'Connor, of Bound Brook. The case involved the liability on a promissory note. The jury disagreed. W. S. Angleman, of this city, represented Jett Brothers while John Flech, of Somerville, appeared for Mr. O'Connor. Another trial will be held in two weeks.

NO REPORT YET.

Committee on Municipal Ownership in Borough is Not Ready to Report.

No report was made last evening at the Borough Council adjourned meeting by the committee on municipal ownership. It is understood that matters are not in shape for a complete report.

A representative of one of the syndicates which in anxious to install a water plant in the borough was present. After the meeting he explained to Councilman Lee that the delay in the syndicate's not sending an engineer to look over the ground was due to the fact that all its men were busily engaged elsewhere.

The committee is desirious of proceeding slowly in the matter, however, and is in no immediate hurry to have the syndicate's report.

APPEALED TO HIGHER COURT.

NO DEFENCE MADE TO CHARGE OF SELLING OLEO WITHOUT LABEL.

Thomas Garrigan, Grocer on Plainfield Avenue, Fined $100 By Justice Moffett—Appealed at Once.

After a very brief trial, Thos. Garrigan, a groceryman, whose place of business is located at Plainfield avenue and West Third street, was fined $100 yesterday for selling oleomargerine, it is alleged, without the proper label. No defence was made, as it was the intention of Garrigan's attorney, Lawyer Spear, of Jersey City, who is employed by the oleomargerine company, to bring the case before a higher court. The fine was accordingly imposed, but Spear gave immediate notice of appeal.

The trial took place before Justice Moffett to whom complaint had been made by State Inspector Samuel S. Vandruff. The inspector was present as was also the State's attorney, Senator Charles A. Reed.

The testimony, as set forth in Vandruff's complaint, is that he saw Garrigan sell to Frank Brown a quantity of oleomargerine, and in doing so the former violated a State law which requires a proper label to that effect. This, Vandruff claims, was not done. The sample purchased was analyzed by Chemist Shippen Wallen, who pronounced it olermargerine and testified to its being so. Lawyer Spear did not attempt to dispute any of the evidence and allowed the case to finish without producing any witnesses.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

City Judge Runyon Give VanNess Family Another Opportunity to Settle Household Troubles.

After two previous ineffectual attemps at a trial, the case of Mrs. John VanNess, who charges her husband with failing to provide a proper home for herself and child, was heard before City Judge Runyon this morning. After much contradictory evidence had been given on both sides, the case was adjourned for two weeks in order, if possible, to allow Mr. and Mrs. VanNess to come to an agreement and resume housekeeping.

VanNess, who was represented by Lawyer William DeMeza, stated he had offered his wife a home, but she refused to live with his relatives. As his employment was unsteady and his weekly salary rather small, he could not afford to rent a house of his own.

Mrs. VanNess offered several reasons as to her unwillingness to live with the relatives and in doing so called down the wrath of one of them who was present in court. The latter was threatened with ejection for interrupting the proceedings. As VanNess repeated his offer, Judge Runyon reached the decision before stated.

Only Sold on Orders.

Edward Devine and James Webbley, two local vendors of coal and wood, were arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning, charged by Alex Kane, another dealer, with selling without a license. The two accused men gave plausible explanations in regard to selling coal, stating they only delivered goods after they had been previously ordered. They produced several witnesses who corroborated them. As the charges set forth in the complaint were not sustained, both men were dismissed.

Only One Appeared.

The trial of K. Sacher and Abram Kuntzman, the rival West Third street merchants who are accused by the police of disturbing the usual quietude of the Boulevard by fighting, was to have been held in the city court this morning. Sacher was on hand with Lawyer W. H. Angleman, but Kuntzman failed to appear. The case was adjourned until next Saturday and in the meantime a warrant will be served upon the delinquent Kuntzman.

Miss Maud Doremus, of Trenton, is the guest of Miss Cora Laire, of La Grande avenue.

LOCAL MACHINISTS ARE BETWEEN TWO FIRES.

Employes' Committee At Pond Tool Works Agreed To Wait Until June 5.

ON NINE HOUR QUESTION.

NOW INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION WANTS ANSWER MONDAY.

Officials Wanted To Wait Until Annual Meeting—Committee Agreed—Orders To Strike If Demand Is Not Granted Today.

The situation among the machinists in this city is at present critical. The result of their effort to secure a nine-hour day with ten-hours' pay will not be known before tonight, when the International Association of Machinists will hold a special meeting. At this meeting it is expected that orders will be received from headquarters as to what action is to be taken Monday, when the time comes for the new schedule to go into effect.

A somewhat peculiar condition exists in this city. Recently, a committee from the employes at the Pond Tool Works waited on the bosses and stated the demand. The committee was informed that the company could not give a definite answer at that time, in fact no answer could be given until June 3, when the company holds its regular meeting for the election of officers and directors. The company asked the committee to wait until that time, and it is said that they agreed to do so.

The question now arises what effect the action of the committee will have upon orders from the head of the International Association of Machinists if a strike is declared. The Pond Tool Works is one branch of a very large and influential organization and the decision of the committee to wait may prove a serious thing in effecting the new schedule. If word is received from headquarters to strike Monday if the demands are not granted, the union men will be duty bound to strike despite the action of the committee.

Another phase of the question is presented at the Potter Printing Press Works, where, it is understood, the company is willing to grant fifty-four hours a week with the regular pay. If this schedule is interfered with it is said that the men will not fare so well as they do now. It is said that all of the shops, with the exception of the Pond Tool Works, are willing to agree to the new schedule. This morning it was reported that R. H. Hoe & Co., of New York, had agreed to the demands made, and that this decision would greatly influence many other shops.

None of the machinists are anxious for a strike and they deplore any signs of one. They feel as though the demands made are just and should be granted, but are willing to arbitrate to the fullest extent in order to avert a strike.

MILLIGAN WAS EXONERATED.

COMPLAINT AGAINST HIM WAS WITHDRAWN.

Morris Abrams, Who Bought Ring, Was Convinced That There Had Been No Fraud—Affair Settled.

The charge of obtaining money on false pretenses, preferred against J. Harry Milligan by Morris Abrams in Justice Huff's court, has been withdrawn, and Mr. Abrams declares that it was all a misunderstanding. Justice Huff has recalled his decision, holding Milligan for the Grand Jury, and the latter has been fully exonerated.

The trouble was over a ring, as was stated in yesterday's Daily Press. The ring originally belonged to Milligan, but was sold to Abrams for $40. Abrams claimed yesterday that the ring was sold as a real diamond, when, in reality, it was not. There was a receipt prepared when the ring was sold. Mr. Milligan says that he told Mr. Abrams that it was not a diamond when he sold it and that the receipt was originally for a ring, but was afterwards altered somewhat to make it appear that the ring was a diamond.

A conference in the case was held last evening at Justice Huff's office. It was agreed that the $40 should be returned to Mr. Abrams and the ring to Mr. Milligan. Both sides agreed to take no further proceedings in the matter, but allow it to drop. Lawyers Newcorn and DeMeza were present. Mr. Abrams declared that it had all been a misunderstanding and that he was now convinced that Mr. Milligan had intended no fraud.

BOROUGH COUNCIL HAD PROBLEMS TO ANSWER

Concerning the Widening of Somerset Street and Changes Made Necessary By It.

ADJOURNED MEETING HELD.

LITTLE WAS DONE SAVE TO PASS ON ACCOUNTS AND CLAIMS.

Several Questions Relative to Work on Somerset Street Were Discussed and Answered—Three Councilmen Answer Roll.

An adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Council, of North Plainfield, was held in the Council Chamber on Somerset street last evening. The purpose of which was to pass upon the claims presented since the regular meeting of two weeks ago.

Messrs. Lee, Clark and Codington were the only Councilmen present to answer to the roll call. In order to conclude the business with dispatch the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting were dispensed with and the matter of the claims was at once taken up.

All the bills presented were approved with the exception of one for stone furnished in March and April, which amounted to $372, the claims constituted the pay roll of the road account. The latter aggregated $378, which brought the total amount of the bills up to $750.

Before the meeting adjourned there was some informal discussion of matters pertaining to the street committee's work. The widening of Somerset street on the west side will necessitate the removal of the scales in front of C. Frank French's storehouse at 69 Somerset street, which now encroach upon the pavement. Some question arose as to the most advisable course to pursue in disposing of the matter. It was finally suggested that Councilman Clark, the chairman of the street committee, should communicate with Mr. French and advise him to obtain the consent of the property owners on Somerset place for the removal of the scales to the latter named street.

It was agreed that the pavement on Somerset place at that point is to be narrowed to permit of the placing of the scales there. As soon as Mr. French gets the necessary consent from the property owners on Somerset place to place his scales in that roadbed and presents a petition for the use of the street for that purpose, the matter will be considered more fully by the Council.

Mayor Smalley informed the street committee that the property owners desired a sidewalk placed along the north side of Greenbrook road. Another suggestion made was that Elston Elliott be restricted to a time limit to set back his building on the east side of Somerset street, now occupied as a shoe shop by A. Wolff, so that it conform to the building line.

MUNDY WILL REMAIN.

One of Former Managers Will Stay With Purchaser of Butcher Shop.

Clark Mundy, who was associated with S. B. Hibbs in the management of the Plainfield Packing Company, and with him, arranged the sale of that company's two shops, will remain with Peter Zimmerman, the purchaser of the company's butcher shop at 153 West Front street. Mr. Mundy's ability in his trade is well known to the people in this city, in which he has been in business for a number of years. His ripe experience and genial manner will greatly assist in the success of the business.

New Time Table of Jersey Central.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The reorganization of the Central Railroad Company, of New Jersey, very naturally followed the transfer of the road into the hands of new owners; and, quite as naturally, a number of the old, reliable officials have been relieved from active service and have been retired on reduced salaries. Among these are H. P. Baldwin, the general passenger agent, and S. M. Williams, second vice-president.

The memory of most of the people of Union county, and indeed of all the counties through which the Central Railroad runs, hardly goes back beyond the time when these officials were first associated with this road in some position. They have seemed, indeed, to be integral parts of the corporation, without which it could not conduct business. They have given not merely the best but practically the whole of their lives to the advancement and development of the Central Railroad's interest, and to Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Williams in larger degree than to any other two men are due the successes which the company has attained.

The road has passed through serious vicissitudes, but these have been charged to far different causes than the management of departments. The gentlemen who now retire from active work in the positions so long and so successfully occupied by them are old citizens of Union county, and as such are held in the highest respect and esteem.

By years of devoted service to the company's interests they have fully earned the rest and retirement on liberal salaries, which have been provided for them, and the appreciative patrons of the road as well as their friendly neighbors in Union county will wish them long life and good health in the enjoyment of their relaxation from arduous work and responsibility.—Elizabeth Journal.

PRIEST FOUND DEAD.

Father Phillips of Hazleton, Pa., Long Missing.

SICKENING REVELATION IN NEW YORK

The Pastor Left His Parish April 27 and Came Direct to the Metropolis—A Woman In the Case.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Father Edward S. Phillips, the priest who came to New York from Hazleton, Pa., in March to intercede with J. Pierpont Morgan in behalf of the coal miners who were threatening to strike, has been found dead in a room in a little rear tenement at 730 Ninth avenue. He had been dead at least a week. In the same room in which the decomposed body was found a man who is now held on suspicion in the West Forty-seventh street police station has been quietly living—eating, sleeping and washing his clothes. The story which he tells, at the most a wildly rambling one, does not explain away the belief, which the circumstances of the case at once produce, that the dead priest has been murdered.

The coroner's inquest which was held at the morgue resulted in the finding of a dark fluid in the stomach, the nature of which could not be determined without a chemical examination. The brain was congested, and although it was found that the dead man had been suffering from various internal disorders the coroner decided that the circumstances surrounding the case were suspicious enough to warrant a chemical analysis being made of the viscera. The organs were put into chemically clean receptacles and turned over to Professor Witthaus, and it now rests with the district attorney and a justice of the supreme court whether or not the analysis is made.

The police suspect that the priest was a victim of knockout drops.

There is a woman in the case, a woman with auburn hair. The police learned her identity through the means of a locket which was about the man held on suspicion. Detectives were put on her trail, and she has been located. It was said at the West Forty-seventh street police station that the police could arrest her at any moment they wished. It was not explained why she was not arrested at once, but it was supposed that the police were awaiting the results of the coroner's inquest.

Father Phillips was the pastor of St. Gabriel's church in Hazleton. He came to this city on April 27 and went direct to the Hotel Vendome. According to dispatches from his home his visit was for the purpose of buying furnishings for his church. He had planned to spend about $600 for this purpose. Whether or not he brought that sum of money with him is not known, but Hazleton reports say that the bank there received a draft from him for money on May 8. In the meantime, on April 28, he had left the Vendome. After that his friends did not hear from him and became worried and on finding that he had left the Vendome began a quiet search for him.

Fatal Collapse of a Chimney.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 18.—The chimney of Jewett's sawmill collapsed yesterday afternoon, and three men were killed, and others were injured. The dead are William J. Price, John McCluskey and Charles Wilson, all men in the prime of life. The chimney was 107 feet in height and was undergoing repairs, the old lining being replaced by new bricks. Price, the contracting mason, and McCluskey were working 100 feet up the inside of the structure on a swinging staging, taking out the brick lining and lowering the bricks in a tub. The other men tended the tub below. The men on the staging had just had sent up to them some timber, when, with a crash, the chimney fell. It wrecked the boiler house in its fall, but did not damage the engine or boilers to any extent.

Three Safes Cracked.

ROCHESTER, May 18.—Director Hayden of the Rochester detective bureau has received information from Sheriff Pixley of Genesee county as to a well planned and executed safe blowing at Oakfield, on the West Shore road, some ten miles north of Batavia. Three safes in the offices of Grinnell & Co., who conduct a large carriage and harness business, were blown open with nitroglycerin, and their contents, consisting of money, 500 Pan-American stamps and a few dollars in revenue stamps and notes, amounting in all to $1,000, were stolen. The burglars are thought to be the same that have operated recently at Chili, N. Y., New Albany and Sayre, Pa.

President Callaway Resigns.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Harvey Fisk & Sons, bankers, formally announce that Samuel R. Callaway, president of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company, has resigned to become the head of the new American Locomotive company, the gigantic trust formed by J. Pierpont Morgan. It is understood that Mr. Callaway's salary will be commensurate with the vast responsibility of the position to which his broad technical knowledge fits him.

Dead From a Cat's Bite.

TROY, N. Y., May 18.—Mrs. George Bates is dead from a bite received from a pet cat. Two months ago while she was caressing the cat the animal fastened its teeth in her arms. Yesterday was the first time Mrs. Bates was able to be out. She left her home to go to the charity board for assistance and while en route there was suddenly taken ill and fell upon the sidewalk. She was carried into a barber shop, where she expired in a few minutes.

Firemen Injured.

LYNN, Mass., May 18.—Five firemen were injured, one probably fatally, at a small fire on Oxford street by the breaking of a ladder. W. F. Marvin of steamer No. 1 turned a complete somersault, striking the ground with his head, sustaining a fractured skull.

Preparing to Receive Americans.

LONDON, May 18.—Great preparations are being made to entertain the members of the New York Chamber of Commerce who will visit London in June. It is probable that they will be received by King Edward in private at Marlborough House.

A Launching at Bath.

BATH, Me., May 18.—The torpedo boat Biddle was launched at 12:15 p. m. today from the Bath Iron works. Miss Emily Butler Biddle of Philadelphia christened the boat.

HOPE HAS REVIVED.

Mrs. McKinley's Condition Is Much Improved.

GREAT REJOICING AT THE CHANGE.

If the Gain Continues, the President May Attend the Launching of the Ohio Today — The Patient Is Not Yet Out of Danger.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—President McKinley described the marked improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition yesterday as a transformation. But perhaps even the president of the United States may overstate the case in his elation at the prospect of his wife's recovery. Certain it is, however, that Mrs. McKinley's condition has improved to an extent that fairly nonplused the doctors, brightened the anxious and devoted husband and filled the city with joy and thanksgiving.

The sinking spell that was feared in the early hours before the dawn did not come. There was a slight tendency in that direction, but that was all.

The physicians were so favorably impressed with their patient's condition at the early morning consultation that they issued a bulletin announcing that Mrs. McKinley had passed a good night and informed the public that there would not be another consultation until evening. This reassuring news, printed in all the newspapers, was received with delight by the people. It was communicated to all the members of the cabinet, and immediately after breakfast they hurried out to the Scott residence to express personally to their chief their pleasure in the glad tidings. The joy in the president's heart was reflected in his face, and a look at his countenance was enough to dispel immediate apprehension. He looked haggard and careworn the day before, but yesterday his face fairly beamed. The feeling of cheerfulness continued throughout the day. Although the other physicians left early in the morning, Dr. Rixey did not leave the residence, and Drs. Hirschfelder and Gibbons were always where they could be reached at a moment's notice.

There were callers innumerable at the residence, but most of them left cards and expressions of hope for Mrs. McKinley's continued improvement. Flowers arrived in profusion until all the rooms were filled with them. If Mrs. McKinley shall continue to gain ground, the president may attend the launching of the Ohio today. His visit to the Pacific coast was for the purpose of witnessing the launching of the battleship named in honor of his native state from the works of the company that built the Oregon, and he would be glad not to disappoint the expectations that have been built upon his presence. But if he does go it will be a hurried trip, and he will not be absent from his wife's bedside for more than an hour.

The president went for a short drive at noon, and Secretary Cortleyou, who has been under a great strain during the last few days, was able to take a little rest. The ladies of the cabinet at various times during the day were at the Scott residence and came away sharing in the general feeling of relief. It is not to be assumed that Mrs. McKinley has passed the crisis and is out of danger. She is still dangerously ill, and it will be at least 48 hours before it will be safe to say that the crisis has been passed. Her vitality is so low and she is so weak that a change for the worse would not be unexpected at any moment, and it is feared she would not have reserve strength enough to weather another sinking spell such as she experienced Thursday morning. Her mind was clear during her waking moments yesterday. She asked for coffee and also to be permitted to wash her hands. There was no necessity for the administration of strong heart stimulants during the day, although brandy continues to be given from time to time. That and beef tea are practically all the nourishment she takes.

At 12:15 o'clock this morning, San Francisco time, it was given out that Mrs. McKinley was growing restless. She did not take nourishment as readily as during the early part of the night. Powerful stimulants had been administered. The felon on her hand has spread and has begun to discharge from another place.

Kingsford Shops Closed.

OSWEGO, N. Y., May 18.—The Kingsford shops here were ordered closed last night by T. P. Kingsford. The works include machine shops, boiler shops and foundry. About 150 men are affected. Demand was made yesterday by the machinists for a nine hour day at ten hours' pay. Mr. Kingsford announced to the machinists that he was willing to agree if other local shops took the same course. He said the shop would close until he could learn the decision of others.

Terra Cotta Plant Burned.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., May 18.—The big plant of the International Clay Manufacturing company, makers of terra cotta, here has been destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $175,000. The fire started in a kiln shed from the fire used to bake the clay. The plant consisted of many one story frame dwellings. Owing to the nature of the buildings the firemen could do nothing. The flames swept through the plant in a short time, destroying all the buildings.

Governor Nash Still Ill.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—It is hardly probable that the governor of Ohio, who has traveled across the continent to attend the launching, will be able to be present. While Mr. Nash is much better than yesterday, his eyes are so swollen from the poison oak which he encountered on his visit to the big trees at Santa Cruz that his physicians do not believe it will be wise for him to go into the open air.

Evidence All In.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., May 18.—The evidence at both the inquest and the justice's court examination of John C. Wallis, who murdered Benjamin Hoyt after Hoyt murdered Mrs. Wallis in Warren, this county, May 4, has all been taken, and Coroner Strobel and Justice Maxwell will render their verdicts Wednesday. The sentiment of the people in the country is practically unanimous in favor of Wallis.

Governor of Bahama Islands Here.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Sir Gilbert Thomas Carter, K. C. M. G., governor and commander in chief of the Bahama islands, has arrived here on board the steamer Saratoga from Nassau.

MACHINISTS APPEAL.

A Nine Hour Day or Work Will Cease.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—As a result of the meeting of the general officers of the machinists' association the following address to the craft has been drafted and made public:

"From time immemorial the great goal to which united labor has struggled and to which it has given its best effort has been in the direction of a shorter working day. In the majority of crafts, both skilled and the so called unskilled, this effort has been uniformly successful, and they have for a number of years enjoyed the pleasures that come with greater leisure. Machinists, owing to the fact of their isolation in the past from the labor movement, have not enjoyed this right and privilege until now, after a decade of education, they have concluded that the time has arrived when they, too, should share in the same enjoyments. In reaching this conclusion and in seeking similar favors they know they are not stretching their demands beyond the bounds of reason or seeking something to which they have no valid claim.

"More than a quarter of a century ago our brother craftsmen in Great Britain secured a nine hour day, and it is conceded by all manufacturing machinists who have given the question the least study that the American machinist produces more per diem, even on an eight hour day basis, than does his brother craftsman in that country. Such being the case, it is eminently proper and strictly in accord with the spirit of the times that the machinists of the United States, Canada and Mexico should make a concerted movement in that direction. The time has come, the moment is ripe, and the demand is now made.

"This demand is not made without due warning. Twelve months ago notice was served on the manufacturers of the United States that on Monday, May 20, 1901, the International Association of Machinists would demand a nine hour day and that if the demand was not granted its members and those in sympathy with them would suspend labor until the demand was granted. We do not advocate a strike, with all the attendant mistakes of the past, but merely a peaceful cessation of labor until we can start work on a nine hour day basis.

"We appeal to our fellow craftsmen to rally with us in this effort to elevate our manhood, to improve our minds, to purify our bodies and our lives, to make of us exemplary citizens, to make our homes more homelike with our presence and to show the world that we, too, have aspirations 'a little higher than the brute's and scarcely lower than the angels'."

MORE PUNISHMENT.

Ministers Preparing a List of Forty Chinese Who Deserve It.

PEKING, May 18.—General Voyron, the French commander, with his headquarters, has removed to Tien-tsin. The recent movements of the French troops have created a favorable impression among the Chinese.

There is some discussion over the doubtful names in the list of provincial officers whose punishment has been demanded by the ministers. This affects about a dozen officers whom the Chinese say were not at their posts at the time of the disturbances and therefore cannot be held responsible. The ministers charged that they were at their posts and therefore should be held accountable for the disorders in their territory and for the acts committed there.

Others are charged with being guilty, although they were not indicted by the ministers. The ministers are now trying to complete a new list of provincial officers deserving punishment. This list will contain about 40 names.

A Chinaman who has just arrived from Singan-fu declares that the trafficking in office is worse than was ever known in Peking. It is the chief enterprise of Yung Lu and Lu Chwan Lin, members of the general board of state affairs, and Li Lien Ying, who squeeze 20 taels out of every hundred of the money sent from the provinces to the court. They also employ their friends to work up the business of selling appointments. Singan-fu is a beehive of officers who will return to Peking with the court when the emperor is restored to the throne. The subject of reform is rarely mentioned.

Chinese Loan Arranged.

LONDON, May 18.—The Press association has issued the following statement: "It was asserted in the city last night that a Chinese loan of £60,000,000, with an international guarantee, has been practically arranged to be issued so soon as political affairs in China settle down."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Crop Reports Favorable—Wheat and Corn Selling at High Prices.

NEW YORK, May 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Crop reports continue in the main favorable, and ease in the money market returned to encourage business enterprise, which looked aghast at the collapse of stock speculation. The calmer tone in securities is welcomed in all directions. As against the favorable developments referred to there is but one adverse factor, and the labor disturbances in several quarters are not considered likely to be a long continued drawback and promise not to very generally affect the trades involved.

Less urgency for early delivery of iron and steel products was reported at manufacturing centers, and overworked operators expressed relief rather than disappointment at the more quiet condition.

Both wheat and corn continue to sell at more than 10 cents a bushel above the price at this date last year, and the fluctuations in speculative options are much wider. Contracts in May corn have been closed at phenomenal prices owing to clever manipulation at Chicago, and next crop options are sustained beyond the prices warranted by encouraging crop reports. Wheat goes out in greater volume than a year ago, but flour shipments are comparatively light.

Failures for the week numbered 177 in the United States against 177 last year, and 19 in Canada against 30 last year.

His First View of America.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The trim little yawl yacht Taormina of the Austrian Imperial Yacht club arrived in this port last evening, carrying her owner, Count Colloredo Mansfield; Captain Pachner and Captain Doleno of the Austrian navy and a crew of seven men. The little vessel left the Adriatic last August and touched at Tenerife, in the Canary islands, and from there proceeded to Trinidad and Venezuela. After a cruise among the West Indies the count brought the little vessel up the American Atlantic coast, stopping at Savannah, Charleston, Norfolk and Baltimore. None of them has ever visited this country before, and they seem very much pleased with it.

Torpedo Boat Launchings.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Mrs. Emily B. N. Worden of New York has been designated by Mrs. John L. Worden, widow of the late admiral, to officiate as sponsor for the torpedo boat Worden to be launched at Sparrow's Point, near Baltimore. Miss May Chauncey Stevens of Grand Rapids, great-granddaughter of Commodore Isaac Chauncey, has been chosen as sponsor for the torpedo boat Chauncey, soon to be launched at Philadelphia.

South African Prospects Improved.

LONDON, May 18.—The Pretoria correspondent of The Times, wiring Thursday, reports greatly improved prospects for the winter campaign. "The numerous surrenders of the Boers are a healthy sign," he says. "I am unable as yet to see a near date for the close of hostilities, but one may be more hopeful, especially if the results of the coming activity resemble those of the past month."

San Juan's High Valuation.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 18.—The increase in the valuation of San Juan property made by the tax assessors is $6,000,000. The former valuation was $9,000,000, and the present one is $15,000,000. Proprietors held a meeting and resolved solemnly to protest against this alleged unjust increase of valuation and if necessary to carry the matter to the courts.

The Shamrock's Disability.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 18.—Mr. Watson says that the only thing found wrong with the Shamrock II in dock was the failure of a few rivets of no particular importance, though owing to their position it has been necessary to unship the challenger's rudder to replace them. The Shamrock II will have a spin today.

Turkey Must Yield.

LONDON, May 18.—"It is rumored here," says the Constantinople correspondent of The Daily News, "that an arrangement has been agreed upon whereby the French fleet is to force the Dardanelles with a European mandate unless Turkey yields on the postal question."

Students Injured by Explosion.

METHUEN, Mass., May 18.—An explosion of chemicals in the laboratory at the High school seriously injured Ernest Gaunt, Miss Eva Kelley and Miss Rosalind Howker, pupils. Ten other pupils in the room were unharmed.

ALL QUIET AT ALBANY

Military Re-enforced by Arrival of Ninth Regiment.

MORE NONUNION MEN ON HAND.

Cars Run by the Traction Company Under Strong Guard Without Molestation—Officials Are Trying to Effect a Settlement.

ALBANY, May 18.—No settlement has been reached in the great railway strike. After hours of conference the officials of the United Traction company and the committee from the organizations of the strikers adjourned without changing the situation.

The company proceeded to run its cars this morning on every line within the city limits with the aid of a military force that now numbers 3,000 men.

The only step toward a settlement that was made was the appointment last night of a committee from the common council to arbitrate and the adoption of a resolution declaring that if a settlement is not effected by Monday night the council shall revoke the franchise of the company.

The company declares that such action will be of no effect, as the road now has a vested right that cannot be taken from it.

The reason there is no settlement is because the company refuses to discharge the men brought from other points to take the strikers' places.

The executive committee of the United Traction company board of directors and the committee representing the striking employees of the company went into conference at 4:20 o'clock to compose the differences between the company and the strikers. There were present in addition to President Robert C. Pruyn and the other members of the executive committee of the board of directors of the company the following, representing the strikers: Patrick Domery of the Central Federation of Labor of Albany, Attorney William D. Woodward, attorney for the strikers; President Van Allen, J. V. Lundrigan and Edward Coloney of the Troy organization of the strikers, President J F. Sheehan, Vice President Vaughan and William Dunn of the Albany organization of the strikers.

There was no repetition of the stirring scenes of disorder and turbulence that have marked the traction strike as one of the most desperate labor struggles of the year. There was the same imposing show of military strength, and in midafternoon 600 additional troops of the Ninth regiment of New York city were added to the already large force now on duty here. Two elements seemed to contribute to the quietness that prevailed, one the general anticipation of a settlement of the strike and the other a feeling of sobriety that succeeded the anger and indignation over the killing of William M. Walsh and E. Leroy Smith, merchants.

More nonunion men were brought into the city, but contrary to expectation and precedent in this strike their coming did not inflame sentiment to an appreciable extent. The United Traction company added part of another division to the section operated by force of arms and, as on the preceding day, began late in the morning and quit early in the evening. Under orders from their officers the street patrols kept people moving, and it is doubtful if a crowd numbering 500 assembled anywhere in the city during the day. The rapid moving cars attracted but little attention, and the voices that jeered and howled at them Thursday were for the time stilled.

Quail street barn was again the center from which action radiated. At 9 o'clock a heavy force of troops was massed there inside of lines that were easily extended by sending the picket lines forward. Then the first move of the day disclosed itself. A battalion of the Twenty-third regiment and the signal corps cavalry troop was sent westward to the New York Central tracks and picked up 25 nonunion men who had been quietly dropped at a crossing some distance from the West Albany station. They were quickly embraced in a hollow square of infantry and hustled over to the Quail street barn.

The movement was planned and carried out in secrecy and was as peaceful as a procession. Once the nonunion men were safe in the barn the movement of cars began. Major Case, who commanded the battalion in charge at the barn, instructed his men that in case of attack they were to first use their rifle butts, then their bayonets and as a last resort their cartridges. The mounted signalmen were instructed to first use their horses, then the backs of their sabers, next their saber blades and last their revolvers.

So far the strike has been productive of at least two fatalities.

E. Leroy Smith, a prominent citizen and clubman, who was shot by a squad from the Twenty-third regiment, died in the Albany hospital after making a statement to his clergyman exonerating the guardsmen from blame.

Another prominent merchant, William H. Walsh, is also dead, a victim of bullets fired by the soldiers when they were stoned by a mob on Broadway.

Several other men were wounded during the shooting.

John W. McNamara, general manager of the United Traction company, and Robert C. Pruyn, the president of the company, are both fearful that they may be shot at. The police have heard and those in command of the military have been informed that certain lawless elements have openly said that both of them would be killed. Both of the men are keeping off the street as much as possible, and Mr. McNamara is closely guarded when he goes out.

All Quiet at Troy.

TROY, N. Y., May 18.—Despite the turmoil in Albany, but six miles distant, this city was never in a more peaceful state than at this writing. All interest centers in the outcome of the negotiations now progressing at the capital.

Russo-Polish Frauds.

BERLIN, May 18.—Frauds and peculations amounting to 31,000,000 rubles have been discovered upon the Russo-Polish and Vistula railroads. They were carried out by wholesale declarations of deficient freight weights. In Warsaw alone 40 arrests have been made.

Former Police Captain Dead.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 18.—Francis E. Malone, aged 58 years, a former police captain in New York, is dead in the State hospital here. He had been an inmate of the hospital since 1894.

United Action Needed.

Some time ago it was announced at both Dunellen and New Brunswick that the Middlesex county authorities had determined on an aggressive campaign against the army of tramps which are accustomed to congregate at the Greenbrook "tanks." There was a raid by the officers from the county seat and several tramps were captured. Since then nothing has been heard of the laudable scheme of the Middlesex county authorities to end the sojourning of the hoboes at the "tanks."

There is no doubt but that the many tramps, who make the "tanks" their rendezvous, are responsible for many of the petty robberies and depredations which have occurred in the neighborhood of Middlesex and Somerset counties. They are not desirable neighbors for any community and the sooner they are driven away the better. Plainfield is not very far away and these unbidden guests occasionally wander into the city limits. No good comes from their visits.

In an editorial, the Newark Evening News tells of a project on foot in Pennsylvania for the suppression of the professional tramp. The municipal authorities all over the State are taking concerted action to rid themselves of these very undesirable visitors. The plan as proposed is to everywhere impose the severest penalty the law permits, and to continue a persistent and unrelenting crusade until the State is freed from them.

If this plan is carried out, The News points out the fact that New Jersey will, as a matter of self protection, be compelled to adopt a similar policy. Even without that reason, The News declares that it is high time for New Jersey to begin some systematic effort for the abolishment of professional tramps.

It is very true that some such action is needed. No part of the State would appreciate it more than the section for which the "tanks" form the tramp headquarters. The Middlesex county authorities should be up and doing and they should have the united support of all the municipalities in the bordering counties. If that promised crusade against the hoboes who gather at the "tanks" is followed out, it will be much appreciated by the people of Plainfield and the other communities in its neighborhood.

Governor Voorhees has announced that he will give his decision concerning the extra session of the Legislature early next week. What his decision will be he absolutely refuses to state. He says that he has not taken up the question seriously as yet owing to his recent illness. While Plainfield is not particularly interested in an extra session, the municipalities along the Passaic are as the question of the pollution of that stream will be considered. A plan to provide sewage disposal for that large area will be one that will be of interest to every Jerseyite whether he be a resident of the cities and towns immediately affected or not.

The two men, who were recently appointed to the city police force, are not regular policemen yet. They are specials doing regular duty. This action was taken in order that the Police Board might have an opportunity of seeing just how satisfactory they were before the appointments were made permanent. Owing to the illness of Patrolman Flannagan, it is now proposed to make another addition to the force. This appointment will also be as a special, to be made permanent if the man proves satisfactory after a proper trial.

This evening will see the close of the Boys' Club until the autumn season. That club, with its manual training classes, is one of Plainfield's most valuable institutions. It allows the poor boy, who has to work most of the day, to get a practical education in some trade. A number of boys have worked hard in the classes of the Boys' Club and have been enabled to secure good positions as a direct result. There will be no exhibition at the closing tonight, but the club house will be open to all the public.

There seems to be some question as to the exact size of the lot which has been purchased by the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital for the new site for the hospital. The lot borders on Park avenue for a distance of 464 feet, and extends out Randolph road for 912 feet. The entire tract consists of 10.62 acres.

Seeing that a local camp of the Woodmen of the World, a fraternal organization, has recently been formed in this city, it may interest the people of Plainfield to know that the membership of that order at the end of the last year was 225,797, and that the death claims paid during 1900 were $1,600,338.

Company K has finally selected all its officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned. The members of the company are so improved in drill that they will now able to get along with but one drill a week.

Westfield is taking no chances of an epidemic of small-pox. Its only case of that dread disease has been removed to a pest-house and the schools have been closed for careful and thorough fumigation.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A man on Watchung avenue is going into chicken raising on an expensive scale. Some time ago he received two dozen eggs from the south for setting purposes. They cost him $6 per dozen and he had to pay $2 additional for expressage. Counting his chickens before they were hatched they cost him a trifle over 33 cents each, but unfortunately only five of the eggs hatched. Not chagrined in the least the man has now sent an order for another dozen eggs hoping that the chickens of the next brood will cost less than $1.60 apiece.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. Price $3.50.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, May 18.—In view of the seeming spread of diphtheria among the pupils the Board of Education ordered the Lincoln School closed yesterday. It will remain so for at least a week, and in the meantime the various rooms will be fumigated. The third case of diphtheria to develope within as many days broke out yesterday in the home of Charles Vliet, when his little daughter was taken. It is the most serious of the three cases. The other children, Bessie McGovern and Edith Hamilton, are recovering nicely. All three houses are under quarantine.

Among the numerous employes who were burned in the Morey-LaRue fire at Elizabeth Thursday, was A. H. Fray, of the borough. He was on the second floor busily starching at the time the fire broke out, and in the scramble to leave the building he was unable to get out in time to escape the flames. He was badly burned about the face and body and was taken to the General Hospital. Yesterday he recovered sufficiently to be brought to his home on Lincoln avenue, and is now resting easily.

As soon as the repairs on Main street are completed, work will be commenced on Washington avenue. It will extend from the junction at Main street to Dunellen avenue. Stakes have been set by Borough Engineer Vars for the macadamizing of Dunellen avenue from Jefferson to Jackson avenues and work will be commenced as soon as Washington avenue has been attended to.

The next and last meeting of the Literary Circle will be held next Saturday evening at the home of O. A. Douglas. At that time the course to be followed next season will be discussed. The committee in charge of the Decoration Day outing will also make the final report.

Mrs. William Fletcher, who has been ill with pneumonia, is recovering slowly. As soon as she is able to withstand the fatigue of a journey, she will leave for New York State for an extended sojourn.

The monthly visit of the pay car was made to the borough yesterday and gladdened the hearts of the railroad employes.

Fashions in Horns.

If the question were asked: Why do the rhinoceri grow their horns upon the nose, instead of on the head, like other animals? the answer would probably be that they require them for root digging and such like purposes as well as for war, and the nasal position renders them more generally useful than if they were fixed on the top of the skull. At present the rhinoceros is the only quadruped which has a horn of this kind, but a study of fossil mammals shows that he is the sole survivor of a vast number of creatures whose natural weapons were built on the same general plan. In fact, in the days of the rhinoceros' early forefathers horns of this kind were probably much more common than those such as we see on the heads of oxen, antelopes and sheep. In the course of ages the fashion in wearing horns has undergone a radical change, but the rhinoceros, who is essentially a conservative beast, has stuck to the older method. —Pearson's Magazine.

They Met Their Match.

At an evening party the other night one of the guests made a novel bet. He placed three jugs in a row. Tying a piece of stout string to the handle of the first one, he threaded it through the handle of the second jug, and tied it again to the handle of the third jug. Then he offered to bet the other guests that he would free the middle jug without untying or cutting the string. Many took up the challenge and wagered he could not do it. When all was agreed the man who had made the bet calmly lit a match and burnt the string through and took the bet.—London Answers.

A Strange Punishment.

In Guiana, if a child is slow in its movements the parents apply an ant to the child instead of a whip, to make it move faster. This little ant bites more cruelly than a mosquito, and its bite is apt to be troublesome afterward. As you can imagine, the treatment does not make the child kind to others, and the children of Guiana are said to be particularly cruel to animals. The little boys of Guiana do not reckon their age by years, but by their ability to endure pain. Until he gets to the point where he can let the Hucu ant bite him without wincing, he is considered merely a baby.—Detroit Free Press.

The Diameter of Venus.

Prof. See has lately measured the diameter of the planet Venus and finds the value 16.80. This is in agreement with the value 16.82 found by Prof. Auwers from heliometer measures taken at the transits of 1874 and 1882. If these are reduced to miles (taking the solar parallax as 8.80), the resulting diameter of Venus is 12.181 kilometers, or 7.564 miles.—Science.

Suspicious.

First Bookkeeper—Dobson has been chuckling to himself over his work all day. He must see something very amusing in the figures he's working with.

Second Bookkeeper—That so? Well, let's watch out and get away the minute closing-up time comes. His three-year-old boy has been saying something cute again.—Judge.

The Real Thing.

The Suitor—Here, on my knees, I place this ring upon your finger. My love goes out to you.

The Coquette—But how do I know it is genuine?

"My love is as genuine as the blush on your cheek."

"Bother the love! I mean the ring." —Chicago Daily News.

Plague of Flies in Paris.

Paris has been suffering for months from a great plague of flies and other insects. Naturalists trace this to the wholesale slaughter of birds for women's hats, and the ministry of agriculture has issued a circular ordering a stricter observance of the laws enacted for the protection of birds.—N. Y. Sun.

One Man's Wisdom.

MRS. GAGE DEAD.

Wife of the Secretary of the Treasury Yields to Long Illness.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, wife of the secretary of the treasury, died at her residence, 1715 Massachusetts avenue, northwest, at 9:30 o'clock last night, after an illness of nine weeks' duration. With her when the end came was her husband, her married daughter, Mrs. E. F. Pierce of Evanston, Ills., and Dr. W. W. Johnston, the attending physician. For a time before her death Mrs. Gage suffered considerable pain, but she maintained her bright and cheerful demeanor and was conscious to the last. Heart failure, the result of grip complications, was the immediate cause of death.

Mrs. Gage was exposed to the inclement weather for about an hour on inauguration day, but at the time her health did not seem to have been affected. On the 11th of March she left here for Evanston to visit her married daughter. While there she experienced a chill and took to her bed, but soon recovered sufficiently to return to Washington, where she had been confined to her room ever since. Mrs. Gage was a native of Albany and was 58 years of age. She was married to Secretary Gage in Denver in 1887. There were no children from their union, Mrs. Pierce being a child by a former husband. Mrs. Pierce has two children living at Evanston.

The remains will be interred in Rose Hill cemetery, near Chicago. Further than this the funeral services have not yet been arranged.

During their residence in Washington Secretary and Mrs. Gage have taken quite an active part in social life at the capital. Mrs. Gage was a woman of charming personality and, with her husband, delighted in extending the hospitality of their elegant home on Massachusetts avenue. Mrs. Gage was probably closer to Mrs. McKinley than any other of the ladies of the cabinet.

House Wrecked by Dynamiters.

AKRON, O., May 18.—A two story frame dwelling at 220 Johnson street, East Akron, occupied by William J. Bruner, a policeman, was wrecked by an explosion of dynamite. Bruner, his wife Elizabeth, his son George, 9 years old, and Harold, a baby 18 months old, were in the house at the time. They were blown out of bed and buried under the debris, but none was seriously injured. The wing of the house where Bruner and his wife and baby slept was reduced to kindling wood. The occupants were dug out of a big pile of plaster and broken timber. The force of the explosion damaged houses for a block around, and there was not a window left unbroken for more than 100 yards. The report could be heard two miles away. The police believe that the dynamiting was an attempt at revenge.

The King's Birthday.

LONDON, May 18.—The misconception as to the observance of May 24 instead of Nov. 9 as King Edward's birthday is thus officially explained: It has been customary to give the employees in the government offices a holiday May 24. The king, on being asked if any holiday would be given this year, decided on May 24 as a suitable day. This has nothing to do with his own birthday. It has been decided also to present colors that day to the Third battalion of the Scots guards and to make the function much like the trooping of the colors by which the anniversaries of former years were observed. The question of observing the king's birthday is wholly unsettled.

Russian Labor Riots.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—The strike riots which occurred in the cotton mills on the Miborg or Finnish side of the Neva, during which it was reported that many had been killed, are a result of the strikes of the workmen from four of the textile factories for an increase of wages. The strikers held several noisy meetings and threw stones at the windows of the factories. The authorities surrounded the locality of the cotton mills with Cossacks, mounted gendarmes and strong details of infantry, who arrested many of the strikers. Many of the police and strikers were wounded in the conflict.

General Hoffman's Funeral.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 18.—The funeral of the late Edward M. Hoffman, adjutant general of the national guard of New York state, was held from the family residence in West Clinton street yesterday at 4 o'clock. The Rev. George H. McKnight, D. D., rector of Trinity Episcopal church, officiated. Members of the guard from various parts of the state were in attendance, including Major Harrison K. Byrd, military secretary, representing Governor Odell. The business places of the city were closed during the funeral.

Costly Fire In Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, May 18.—A stubborn fire which taxed the energies of the Brooklyn fire department to their utmost, causing a loss of $150,000 worth of property and resulting in the probable loss of two lives of employees and the serious injury of two others, broke out yesterday afternoon in the extensive paint and varnish works of Masury & Co., 187, 189 and 191 Plymouth street.

Shah of Persia Dying.

LONDON, May 18.—"The shah of Persia is dying of kidney disease," says a dispatch from Tiflis to The Daily Express. "The malady has progressed too far to permit him to make the intended visit to Contrexeville. It is expected that his death will be the signal for a Russian coup in Persia."

The Drug Habit.

When the nervous system of a person gets run down, either from mental or physical overwork or dissipation, and sleeplessness is the result, how natural it is to resort to opiates and sedatives to compel sleep. The effect is at first satisfactory, but if the practice is persisted in, the system soon demands an increase of the dose and gradually the whole system becomes impregnated. The stomach becomes deranged, the digestion bad, the circulation of the blood poor, the mental faculties dim and the physical strength impaired. The end is mental and physical suffering most terrible. Many persons unconsciously begin the drug habit by using remedies, the ingredients of which they know nothing about, for the cure of dyspepsia, constipation, headache, biliousness and like troubles.

The fact that the exact formula of Ripans Tabules has been made known ever since the remedy was first introduced, has had much to do with its success. Everybody knows that rhubarb, ipecac, peppermint, aloes, nux vomica and soda are healthful. A great throng of people carry Ripans with them every day and take one whenever they feel the need. They kill dyspepsia and kindred evils quickly and there is no danger of acquiring the drug habit. You know just what you are taking.

WANTED—A case of bad health that R I P A N S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R I P A N S on the package and accept no substitute. R I P A N S, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

WORK FOR A RAINY DAY.

The Clever Woman Makes All Her Fancy Stocks and Saves Money.

"You say that my neckwear always looks so fresh and dainty," said the clever woman. "Here is my secret." And she shook out of a bag a pile of dress remnants and bits of lace and muslin. "I make all my own stocks, and as they are almost all evolved out of remnants and odd pieces I save a pretty penny, and consequently I can afford to have a great variety. Let me show you the pretty ones I am making for summer wear. One needs so many, you know, and a dainty bit of muslin about one's throat will make even a year before last shirt waist look new."

The clever woman's friend saw the three collars in the illustration.

"The collar, which buttons so daintily over its ribbon foundation, is to wear with gingham shirt waists. This one is of plain, unstarched pique, with little gold studs, but I am making two more, one of hemstitched grass linen and the other of pale blue chambray, to wear over a white ribbon, with a pale blue waist. Do you notice the buttonholes through the collar itself, the ribbon and the foundation band? This arrangement enables you to wear jeweled studs of different colors to match your shirt waists. The second collar is made of white taffeta, although it could be carried out equally well in white muslin. It is to wear with my dressy white waists. As you see, it has a saucy pointed effect in front and a seven pointed bow which is edged with narrow baby ribbon. A very pretty way would be to make this stock out of white muslin with a black dot and to trim it with valenciennes beading through which a tiny black ribbon was run. And now for my third creation. This is to wear with silk and flannel waists. It is made of liberty satin ribbon. I have two like it, one black, with three ecru applique figures, and the other white, with black chantilly lace figures. Of course the bow is a 'made' one, and the collar fastens down the back in the ordinary way. So, you see," she concluded, with a smile, "I have a collar for every occasion."

THREE NEW COLLARS.

THE FIREPLACE.

Its Decoration Should Be Both Original and Striking.

THERE are no set rules for interior decoration nowadays. The woman who has original ideas and who carries them out is sure to have an attractive home. The best decorators draw their inspirations from all countries and all ages, only changing the primitive idea enough to give it the stamp of their own individuality. In house furnishing, as in everything else, individuality is the key to success.

The odder the design of the fireplace the better. All stiff effects should be avoided. An ugly room can be fairly transformed by an artistic fireplace. This was realized by a Massachusetts woman who entirely changed the appearance of a very uninviting room by the Dutch fireplace in the illustration. Blue and white was her color scheme, but she introduced touches of pale yellow because the room was sunny only a short part of the day. The walls were covered with plain cartridge paper in a soft maize yellow, the stain of the floor was yellowish also, and the blue and white rug had threads of orange. Every shade of blue was represented in the tiles over the hearth, and no two were alike. The three portrait ones were done in black and yellow, and they represented Dutch burghers of Rembrandt's time. The white enameled cupboards ran partly around three sides of the room. They were fitted with tiny panes of blue glass and held blue and white china. Additional touches of yellow were afforded by the shining brasses and a blue and white bowl of yellow flowers on the shelf over the fireplace.

AS BETWEEN FRIENDS

The Touch of Nature Which Makes All Women Kin.

A Little Confidential Chat on a Subject in Which All of Us Are Interested — Speculation in Wedding Anniversaries.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

HUMAN nature never changes. Time and circumstances may work a revolution in social customs, but the old Adam and venerable Mother Eve still do business at the same stand. Cervantes, several centuries ago, sagely observed that "many go out for wool, and come home shorn themselves." Few there are among our friends who have not gone through this identical experience. A moss-covered proverb, which lingers consolingly in many recalcitrant memories, says that

"Doubtless the pleasure is as great
Of being cheated as to cheat."

When we are inclined to kick, we very frequently find consolation in the fact that while being "done up good and brown" we labored under the impression that we were taking advantage of somebody else. Our impression probably was based on erroneous premises from the start, but as long as it appeared as a living truth to us we were satisfied; and even after we are compelled to admit that the joke was on us we persuade ourselves that others, if placed in similar circumstances, would have fared much worse than such clever persons as You, I & Co.

Reference is not had in this connection to ordinary swindling schemes. Bunco men and thieves of the ordinary stripe are altogether too coarse and vulgar to be considered in polite society. We have in mind those ambitious little social humbugs who make life interesting and by their comparatively inexpensive confidence games add zest to life and relieve the monotony of existence in the average American city. Man, who does battle with the world during the day to enable his wife to take her proper place in the social swim in the evening, takes a secondary part in the comedy of deception which is going on all around us. His name, it is true, appears first on the bill when "Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Breakemup request the honour of your company" at their tenth wedding anniversary. He heads the procession, but madame, his wife, is the star actor, stage manager and impresario. He is surely one of the ciphers added to lend impressiveness to the show, like the gentleman-in-waiting in the old play who acts the thinking part to perfection.

Woman manipulates all of the puppets on the social board. And in moving them around she displays extraordinary generalship and a thorough comprehension of human nature.

"For her own breakfast she'll project a scheme
Nor take her tea without a stratagem."

Marcus Aurelius, who had the happy faculty of condensing much practical wisdom into a single sentence, said that "things that have a common quality ever seek their kind." That is probably the reason why women who are "fond of going out" soon become acquainted, even in large cities where the forming of friendships is not as easy as in smaller towns where everybody knows everybody else. And when you have found a woman who dotes on card parties and evening "companies" you have, in nine cases out of ten, discovered a social schemer, a charming speculator who lets no wedding anniversary or similar happy occasion pass without levying tribute from her friends.

"Harry, my boy," said a dejected looking passenger on a suburban train to a friend who had just entered the car, "did you get Mamie's card for our crystal wedding?"

"We did."

"Are you coming?"

"Will, if I'm in town."

"Wish you'd be out of town. Wish everybody that's been invited would be out of town. I'm dead tired of the whole thing. It's all Mame's doings. She said that Mrs. Catchem celebrated her tin wedding last January and all her friends gave her nice presents. Now Mame doesn't want any tin coffee pots or dishpans, but she thought this crystal wedding party would be just the thing for getting a lot of cut glass truck. 'I don't want to bleed my friends,' says I, 'if you want to entertain them put off your party and don't make everybody feel that you want their presents more than their company.' I might just as well have talked to a stone wall. She has made up her mind to get a lot of cut glass; and unless the people that have been invited have more sense than I give them credit for she'll get it, too."

"Mame's" party was quite a success. Her refreshments were served in borrowed cut-glass dishes. Before her guests departed, they left behind them a choice assortment of carafes, goblets, olive dishes, salad bowls and tankards; and hereafter she will have to borrow no more.

But it was not Mamie alone who was satisfied with the result of her social speculation. It made an equally soothing impression on the mind of Mrs. Skinner, whose supply of dishes was running desperately low. Mr. Skinner had repeatedly declined to invest his hard-earned dollars in fancy tableware, but he had never yet refused to welcome his friends or his wife's friends to his house. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner had been one for nearly 20 years and on the way home from the crystal wedding Mrs. S. suggested that it would be a good thing to celebrate their china wedding.

THEY DOTE ON CARD PARTIES.

"Celebrate what?" asked Mr. S.

"Our china wedding, stupid. Our twentieth anniversary."

"What for?"

"Why, don't you see, we'd get a lot of nice things—china things that we couldn't afford to buy. Look at all the cut glass Mamie got to-night. It's worth all of $250, and her party didn't cost her more than $25. I've made up my mind to have a china wedding, no matter what you think about it. Why, I paid nine dollars for the salad bowl we gave Mamie, and we've got to get even some way."

Mr. Skinner protested, but the cards went out; and if his enterprising wife does not "get even" it will certainly not be her fault.

The next day Skinner met his friend Jaggers at the club.

"So you're going to celebrate your china wedding, old man," observed the latter.

"My wife is," curtly responded Skinner.

"Well, Mrs. Jaggers says it's a nice way of getting back part of the blackmail you have had to contribute to your friends," suggested the amiable Jaggers.

"What do you mean, sir?"

"Oh, don't get on your ear. You know well enough what I mean. Mrs. Jaggers has a habit of looking every financial proposition squarely in the face. 'Hennery,' she says to me when we got your card; 'last January we had to give the Ketchams a two-dollar coffee pot, the other day we gave the Baldeys a six-dollar cut glass carafe, next week we'll have to spend five dollars for the Skinners. Next fall, Henry, we celebrate our silver wedding, and what I say goes.' I had nothing to say; not because I like the idea, but because I know that Maria will have her way."

Skinner listened to the explanation in silence, and then joined Jaggers in a bottle of Apollinaris. They felt dissatisfied with themselves and all the world, and caused the grass widower, who noticed their depression, to repeat his favorite quotation:

"Wedlock, indeed, has oft compared been
To public feasts, where meet a public rout
Where they that are without would fain go in,
And they that are within would fain go out."

But in spite of the discomfiture of husbands women will continue to play their amateur hold-up games. It's in them to do it, and they can't help but take delight in getting just a bit ahead of their dear friends. Mrs. Jaggers, so the latest report goes, will send out 500 invitations for her silver wedding, which will be celebrated in the club house and is to be the great social event of the season. She expects to receive at least 200 presents, worth five dollars apiece on the average. She will, at the same time, pay all her social obligations, and retire from the field $600 ahead of the game. Her intimates already speak of her as the "female Napoleon of suburban society," and she will probably hold the title undisputed until next December, when, according to Dame Rumor, the venerable but wide-awake Mrs. Fleecem will celebrate her golden wedding anniversary.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Leal's team will play the nine of the Hasbrouck Institute of Jersey City, this afternoon on Pittis' field.

The Orients forfeited the game which they were to have played with the North Plainfield Juniors yesterday afternoon on the Westervelt avenue grounds.

The Marions, Perth Amboy's crack ball team, will play the Yale second team on the former's grounds Decoration Day morning. It promises to be a very exciting game.

The Clinton Avenue and the Plainfield A. A. teams will play a game of baseball on the Clinton Avenue grounds this afternoon. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

The North Plainfield High School second team was defeated by the borough's Grammar School nine in a game played yesterday afternoon on the Westervelt avenue grounds. The score was 11 to 7. George Conover and Frank Emmons was the battery for the winning team, and Ray Stevens and Harry Woodland for the defeated nine.

Jack Higgins, of East Fifth street, who will umpire the game between the Plainfield A. A., and the Clinton Avenue nines this afternoon, is an old-time baseball player. His career in the national game started in 1883, when he played second base on the New Yorks. From that season until 1894 he occupied a similar position on various crack teams, including the Bostons and Baltimores. Mr. Higgins has also played on a number of minor teams from cities such as Sacramento, Denver and Minneapolis.

Cyrus H. Kinsman, manager of the Plainfield High School baseball team, has notified S. D. Drake that his offer to contribute a silver cup, as a prize to the winner of a series of three games to be played between the team and the Rutgers Preparatory School nine, has been accepted. The first of the series of games will take place at Dewey Park Memorial Day.

GOLF.

Owing to the disagreeable weather the play for the Fisk cup for women, which was to have been started this morning on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, has been postponed to Friday morning, May 24, at 10 o'clock. The grounds are not in fit condition for the women and the committee decided it was best to postpone the event.

OFF FOR BUFFALO.

Two Telegraph Boys Have Decided to Go Forth in Search of Adventure.

Touched by the delightful weather of spring and with $8 in their pockets, William Edmunson and Thomas Kane, said good-bye to Plainfield yesterday morning and started for the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo. Up to the time of their departure they were messenger boys employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company. The pay car came to town yesterday and when the boys received their monthly salary, $8 each, they agreed to work no more and enjoy life. They said nothing to Manager Charles Schermerhorn before going away. When they were wanted they could not be found. Inquiry revealed the fact that they had left the city.

Peter Sweeney and Walter Ulmer were immediately engaged to take the places of the runaways, and if they should return they cannot get their former positions. The runaway boys have always been considered of a roving disposition and much given to reading novels during spare time. Their companions doubt, however, their ability to reach Buffalo and stay away from home. Up to the present time not a word has been heard from the boys and so far as known no effort has been made to find them.

A Man of Integrity.

Joseph C. Pierson, aged seventy years, father of Joseph C. Pierson, Jr., of Westervelt avenue, died suddenly of appoplexy Thursday night at his home, 85 Clinton avenue, Newark, where he had lived nearly all of his life. He was one of the best known and most respected citizens of Newark. He was a man of integrity and possessed many sterling qualities. The funeral services will be held Monday.

The case of Kuntzman against Sacher, of assault and battery, which was to have been tried before Justice Hand today, was adjourned for one week.

FOUR HUNDRED MACHINISTS WENT ON STRIKE AT LOCAL SHOPS THIS MORNING.

Demand For Nine Hours' Work With Ten Hours' Pay Was Not Granted by the Local Press Works.

MACHINISTS AT POND'S ARE STILL WORKING.

THIS IS THE LARGEST STRIKE THAT EVER TOOK PLACE IN THIS CITY.

Strike in Progress at Scott Press Works, Potter Press Works, Campbell Press Works and Aluminum Plate and Press Works—No Immediate Prospect of Settlement—No Disorder.

Four hundred machinists laid down their tools at 7 o'clock this morning and went on strike in obedience to the order of the International Order of Machinists, as their employers refused to grant the demand made by the order for nine hours' work with ten hours' pay. The strike extends to the Scott Press Works, the Potter Press Works, the Campbell Press Works and the Aluminum Plate and Press Works. The machinists at the Pond Tool Works are still working with very few exceptions, although it has been rumored all day that they would stop soon. The reason that the men at Pond's did not go out at first was because a committee of employes had promised to wait until June 3, in order to allow the question to come up before the annual meeting of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company, of which this is a branch. It is now reported that the time for an answer from the company has been changed to Friday.

The strike is the largest and most important one that ever took place in Plainfield. Besides the four hundred machinists, there are helpers and apprentices and men from other departments, numbering two hundred, who are also out. While there are many of the strikers on the streets, everything is quiet and there has not been the slightest suggestion of violence.

At present, there is no immediate prospect of settlement. The men are confident that their demand will be ultimately granted while the employers are waiting developments. The position taken by the latter is outlined in the speech made by Walter Scott to his men this morning.

STRIKE IS ON AT POTTER'S.

Hundred and Fifty Men Quit Work This Morning—Company Await Developments.

In company with the other employes of the shop, the machinists at the Potter Press Works resumed work this morning at the usual starting time, which is 6:30. Precisely at 7 o'clock a prearranged signal was given and 150 of them laid down their tools. When they had quietly filed out but eleven machinists remained, all of whom are non-union men. The union men made no direct demand upon the officials of the company but stood in groups on the sidewalk discussing the situation. The generel feeling toward those who remained was very bitter. The strikers afterward retired to their homes and the streets in the vicinity of the works present their usual quiet aspect.

In reply to a Press reporter this morning, George B. Titsworth, superintendent of the Potter Press Works, stated that the company was, at present, non-committal. At this time, he said, it would be very foolish for them to grant a 12 and 1-2 per cent increase in wages, not knowing what the other printing press builders would do, and then try to complete with these makers. If Hoe, Babcock, Goss and Cottrell grant the demands of the men, the Potter people would immediately do the same. Being a Seventh-Day shop, the Potter men have always worked on an average but nine hours a day, making fifty four hours a week and were paid for fifty-five. To grant the terms demanded would mean paying them for sixty hours work instead of fifty-four. Probably no other shop in the city has more regard for its men than does Potter's and the feeling between employers and employes is of the best. In conclusion, Mr. Titsworth stated that the few remaining men would probably quit today and if so, the machine shop would suspend operations and simply await developments.

The Campbell Press Company has no local shop, their presses being made by contract by the Potter company. They have a repair shop which is located in the old carpet factory and where twenty-five men are employed. None of them appeared at the shop this morning and work there has ceased entirely.

ALUMINUM MACHINISTS OUT.

Superintendent Leary Told Men Of Stand Taken On Matter By His Company.

While all the machinists went out this morning at the Aluminum Plate and Press Works, there are eleven moulders, fifteen laborers and seven pattern-makers still at work. The machinists reported as usual for work, and when they were informed that under the circumstances their demands would be refused, the men quit work. J. W. Leary, the superintendent, told them that if they would treat the company as fairly as the Pond Tool and Machine Works has been treated, there would be no trouble. The men have been paid for sixty hours' work while they have been working fifty-nine hours.

Mr. Leary thinks that the same consideration should be given the company he represents as that given to Pond's, and he thinks that the men have made a mistake in this respect. He also believes that the nine-hour day is bound to come, and his company does not object to it. All that is asked is the same consideration accorded to all.

THE SITUATION AT SCOTT'S.

Mr. Scott Summed Up His View In a Brief Address to The Men This Morning.

An air of stillness pervades the big machine shop of the Scott Press Works. The harsh and heavy sounds that one is accustomed to hear when approaching the vicinity are absent. Shortly before 7 o'clock this morning 200 men, mostly machinists, laid down their tools and marched out silently in obedience to the order received from the headquarters of the workmen—the International Association of Machinists—at Washington.

Every man in the shops understood precisely the situation and although there was no spontaneous action the men filed out in groups. These included approximately 150 machinists; fifteen apprentices and twenty helpers. Some, however, stayed but they were not regular machinists, and their action does not affect the situation. Those who remained were ten foremen and the same number of helpers. Fifteen apprentices also stayed in.

The moulders and draughtsmen do not seem to be particularly concerned in the strike and they are going on

MORE MEMBERS AFTER THE PRESIDENT'S CUP

New Competitors Carried Off Saturday's Honors at Park Golf Club Links.

LOW SCORES WERE MADE.

GENERAL SHAKEUP MADE IN THE CLUB HANDICAPS.

Points in Saturday's Competition Were Won By Allan B. Laing, Chas. A. Reed and Fred P. Taylor—C. W. McCutchen Leads.

Saturday's honors for the President's cup at the links of the Park Golf Club went to members who have not figured among the leaders in the contest for the trophy heretofore. A general shakeup was made in the handicaps by the golf committee and, as a result, some unusually low net scores were made. There was also an improvement in many of the gross scores.

Although it looked like rain all the afternoon, over a dozen players registered for the weekly competition for the President's cup. The changes in handicaps were posted. The only member who suffered much of a cut was Charles W. McCutchen who was reduced from 40 to 33. The course was in good condition and, despite the slowness occasioned by the rains of the night before, good scores were made. The course had just been cut and the putting greens, in particular, were very smooth.

The best playing for the day was done by Morgan T. Townsend and Fred P. Taalor. Townsend turned in a 98, and Taylor was one more. These were the lowest scores made this season in any club event. Allan B. Laing made 109, which sent his net score way down to 73, which was good for first by nine strokes.

A boost in Senator Reed's handicap landed him second while Taylor, one of the virtual scratch men was only a single scratch behind.

Charles W. McCutchen still leads in points for the cup. Morgan T. Townsend is second while Laing joined the little group tied for third place. The standing is as follows:

Charles W. McCutchen	5
Morgan T. Townsend	4
Joseph H. Howell	3
H. D. Hibbard	3
Allan B. Laing	3
Charles A. Reed	2
William J. Buttfield	2
Fred P. Taylor	1
W. de la R. Anderson	½
Herbert S. Rogers	½

The afternoon's lowest scores were:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Allan B. Laing	109	36	73
Charles A. Reed	121	39	82
Fred P. Taylor	99	16	83
Joseph H. Howell	116	30	86
Morgan T. Townsend	98	11	87
Herbert S. Rogers	119	30	89
William A. Townsend	117	25	92
Samuel Townsend	132	40	92
George T. Rogers	137	34	103

THREE JUST ESCAPED DEATH IN FLAMES.

Dangerous Little Conflagration On North Avenue Early Sunday Morning.

POLICE SAVED INMATES

BLAZE STARTED FROM FALLEN ALCOHOL LAMP IN FRUIT STORE.

Fruit Store of Antonio Minetta Was Cleaned Out And Contents Destroyed—Total Loss Will Reach $1,500—Partially Insured.

Aroused from sleep just in time to escape death by smoke and flame was the experience of Mrs. Henry Drake, her daughter, Miss Carrie Drake, and son, Howard, at a fire at 1 o'clock yesterday morning which nearly destroyed the two-story brick building on North avenue which they occupied, entailing a loss of $1,500. But for the prompt arrival of the police, the fire, which originated on the first floor in the fruit store of Antonio Minetta, would have cut them off from the street or caused death by suffocation. As it was, they were driven out in their night robes. Miss Drake and her brother, Howard, escaped injury but Mrs. Drake was slightly scorched and suffered from the inhalation of smoke.

The rapidity with which the fire spread was remarkable. It was caused by the dropping and subsequent explosion of an alcohol lamp which was suspended from the ceiling and used for a cigar lighter. The blazing alcohol flew among quantities of inflammable material, and in an incredibly short time the flames had spread to the outside of the building and by means of an awning reached the second floor.

The only occupant of the store at the time was Minetta's nephew Julius Curnino, who was just closing. As soon as the flames flared up he gave the alarm. His cries were heard by Patrolman Vanderweg who turned in the alarm from box 13. In the meantime the fire headquarters had been notified by telephone from the Hotel Imperial by Clerk McConnell.

Patrolman Vanderweg, in company with Patrolman Meyers, returned to the building and attempted to break in the door leading to the upper apartments, but were unsuccessful.

The noise aroused Mrs. Drake and her daughter who were sleeping in a front room. The flames were already bursting through the windows. After rousing her son Mrs. Drake attempted to get her clothing but was driven back and reaching the stairway she succumbed to the smoke just as the firemen reached her. She was then taken to the Hotel Imperial where her children had already been made comfortable, they having been gotten out safely by Patrolmen Vanderweg and Myers. Mr. Drake was not at home.

Although the arrival of the department was very prompt the fire was greatly advanced and could not be stayed by the chemical stream. Two additional streams of water were thrown into the building, but it was after 2 o'clock before the flames were entirely extinguished. The structure was not gutted but it will take extensive repairs to place it in condition for occupancy.

The building was owned by Mrs. Drake who places her loss at $800, which is fully covered by insurance. Her household effects was damaged to the extent of $250, on which there is no insurance.

Metella's loss was entire. His stock was destroyed by fire and water and a marble soda fountain worth $200 was ruined. His total loss is estimated at at $500, and is covered by insurance.

The insurance on the building was $2,000 and is in companies represented by J. C. Pope. Minetta's stock and fixtures were insured for $1,500 with Elston M. French.

GRAND WORK DONE IN TWENTY YEARS.

Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church Celebrated Anniversary.

VERY INTERESTING REPORTS

ABLE ADDRESS MADE BY W. W. CLARK OF NEW YORK.

Services Held Last Evening—Work of Committee Was Reviewed—Membership of Fifty-Seven Active And Ten Honorary Members.

The twentieth anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening. There was a large congregation present, including many members of the society. The event was appropriately observed by the presentation of reports and an able address by Rev. W. W. Clark, of New York City, who is the Field Secretary of the Domestic Board of the Reformed church of America. His remarks were interesting and helpful. His theme was to the effect that all Christians should let their light shine and not hide it under a bushel.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Amanda Clark, was read by her husband, Robert Clark, Jr., and is as follows:

The report of the secretary, Mrs. L. A. VanZandt, was read by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck. This showed that the society has been doing excellent work in every department. There is a membership of fifty-seven, not including ten honorary. They have remembered the mountain whites, the hospital in Arabia, the Indian mission, the student missionary work, and the foreign and domestic mission boards, the Scofield school, South Carolina, the Galveston sufferers, a staten Island missionary and a minister in Michigan. At Thanksgiving time Muhlenberg Hospital and the Children's Home were remembered.

The reception committee realized $168.99 from the turkey supper, of which $100 was given to the Consistory to help paint the church, and $50 was given for the piano fund. The sewing committee prepared articles for a missionary box. Twenty-three garments were sent to the summer sewing guild. All of the committees have done a noble work along the lines of missions.

During the year a Missionary League was formed for the purpose of studying mission work, and as a result a library has been established. In various ways the league has stimulated the interest in the work and has increased the contributions to the society.

At the close Pastor Schenck congratulated the members of this society and praised them for the grand results made possible through their efforts.

While Mr. Clark was talking the members of the German Reformed church closed their service and attended the service at Trinity church. The service at the latter church was concluded with the benediction by Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church.

Gifts for Dr. Brett.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, pastor of the Bergen Reformed church, Jersey City, who is well-known to many Plainfielders, has just celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his pastorate. His congregation presented him with a purse of $900 in gold and has granted him an extra month's vacation for this summer.

SEVERAL SURPRISES ON THE DIAMOND FOR PLAINFIELD'S LOCAL TEAMS.

Hope Chapel Team Overwhelmingly Defeated the Crack Team of St. Mary's Saturday Afternoon.

THE HOPE BOYS WERE IN EXCELLENT FORM.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL TEAM PLAYED A GREAT GAME AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

Defeated By Rutgers Preparatory School Team Saturday Afternoon By a Score of 7 to 6—Game Took Ten Innings—Plainfield A. A. and Clinton Avenues Tied in Six Innings, Then Darkness Came.

Hope Chapel	14
St Mary's	3
Plainfield A. A.	10
Clinton Ave.	10
Rutgers Prep School	7
Plainfield High School	6

There were several complete surprises to the local lovers of the National game in the results of the baseball grmes Saturday afternoon. Chief interest centred in the meeting of the St. Mary's and Hope chapel teams. It was the general opinion that the St. Mary's boys would win although it was expected to see the other team make a strong fight. The easy victory for Hope chapel was a great surprise. The game between the Plainfield A. A. and the Clinton Avenue teams ended with a tie. The Plainfield High School boys put up the best game of the season by losing to the Rutgers Preparatory School at New Brunswick by one run in a ten-inning game.

HOPE'S SIGNAL VICTORY.

Overwhelmingly Defeated St. Mary's Team By Score of 13 to 4.

The Hope chapel nine won a signal victory in the game with St. Mary's team on the Plainfield avenue diamond Saturday afternoon. By clean and steady work the Hope chapel nine won by a score of 13 to 4 It was the first defeat received by the St. Mary's boys this season.

The result of the game was largely due to the excellent fielding of the winning team. Roseberry was conspicuous in this respect but all the other players deserve commendation for the game was by all odds the most systematic one that the Hope chapel boys have played so far this year.

The work of the St. Mary's team in the field was marked by a lack of energy. St. Mary's left fielder, Taylor, however, did some brilliant playing and was roundly applauded at times. Wild throwing was an expensive feature of the defeated team's work, as was also poor base running.

In the box J. Montross, of Hope chapel's team repeated his performance of last Saturday and H. Montross behind the bat showed great improvement. Fred Winn, who substituted Tom Keefe, as pitcher for St. Mary's, was erratic and some of his wild pitches were responsible for runs. Barry, St. Mary's catcher, should be given credit for the game he played under the trying circumstances. There was no doubt of the ultimate result at any stage of the contest.

The batting order follows:

St. Mary's.	Hope Chapel.
Mack, ss.	Mague, lf.
Angleman, cf.	Gordon, 3b.
Keen, 3b.	Smith, ss.

DARKNESS CAME TOO SOON.

Tie Game Played Between the Plainfeld A. A. and Clinton Avenues Saturday.

After six innings of ragged playing on the part of both sides, the baseball game Saturday afternoon, between the Plainfield Athletic Association and the Clinton Avenue nine, was called by mutual consent on account of darkness. The score stood 10 to 10.

Throughout the entire game and particularly the first three innings, there was a continuous succession of errors. For the first three innings, it looked as if the Association men would have a walkover as their opponents were unable to score. But the Clinton Avenues seemed to redouble their efforts and in the last three innings scored ten times. The game was witnessed by a large number of spectators.

The batting order was as follows:

P. A. A.	Clinton Avenue.
Jackson, cf.	Squire, p.
Connors, 2b.	Owens, c.
Scott, 3b.	Martin, ss.
Lederer, 1b	Bulmer, lf.

LOST BY A SINGLE RUN.

But City High School Played Great Ball Against Rutgers Prep. School.

In a closely contested and rattling good game of baseball, the Plainfield High School team was defeated by the Rutgers' Preparatory School nine at New Brunswick Saturday afternoon. It took ten innings to decide the contest and at its close the score was 7 to 6 in favor of the doughty boys of New Brunswick.

Notwithstanding that they were defeated the local High School boys put up a good fight. VanAuken, in the box did some fine work and he received great support. The Rutgers Preparatory nine's pitcher, Hay, was more effective, however, and performed the feat of striking out ten men.

It was not until the fifth inning that the Plainfielders succeeded in crossing home plate. At the close of the inning the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of the Rutgers Preparatory school boys. Cubberly and Meeker had made runs for the Plainfield High School, and F. Mason, VanAuken and Munroe added three more in the seventh inning. Again Munroe made another run in the following inning and the score was 6 to 6 at the end of the ninth inning, a run having been made by Kuehnle the short stop of the New Brunswick team in the sixth inning.

In the tenth Cole scored for New Brunswick on VanVechten's safe hit. That ended the game.

—If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION OPENS.

Dedication Day of the Great Six Months' Festival.

Wonderful Beauty of the Completed Work.

Color, Sculpture, Electricity, Fountains, Flowers and Festive Architecture—The Most Beautiful Exposition Ever Created—A Triumph of Artistic Endeavor—A Mammoth Show In Which the Practical Side Is as Well Cared For as the Artistic Features.

BUFFALO, May 20.—The dedication of the Pan-American Exposition today was performed in a manner befitting the great occasion, a large attendance testifying to the widespread interest in the mammoth enterprise. Fully 300,000 people were on hand to take part in the grand event. The day was made a civic holiday, and there was a general outpouring of people from cities and towns within 200 miles of Buffalo, both in the United States and Canada, by way of the 20 or more great lines of railway which center in this city.

The city was astir at an early hour to witness or participate in the programme. Mr. Louis L. Babcock was chief marshal, and the programme consisted of parades, ceremonies in the Temple of Music and special outdoor features. There were two separate and distinct parades—an Exposition parade and a concessionnaires' parade, leaving the City Hall at 10 a. m.

The Exposition parade consisted of the United States troops in this city, the Mexican National Band, a detachment of all arms of the Mexican army and other foreign troops in the city, the Fourth Brigade, N. G. S. N. Y., all under the command of General S. M. Welch, escorting carriages containing the Exposition officials and their specially invited guests.

The parade of the concessionnaires was participated in by all the concessionnaires. It was accompanied by 15 bands and was two miles in length, showing the wonderful features and interesting people of the Midway.

The ceremonies at the grounds consisted, first, of a grand flight of carrier pigeons freed on the Esplanade and conveying the news of the dedication of the Exposition to the world. The invited guests then proceeded to the Temple of Music, where the following programme was carried out under the direction of the Hon. John G. Milburn, president of the Pan-American Exposition:

Music by the Seventy-first Regiment Band, under the direction of Professor Fanciulli.

Opening prayer by the Right Rev. C. H. Fowler, bishop of the M. E. church.

Address by his honor Conrad Diehl, mayor of the city of Buffalo.

Poem written for the occasion by Robert Cameron Rogers.

"Salve Libertas," Sturm, by Buffalo Orpheus and Orchestra, John Lund conductor.

Address by the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, vice president of the United States.

Music.

Address by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Poem written for the occasion by Frederic Almy.

Address by the Hon. Timothy L. Woodruff, lieutenant governor of the State of New York.

"America," by band, Orpheus and audience.

Benediction by the Right Rev. William D. Walker, bishop of western New York.

At noon there was an exhibition of scientific kiteflying by Mr. E. I. Horsman, scientific kite expert of New York, and his staff of kitefliers. This consisted of tandem kites and Eddy war kites, suspending the American flag and discharging American flags in the form of parachutes, others supporting a great banner bearing the word "Welcome," with others bearing different flags and streamers at various heights. There were also flown tandems of naval block kites and keel kites with flags and a tandem of yacht or ship kites.

At the close of the ceremonies in the Temple of Music there was a great display of day fireworks, including a grand salute of 125 aerial guns fired from steel mortars, the ascent of 27 large 12 foot gas balloons, each lettered with the name of one of the Pan-American countries and carrying the flag of the country; salute to the states, 46 mammoth cannon report rockets, one for each state of the Union, fired simultaneously; magnificent display of Japanese daylight fireworks, released in midair from Japanese bombs; oriental kite display, exhibiting 150 kites, from which will be displayed Pan-American flags and the New York State flag; daylight bomb cloud shells, setting free American and Pan-American flags, with souvenirs of the dedication day; simultaneous discharge of 1,000 small gas balloons, sent up in triplets, each bearing a souvenir of the dedication day; grand American salute, consisting of 500 large gun cotton rockets.

The completed Exposition is a distinct triumph in countless ways. Never before has there been such an effort put forth to produce rich decorative effects. These are to be seen in the symmetrical arrangement of the buildings around spacious courts, the glow of color upon all the buildings, the play of fountains and cascades, the profusion of blossoming flowers, the generous use of intricate molded ornaments upon the buildings, the great number of sculptured groups by famous American sculptors and at night the softly diffused yet brilliant lighting effects produced by means of more than 300,000 incandescent electric lamps upon buildings and throughout the grounds.

The grounds of the Exposition comprise some 350 acres, very accessible by steam and electric lines from all parts of Buffalo. When it is recalled that it was only the 4th day of last June that the first piece of timber was raised aloft as the beginning of what is now a magnificent Exposition city, one can but marvel at the executive force which has brought this work to its present state of completeness.

The cost of the Exposition as it now appears is approximately $10,000,000, exclusive of exhibits. Of this sum the Midway represents an expenditure of about $3,000,000. Nothing seems to have been forgotten in perfecting the plan, and there is every convenience for the visitor and an abundance for him to examine and enjoy. The admission price is the same as usual at expositions, half a dollar, but it entitles one to a full day at the most beautiful festival of the kind that has ever been brought into existence. No pen will be so presumptuous as to attempt to describe the architectural and color beauty of the Pan-American Exposition. It is a magnificent, an extravagant, dream brought to a harmonious and beautiful realization. The triumph of the architect, the colorist, the landscape architect, the sculptor and the electrician is complete.

There are about 150 buildings in the Exposition plot, of all sizes and descriptions, and an abundance for every one to see, no matter how long he may choose to remain. The most novel exhibits perhaps are to be found in the Electricity building, for in that particular science wonderful strides have been made within the last few years. Notably among these is the transformer plant, where 5,000 horsepower is received from Niagara Falls by cable at a pressure of 11,000 volts and stepped down to 1,800 volts. This power is used for lighting the vast Exposition area. A daylight brilliancy will pervade the Exposition until 11 o'clock each night. The exhibit of Street Railway appliances is also of a very complete and interesting character. The exhibit made by Thomas A. Edison, showing the development of many of his important inventions, constitutes another attractive feature. Demonstrations are to be made of Wireless Telegraphy and the X Rays. In the center of the Machinery and Transportation building is a working exhibit of a large number of Pumping Engines. These supply the water for the various fountain features of the Exposition. Among these water displays is a cascade in the southern face of the Electric Tower, from which there is a flow of 35,000 gallons of water per minute, making a beautiful veillike cataract 70 feet high. Upon this cataract electric lights of many colors will be thrown from an invisible source, producing an enchanting picture.

One of the most imposing buildings of the Exposition is the great Stadium. This is more than 60 feet high and is so large as to inclose a quarter mile track. The seats are arranged in the form of a vast amphitheater, and the capacity is sufficient for 12,000 spectators. This is to be the scene of very interesting events daily throughout the Exposition.

The Midway is said to be the greatest that has ever been organized for any exposition. The Midway proper is 3,000 feet long, thus giving more than a mile of frontage upon this singular thoroughfare. There are about 40 shows, every one of them possessing special merit and selected from a large number offered. There has been great rivalry among show people to secure space upon the Midway, and it has been allotted with great care and with the positive assurance that every feature would be of a character to command popular interest.

It may be said of the whole Exposition that in every department it is a compact yet complete presentation of Twentieth Century civilization of the Western World.

CARS RUN AGAIN.

First Day of Operation at Albany. Two Funerals Held.

ALBANY, May 20.—The incidents of the first day of active operations of all the railway lines affected by the great strike were few because of the heavy fall of rain. The two men shot by national guardsmen in defense of life and property were buried in the afternoon, but the pouring rain kept away the thousands of sightseers that otherwise would have marked the occasion with their presence. The departure of the Twenty-third regiment early in the morning was the second feature of the day, and stirring sermons in many city pulpits aided in closing the incident.

The funeral of Leroy Smith, the prominent business man, which took place during the afternoon, was devoid of incident except that it was attended by city officials and directors of the street railway people.

At the funeral of William Walsh, the second victim of the strike, there was nearly a riot. While the services were proceeding in the church the crowd that had been unable to gain admission saw a uniformed soldier coming down the street. Instantly the people were in a state of ferment, for Walsh had been killed by national guardsmen. A rush was made for the unlucky and unwise soldier, but a few wise heads held the surging crowd back for a minute, while several others advised the man to run. Arguing that discretion was the better part of valor, he did run, and trouble was avoided.

The starting out of the first car of the intercity line shortly after noon was the cause of a demonstration. Pistols were fired, flags waved, torpedoes were placed on the track and exploded, the motormen and conductors wore flags on their coats, and fully 200 men and women fought for the privilege of the first ride.

Citizens, as a rule, have nothing but praise for the guardsmen who served here under such trying circumstances. Only about half a dozen men out of 3,000 misbehaved themselves.

Nonunion Men Well Paid.

ALBANY, May 20.—In reply to an editorial which appeared in a New York paper yesterday the officers of the United Traction company stated last night that the company had well rewarded the nonunion men and the employees who remained at work during the strike. To each of the four men of the two crews who took out the two first cars $100 was given, to each of the third crew $50, to every motorman and conductor who remained in the service of the company during the strike $20 and to all others who did not strike a bonus of $5 as well as board and expenses.

THE TOTAL ECLIPSE.

Partly Cloudy, but Important Observations Were Made.

BOSTON, May 20.—President Pritchett of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has received a cable message from Professor Burton, in charge of the technology eclipse party, announcing that important results had been obtained. The weather was cloudy during a portion of the eclipse, but all four contacts were observed, and a brilliant corona was shown at totality which lasted nearly six minutes. Photographs of the corona were obtained.

But the most interesting and novel work of the party consisted in the observations obtained photographically of the shadow bands.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The last Italian census shows the population to be 32,449,754, an increase of 4,000,000 since 1881.

The anniversary of the commune was celebrated by the revolutionary groups in Paris. Several arrests were made.

At Seattle, Wash., the torpedo boat destroyer Goldsboro broke her starboard engine eccentric rod during a trial run, necessitating the vessel's return to her dock.

The Porte Appears Humble.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 20.—Ahmed Pasha, Ottoman minister of foreign affairs, called upon the embassadors and notified them of Turkey's desire to reestablish the status quo ante in the postal question and her intention to send a high functionary, probably the foreign minister himself, to apologize for the violations of the foreign mail bags. The embassadors met at the residence of the German embassador to determine what attitude to adopt in view of the complete submission of the sublime porte.

A Miracle In Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, May 20.—After being a cripple all his life Maurice Lavery, 13 years old, is said to have been cured at the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes, at Broadway and Aberdeen street, Brooklyn. The boy had visited the shrine twice a month for a half year, and after being sprinkled with holy water in the presence of 2,000 people he is said to have walked to the parish house without assistance and without using his crutches, the first time in his life he ever walked without their aid.

Bishop O'Connell Consecrated.

ROME, May 20.—Mgr. O'Connell, formerly rector of the American college in Rome and recently appointed bishop of Portland, Me., was solemnly consecrated yesterday in the Church of St. John Lateran by Cardinal Satolli, prefect of the propaganda and formerly apostolic delegate to the United States. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few invited friends.

Fatal Accident In Steel Plant.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 20.—Two men are dead and three are expected to die as a result of an accident in the bessemer department of the National Steel company's plant. The accident was caused by the cover of a mammoth converter letting go and allowing 13 tons of molten metal to flow over the mill.

A Serious Disaster.

BEMIDJI, Minn., May 20.—The Norwegian disaster turns out to have been more serious than first reports indicated. The bodies of three of the passengers on the steamer Shadow lie at the bottom of Lake Bemidji, and two of the victims of the explosion are at the point of death as the result of their injuries.

A Wholesale Shooting.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 20.—Evert Conway shot and killed William Garrison and Mrs. Garrison. He shot seven cows Ben Wallace, a policeman; Adam Crawford, a negro, and another man through the ear. Conway shot at his father four times and then shot himself through the heart.

MACHINISTS' STRIKE.

New York Leaders Hope For Peaceful Settlement.

MANY EMPLOYERS GRANT DEMANDS.

The Craft In Many Parts of the Country Is Making a Firm Stand and Will Do No Work Until Concessions Are Granted.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Whether we are to see the beginning of a machinists' strike which shall rival the one in the engineering trades in England which played so important a part in the opening of the markets of the world to the Americans is problematical. Leading labor men and representatives of the leading employers say that they think the pending questions will be settled without any general strike. It was intimated that J. P. Morgan might be appealed to and requested to use his influence with the great industrial combinations in the interests of peace, thus preventing any trouble, in much the same manner as great coal strikes have been prevented during the past year.

Meetings of the machinists were held at various places in this city yesterday to discuss the local situation. After getting reports from all the shops in the metropolitan district the conclusion reached was that shops employing about one-half of all the machinists in the greater city would grant the nine hour day and the 12½ per cent increase of wages without trouble and that not more than 4,000 men at the outside would go out on strike.

Among the big shops in New York city where strikes are considered among the possibilities are the Garvan Machine company, where about 250 machinists are employed; the Hoe works, in Grand street, with about 800 machinists, and the General Incandescent Arc Light company, with 250 machinists.

It is said that the danger of a serious strike on the part of the 500 men employed in the 24 machine shops of Jersey City is remote for the reason that the majority of the men are receiving maximum wages.

Fifty Thousand Men to Go Out.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The strike order issued by the executive board of the International Order of Machinists went into effect at 7 o'clock this morning. President O'Connell said that about 50,000 men will be affected. The order instructs the men to refuse to go to work in all shops where notices granting the nine hour workday have not been posted at 7 o'clock. The estimate is now that 35 per cent of the employing firms have signed. At least 25,000 union machinists were working nine hours or less when the question was taken up by the association. The 50,000 men who will suspend work are scattered all over the country. The national officers are hopeful that speedy settlements will be reached in most of the eastern cities, but they fear a more prolonged struggle on the Pacific coast. The Union Iron works at San Francisco, where the battleship Ohio is building, and other large concerns are preparing to resist the demand. In a number of cities there are questions pending between the employers and men which may operate to prevent decisive action at once.

San Francisco Machinists to Strike.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—There seems no doubt that there will be a walkout of the machinists in the Union Iron works and the Risdon Iron works. The number of men affected is not yet known. A lengthy memorial emanating from the San Francisco labor council has been presented to President McKinley. It ascribes the present differences between employers and employees to the possibility of congress not taking any action in reference to the further continuance of the exclusion law now in force. The policy of territorial expansion is combated, and the request is made that with the acquisition of outlying lands the doctrine of exclusion of Asiatics be enforced.

Strike on In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, May 20.—The greater number of the union machinists of this city are already on strike, for when they quit work Saturday it was until their demands were granted by the employers. The machinists held a large meeting yesterday and are enthusiastic in their intention to remain out. Probably 1,200 men are idle. Eleven concerns have agreed to pay the union scale and concede the reduced hours. Their men will therefore not strike. They comprise the smaller factories. The larger concerns have so far given no sign of yielding. About 25 factories are affected.

Lehigh Employees Out.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 20.—The Lehigh Valley railroad and the Central Railroad of New Jersey have declined to grant the machinists employed in their shops here a nine hour day, and the men went out on strike this morning. At a meeting of the employees of both roads held yesterday resolutions to that effect were unanimously passed. About 1,400 men are affected.

Machinists Out In Boston.

BOSTON, May 20.—The strike among the machinists which is gradually spreading over the country began to affect this city and vicinity this morning, when nearly 1,500 men remained away from their work. This is the result of failure of the various companies to post notices Saturday night stating that the demand for nine hours had been granted.

These Machinists Will Not Strike.

CONCORD, N. H., May 20.—There was no strike of the machinists in the Boston and Maine railroad shops here today, a temporary agreement having been made. Whether there will be a strike at some future date is uncertain. The arrangement, which is not known publicly, is thought to have been reached at other points on the railroad.

Strike Averted at Denver.

DENVER, May 20.—The threatened strike of the manufacturing machinists of Denver has been averted by the local members of the National Metal Trades association having granted the nine hour day and the scale of wages demanded by the machinists' union.

Cabinet Crisis In Peru.

LIMA, Peru, May 20.—A cabinet crisis is reported to be imminent. It is said that the Peruvian minister of finance, Domingo Almenara, has threatened to resign, as he disagrees with his colleagues on the details of the salt monopoly.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Majority and Minority Present Views to Cuban Convention.

ACCEPTANCE WITH ADDITIONS.

Three Members of the Committee Favor Platt Amendment, but With Certain Alterations to Third, Sixth and Seventh Clauses.

HAVANA, May 20.—The committee on relations of the Cuban constitutional convention submitted majority and minority reports to the convention today. The majority report in an introduction quotes article 1 of the treaty of Paris, the joint resolution of the United States congress and the Platt amendment and then proceeds as follows:

"Inasmuch as Secretary Root, being authorized by President McKinley, says that the Platt law has for its object the guaranteeing of the independence of Cuba and does not mean interference with its government or the exercise of a protectorate or of sovereignty and also that intervention will only take place when independence is endangered by outside powers or grave interior disturbances, creating anarchy, and inasmuch as Secretary Root has said that the naval stations will not be used for vantage points of intervention, but only to protect Cuba against foreign powers, we report as follows:

"That, in virtue of the fact that the Platt law in its preamble says it is a fulfillment of the joint resolution and has been adopted by congress with the principal object of establishing independence, we do propose to the convention to accept the following as an appendix to the constitution."

The first, second, fourth and fifth clauses are quoted in their entirety. The third clause has the following addition:

"It being understood that the United States has the right to intervene to prevent the action of a foreign power or disturbances causing a state of anarchy and that the intervention shall always be the act of the United States and not of isolated agents. The intervention shall suppose neither sovereignty nor a protectorate and shall only last sufficiently long to establish normal conditions. Said intervention, it is also understood, shall not have the right to interfere in the government, but only the right to preserve independence."

An addition to the sixth clause says that the ownership of the Isle of Pines shall be settled by a future treaty.

An addition to the seventh clause says: "It shall be understood that the naval stations do not give the United States the right to intervene in the interior government, but are established with the sole purpose of protecting American waters from foreign invasion directed against Cuba or the United States. Cuba will sell or lease the necessary land at points to be agreed upon later."

An addition to the eighth clause says that the government of Cuba suggests at the same time a treaty of commerce based upon reciprocity.

The minority report says:

"The explanations given to the commission in Washington show that the Platt law does not express the wishes of the United States. It was intended to protect the independence of Cuba, but the wording gives other interpretations.

"The United States is inconsistent in asking naval stations when the amendment provides that no concessions shall be given to foreign powers. Such a demand raises the question whether the United States does not consider Cuba a part of its possessions."

The report of the minority virtually accepts the first and second clauses. For the third clause the following is substituted: "That the government of Cuba subscribes to the Monroe doctrine and will help the United States to enforce it against other nations trying to violate it."

For the fourth clause the following is substituted: "Cuba does not recognize acts of intervention which are (not?) in conformity with the Foraker resolution and the laws of the country."

The seventh clause reads, "Cuba will maintain naval stations, handing them over to the United States in time of war."

The report of the minority recommends a commercial treaty based upon reciprocity.

The report of the majority has caused considerable surprise. It was generally believed that the committee on relations would recommend acceptance of the Platt amendment on the basis of the interpretation given by Secretary Root, but it was not expected that such additions would be made to various clauses as the majority recommend.

An Auto Transcontinental Trip.

CLEVELAND, May 20.—The overland automobile trip from San Francisco to New York city under the auspices of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and conducted by Alexander Winton and Charles B. Shanks began its journey this morning at 7:15 o'clock from in front of the ferry building in San Francisco. Mr. Winton will start his horseless carriage on the trip over plains, mountains, valleys and deserts. This is the longest trip of its kind ever undertaken in the United States, if not in the world, and each day's progress will be watched with interest. The eastern destination is New York city, where a packet from General Shafter will be delivered to General Miles.

Presbyterians and Creed Revision.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—The great question before the Presbyterian church for years, the revision of the confession of faith, will be taken up by the assembly on Thursday. The hearing and the consideration of the report of the committee upon the revision of the creda statements of the church appointed at St. Louis last year was made a complete order for that day, and the matter will remain before the assembly until it is disposed of. At this time it is impossible to forecast the action of the commissioners.

Fatal Election Quarrels In Spain.

MADRID, May 20.—The elections to the new chamber of deputies were held yesterday. At Bilbao there was a quarrel between a ministerialist and a socialist, and the latter was killed. Another person was killed at Cuence, a suburb of Bilbao.

YOKOHAMA, May 20.—According to advices from Seoul the Korean government has leased to Japan 450 acres of land to form a settlement at Masanpho The land in question was formerly anxiously sought by Russia.

CLERGYMAN A SUICIDE.

Dr. Babcock of New York Takes His Own Life In Naples.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A dispatch just received from Naples says, "Further investigation into the case of the American clergyman who committed suicide here Saturday in the International hospital by severing an artery of his wrist and swallowing corrosive sublimate and who was mentioned in yesterday's dispatch as 'Mr. Maltie, an American evangelical minister,' proves the suicide to have been the Rev. Malthie Davenport Babcock."

On Wednesday William D. Barbour, the banker, who is treasurer of the Brick Presbyterian church in this city, received a dispatch from Mrs. Babcock saying that her husband was in the hospital at Naples with Mediterranean fever. Saturday Mr. Barbour got a cable dispatch from the Rev. Dr. J. I. Riggs of Auburn Theological seminary, one of Dr. Babcock's traveling companions, that Dr. Babcock had died in the hospital that morning. The suddenness of this end of his illness was a great surprise as well as a great shock.

Dr. Babcock and his wife sailed from New York last February with a company of 45 persons, mainly clergymen, for a tour of the Mediterranean and the Holy Land. Among the travelers were Dr. Riggs, the Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith and Frank S. Hastings, who is well known in the Brick church and is a brother-in-law of E. C. Benedict.

On May 2 at Constantinople Dr. Babcock wrote Mr. Barbour that he was in the best of health and was looking forward to seeing his people again in New York very soon. The letter reached Mr. Barbour on Friday. Two days before it got here came the dispatch from Mrs. Babcock, sent from the Hotel Britannique at Naples, informing Mr. Barbour that Dr. Babcock had been taken ill with fever and had been removed to a hospital at Naples. Saturday's cable from Dr. Riggs was merely the brief announcement of Dr. Babcock's death.

Dr. Babcock was called from a Baltimore pastorate to the Brick church in November, 1899, and assumed the pulpit in the following January. In the summer of 1900 he declined to take a vacation, saying that he would wait until this year.

Dr. Babcock was born in Syracuse in 1858 and was graduated from the Syracuse university in 1879. He studied at the Auburn Theological seminary until 1882, when he was ordained in the presbytery of Niagara. His first charge was the First Presbyterian church of Lockport, and he went from there five years later to Baltimore to succeed the Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus.

A BATTLE MONUMENT.

Dedicated by Survivors of the First Massachusetts In Memory of Dead.

SPOTTSYLVANIA COURTHOUSE, Va., May 20.—The massive monument to the memory of the dead comrades of the First Massachusetts regiment of heavy artillery on Harris farm was dedicated yesterday with appropriate ceremonies. The surviving members of the First regiment who arrived at Fredericksburg Friday night came from that place yesterday morning, accompanied by their friends and ladies and many citizens of Fredericksburg. The assemblage was called to order by bugle call, the same bugle being used that did service at the time of the battle on May 19, 1864, when 398 members of the First regiment fell in battle on the field where the monument stands to commemorate their valor.

The monument is of New England granite and weighs 15 tons. The design is a sarcophagus. On the front of the plinth is the word "Massachusetts" in raised letters. The front of the die contains the following inscription: "In commemoration of the deeds of the First regiment, heavy artillery, Massachusetts volunteers (armed as infantry), 398 of whose members fell within an hour around this spot during an action fought May 19, 1864, between a division of the Union army commanded by General Tyler and a corps of the Confederate forces under General Ewell. Erected by the survivors of the regiment 1901."

CHAFFEE'S FAREWELL.

American Expedition to Sail From Taku Wednesday.

PEKING, May 20.—General Chaffee at midnight Saturday issued his farewell order ending the American relief expedition in China. The American troops will board the transports next Wednesday at Taku and Thursday will leave direct for Manila.

M. Pichon, the French minister, left here for home yesterday morning.

A meeting of the foreign ministers will be held today, but it is not likely that much will be accomplished, as some of the ministers have not yet received instructions from their home governments. The ministers, commenting upon the blame attached to them by the people for their slowness, say that as a matter of fact they are powerless to act without orders from home. One of the foreign ministers told a correspondent that he had been instructed heartily to co-operate with another minister. He found upon consultation with his colleagues that their instructions were absolutely different from his. Consequently co-operation was practically impossible.

Went Over Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, May 20.—A man supposed to be William Gardhouse of Brampton, Ont., walked out into Niagara river near the brink of the falls in Prospect park yesterday afternoon and was swept over the brink and dashed to death on the rocks below. A large number of people saw the man deliberately walk to his death, but he was carried over the falls so quickly that no one could do anything to save him.

DEDICATION DAY.

The Pan-American Exposition Formally Opened With Great Ceremony.

BUFFALO, May 20.—The dedication of the Pan-American exposition, so long prepared for, took place today. A city gay in a dress of bunting and a happy people are proud of the realization of their hope and work of two years. At noon, after a parade partly military and partly civic, with ceremonies of dignity becoming the occasion, the great fair was dedicated to the liberal and peaceful arts which it typifies. Dedication day found the magic city of rainbow almost ready for its pleasure seeking population. The great buildings in the exposition city are practically completed, but the installation of exhibits has proceeded very slowly, and completeness in that respect stretches away to some indefinite date in June. There has been a concentration of energy in the effort to prepare the exposition grounds for the opening ceremonies, and an immense amount has been accomplished in the last few days.

An army of 3,000 men engaged exclusively in cleaning the buildings, grounds and streets, and thousands of carpenters, painters and other artisans were at work on and in the buildings up to the final hour. The scenes within the grounds today were interesting ones. The size and the extent of the exposition group prove a surprise to many, and the truly artistic effect of design and color finds unanimous approval.

The city is filled with visitors and it is estimated that 150,000 persons participated in the ceremonies. It was a holiday here in Buffalo, and all of the surrounding cities and towns sent in holiday crowds. One large manufacturing concern bought tickets for its 2,500 employees and sent them into the city by three special trains, and in a smaller way the same feeling of generosity was manifested everywhere in this vicinity. Vice President Roosevelt, accompanied by the members of his family, arrived last night and was a guest at the home of John C. Milburn, president of the exposition.

Among the many distinguished guests present were Senators Hanna and Henry Cabot Lodge, the members of the St. Louis exposition, an official party from Rhode Island, including Governor and Mrs. William Gregory, Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Kimball and Adjutant General and Mrs. Sackett, and Lieutenant Governor Timothy Woodruff, who was enthusiastic over what he saw. Speaking of the exposition, he said: "Really this is the most beautiful fair I have ever seen. I have been to two Paris expositions, the Columbia exposition at Chicago and all the minor ones, like Atlanta, Nashville and Omaha, but this is more beautiful than any of them."

THE SULTAN OF SULU.

General Bates Tells of His Dealings With the Philippine Ruler.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—General J. C. Bates, who has just returned from the Philippine Islands, is quoted as follows regarding his dealings with the sultan of Sulu and the manner in which he obtained the sultan's good will after the islands had been ceded by Spain:

"The Mohammedans who recognize the sultan of Sulu differ from the other natives of the islands in the fact that they do not desire independence. In fact they told me they preferred to have the protection of a strong nation and frankly declared that if the United States did not want to take them they would appeal to some other great country. As commander of the department of southern Luzon it became my duty to treat with the sultan of Sulu. I found his people to be very much like our native Indians, and it seemed to me that it would be better to get them in an amicable mood than to go in for an Indian war. General Otis put $10,000 in silver at my disposal, and after they had given all the concessions that the government wished I made a few presents, but they did not get a cent until they had come to our terms.

"After my first consultation with the sultan the people of Manila were amazed to learn what had been accomplished, and it was declared that the United States had in six weeks secured from the natives more than the Spanish were able to get in three centuries."

Fairfax Saved From Lynching.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 20.—The town is not much quieted down after the terrible excitement of Saturday night over the murder of Assistant Yardmaster William Moore and the attempted lynching of William Fairfax, the negro murderer. By a counter excitement at 3 o'clock yesterday morning the police diverted the attention of the mob and then dashed down a rear way to the railroad with Fairfax and got him away safely to Uniontown jail. All day a heavy rope which was brought into the mob of would be lynchers Saturday night and which has a dexterously made slipknot has been dangling from an upper story of the town hall directly over the entrance to the lockup.

In Memory of Arthur Sullivan.

LONDON, May 20.—The dean and chapter of St. Paul's cathedral have given their approval to the suggestion of friends and admirers of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan that a monument to his memory be placed in the cathedral, and an influential committee has been formed to carry out the idea. It is also proposed by the committee to endow a scholarship to be called the Arthur Sullivan scholarship at the Royal Academy of Music and to erect a statue to the composer on the Thames embankment.

Higgins Wants Big Money.

BEAUMONT, Tex., May 20.—Patillo Higgins, who claims to have given Captain A. F. Lucas the information which caused the latter to bore the first oil well here, has filed suit for $4,000,000 against Lucas and his associates. In his petition he claims that the knowledge which he imparted to Lucas was well worth $40,000 and one-tenth interest in the output of petroleum, that on account of possessing the information Lucas found oil and that the product of the well was worth $35,000 per day.

PRESIDENT ATTENDED LAUNCHING.

The Battleship Ohio Takes to the Water Under the Gaze of a Mighty Throng—Date of Departure From San Francisco Not Yet Fixed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Mrs. McKinley's condition was so far improved last evening that she was able to sit up a short time. This welcome news was given out shortly after 5 o'clock.

General Shafter called on President McKinley, and while they were talking word came down stairs that Mrs. McKinley was sitting up. The president at once asked to be excused and hurried to the sickroom. The anxiety caused by the night bulletin stating that Mrs. McKinley's temperature was higher was dispelled at 10 o'clock Sunday morning when Secretary Cortelyou announced that she had passed a comfortable night and that the slight fever noted during the night had subsided.

The president did not attend church, but remained at home nearly all day, going out for a short walk just before noon. There were many callers at the Scott residence. There was a general feeling that the crisis had been passed and that Mrs. McKinley would continue to gain strength. No definite date has yet been decided upon when the president will start for the national capital, but it is hoped that Mrs. McKinley will be able to travel within a few days.

Secretary Long left in the morning for Colorado Springs to visit his daughter, who is ill.

The improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition was so great Saturday that the president decided to attend the launching of the battleship Ohio. This event was one of the chief objects of his visit to California. At 9:30 o'clock Mr. McKinley left the Scott residence and was driven to the wharf of the army transport service. Here he was joined by the members of the cabinet and others of the presidential party and boarded the tug Slocum for a sail around the harbor.

The course of the vessel was shaped so that the party passed within near view of the army transport Sheridan, which had just arrived from the Philippines. Her decks were crowded with the men of the Forty-second and Forty-sixth volunteer infantry, who are on their way home. The soldiers swung their hats and cheered continually as the Slocum passed, the president standing on her main deck and waving both hat and handkerchief in response to their welcome.

A few minutes later the Slocum passed near the battleships Iowa and Wisconsin and the cruiser Philadelphia. These vessels and all the shipping in the harbor displayed hundreds of flags, and the national salute of 21 guns boomed forth from the naval vessels and the army transports. A little before 11 o'clock the presidential party arrived at one of the docks of the Union works, and the hull of the great new battleship loomed into view. Along her dull red sides there were strips of red, white and blue bunting.

The time of high tide was 12:26 o'clock and that was the moment when the great battleship was to slide down the ways. There was fully an hour to wait for the launching, and Mr. McKinley, after making a speech to the workmen, spent the time in chatting with the various members of the party and in asking Mr. Henry T. Scott questions about the construction of the ship.

In other parts of the shipyard immense stands had been erected, and these were filled with a crowd of at least 40,000 persons. The neighboring heights were also thickly covered with eager men, women and children.

When the hour arrived, the president and the members of the official launching party proceeded to the stand. Besides Mr. McKinley there were the members of the cabinet and the ladies of the cabinet, Governor Gage of California, Governor Nash of Ohio, several officials of the Union Iron works and others. Suddenly an electric bell sounded, and Miss Mary Barber, the president's niece, her distinguished uncle standing by her side, pressed a button, which by the use of electricity started the ship down the ways. At the same moment Miss Deshler, the sponsor, broke a bottle of wine over the bow and cried:

"I christen thee Ohio!"

The vessel slid with a slow stateliness down the ways, and a great cheer broke forth from the crowd. The president and members of the cabinet waved their hats, and all the steam whistles in the harbor and in San Francisco blew for five minutes.

Governor Nash of Ohio and his personal party, including Miss Helen Deshler, were with the president's party on the Slocum.

An informal reception followed. Governor Nash and party left on their special train this morning and will spend the afternoon at Sacramento. They will stay one day at Salt Lake City and another at Denver on their return trip.

The Ohio congressional delegation will leave tonight for Portland, Or., arriving there Tuesday morning. Two days will be spent at Portland, including a trip on the Columbia river.

A Campaign Plan.

While the enumeration of any quantity of advantages may win a certain amount of support for any political party, if it can be proven that the administration of that party is responsible for them, there is nothing, after all, like a low tax rate to win the ballots. The pocketbook plays a very important part in the political situation. The greater the drain on the private purse, the smaller grows the enthusiasm for the party in power.

A press despatch from Newark says that the Republican leaders are fully aware of these facts and are going to make a special effort to apply them to their own advantage. Promises are all right in their way but cold indisputable facts are far more convincing. So it is said that the Republicans are working hard to keep down the State, county and municipal taxes all over the State so that they may use "low tax rate" as a campaign cry.

It is a question as to what extent that attempt will affect Plainfield. According to the calculations of the City Fathers, the tax rate in Plainfield, as far as the city is concerned, will be little changed. The State school tax will be less for the reason that the Legislature has utilized a portion of the surplus in the State treasury to meet the expenses of the schools. As far as Union county is concerned, it is doubtful whether the county tax can be reduced much, especially with a new courthouse to be built.

The last city election showed confidence in the present local administration. This, the Councilman consider to be a vote of approval on their course in the past and they have therefore planned to run the city's affairs on practically the same lines lines and at an equal expense which will keep the tax rate in the same neighborhood as last year. It is therefore expected that Plainfield's tax rate for the present year will be the same or nearly the same as last year. It may differ a point or two either way, but the difference will be very slight.

There were several genuine surprises as a result of Saturday's local baseball games. Chief of these was the defeat of the St. Mary's team by the boys of Hope chapel. The Hope team is playing great ball this season and appears to have an excellent show towards winning the local championship. The next meeting of the two teams will be full of interest. Another great surprise was the showing made by the Plainfield High School boys in their game with the Rutgers Preparatory School at New Brunswick. The school boys have made a wonderful improvement in their play of late.

The newspapers all through this section of New Jersey have said some very true and yet very complimentary things about the men who have just retired from active service on the Jersey Central Railroad. It may have often seemed to these same men that their efforts were not appreciated, but the happenings of the last few weeks show that the directors of the company, and the public as well, are fully aware of the extremely valuable services of these same men, and that both directors and public have taken their best method of letting their appreciation be known.

Plainfield has remarkably few fires considering its size. When they do occur, however, the fire department demonstrates its excellence by its efficient work. The conflagration on North avenue early Sunday morning was only another instance. It started very close to the heart of the business section and some valuable property was threatened. The firemen, however, confined it within the walls of the building in which it started although there was a frame structure on one side.

The flooding of the streets in sprinkling them is of advantage to but just one man, the one who sprinkles them. It does not necessitate such frequent trips over the same ground. The public has to suffer, and while it may do so quietly for a little time, a strong protest will be the inevitable result. Let the matter be remedied before the general protest comes.

Now that nearly all of the water bills have been paid, the public clamor over the high water rates has quieted down. The time will come, however, when the people of city and borough will regret that they did not insist on the general introduction of water meters by the Plainfield Water Supply Company.

As The Daily Press has often said, it is something of an undertaking to make an investigation of the question of municipal ownership as applied to local conditions. The borough authorities are finding out that fact.

Now that the police department has become so abnormally secret concerning the burglaries which have taken place here, people are beginning to wonder how many have really been reported.

ONE SCHOOL CLOSED.

Dunellen's Board of Education Will Not Close Other School at Present.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 20—Although reports have been spread to the contrary, the Whittier School has not been closed on account of the slight epidemic of diphtheria. The Lincoln School has been closed for the reason that all three of the children first taken are pupils there and it was deemed best to hold no sessions until the rooms were thorougly fumigated.

The Whittier School will not be closed until urgent reasons demand it, as owing to the school year ending in one month, it would hamper the pupils in their examinations and consequent promotions. There are now four cases of the disease in the borough, the last one developing being that of Earl Haven. The other three children are rapidly recovering.

Old Soldier's Experience.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. Price $3.50.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, May 20—The members of the graduating class of the Whittier school are already making preparations for the annual commencement which is to take place in the Methodist church on Thursday evening, June 13. Only five pupils are to graduate, which will make the smallest class to leave the school in some time. As has always been the custom, there will be no valedictorian or salutatorian, but each of the graduates will read an original essay.

Early Saturday morning, a west bound freight train parted near the Clinton Avenue station and, owing to the steep grade, came together again near the round house. As a result of the impact, two cars were wrecked and two more were shaken from the trucks so they could not be used. The wrecker was summoned from Elizabeth and had the track cleared by 5 o'clock. The remaining tracks were not blocked.

Probably the first garden in the borough to have sweet peas in blossom this season, is that belonging to O A. Douglas. Several vines have been in bloom since Saturday and with a little warmer weather Mr. Douglas expects soon to be able to pick peas far ahead of any of his neighbors.

In honor of its seventeenth anniversary, the W. C. T. U. held a union service in the Presbyterian church last evening at which Rev. L. E. Livermore delivered an address. There were also interesting reports given in regard to the Union's work in the borough.

Too heavy a pressure on the coal bins belonging to Garretson & Gray resulted in the back part of them giving away Saturday, throwing about fifty tons of coal on one of the round house switching tracks. It was replaced by Owen Mohan's section gang.

Saturday's inclement weather again prevented the playing of the baseball game between the boy's class nine and Robert Craig's scrub team. Another effort will be made to play the game next Saturday.

A meeting of the trustees of Holy Innocent's church will be held tonight at the residence of Brogun Brokaw, on Center street.

The regular meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Gordon have been entertaining relatives from Elizabeth.

Mrs. John Heil, of Raritan, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sirisky.

Wm. Craig is entertaining his cousin, Charles Craig, of Stroudsburg, Pa.

Mrs. Charles Ross spent Saturday with friends at Elizabeth.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, May 20—John King, a German farmhand employed by Harry Boice, was arrested by Constable Pierce Saturday on a charge of assault and battery preferred by his employer. He was taken before Justice Warden who held him in $100 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The trouble, it is said, was due to a disagreement over the payment of some wages to King.

Rev. L. E. Livermore leaves today for Shiloh, N. J., to attend the Eastern Association of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Rev. Frank Fletcher expects to preach to his congregation here next Saturday.

Miss Hattie Crawford who has been the guest of Mrs. Albert Ayres for a few days, has returned to her home in South Jersey.

F. H. Dunham, of Alfred, N. Y., is spending a few days with his father, H. V. Dunham.

Fred Gaskill, of Phillipsburg spent Saturday and Sunday with his father and sister.

J. B. Dunham entertained Luther Davis, of Rutgers College, on Saturday.

Will Ryno resumed work with Geo. Hummer, the carpenter, today.

Miss Lottie Ryno spent Sunday with relatives in Somerville.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, May 20—The pulpit at the Methodist church yesterday morning and evening was occupied by Rev. C. McMaster, of Drew Theological Seminary, who took the place of Rev. Mr. Beacom, the pastor, who is still detained at home by illness. Mr. Beacom is steadily recovering and it is hoped he will resume his work this week.

It has been decided to raise the quarantine this week at the homes of LeRoy J. Ellis and W. E. Gibbs. In both cases those who have been ill have recovered.

Charles Wade led the Epworth League meeting at the M. E. church last evening. There was a large attendance and the meeting was especially interesting.

Charles B. Loomis, who expected to give an entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. at Plainfield, has decided not to give it owing to the lateness of the season.

Wm. Buckley now seems to be gaining his strength more rapidly and he is able to be about the house.

There is no change in the condition of Wm. Klemser, of Glenside, who is seriously ill at his home.

Miss Lulu Hollingsworth is visiting relatives and friends in New York for a few days.

Miss Hattie Kuehn is entertaining out-of-town friends at her home for a few days.

Mrs. John Marsh, of Park avenue, is entertaining friends from out of town.

Horace Pangborn entertained relatives from Plainfield yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, May 20—Wednesday evening the Patriotic Order of Americans will give a "box and game" social. It is expected that the women will bring a box containing a supper for two. This will afterwards be sold. The social will be held in Washington Hall.

E. M. Laing will sell at auction tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, all his household goods and bar room fixtures, together with a horse and several wagons.

The Patriotic Order, of Sons of America, has secured a handsome picture of George Washington, which will soon decorate the walls of the camp room.

The Tuesday evening prayer meeting will be held tomorrow night at 7:45 instead of 7:30.

Mrs. William E. Manning is entertaining company from Newark.

AFTER CRAP SHOOTERS.

Frightened Players Ran Through Brook to Escape Posse of Dunellen Special Policemen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 20.—Yesterday afternoon, Chief Blaine, accompanied by a posse of special policemen, raided a gang of fifty crap shooters near the Dunellen Brick Works. The players ran over the county line which was about one hundred yards distant, some of them in their hurried flight jumping through mud and briers and running through the waters of Green brook. All escaped in a more or less demoralized condition. The only thing captured was a pot of seventy-five cents. A large number of the players were recognized as Plainfield young men and there is a possibility of warrants being sworn out for their arrest.

Married at Brooklyn.

The marriage of Miss Ellen Holdman, of Watchung avenue, and Eric Anderson, of 213 Grant avenue, took place yesterday afternoon in Brooklyn at the home of Rev. Mr. Jacobson. Miss Signy Colleesen and Jonas Anderson, a brother of the groom, accompanied them. After the wedding the bridal party returned to 213 Grant avenue, where Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will live.

It Saved His Leg.

P. A. Danforth, of LaGrange, Ga., suffered for six months with a frightful running sore on his leg; but writes that Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured it in five days. For Ulcers, Wounds, Piles, it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

THREE TIED IN RACE FOR GOLF COM. CUP

Interesting Competition at Links of Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

THE AFTERNOON'S SCORES.

FIRST HONORS FOR AFTERNOON WON BY HOWARD C. TRACY.

H R Stockton and W. L Glenny Also Scored Points For the Golf Committee Cup—Three Are Tied With 3 Points Each.

The only event on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday afternoon was the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup. There was a small attendance on the course. It was intended to open the play for the Fisk cup, women's competition, but the weather interfered, and this event was postponed to Friday.

The interest is growing in the contest for the Golf Committee cup as the scores are very close. Up to Saturday Townsend Rushmore and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers were tied for first honors, each having three points. Howard C Tracy won Saturday's event and this makes him tied with them for first place. The second and third honors went to H. R. Stockton and W. L. Glenny. The scores in general were low and, despite the rather heavy condition of the course, there was excellent playing.

The standing for the cup at present is as follows:

	Points
Townsend Rushmore	3
Mrs. N P. Rogers	3
Howard C Tracy	3
H. R Stockton	2
Howard Wright	1½
A. G. Henderson	1½
Howard Huntington	1½
E. A. Stevenson	1½
W. L Glenny	1

The afternoon's scores were:

Howard C. Tracy	109	27	82
H. R Stockton	93	10	83

The Boy Webster.

Daniel Webster as a lad is thus described by John Bach McMaster, the historian, in the first of his illustrated papers on the statesman, published in Century: "As the boy grew in years and stature his life was powerfully affected by the fact that he was the youngest son and ninth child in a family of ten; that his health was far from good; that he showed tastes and mental traits that stood out in marked contrast with those of his brothers and sisters; and that he was, from infancy, the pet of the family. Such daily work as a farmer's lad was made to do was not for him. Yet he was expected to do something, and might have been seen barefooted, in frock and trousers, astride of the horse that dragged the plow between the rows of corn, or raking hay, or binding the wheat the reapers cut, or following the cows to pasture in the morning and home again at night, or tending logs in his father's sawmill. When such work was to be done it was his custom to take a book along, set the log, hoist the gates, and while the saw passed slowly through the tree-trunk, an operation which, in those days, consumed some 20 minutes, he would settle himself comfortably and read."

Lincoln's Retreat.

Rev. Mr. Alcott, of Elgin, Ill., one of Abraham Lincoln's Springfield acquaintances, tells of seeing him come away from church unusually early one Sunday morning. "The sermon could not have been more than half way through," says Mr. Alcott. "His son 'Tad' was slung across his left arm like a pair of saddle-bags, and Lincoln was striding along with long and deliberate steps toward his home. On one of the street corners he encountered a group of his fellow-townsmen. Lincoln anticipated the question which was about to be put by the group, and, taking his figure of speech from practices with which they were only too familiar, said: 'Gentlemen, I entered this colt, but he kicked around so I had to withdraw him.'"—Little Chronicle.

Electric Fans.

A feature of interest connected with electric fans is that they are purely American, both by right of invention and of use. It is a somewhat singular fact that their use in other countries and in hot climates has been so limited, but it is believed that at least the beginning of a considerable export trade in this class of merchandise has been made, and that from now on increasing and satisfactory numbers of these instruments will be shipped abroad from our American ports. A modern development of the fan, which was primarily designed for ventilation and for moving air or the creation of small breezes, is the application to the fan mechanism of cooling and heating devices, so that an actual change in the temperature of the air may be made. In this way certain electric fan installations have been made lately which serve the triple purpose of cooling in summer, heating in winter and ventilating the rooms.—Electrical Review.

Caste in India.

With the Mahrattahs caste prejudices are, as is well known, not so strong as among some races in India, but in Baroda all strongly approved of Maharajah Partab Singh's helping to carry the coffin of a deceased European. Where no caste fellows of the deceased are available for this last service, I think all Hindus would hold a man disgraced if he did not help. Still it is usual only for persons of the same caste to carry a corpse. Among the Mahrattahs, generally speaking, water must only be taken from a member of our own caste, but with modern ideas these obligations are getting relaxed. The drinking water in my palace is drawn and served by a caste man.—The Maharajah of Baroda, in Nineteenth Century.

He Won Out.

The fly collector asked the modest hotel clerk to change a twenty for him.

"Got nothing but two five-dollar bills," said the clerk, looking over his safe deposit.

"By the way," asked the fly collector, going down into his pocketbook, "did you ever see an eight-dollar bill?"

"No; nor you either," responded the clerk with confidence.

"Bet you the drinks," ventured the fly collector, holding something in his hand.

"Done," said the clerk. "I'm willing to pay for the drinks to see that kind of a bill, but I guess I won't have to."

"No?" grinned the fly collector. "How's that?" and he handed to the clerk an eight-dollar bill for a pair of trousers.—Detroit Free Press.

Huguenot Oath of Allegiance.

The French Huguenot refugees, who have met in the crypt of Canterbury cathedral ever since 1550, when a royal charter of liberty to worship was granted to them, have sworn allegiance to King Edward VII. Their pastor, Rev. Jean R. Barnabas, preached a memorial service for her late majesty, Queen Victoria, and then, according to ancient custom, the oath of allegiance was taken, the pastor with uplifted hands making the solemn declaration, to which the people responded "Amen."—N. Y. Sun.

Successful Scientific Egg Sellers.

Danish eggs are taking the lead for their good qualities, thanks to the system of cooperation and selection adopted by the producers. Every egg shell supplied carries the name of its raiser, and as the eggs are all tested a bad egg is traced home. Each raiser must supply eggs thrice a week. The central authority can reject an egg several days old. The eggs are tested and sorted according to their size by an automatic machine.—London Globe.

Men Pretty Decent After All.

Men are pretty decent, after all. A man walked into this office to-day and said he wanted to pay a bill 12 years old. The bookkeeper could not find the account. "Never mind," the man said; "I remember the amount; it is $16, and here is the money. I would have paid it long ago, but have not been able." Did you ever have a thing like that happen to you?—Atchison Globe.

Just a Wish.

Mr. Plodder—I see there's a man in New York who has just paid $51,000 for a seat in the stock exchange. I wish I had enough money to buy one.

Mrs. Plodder—For goodness' sake! What do you want with a seat in the stock exchange?

"I don't. I merely want to have that much money."—Philadelphia Press.

American Firms in London.

The great increase in the number of American houses in London either holding their own offices or being represented is becoming noticeable. One can hardly pass through any of our leading buildings in the city without meeting with the names of American competitors. The iron and steel trades lead the way; machinery makers by the score are to be found; hardware and fancy goods men are much in evidence; boot and shoe shops abound, while patent medicine manufacturers are extremely numerous. In fact, it would be difficult to pick out any leading American industry which is not well represented in London. Only a few weeks ago it was announced that one of the largest dry goods men of New York has taken an enormous warehouse in Wood street with the intention of cutting out the "rag" trade, but he has not arrived yet.—London Financial Times.

Last Battle in Great Britain.

This was the battle of Culloden Moor, April 16, 1746 (O. S.). It was fought on a plain about five miles from Inverness, Scotland. It was the last attempt on the part of the Stuarts to get possession of the throne of Great Britain. This attempt was made by Charles Edward Stuart ("Bonnie Prince Charlie"), a grandson of James II. He defeated the English in the battle of Falkirk, but in a second battle, at Culloden, was finally defeated by the duke of Cumberland. He wandered as a fugitive in the highlands for five months, finally succeeded in getting out of the country and died in Rome January 30, 1788.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Queen a Prebendary.

Queen Victoria was the senior dignitary of the church, for she had been more than 63 years a prebendary of St. David's cathedral. This position is not really so anomalous as it appears, for the sovereign is consecrated as the "Lord's Anointed," and virtually becomes an ecclesiastic. At the time her majesty inherited her church preferment the revenues of the cathedrals had not been annexed by the ecclesiastical commissioners, and the "stall" was not "without provender."—London Chronicle.

Violent Fates of Royal Rulers.

Of 2,550 sovereigns who have reigned in the world up to now, 300 have been overthrown, 134 have been assassinated, 123 have been taken captive in war, 108 have been executed, 100 have been slain in battle, 64 have been forced to abdicate, 28 have committed suicide, 25 have been tortured to death and 23 have become mad or imbecile. Of 113 kings of Spain 55 have been assassinated.—N. Y. Post.

Provided by the House.

Many years ago an Allen county man announced himself as a candidate for the legislature.

"But you can't make a speech," objected a friend.

"Oh, that doesn't make any difference," innocently responded the candidate, "for the house always elects a speaker."—Iola (Kan.) Register.

FIRST WIFE'S GRAVE.

Marked by a Tombstone Bought by Her Successor.

An Act of Devotion That Probably Has No Equal—Slaved Two Years to Carry Out Her Unselfish, Loving Intention.

Greater love for the dead was never shown by any person than that of a Chicago woman, who slaved for two years to buy a headstone to mark the grave where lies the remains of her husband's first wife. A modest little stone that cost nearly $200 was raised lately over the mound in Oakwoods cemetery, and the woman who paid for it by self-denial and hard labor doesn't think she has done anything extraordinary, says the Inter Ocean.

Five or six years ago the woman who is dead and the one who afterward took her place in the little home as second wife were rivals for the affections of a rather good-looking man of 30, or thereabouts, who belonged to that army which is classed in the city directory as laborers. He worked in one of the railroad freighthouses, and, by practicing strict economy, he managed to put away $300 to get married on.

His name was not John Thompson, but for convenience sake he will be called that. Thompson, like most men of his station in life who are matrimonially inclined, had several young women employed as servant maids "on the string," as the saying goes. Any one of them would have made him a good wife, but there were only two that he cared anything for, and both of them worked at the same house in Prairie avenue.

Thompson was in a quandary as what to do. He had been saving up for three years—$100 a year—and he was ready to marry either one of the young women, but as he could not wed both he was greatly disturbed in mind. To make matters worse both the women knew from his own lips that he loved one as much as the other, and the delicate matter of choosing between them was a source of great worry to John Thompson.

One of the servant maids, with a little more cunning than the other, or, perhaps a little less conscience, met Thompson downtown one day, and it only required a suggestion for him to secure the marriage license. They straightway went to a justice of the peace and were made one.

The girl who had been "cut out" did not weep and wail, as some jilted girls would have done, but took the matter philosophically, knowing that John Thompson loved her as much as the one who had snared him. And when the first baby came to brighten the home of John and his wife the girl who still remained single was there every night after her own work was done to cook little delicacies for the mother and tidy up the house.

Three children were born to John in as many years. A few weeks after the birth of the last child his wife died. No one will deny that John Thompson was left in a bad predicament, and no one will blame him for taking a second wife. Of course he married the girl who had loved him before and even after his marriage.

Almost every Sunday in summer John and his second wife used to visit the grave in Oakwoods where rested the remains of his first wife, and put flowers on the grassy mound. Every grave around there had some kind of a stone but the one in which John's wife was buried. His second wife thought John wasn't showing proper respect to the dead, and she told him so in as gentle a manner as possible. John acknowledged she was right, but he couldn't bear the expense of a headstone, he said, until he had bought things for the house, which were more urgent. The second wife then resolved to buy the stone herself, and she went out working at washing or scrubbing wherever she could get it. In a little less than two years she earned $185, every penny of which was laid aside for the headstone.

After the stone was set in place last week she said to her husband:

"I have done just what I think Mary would have done if she had been in my place."

Trouble in Letter Writing.

A bashful young man in Newark, N. J., who is rather timid in speech, but bold and eloquent with the pen, made a marriage proposal by letter. The lady, for safe keeping, put the note in a book, and a few days later lent the book to a female friend. She proved to be the young man's other girl. Now there is a triangular quarrel between the three.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, May 2, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present—18.

Reading of minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted), with corrections, that the cost of bridge in New Providence borough should read, "not to exceed $500," instead of "$200" were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From R. I. Tolles, chairman, as follows:

Mr. J. Frank Hubbard, Director.

Board of Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Dear Sir—The Committee on Streets and Sewers would respectfully call the attention of your honorable body to the present condition of North avenue at Cedar brook.

The cast iron pipe crossing North avenue at that point is not of sufficient capacity to carry the large amount of water which comes down the brook and also along the north gutter of the street.

We therefore request that you will have a small bridge constructed of sufficient size to properly deal with the flow, and so enable us to maintain the street in good and safe condition.

(Signed) Yours respectfully,
R. I. Tolles, chairman.

On motion of Freeholder Westphal, received and placed on file.

From John Cummins, mayor, as follows:

Borough of Roselle Park, May 1, 1901.

Noah Woodruff, Esq., Chosen Freeholder for Union Township, N. J:

Dear Sir: Complaint has been made to me with the request that I communicate the same to you for such action as you may deem advisable, that the places from which some of the houses have been removed, are quite deep cellars, in some of which there are several inches of water, which is becoming stagnant, and threatens to be a menace to the health of those living in the immediate vicinity thereof.

I believe the improvement necessitating the removal of those houses is a county matter, and therefore it should see to it that no nuisance is caused by its work.

Will you kindly take such steps as you can to remedy the evil complained of? Very Respectfully yours,
John Cummins,
Mayor.

On motion of Freeholder Farrel received and placed on file.

From M. S. Sherwood, agent, Essex and Hudson Gas Company, as follows:
Summit, April 30, 1901.

To the Union County Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—I hereby make application to open Morris avenue from its junction with Springfield avenue to Elm street in Summit for the purpose of laying another main to convey gas. Opening will probably be made on the south side next to gutter.

(Signed)
Very Respectfully,
M. S. Sherwood,
Agent.

Freeholder Westphal moved the adoption of the foregoing resolution, which was duly seconded.

does not consist wholly in how much money can be laid away each week out of the family income. The health of each member of the family is of greater importance, for no home can be altogether happy where health does not reign supreme. The mother is the one to look after this matter. By instinct she can detect quicker than anybody else when the health of her husband or children begins to be affected. The evidence of the trouble may only be a loss of appetite, a headache or a light attack of indigestion, but these conditions sometimes lead to graver ends.

It is right, therefore, to let mothers everywhere know the value of Ripans Tabules. They will positively cure any ordinary digestive trouble at its beginning and will often overcome it after it is far advanced. There is true economy in keeping them in the house.

The New Woman

BY ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

DURING the reign of the old woman it was said that no two persons of the feminine sex could live together, the inference being that a man must be in the house to preserve the peace between the two "females." Men especially were fond of saying oracularly, "No house is big enough to hold two women." That was how they put it. Well, I don't know whether the saying was true in the days of old woman or not, for I never was an old woman, but I do know well that it is not true today. The most perfect friendships that have come under my observation have been those between women. Yesterday I was in a house where three single ladies, all gray haired, all working for their living, dwelt together in a love and harmony that were beautiful to see. One was an osteopath, doing exceedingly well financially. Another was a "mental science" healer, and she, too, treated her particular patients and prospered. Between the two there was no shadow of rivalry or jealousy, in spite of the difference in their special cults. On the contrary, good will and the spirit of mutual helpfulness reigned. The third member of the firm had been 20 years employed in the office of a leading magazine, but gave up her place because she desired to see what living at home was like. She is the housekeeper. A few lodgers are taken to pay the rent, and there the happy, independent old girls pass their home life in perfect peace, drawing health and good spirits from the harmony. I also know of a woman who went to board three weeks with a widowed friend and staid 30 years. Again, I knew two girls who loved each other like David and Jonathan. Wherever one was the other was not far away. They cycled together, surf bathed together and read and wrote together. At length one married a man the other did not approve of. Now they are dead to each other, although it was none of Susan's business whom Anna married. But in this case, mark you, it was a man who made the quarrel.

King Edward is said to be greatly put out because Queen Alexandra will not give up her quiet tastes to help him make a noisy, splendid social court and dazzle mankind with it. Well, it serves him right. When he was Prince of Wales, Albert Edward never showed any particular consideration for Alexandra's wishes or tastes.

A disgruntled old bachelor who does not know what he is talking about declares that marriage is a failure and two-thirds of all who are married are well aware of it, only they would not own it for the world. Still married life is no worse a failure than that of the selfish, pernickety old bachelor who cares for nothing much except what he eats.

The czar of Russia is reported to be awfully torn up in his mind over the infliction of so many girl babies, but every one of his daughters will probably have more courage and nerve and intellect than the weakling Nicholas II has. It will be a pity if they do not.

The scarcity of men in the older parts of the country is unfortunate, yet not without its compensation. It will throw girls on their own resources socially and make them stronger and more independent. The athletic clubs formed among young women are an illustration of this; so are the feminine cycling journeys. Those girls who wanted to have a dance, but had no masculine partners, hit on a happy expedient when half of them put on male attire and "quitted themselves like men" for the occasion.

"In order to abolish the evils of a great city by her influence woman must have a voice in regard to the laws and the officials who administer them. The ballot is a citizen's tongue and hands," says Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

A woman teacher who, without knowing it, had incipient smallpox kissed her pupils, some 60, goodby when the school closed for a short vacation, with the result that might have been expected. Indiscriminate kissing is the silliest habit in which the feminine sex indulges, and that is saying much.

Over and again I have read the story of that young Nebraska woman teacher who saved her pupils from drowning in a flood in White river. It stirs the blood, that story. The waters rose till they were under the floor of the schoolhouse, and it began to move and strain. The teacher bade the children remain in the house, and she would save them. She waded waist deep to dry land, got a horse and a rope, swam the horse back to the schoolhouse, tied the rope to it and then swam back on the horse to dry land, where she fastened the rope to a tree, the children staying quietly in the building, trusting their teacher perfectly. The tree held the house from going to pieces and floating off long enough for the hero girl to bring assistance and get all her pupils are safe.

[Special Boston Letter.]

NOW we have "planting time" in New England. Except in the larger cities, the "spring work" is occupying the general attention, to the exclusion of all else. In this methodical corner of the country the divisions of the seasons are especially accentuated. The boy's games show the line of demarkation as plainly as the more serious pursuits of his elders, and a youngster seen rolling "stone alleys" at a time which should be devoted to "hopscotch" would be as truly regarded as "slack" or "shiftless" as the mother who postponed making over last year's dresses and "lengthening the girl's last summer's skirts" until house-cleaning time. The latter period is too harrowing for description in words, even the very forcibly-local phrases. To one who is partial to New England, it would seem that in many published accounts the vernacular has been very much abused. It is true that as many varying tales may be told of the speech of the New England people as of the climate of California, and equally true that all may be correct, yet it is safe to say that nowhere else in the United States, among the same number of people, can so much genuine education be found. Our farmers, many of them very poor, manage to keep well informed on the general topics of the day. Their books and papers are freely loaned. Nearly every family tries to send one or more boys to college, while the girls at home study hard to keep up with their brothers. Many of the plainer people who are, apparently, most careless in their speech, know perfectly well how to use correct language, but are like David Harum in some respects, or he is like them. David would have made an excellent New Englander.

The people are absolutely independent in their methods of thought and the forceful terms which they have inherited, as well as their rocky estates, are so much a matter of custom that they seldom think of criticising them, for among all the inhabitants of the earth there are none with whom habit is more a controlling force. It is often hard to tell whether their strong ideas of right and wrong are a matter of principle or usage. Integrity seems to be a general characteristic, unless—well, of course, when it comes to a "hoss" trade or "swappin'" knives or any transaction of that kind—why, custom arranges that, too. Speaking of custom: A well-to-do farmer, i. e., one worth several thousands of dollars, sold his "hoss and fixin's" when about 20 miles from home, and started to "foot" it to his house, where he had been "born and raised." Some one offered him a ticket (as a railroad was one of the latest acquisitions of the region), but the old man refused it with genuine horror. "Do you suppose I'm going to take my life in my hands and ride on one of them new-fangled things?" Homeward he trotted, making good time, too. Many of the old farmhouses, built years before the revolution, remain. Some are of the most primitive construction, others very picturesque. At the present time most of them are occupied by descendants of the builders. In nearly every family is found at least one member who clings to the soil. As they near maturity, a great number of young people become restless and seek Boston or some distant state. It is well known what part these have taken in forming the growth and history of the country in general. These rocks, hills, trees, rivers and pure air furnish good brain food. The typical New Englander ripens and is at his best in Boston, where the highest type of culture combined with the utmost simplicity in thought and manner are found. Here may be enjoyed a "feast of reason" suited to all requirements, if one finds entrance through the proper doorways. If he be disappointed in this particular, it is because he has been unfortunate in his acquaintances and perhaps overlooked some humble portal.

Ostentation is not the spirit of the city, and those who have made it famous certainly never considered it the hub of the universe, or cared whether or not it were so. A daughter of one of New England's best known philosophers gave a noon dinner party some time since. There were present writers, statesmen and family friends, all dear to her father and herself, many of them people whose names are household words wherever the English language is spoken. Were any elaborate preparations made? No, indeed. It was a meeting of friends. The dinner was simple and correct in every particular, although the hostess apparently gave it little attention. About an hour before the guests from a distance arrived she told a "hired man" to "harness a horse to the democrat wagon," and invited the writer, who was visiting the family, to accompany her to have a tin pail mended and various small matters arranged. The drive through the streets of the little Boston suburb, nearly every nook and corner of which is historic, was as much a matter of course as if made in the finest carriage on the place, and the greeting the little woman received on every side, in going from her farm and returning, showed how much she is loved and respected. The afternoon spent in this typical New England farmhouse with its old-time frequenters, when the history of American literature of the last 50 years was discussed by many of those who had helped to make it, can never be forgotten. Just such a meeting may never occur again, as some of those then present have gone into the spiritual world. It was during haying time, and in the surrounding fields the crop was being harvested when it was exactly right for cutting, just as has been done in the same locality for about 266 years. Some of the first houses built in the colony are still standing.

Although a large portion of New England's soil is poor, there are sections which are exceedingly fertile, and the very largest possible returns are secured. That not adapted for hay and planting is used for pasturage for horses and cattle. Sheep find a living where the former cannot thrive. Those living near the coast prepare seaweed for use as a fertilizer. The summer climate is delightful. The hills, lakes, rivers and coast offer a great variety of scenery and the majority of people manage to enjoy life very well.

Fourth of July celebrations reach high-water mark. Thanksgiving and Christmas are seasons of great festivity, in contrast, perhaps, with the workday life of the people in general. In the spring there is little time for holiday making. Even the old man, whose children have left him and the mother alone at the old homestead, is anxious to "get out and spade up my garden." His little crop will be eagerly watched and tended, and the date when "mother and I had our first dish of string beans" be faithfully recorded in letters to the absent ones. These letters often cause great anxiety to their recipients. There is a home and welcome for the parents with the children, but nothing would induce the old folks to leave the scene of their married joys and sorrows. They prefer independence, and if their children are thoughtless or unsuccessful the latter days of the elderly pair are apt to be devoid of necessary comforts.

It is a great mistake to endeavor to classify New England people. Nowhere is individuality more prominent. Each man is a host in himself.

Perhaps no phase of the life is more fascinating than that found along the coasts of Maine and Cape Cod. A few weeks spent here are full of interest in adventure, story and legend. There is a sort of amphibiousness (if one may be allowed the word) about the life, which is exceedingly attractive. Fishermen on the sea are quite different characters from the same persons on the land. There is much of superstition in the make-up of many of them. Sea stories from all over the world are boiled together and spiced according to local taste. Then, too, when one listens to their relation of true stories of hairbreadth escape, one almost feels with them that they are in a special way under Divine protection. One old man said, in correct language, too: "We are under the especial care of Providence, for Christ selected His disciples from among the fishermen." And this chosen one, with matted, shaggy hair and beard, walked proudly away—barefooted. EDWARD JULIAN.

DARING ROBBERY.

$1,000 Worth of Furs and Clothing Taken From Home of W. A Burnett.

A daring robbery was committed at the home of W. A. W. Burnett, at 61 Sandford avenue, late Saturday night. The goods stolen were all stored in the attic and they consisted principally of furs valued at $1,000 and five suits of clothing.

Entrance was effected through a kitchen window. The servant girl was the only one at home at the time, as she is deaf and was asleep, work was easy for the burglar. When Mr. and Mrs. Burnett, who have resided here but two months, returned home they discovered the loss and immediately notified the police.

Fell From Moving Train.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 20—James Hill, son of Charles Hill, attempted to board a moving coal train near the station yesterday morning. In some manner he slipped and was thrown to the ground. He narrowly escaped death under the wheels. The force of the fall dislocated his shoulder and bruised him badly. He was taken to Dr. Brakeley's office where it was necessary to administer ether in order to replace the bone.

Union Meetin

FOUR HUNDRED MEN WENT ON STRIKE.

with their work just as if nothing had happened. There are moulders, draughtsmen, patternmakers and carpenters who go to make up a hundred men who are still working. The draughtmen now have their nine hour day and consequently have no grievences. Besides none of these men belong to the association whose membership is strictly confined to machinists.

Last evening Walter Scott posted a notice in the machine shop stating that he would meet the men at 6:25 o'clock this morning. At the time appointed he made his appearance and called the men together. In a short speech he stated the situation to them from his standpoint. He was given strict attention, and when his remarks were concluded the men walked quietly to the tool boxes and arranged the tools in the chests. Without a word, they departed. No response could be made by them, and none was expected, inasmuch as the men are acting under orders from headquarters and no one is empowered to speak at present.

William F. Oliver, William C. Force and Harry E. Wilber were the committee of machinists delegated to confer with Mr. Scott and their duties were at an end when the men obeyed the order to strike.

Saturday the committee held a final conference with Mr. Scott and as matters stood then precisely as they had at the end of the previous meetings, it was reported to the local association meeting Saturday evening, when the strike was determined upon.

This evening there will be a meeting of the striking men belonging to the association and until then no new developements are expected.

Mr. Scott, when seen by a Press reporter this morning, expressed regret that the men pursued the course they did. In his address to the men he said, in part:

Gentlemen:—I much regret the circumstances which bring me before you this morning. I presume most of you are aware of the existing conditions. In case some are not, I will briefly state them. We have been waited upon by a committee who claim to represent our machinists, and who demand a nine-hour day with ten hours' pay, and other concessions.

The other manufacturers of machinery in town have been asked to make similar concessions, and, in fact, the demand is general in the United States. An answer was demanded before the 20th instant, except from the Pond Machine Tool Works, who were given until June 3d.

The printing press manufacturers in town, including myself, immediately communicated with most of the manufacturers of printing presses in this country, and have had several interviews with many of them with a view to making such amicable arrangements as would enable us to grant a nine hour day with an increase in wages.

We were unable to make any agreement within the limited time at our disposal and asked for an extension of time until June 3, (same as Pond Tool Co.,) to enable us to do so.

I received an answer from the committee to the effect that unless I guaranteed to allow the nine hour day with ten hours pay by June 3, you would stop work today at 7 a. m.

I am unable to make any such guarantee. I am in favor of a nine-hour day, and if we can make arrangements whereby we can grant it with an increase in wages to our employes, we will be pleased to do so.

I am sorry some of you have concluded to strike now. I should advise you to reconsider the matter. It has been said you have no option, but, if you have the power to continue work on the condition you name, you certainly have the right to continue work for two weeks without the guarantee. It will only cost each of you ten hours' work over what you have demanded, to do so.

I think your advisers have made a mistake in demanding nine hours with ten hours pay. An advance of 12½ per cent in weges and 10 per cent less product would raise the cost about 20 per cent. We could not afford to do this without advancing our prices, and we are sure an additional 15 per cent added to our present prices would prevent us from obtaining sufficient orders to keep our works going. If you had asked for nine hours only, it would have been granted unanimously, and the increased demand for machinists would have raised the wages according to the well known rule of supply and demand.

Strikes are neither desirable nor beneficial to either party. They cause breaches between the employer and the employes, and often between the employes themselves, which take many years to heal.

By striking you will do great injustice to your wives and children. You should also consider that by voluntarily leaving our services you are no longer in our employ, and you could not expect to have your committee meet me as representing our employes. However, should you reconsider the matter and come to a different conclusion, I will be pleased to meet you.

Those who leave our employ will be paid in full on Saturday, May 26, at 11 a. m.

The works will be run as usual, until further notice, for those who wish to continue at work.

STILL WORKING AT POND'S.

Decided That Comyany Must Give Answer By Friday or Men Will Strike.

According to the agreement made by the committee with the officials last Tuesday that the Pond Tool men would remain at work until June 3, before getting a decided answer, the 200 machinists at that shop started work this morning.

At 10 o'clock word was given to assemble in the large wash-room to discuss the situation. A compromise was affected, whereby the men will remain at work until Friday. Most of the International men deplore the agreement made by their committee at the start, as but for this they would have been out this morning.

None of the officials of the works could be seen this morning and at the office it was said they had gone to New York.

HONORED IN CANADA.

Lord Strathcona Who Was Made a Baron by Victoria.

Considered by Many the Most Distinguished Citizen of British America—His Unexcelled Record as a Philanthropist.

One of the distinguished visitors who will be in attendance at the great Y. M. C. A. jubilee in Boston in June, and who will give one of the addresses, is Lord Strathcona, high commissioner for Canada, and one of the most eminent men in that country. A man of large wealth and generous heart, his benefactions have been so many and they have given evidence of such broadness of spirit that he has been likened to the American George Peabody. Lord Strathcona was born in Scotland in the year 1820, and before he became Lord Strathcona he was plain Donald Smith. He went to Canada when he was a mere boy, and he was 18 when he became a junior clerk in the office of the Hudson Bay company. To the active outdoor life and the honest toil that were his daily portion during many years of his service in the Hudson Bay company he attributes the physical vigor and mental alertness that are his at the age of 81. Step by step he rose in the service and in the esteem of the great Hudson Bay company until he became one of its most important factors.

He has been a member of the house of commons, and he did not retire from political life until his seventy-fifth year, when he was appointed high commissioner for Canada. His services to his native and to his adopted country had been so valuable that in 1886 the queen conferred upon Donald Smith the order of knighthood, and in the next year he was still further honored by her majesty, who made him Baron Strathcona and Mount Rayol, of Glencoe in Argyll, and of Montreal in Canada.

Of Lord Strathcona's philanthropy it may be said that on one occasion of the queen's jubilee in 1887 he, with Lord Mount Stephen, gave a million dollars for the building and endowment of the Royal Victoria hospital, and a second large sum was given for its maintenance. To McGill university, a Canadian institution of which Lord Strathcona is chancellor, he has given many thousands of dollars, and he has given further proof of his interest in higher education by erecting and endowing the Royal Victoria college for women. He has been a most generous patron of art and he has endowed a Canadian scholarship in the Royal college of music in London. His heart and his purse have ever been open to the poor, and his private benefactions have been many and unstinted. But the act of splendid munificence that has given him an enduring place in the hearts of his countrymen was that patriotic deed by which he again testified his loyalty to his queen and her empire. This act was the raising of the regiment of the Strathcona horse and sending to the support of the queen mother's arms in South Africa a company which he saw was needed to meet the Boers on their own ground. When the Strathcona horse visited England on their return from the war the snowy-haired old man was the hero of the day.

LORD STRATHCONA.
(Canada's Most Distinguished and Public-Spirited Citizen.)

He is known as Canada's "Grand Old Man," and as such he will be given a royal welcome when he faces the mighty audience that will be sure to meet him in Boston on the occasion of his address at the Y. M. C. A. jubilee meeting in June.

Old Man Saved His Money.

An old negro died suddenly in Richmond, Va., recently. It was thought he was in poverty little short of what might be termed abject. He had for years been subsisting in the barest way on an income derived from picking the feathers off fowls for market. For picking a chicken he would receive two cents; for a duck or turkey, five cents. After the negro was dead the people with whom he lived went through his possessions to learn the value of his property. There were found in his old trunk $300 in money and certificates of bank deposits aggregating $1,000. The negro left a fortune of $1,300 in money, and as far as is known all of it was made by picking feathers from fowls for the table of the white man.

Changes in Sponge Fishing.

The art of sponge fishing is likely to be revolutionized by the introduction of submarine electric arc lamps. At present the fishing apparatus is limited to a long pole for spearing and a water glass. If the lamps prove successful greater depths may be reached and larger and finer sponges secured.

MACHINISTS AT POND TOOL WORKS HAVE COMPLIED WITH REQUEST OF STRIKERS.

Nearly Three Hundred of Them Joined the Ranks of the Local Strikers During the Morning Hours.

NO OTHER CHANGE IN LOCAL SITUATION.

BIG MASS MEETING OF MEN WAS HELD LAST EVENING IN TRADES COUNCIL ROOMS.

Voted Then to Ask Men at Pond's to Come Out Despite Action of Their Committee—Press Works May Close Down Completely—Safe Works Gives Nine Hours' Day Without Strike.

The most important happening of the last twenty-four hours in the great strike of machinists at the local machine shops was the action of most of the men employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works. They decided not to abide by the agreement of their committee to wait until Friday night but to comply with the request of the strikers from the other shops and go out at once. At 8 o'clock, 200 of the men walked out while the committee was in conference with the company's officials, and others straggled out as the morning continued. It is understood that the committee was informed that the company would have its answer ready by Friday night as was agreed with the committee previously.

Aside from the change at the Pond Tool Works, there has been no change in the situation. At the various press works other departments are running now, but they will probably be closed shortly as the work is piling up and cannot be continued without the aid of the machine shops. This will throw out fully 1,500 men in all. The strike is in progress in other cities as well as in Plainfield. The shops of the Jersey Central Railroad at Elizabethport are tied up completely. It is said that 20,000 men are now on strike in the New York district which includes Plainfield.

So far there is no immediate propect of a settlement. The streets are crowded with men, but the crowd is a very orderly one and there has been no disturbance so far. Extra policemen have been on duty in the neighborhood of the works and the police are preparing for an emergency should one occur. The general belief is, however, that there will be no trouble even if all the men are idle.

ASKED POND'S MEN TO QUIT.

Mass Meeting of Strikers Held Last Night—Organizer Cowen Made Fiery Speech.

The first day of the strike among the machinists of Plainfield was terminated last evening with a large and enthusiastic meeting held in the Building Trades' Council rooms in West Front street, when a general conference was held. The meeting was for union and non-union men and fully 500 were present.

It was 8 o'clock when Harry E. Wilbee, president of the local branch of the International Association of Machinists, called the meeting to order. He then gave a brief review of the troubles in the various shops. He took occasion to say that Walter Scott had asked for more time in view of the situation at the Pond Tool and Machine Works. Mr. Wilbee did not consider this a good excuse and thought that Mr. Scott had been given plenty of time to consider the matter. He made reference to Mr. Scott's address to the men, but did not believe that it explained the situation fairly. Mr. Scott, he said, had known for several months past what was coming and Mr. Wilbee could see no reason why a definite answer could not be given at the specified time.

The president also referred to the situation at Pond's and said that, while it was unfortunate that concessions had been granted at that shop, he believed that the men and committee there should be upheld in their actions. They had agreed to quit work on Friday if their demands are refused and he believed that the employes at Pond's are loyal union men who would keep their word.

Mr. Wilbee spoke strongly in favor of the men remaining firm. He urged every man to appoint himself as a committee of one and not give in until the demands made are granted. He felt sure the machinists would win, in fact, he could not see how they could lose their fight. In conclusion, he said that thus far things were progressing favorably and he thought it would be only a question of a short time when they would all be back to work under the new schedule.

He said that Mr. Weseman, superintendent at Scott's, had intimated to the apprentices that if they quit they would no longer be employes and that they would lose the $120 coming to them at the expiration of their time. The apprentices had spoken to him about the matter, he said, and he gave them every assurance that the machinists would stand by them and see that they are treated fairly.

At this time the meeting was thrown open for remarks. Immediately Edwin Langley, an old member of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, expressed himself in favor of asking the machinists at the Pond Tool Works to strike this morning. In his opinion that was the only way to make the strike a complete success and thereby secure what the machinists have asked for. He thought the committee at Pond's had made a mistake and should have reported back to the Association before agreeing to the extension of time. Mr. Langley's remarks were the occasion for tumultuous applause.

There were several, however, who took exception to Mr. Langley's remarks. They believed that the committee and the men should be upheld in their action. Robert Hanglighter, the only member of the Pond's committee present at the time, was called upon and he explained the situation at Pond's. He told of the conference with Superintendent A. C. Stebbins and J. T. MacMurray, when the committee was told that a definite answer would be given June 3. Another conference of the committee and officials was held yesterday morning, when the time limit was set for Friday night at 6 o'clock.

After Mr. Hangliter had spoken, Robert Gow, also a member of the same committee, came in and he was asked to speak, which he did. He admitted that the committee had made a mistake, but they did what they thought was best for all concerned. He believed that the extension of time should not be interfered with until Friday night as agreed. Mr. Gow could not see any advantage in striking before that time, as the men would only lose the time and money as well. The committee had received an intimation from the officials that the reply on Friday would be favorable to them. There were some exceptions taken to Mr. Gow's remarks, and many short addresses were made by various members of the associations.

The motion was on the point of being placed before the meeting when it was announced that Isaac T. Cowen, national organizer of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, of New York, had entered and desired to speak. He was brought forward and amid a wild outburst of applause was placed on a table in order that all might hear.

At the beginning of his speech, Mr. Cowen said that the men must bear in mind that the present demand of the machinists was not a local one but that it embraced the allied trades throughout the entire country. It has been pending for months past and May 20 was the day on which the employes were to receive a decisive answer from the factory owners. The latter knew this, he said, as well as the machinists themselves and the committee at the Pond works had no right to grant a further concession. Instead of agreeing among themselves to wait until June 3, he declared they should have first consulted with the men whom they represented.

"But, unfortunately, the men agreed to a delay, but today the company announces that it will answer their employes Friday. This is all a prearranged plan to further their ends and if they could reduce the time until Friday, they could make known their decision today if they desired.

"I have been in many strikes and I know that one man at work will cause a dozen to grow weak-kneed. The pounding of the one man's hammer can be made, by a secret method known to the employers, to sound like fifty and the windows can be painted to prevent being seen how many workmen are inside.

"You all know what a split means. It means defeat. There is no reason why the men from three shops should be walking the streets and those of another in the same town remaining at work. In Philadelphia the employes of the Niles-Bement Works, which is another concern in the company to which Pond's belong, have been working for the past three years but fifty-six hours a week, while in this city they work sixty.

"In many other trades throughout the country men for years have been working eight and nine hours a day, with full pay, yet the machinists have not advanced a step. They have at last decided upon a concerted move, and not a member should draw back. Strike now, and by all means stick together. Don't stop at getting out the machinists, but win over moulders, pattern-makers, apprentices, helpers, and every man in the shop, and when the factory is deserted you are masters of the situation."

As Mr. Cowen finished the excitement was intense. His fiery words, delivered in a most dramatic manner, enthused new life in the men inclined to vote against the motion, and with one accord they burst into three hearty cheers. When order had finally been restored, an amendment to the original motion to the effect that only Pond's men be allowed to vote on the question, was defeated.

With only a few dissenting voices, Mr. Langley's motion was passed, followed by a perfect hubbub of satisfactory exclamations. The open meeting was then declared at an end, and the room was cleared for the initiation of a number of new members.

GRANTED NINE HOUR DAY.

Concession Was Made at Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Factory Without Request.

Without any previous demand having been made upon the officials, the fifty men employed at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company's factory were informed this morning that the owners had decided to grant them a nine hour day with ten hours' pay. This number includes the machinists, apprentices and helpers, none of whom as yet have participated in the present strike. The announcement coming unsolicited as it did, caused an agreeable surprise. The new schedule takes effect Monday morning.

STRIKERS HAVE ORGANIZED.

Pickets Selected to Watch the Shops—A Conference Expected Soon.

A conference of all the strikers was held in Trades Union Hall this morning for the purpose of establishing a uniform system of management to be observed during the remainder of the strike. After a short conference with the International leaders, the men from the several shops separated in groups and each elected three of their number who will act as picket men. They will closely watch all proceedings at the shops and keep the leaders in constant touch with the slightest movements made by the employers. Their reports will be made at headquarters daily and all such coming from them will be regarded as official. They are also invested with power to

CANNOT USE THE CHURCH.

TROUBLE OVER SOMERVILLE SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

Hard Feeling Over Change in Church Choir Said To Be Responsible.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 21—For several years past the commencement exercises of the Somerville High School have been held in the Second Reformed church, that edifice seating more people than any other in the town. When the Board of Education asked for the church this year it was refused, greatly to the member's surprise, and told that the consistory had recently passed a resolution that the church should be used only for religious purposes. This resolution was passed to shut out a projected concert to be given for the benefit of the music fund of the church.

A little over a year ago the church had a volunteer choir, but some of the congregation were not satisfied with that and so the music committee engaged a paid quartette choir and dismissed the volunteers. Some of the latter were angry over the action of the music committee and have been thirsting for revenge ever since. Recently two members of the old volunteer choir succeeded in getting into the consistory, and when the use of the church was asked for to give a concert to raise money to help pay for the choir, they saw their chance for revenge and had passed the resolution referred to.

A member of the music committee, which dismissed the volunteers, is James Brown, Jr., also a member of the Board of Education, and so these disgruntled members had double revenge.

Mr. Brown had a special meeting of the consistory called to reconsider their action on refusing the church for commencements, but failed to get the consent of a majority of the members.

The affair is likely to cause some trouble in the church, as the action of the consistory does not represent the sentiment of the majority of the members.

The First Baptist church has kindly offered its edifice to the Board of Education, and the commencement exercises will probably be held there.

AFTER CONSENTS.

Electric Light Company Wants to Run Wires to Somerset Street.

The Plainfield Electric Light and Gas Company is still negotiating with property-owners along Duer street and Watchung avenue for leave to erect electric light poles at convenient distances on those thoroughfares for the purpose of stringing wires to Somerset street. The plan is to do away with the poles on Somerset street if possible. No opposition has been made by Watchung avenue property-owners, but the requisite consent has not been obtained in all cases on Duer street.

New Style in Street Lighting.

An out-of-town concern will introduce, as an experiment in the borough, this week a new style in street lighting by naptha, which is claimed to be the equal of electric light in brilliancy. One of these lights will be placed opposite the house of Benjamin A. Hegeman, Jr., on Myrtle avenue. It is only intended to be used for the purpose of demonstrating the practicability of the light for street requirements.

Will Assist Dr. Chapman.

Detective Todd B. Hall, who addressed the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, will assist Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman in the evangelistic services to be held this summer at Winona Lake, Indiana.

Chosen Director.

At a meeting of the Jefferson Hotel and Land Company, held at Lakewood Wednesday, Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, was chosen one of the directors.

RECREATION PARK OPENING.

WILL PROBABLY TAKE PLACE NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT.

Contracts Awarded and Musicians Engaged—Pavilion Will be Ready.

Recreation Park, the new summer resort on the trolley line between Scotch Plains and Westfield, will probably open Saturday night for the season. Work has been pushed with force and vigor by the contractors, Wilcox & Pope, and while everything pertaining to the building may not be as complete in every detail as it will be later, Manager Maze Edwards feels assured all will be satisfactory on the day announced and the opening summer night series of concerts duly inaugurated.

The contract for the wiring and lighting of the pavilion was signed yesterday. Arrangements have been consumated for the services of a mammoth merry-go-round, with all the accompanying features of that great childhood's delight. Thomas Timbo & Co., of this city, have secured the lunch, candy and refreshment privileges, and George E. Rogers, who will be associate manager, has secured an orchestra of ten first-class musicans, each one a artist, members of the New York Musical Union.

Their names are: William McDermott, first violin; Frank Carroll, second violin; George Huize, bass; Charles Baur and Ed Dooley, cornet; Edw. Rice, clarionet; E. Wilcox, flute; George Keene, piano; Charles Burger, trombone; Joseph Toone, drums and cymbals. Mr. Rogers will also direct all the musical features.

The Twilight Social Club has secured the use of the pavilion for Decoration Day. No liquors of any description will be allowed sold on the premises and police protection is assured. Further particulars will be given later in the week.

MOTORMAN HURT.

Fell From Top of Car Where He Went to Repair Some Damages.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 21—George Gulick, a motorman on a car of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, fell from the top of his car last night and received injuries which are thought to be serious.

The lights had gone out and Gulick climbed to the roof of the car to see what was the matter. He must have come in contact with a live wire, for he uttered a shriek and plunged headforemost to the street. He was unconscious when picked up and his head was badly cut. He was placed in the car, which was run with all speed to Bound Brook, where he was removed to his home.

"LADIES' NIGHT" AT TRINITY COMMANDERY.

Sir Knights Entertained Their Guests in Delightful Fashion Last Evening.

A FINE PROGRAMME GIVEN.

WAS FOLLOWED BY REFRESHMENTS AND A SOCIAL HOUR.

Programme Consisted of Musical Selections and Monologues by Talented Artists—Eminent Commander Marshall was Master of Ceremonies.

Ladies' Night," the third annual social affair of its kind given by Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, afforded a very pleasant evening's entertainment last night to those who were bidden to be present. The stately appearance of the commandery room filled with fair women in a multiplicity of colored evening gowns and Sir Knights in handsome uniforms was a scene extremely pleasing to the eye. A good programme had been arranged for the occasion and every number on it was well executed by the talent.

When the guests were comfortably seated, Wm. E. MacClymont, one of the members, played a march on the pipe organ with his usual ability, while the Knights filed in from the rear end of the room. They were followed by the officers of Trinity Commandery: Eminent Commander H. W. Marshall, Generalissimo Samuel Bingaman, and Captain General Robert Meeker, together with Past Commanders B. F. Corlell and Asa Collier, and Senior Warden Jacob Kirkner, an officer of the Grand Commandery.

Fred VanEps was the first performer of the evening. He handled the banjo cleverly and received much applause. His first number was the "Mosquito Parade," and again he rendered the "Blue Ribbon March," which was followed with the "New Gaiety Dance," as an encore. The concluding number by Mr. VanEps was the "Infanta March." Some particularly fine contralto solos were rendered by Mrs. F. M. Ward. Dudley Buck's "When the Heart is Young," she sang with much expression and when Mrs. Ward sung "Madrigal," by Victor Harris, the audience showed its appreciation to such an extent that finally the soloist rendered as an encore "If I But Knew," by Smith.

Joseph R. Bolton, of New York, caught the assemblage by his inimicable imitations. Mr. Bolton's particular forte seems to be monologue work and his exhibition last evening delighted the audience. He made three appearances and each time prolonged applause compelled him to respond to encores. Equally good was his English accent, Irish brogue and negro dialect. "International Titbits" was one number unusually well done.

Wm. E. MacClymont accompanied the vocalist and the banjo player. It is needless to pay tribute to his work. Eminent Commander H. W. Marshall acted as master of ceremonies.

After the programme was concluded dainty refreshments were served to the invited guests, who had grouped themselves about the commandery's rooms. The remainder of the evening was given up to social enjoyment and when the evening was spent no one could go away but with a feeling that he or she had had a most pleasant time.

The officers of the Grand Commandery present included: Deputy Grand Commander Daniel Demarest, of Newark; Grand Captain General John J. Henry, of Newark; Grand Generalissimo D. D. Adams; Grand Senior Warden Jacob Kirkner; Past Grand Commander Wm. H. Sebring.

—If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

General MacArthur Celebrates Event by Releasing 1,000 Prisoners.

MANILA, May 21.—General MacArthur celebrated the surrenders of the insurgent generals Mascardo and Lacuna by releasing 1,000 Filipino prisoners.

The presidente of the island of Lubang, which lies northwest of the island of Mindoro, has been arrested and brought to Cavite, charged with being an accomplice of the insurgents.

General Trias has started on his visit to the insurgent leader Bellarmino, who is operating in the province of Albay, in southern Luzon. Trias will try to induce Bellarmino to surrender.

Congressman Hall left Manila today for Zamboanga. He expresses himself as pleased with conditions here.

General Lacuna, with his entire force of 31 officers and 245 riflemen, has surrendered to General Funston. They were liberated after taking the oath of allegiance to the United States.

With the surrender of Generals Lacuna and Alejandrino there is not an armed insurgent in Bulucan and only 30 riflemen in Nueva Ecija, and it is expected that these will soon surrender. General Funston says that if an investigation shows that any of the rebels who have just surrendered were implicated in any violation of the laws of war or had been guilty of murder he could easily find them.

General Wheaton telegraphs as follows: "All the insurgent leaders in north Luzon have surrendered, terminating the war in this part of the country so far as armed resistance to America is concerned."

Sailing of the Transports.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A cablegram from Manila announces that the Hancock, Buford and Aztec sailed Saturday with volunteers. The Logan, Kilpatrick and Ohio will sail not later than the 30th, and the Grant and Thomas will return as soon as they arrive in Manila and can be loaded. These transports will bring home all of the volunteers.

Sale of Newark Meadows.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Henry L. Sprague, a lawyer of this city, has purchased 4,000 acres, part of the Newark and Hackensack meadows, from the Pike estate. The purchase price is said to be $3,000,000. Mr. Sprague is a director in the Terminal railroad of Buffalo and a director in the St. Lawrence and Adirondack railroads. Details have not been given out in regard to the transaction. It is said that the property will be improved at once. Accounts differ as to whether Mr. Sprague has purchased the meadows for the Vanderbilt interests or the Pennsylvania railroad. The track of land is one of the most famous in the vicinity of New York. Attempts have been made repeatedly to utilize these meadows, James Fisk, Jr., being the first and P. D. Armour one of the latest capitalists to be attracted by the proposition.

The Kearsarge's Big Gun Replaced.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Yesterday witnessed the successful accomplishment at the Brooklyn navy yard under the direction of Naval Constructor Capps after five weeks' work and an expenditure of $6,000 of the removal of the damaged 13 inch gun from the lower section of the double turret of the battleship Kearsarge and the installation of a new one in its place. There still remains the work of replacing a portion of the side of the turret which had been removed. The new gun was forced into place through the narrow opening, and the work was pronounced a success.

FIFTY THOUSAND OUT

Strike of Machinists a National Affair.

MANY FIRMS YIELD TO DEMANDS.

The Craft Seeks a Nine Hour Day With Ten Hour Per Day Wage Scale—An Early Adjustment Expected.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Approximately 50,000 machinists throughout the country struck yesterday for a nine hour day, a scale of wages equal to the present ten hour per day scale and other demands. This is the rough estimate of President O'Connell of the National Association of Machinists, based on the telegraphic advices that have reached him from the machinists' headquarters in the various cities. The strike thus far has not extended to the allied trades save in one or two instances, as at Scranton, Pa., where men in a part of the allied trades are out. No machinists engaged in government work are affected. This is due to the fact that on such work an eight hour a day scale already prevails.

Railroad machinists, as a rule, are not involved in the strike, though the men on several roads are out. The Central Vermont shop machinists at St. Albans, numbering probably 200, have struck. The Lehigh Valley railroad machinists at Buffalo, Sayre, Wilkesbarre and Elmira are out, aggregating about 500 all told. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western men at Buffalo, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and intermediate points are out. The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe men are also out. The strike order, however, does not apply to the railroads generally.

It is explained at headquarters that there is no competition between the railroads and the private work and that work among the private establishments is to be adjusted first. The situation is summarized by President O'Connell in the following statement:

"We are demanding a nine hour day universally throughout the trade, with an increase of wages sufficient to overcome the loss of the hour in time; regulation of the apprenticeship system and the number that shall be employed in accordance with the number of journeymen machinists employed, agreements as to arbitration of all disputes that may arise in the future, the right of the machinists to be represented by a committee and agreements that there shall be absolutely no discrimination against machinists because of their membership in the union."

Word from other large cities is tardy in reaching here. Telegraphic reports to Mr. O'Connell show the following as the number of firms which have signed the agreements: Konosha, Wis., all; Milwaukee, 5; Wilmington, Del., 2; Toledo, 1; Auburn, N. Y., all; Anaconda, Mon., all; Denver, all; St. Louis, all; New Orleans, all; Danbury, Conn., all; Pittsburg, 90 per cent; Franklin, Pa., all; Youngstown, O., all; Cleveland, 15; Rochester, 90 per cent; Buffalo, 50 per cent; Niagara Falls, all; Tonawanda, all; Trenton, 75 per cent; Baltimore, 11; Philadelphia, 25; New Haven, 8. These establishments having conceded the demands their men are at work as usual.

The Strike In Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—The first day of the strike of the machinists for a nine hour day and for an increase of wages was marked by complete unanimity on the part of the members of the machinists' organization and by a practically complete acquiescence of their fellow laborers who are not members of the organization. The event also was marked by an entirely peaceful beginning. Workmen and employers parted without bitterness and even with regret. There is not a perfect agreement between the leaders of the strike and the leading manufacturing companies concerning the causes of differences. The former claim that due notice of their demands has been given in an official manner.

Car Workers Strike.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The members of the Car Workers' union employed by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad at Hoboken to the number of 200 went on strike, demanding a nine hour day. They left their work at noon with their dinner pails and congregated in a hall to receive an answer to a petition which they had sent by special messenger to the master carbuilder at Scranton, Pa. This answer was brought to them, the messenger reporting that his mission had resulted in a failure, though he said that the master carbuilder would communicate with them in a few days.

All Machinists Out.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 21.—All the machinists in this city are on a strike, their employers having refused to accede to the demands for reduced hours and increased pay. At Richmond about 230 machinists went out on the demand for a nine hour labor day on a ten hour basis of pay. The greater number were employed at the locomotive works, the Trigg shipyard and the Tredegar Iron works.

Lackawanna Machinists Out.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 21.—All of the machinists and boiler makers employed in the Lackawanna railroad shops here struck because of the company's refusal to grant the demand of the union for a nine hour day with ten hours' pay. The machinists in the Payne Engine works and I. B. Coleman's foundry also went out, making 200 in all.

No Strike at Shipyards.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 21.—All the machinists employed at the shipyard continued at work, and from present indications there will be no strike. No demands have been made, it is understood, and a conference with General Superintendent W. A. Post is said to have resulted satisfactorily to both sides.

No Strike In Omaha.

OMAHA, May 21.—There was no strike of machinists in this city, the employers having conceded the demands of the workmen for shorter hours and an advance in wages.

Only Six Struck.

DAVENPORT, Ia., May 21.—Machinists' demands have been granted here by nearly all the factories. Only six men are known to have struck.

One Hundred Out.

MATOON, Ills., May 21.—About 100 machinists struck here yesterday.

THE AYRES TRAGEDY

Mrs. Bonine Confesses She Shot Census Clerk.

WASHINGTON MYSTERY CLEARED UP

Woman Says She Was Enticed to Ayres' Room and Threatened—A Struggle For Possession of a Revolver Ended Fatally.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Mrs. J. I. Bonine was arrested late yesterday afternoon for the murder of James S. Ayres. She has confessed. She admits that she was alone with Ayres in his room when the murder was committed.

Mrs. Bonine's confession was entirely voluntary. At a few minutes past 3 o'clock in the afternoon she telephoned for Major Sylvester, chief of police, saying that she was coming to his office, and she appeared there a few minutes afterward. When she reached the office, she said she had a statement she wished to make, and she was immediately turned over to Detective Horne, who took her confession. She said that she was alone in Ayres' room with him when the killing took place and that the shooting was the result of his own misconduct. She stated that Ayres had drawn the pistol upon her for the purpose of making her respond to an improper proposal which he had made to her. She described the whole proceeding minutely.

Mrs. Bonine says that after the shooting she passed through the window of Ayres' room on to and down the fire escape ladder and, entering the parlor window of the second floor, passed through the parlor and back up the stairway of the hotel to her own room on the fourth floor. She then washed her hands, undressed and retired.

Mrs. Bonine was entirely self possessed when she made her confession and did not exhibit any evidence of either present or past unusual excitement. She is apparently about 32 years of age and says she was born in Mason, Mo. She then removed to Hamilton, in the same state, and afterward to Richmond, Kan., where her husband was engaged in the drug business. Subsequently she went to Brunswick, Ga., and then to Florida, where her husband was engaged in orange growing.

After she had concluded her statement the woman was placed under arrest and sent to the house of detention.

The tragedy which resulted in Ayres' death was discovered first about half past 8 o'clock last Wednesday morning, when his dead body was discovered in his room at the Kenmore, a small family hotel of very moderate prices situated not far from the capitol. The dead man's full name was James Seymour Ayres. He was between 20 and 21 years of age and lived in Port Austin, Mich., before coming to Washington as a clerk in the census office. His father is a man of some standing in Republican state politics in Michigan.

An examination of Ayres' body showed that he had been shot three times, one ball entering the left leg, another the left arm and the third penetrating the heart and causing death.

Arrested For Embezzlement.

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—Frank Siegel, late president of the Siegel-Sanders Live Stock company, has been arrested, charged with embezzling $5,000. He was released on a $2,000 bond. The warrant for Siegel was sworn out by Utley Wedge, receiver of the company. Frank Rockefeller, who owns a controlling interest in the stock of the company, last week filed a suit in the circuit court here which resulted in the appointment of a receiver. In his petition Mr. Rockefeller alleged that the company had suffered a loss of $100,000 as the result of Siegel's peculations and mismanagement of the company's affairs.

Windfall For Depositors.

OVID, N. Y., May 21.—It is announced that the expert accountants engaged in unraveling the accounts of the Partridge bank in this village, which failed, have found more than $500,000 assets in notes, stocks, bonds, mortgages and real estate which it was supposed had been sold. This was unexpected and has created considerable excitement, as it is probable now that the bank will declare a dividend of about 80 per cent, which is much more than even the most sanguine had thought would be realized from the crash. The liabilities are not definitely known, but are believed to be near $70,000.

A New Agnostic Sect.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—A new sect of agnostics, based on Robert G. Ingersoll's teachings, is to be founded, with its central headquarters in Cincinnati. Attorney Charles Sparks has prepared the ritual for agnostic marriage ceremonies and is at work on rituals for the dedication of infants to agnosticism and the confirmation of children in the belief in the nonexistence of God. The marriage pledges administered to agnostic brides and grooms are novel, especially in their provisions on divorce matters. Sparks declares it is the duty of mismated couples to get divorced.

Situation In Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 21.—The city so far as peace and order is concerned is gradually getting back to the normal, but the demands on the relief association show no material abatement. About 3,300 rations have been issued by the commissary department during each of the past two days. It is expected that there will be some reduction within the next few days. The saloons are no longer guarded, and the number of militia in the city is greatly reduced. The relief association has decided to hold one instead of two meetings daily hereafter.

Killed Her Children.

ST. LOUIS, Mich., May 21.—Mrs. Elmer Quimby, wife of a farmer living five miles south of this city, gave her two children, a boy aged 7 and a girl aged 9, large doses of morphine, and both children are dead. Mrs. Quimby then took 18 grains of the drug herself, but the dose was so heavy it acted as an emetic, and she will recover. Family trouble is said to have induced the woman to commit the crime. She is under arrest on the charge of murder.

Only a Visit Allowed.

BERLIN, May 21.—The government has instructed the police that persons who have emigrated to the United States to avoid military service and who have been naturalized there will be permitted to visit Germany only temporarily, permanent stay being forbidden.

MRS. M'KINLEY BETTER.

The President Makes Some Calls. Return Date Not Fixed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Mrs. McKinley passed a very good afternoon, and the president is very cheerful over her improved condition.

The above announcement was made at the Scott residence last night. While Mrs. McKinley did not leave her bed during the day she passed considerable time propped up and rested well. While no definite date has been set for the president's departure the present arrangements are to go direct to Washington and not to Canton, as has been unofficially stated.

In spite of the stormy weather the president did not remain indoors.

Carriages were summoned at 9:50 a. m., and the president drove to the residence of his uncle, Benjamin J. McKinley, on Bush street, where he spent about ten minutes visiting with the family. He then drove to the home of his niece, Mrs. Morse. His visit was wholly unexpected by Mrs. Morse, who had left the house some time previously to go to the Scott residence. The president returned directly to the Scott house for luncheon. Among the callers on the president yesterday was Richard J. Carson, Jr., the young member of the army signal corps who has been appointed to West Point in recognition of his gallantry in saving the lives of several men in the Philippines. He called to thank the president for his appointment.

Secretary Hay and other members of the cabinet will remain with the president until Mrs. McKinley shall be able to travel, when they will all go east together. The physicians have not yet been able to fix a date when Mrs. McKinley will be strong enough to take the trip, but a week is their present approximation.

The president has promised to talk to the Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth infantry regiments, United States volunteers, who have just returned from the Philippines and are now in camp at the Presidio. The day has not yet been set, but the president has promised that he will notify General Shafter the night before he intends to make the promised speech. He will go out to the Presidio, and the troops will assemble in camp before him.

PATRICK GLEASON DEAD.

Interesting Figure In New York Politics Passes Away.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Patrick J. Gleason, former mayor of Long Island City and popularly known as "Battleax" Gleason, died at his home in that place last night, aged 70 years.

Gleason came to this country when a boy. He became a saloon keeper and ran for the assembly on the Greeley ticket, being elected, as he claimed, but was counted out by 15 votes. He went west to San Francisco and accumulated about $20,000 serving beef under contract to institutions. When he settled in Long Island City, he secured a contract to build the first railroad between the Hunter's Point ferry and Calvary cemetery. He worked with a pick and ax with a gang of men building the road, and when it was completed he drove the first car and continued to do this until he could afford to place more cars on the road. He acted not only as driver, but as conductor, starter, cashier, treasurer, president and repairer for the line. He had one car and three horses. Then he took on himself the duties of president and superintendent alone and continued to extend his railroad enterprises until finally he owned several lines in Long Island City. He finally sold a portion of his railroad to the Steinway syndicate.

After being an alderman Gleason became mayor of Long Island City, holding this latter office from 1887 to 1893. In that year H. S. Sanford defeated him, but had to have the police eject Gleason from the city hall before he could take office. Then the courts decided against Gleason. He became mayor again in 1896, but was legislated out of office when Greater New York was incorporated.

Gleason's last candidacy for public office was for mayor of Greater New York, when he ran on the independent ticket in the fall of 1897.

Carnegie's Gift to Scotland.

LONDON, May 21.—A dispatch from Edinburgh to the Central News says that Andrew Carnegie has given £2,000,000 to provide education in the Edinburgh, Glasgow, St. Andrews and Aberdeen universities for Scotch students only. A trust will be formed to administer the funds. Mr. Carnegie estimates that the £50,000 per year which he is willing to provide will open the doors of the universities to every boy and girl in Scotland who is able to pass the entrance examinations. It is expected that the scheme will be prepared by the government.

Drowned In a Mine.

HAZLETON, Pa., May 21.—An heretofore unknown body of water was tapped in the Silver Brook mine shortly before noon yesterday, and three men, Samuel Klingerman, foreman, and Fred O'Donnell and Alexander Gallagher, drivers, who ran toward the face of the breast when the rush occurred, are believed to have been drowned or smothered. When the water was released by a shot fired by one of the 50 men engaged in the breast, it came down so suddenly that all had to run for their lives. All escaped except the three mentioned.

She is now being taken care of in a room in the Cleveland home in Bayard avenue, far removed from her brother and her two sisters, all of whom are well.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Presbyterians Begin the Second Week of Their Deliberations.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Routine matters occupied the attention of the commissioners to the Presbyterian general assembly during the greater portion of yesterday's sessions. The annual reports of the eight church boards were submitted to the assembly, and three of them, ministerial relief, education and freedmen, with the reports of their standing committees, were disposed of. The others will be taken up today and tomorrow, when it is expected the desk will be clear for the discussion of the revision committee's report, which is the special order for Thursday.

During the afternoon session Moderator Minton announced the appointment of Robert Pitcairn of Pittsburg as vice moderator. Dr. Minton also appointed a committee of five to complete the details of the Peoria overture, the new plan of electing standing committees. A resolution was adopted deprecating the action of the directors of the Pan-American exposition in opening the gates on Sunday and earnestly urging the closing of the exposition on that day.

The special committee on Sabbath observance protested against the publication of Sunday newspapers and all use of the Lord's day for business purposes or commercial interests.

The report of the special committee on judicial commissions came up for consideration, but debate was interrupted by adjournment.

A VOTE DEFERRED.

Cubans In Secret Session Over Platt Amendment.

HAVANA, May 21.—At best the conservatives now claim only a majority of four in the constitutional convention. When the convention met, it was found that four of the conservatives were absent, and the disposition to push things which had been agreed upon as the programme changed to a movement to block the radicals from coming to a final vote.

The radicals were also weakened by one absentee and a split within their ranks which threatens the leadership of Juan Gualberto Gomez. This politician has posed as an uncompromising radical, opposing any intervention by the United States and publicly declaring that he would die of grief if the Platt amendment were accepted. Now, however, men who once looked up to him as a leader repudiate him, asserting that he has accepted a part of the Platt amendment in his minority report and declaring that they will draw up a report of their own which will have the proper radical ring.

Yesterday's session was secret, and probably secret sessions will continue during the discussion of the two reports.

After the minority and majority reports had been read the conservatives made a canvass of the house and, finding their majority doubtful, asked the privilege of tabling both reports for 24 hours.

Consumption Cured.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The latest reports concerning the Hospital For Consumptives which was instituted under the direction of Surgeon General Sternberg of the army at Fort Bayard, N. M., about a year ago show that there are 149 patients now undergoing treatment at that place. This establishment is the only one of its kind in the country devoted to military and ex-military patients. A number of patients so closely approached complete recovery that they were discharged and sent back to their duties, and a majority have shown marked improvement.

Government Armor Plant Rejected.

BERLIN, May 21.—The German naval authorities have examined the proposition recently made in the budget committee of the reichstag in favor of the establishment of a government factory for the manufacture of armor plate and have rejected the same as too costly. They have also inquired to ascertain whether Germany can obtain plates as cheap as the United States, and they report that this is now possible, in view of the fact that the fleet law permits contracts for wholesale amounts, whereas previously contracts were limited to retail transactions.

Students Threaten to Leave School.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 21.—The Cascadilla baseball team of the Interscholastic league, together with the school crew which is to row at Syracuse June 14 and the track squad scheduled to enter the interscholastic track meet June 8, threatens to disband. President Parsell of the school refused to allow a friend of one of the athletes to remain at a social function of the students recently held. The students interested will leave the school and the athletic teams will disband unless Principal Parsell offers an apology, which has been asked for.

Boer Commandos Re-enforced.

CAPE TOWN, May 21.—Eight hundred Boers have crossed the Orange river from the northwest and have re-enforced the commandos in the eastern districts. The latest reliable report locates De Wet near Philippolis, in Orange River Colony, and not far from the Cape line, with 40 horsemen. All the commandos in the Orange River Colony have instructions to cross the Orange river. Several British patrols have been ambushed.

EXPOSITION OPENED.

Formal Welcome to the Pan-American Extended.

ROOSEVELT THE GUEST OF HONOR.

An Imposing Military and Civic Parade, Followed by a Great Flow of Oratory and Music—Fine Electrical Display.

BUFFALO, May 21.—In the presence of a vast concourse of people, with ceremonial both conventional and novel, the Pan-American exposition was yesterday formally dedicated. The day was fair, and last night the industrious, energetic men who planned this great enterprise rejoiced in flattering success. The day began with a parade, in which there were men from nearly every country in the world, and ended with an aerial bombardment from flying bombs and a brilliant electrical illumination. Between the two were the formal exercises of the dedication, with oratory that took its theme from the lesson of the time, prayer for right, music, song and poetry. The city was bright in dress of flags and bunting, the exposition group was brilliant in color, the moving crowds were in holiday garb, and the whole effect was highly pleasing.

The day's total admissions from 8 a. m. until 11 p. m. were 101,687. This does not include several thousand persons who came in through the Lincoln parkway entrance with the parade.

As the procession formed there was a reception of distinguished visitors, foreign representatives, state commissioners, officers and officials at the city hall. Vice President Roosevelt was the guest of honor, and when he reached the hall the parade was started with a volley of aerial bombs. Two thousand troops, who got their time from four bands, led the way, and after them were 100 carriages with the officials and guests. Behind them came the concessionnaires from the Midway. West Indians mingled with the children of the tropics, the orient and the Mediterranean and gave the procession its truest touch of color. They were in native costume, had a score of artistic floats, and 15 bands furnished them with music.

The vice president and party then filed on into the Temple of Music, and the parade, reforming, marched on through the grounds. The formal dedicatory ceremonies in the presence of a crowd limited only by the size of the hall were impressive. There were strong words for closer union among the American republics, and the remarks of Vice President Roosevelt on that point and the congratulatory telegrams from the presidents of the American republics excited the greatest enthusiasm.

All of the American republics were represented at the dedication, and their military attaches and commissioners were given conspicuous places in the group of special guests. Friendly expressions came by cable from national neighbors, and the local directors rejoiced in the kindly feeling and interest shown. The exercises began at 12:45 o'clock with the rendition of Handel's "Alleluia" by the Seventy-first Regiment band. The venerable Bishop Charles H. Fowler led in prayer before an audience stilled and bowed.

President Milburn read a series of congratulatory telegrams, and their reading provoked cheer upon cheer. Mayor Conrad Diehl was then introduced, and when the cheers over his speech had subsided Robert Cameron Rogers recited a poem.

The Orpheus society gave a magnificent rendering of Sturm's "Salve Libertas," and Vice President Roosevelt was presented. He was vigorously cheered and made several attempts to speak before he found quieted auditors.

Emilio de Gogorza sang the prologue from "I Pagliacci," and Senator Lodge was presented. He, too, was very cordially welcomed. When he had finished, Frederic Almy read a poem. Lieutenant Governor Timothy Woodruff then spoke.

After the lieutenant governor had concluded the chorus, audience and band united in "America." The benediction was by Bishop William D. Walker. The closing musical number was an inspiring march rendered by the Seventy-first Regiment band.

At the conclusion of the exercises in the Temple of Music there was a grand display of day fireworks on the esplanade and about the court of fountains.

The feature at night was the electrical show. Many of those who came during the day dined at the grounds and joined in the night crowd. The electrical tower was a dazzling column of light, and the play of the lights on fountains below produced some beautiful effects.

New Shamrock Won.

RYDE, Isle of Wight, May 21.—The two Shamrocks have each won a race in two sailed to a finish thus far, not counting the preliminary spins and informal trials. As is usual in these trials, the maneuvering and working between marks were much more instructive than the timings taken at the turning points. Shamrock II beat the old boat by one minute in yesterday's race.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., May 21.—Herbert E. Blood of Holbrook shot at and wounded Miss Fawn Davis and her mother at the residence of George F. Nickerson yesterday afternoon and then shot himself. He was arrested. He is 36 years old and has a family. Miss Davis is thought to be dying, but Blood will live.

The Strike in Plainfield.

A gigantic movement for the advancement of the interests of the machinists in the United States has begun. The International Order of Machinists has demanded that the employers of machinists throughout the land reduce the working hours of the employes to nine hours and continue the pay as before, on a basis of ten hours per day. To support its demand, the order instructed all its members, whose employers did not grant the demand, to strike May 20.

May 20 was yesterday. At 7 o'clock in the morning, thousands of machanists all over the country laid down their tools and left the shops where they were employed. Many factories granted the demand.

All the local machine shops, except that at the Pond Tool Works, were affected by the strike and 400 machinists were idle The local committee of employes at the Pond Tool Works had granted an extension of time on its own responsibility. The national authorities of the union declared that the extension could not be granted but the employes' committee finally compromised on Friday as the day when a decision must be given.

Plainfield has been singularly free from strikes and all labor troubles in the past. During the last year there have been a few occasioned by the readjustment of relations between the Building Trades' Council and the master builders, but none have been of anything like the magnitude of the present one. It is the largest strike that ever took place in Plainfield.

Had it depended on the relations between the local employers and employes there would undoubtedly have been no strike. These relations have always been of the pleasantest in the past and a mutual understanding, suitable to the local conditions, could have undoubtedly been fixed upon. The strike is, however, of greater extent and its settlement, in Plainfield as in other places, depends not merely on Plainfield alone, but on the whole country.

All but one of the local industries are engaged in the manufacture of printing presses. Those in authority in most of these factories have expressed a desire to see the nine hour day go into effect. The keen competition in that line of business, however, will not permit them to carry on their business with success unless all of the other leading printing press manufactories in the country adopt the same scale of prices and the nine hour day. If these other concerns conform with the demand, the Plainfield industries will undoubtedly do the same and all trouble will be over. The men here are under orders from the national headquarters which must be obeyed if they hope to maintain their organization. An attempt was made in the case of the Pond Tool Works to vary the rule to suit local conditions, but the officers of the order say it must not be.

It is greatly to be deplored that a strike should sever the heretofore pleasant relations between employer and employe at the local shops. Strikes are expensive things for both sides. The time lost for the men can never be made up. The delay occasioned in the shops will never be regained. If there is to be a strike, however, let it be without trouble and disorder, which have so unfortunately marked strikes on many occasions. And let both sides do all in their power, even to the granting of certain concessions, to bring about a peaceful solution of the troubles at the earliest opportunity.

Now that the street signs are up in place, every house number should be looked after. The street committee has called the attention of the public to the ordinance which makes it necessary for the every building to be numbered in such a way that the number can be easily seen from the sidewalk. This ordinance is to be strictly inforced as soon as the owners of property are given an opportunity of complying with it. It is to be hoped that every householder will do so without waiting for further notification from the officials of the street department.

There seems to be a mistaken idea on the part of some of the residents in the neighborhood of the proposed site for the new buildings of Muhlenberg Hospital that the new hospital will be a pest house for the benefit of Plainfield and all the adjacent towns. Such is not the case. While provision will be made to care for any contagious disease should it be taken there, it is not the intention of the Board of Governors of the Hospital to make it an institution for contagious disease in any sense of the word.

It is several years now since any of Plainfield's talent has attempted a minstrel show. Plans are now being made to give such an entertainment in the near future. It will undoubtedly attract a large crowd as local minstrel shows are always of more than the usual interest.

Elizabeth is preparing to take the step which Plainfield took over a year ago, that of placing its fire department on a "call system" basis. While the immediate cost to the city showed an increase, it was decided that in the end it would be an economy for the city.

The Knights Templar are famous the world over as entertainers. Last evening, Trinity Commandery, the local branch of the organization, held its annual "ladies' night" and fully sustained its reputation in that direction.

It is a daring robber who will carry away his plunder by the trunkload, as was reported to the police early Sunday morning.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylisb, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. Price $3.50.

Dunellen, May 21—Seven tramps who alighted from a passing freight train, Sunday evening, spread themselves about the borough and began making themselves obnoxious. HAS THE PAPAL BEE.

Cardinal Rampolla Would Like to Succeed Leo XIII.

Is Said to Be About to Secure His Own Dismissal from His Present High Office to Improve His Prospects.

From Rome comes a seemingly well-authenticated story to the New York Times that Cardinal Rampolla, in view of the fact that a papal secretary so rarely succeeds to the tiara, is about to cause his own dismissal from his high office in order to strengthen his eligibility.

Rampolla is the most powerful member of the college of cardinals, and it is said that one of his own adherents will take his place as secretary of state. Some of Pope Leo's most significant acts are credited by persons professing an insight into the politics of the vatican to the powerful Sicilian cardinal's influence.

Dealing with the rumors of Cardinal Rampolla's retirement from the office of secretary of state, the correspondent says he is aiming for the tiara, and that if the pontiff died today the struggle would be between Cardinals Rampolla and Vannutelli.

The correspondent adds:

"The Gottis, Svampas and Parocchis would be there to watch the weaknesses and profit by them. One of these last might even come out on top."

The correspondent calculates that Cardinal Rampolla is sure of 33 votes, but needs 36. He concludes a two-column dispatch by saying:

"There remains but one obstacle for Cardinal Rampolla to overcome—an obstacle that is immense in an affair where traditions are everything. It is contrary to custom for a secretary of state to succeed his master. This is why it is not improbable that Cardinal Rampolla will strive to appear to have been disgraced in order not to preserve responsibility for an authority in the throes of death. In quitting the office of secretary of state before the promulgation of the associations bill he would avoid quarreling with the French government. He would assure himself of the sympathy of America, which has two cardinals; of England, which has two, and of Russia, which has none, but is powerful."

For several years Cardinal Rampolla has been accused of laying his plans to secure the succession as the sovereign pontiff. Even when because of his lack of age (he was born in 1843) he could scarcely hope to present himself as a candidate he was accused, principally by German and Austrian cardinals, for he is an open enemy of the triple alliance, of attempting to induce the Italians in the sacred college to favor one of his colleagues. When, however, at a secret consistory two years ago 11 new cardinals were created, only two of whom were not Italians, thus making the Italians number 35, as against 30 foreigners, there was little doubt in the Catholic world that Rampolla had himself in view for the succession. In certain quarters, it is true, he was declared to be still too young, and it was said that he would not have himself proposed, but that the estimable and somewhat unimportant Cardinal li Pietro would be the "papabile" of the group of ministerialists, while, in the event of this selection, Rampolla would still continue in his office of secretary of state.

Rampolla is not only said to be favored by a majority of Italian prelates; those of the romance countries are also believed to favor him, especially the French, because of his attitude toward the natural enemy of France. He is also thought to have the support of the American cardinals.

Persons who have had to deal with vatican diplomacy have declared that in the art of statecraft Rampolla was not even surpassed by the famous secretary of state of Pius IX., although his held of visible action is much smaller. Patience, tenacity and a desire for quick execution are said to be his chief characteristics. As is stated in the foregoing dispatch, he is a Sicilian by birth, and, like many Sicilians, he is a philosopher and a deep thinker.

As state secretary Cardinal Rampol lives in the vatican. His personality is said to be charming; his voice is particularly soft and insinuating. In Rome, when he appears in public, he exerts a curious influence upon those near by; no Roman crowd has ever been known to insult him to his face, and he has the reputation of never denying an audience to anyone. It is a somewhat curious fact that of the many descriptions that have been written of his manner, discourse and general expression, hardly any two are alike.

GRAND CONFLAGRATION.

Burning of the Baku Oil Refineries in Russia Said to Be Biggest Blaze on Record.

The great fire at the oil refineries and reservoirs at Baku, Russia, which has only recently been extinguished, ranks as one of the biggest conflagrations of the kind on record. Its origin was a mystery, but within an hour of the outbreak the magazines of the Caspian & Black Sea company, containing an immense quantity of petroleum, amounting to 6,000,000 poods, were involved. Ten people, unable to escape the fiery torrent, perished, and over 140 were terribly burned. For several days it was quite impossible to cope with the flames, with the result that ten factories and five depots, with a storage capacity of 35,000,000 poods of oil—say, 562,500 tons—of an estimated value of over 6,000,000 rubles, were destroyed.

THE BAKU CONFLAGRATION.

Enormous quantities of petroleum are stored in the reservoirs adjacent to Baku awaiting transport via the Trans-Kavkas line to Poti and Batoum, on the Black sea, whence by a magnificent fleet of oil-tank steamers it is distributed to all parts of the world. With such a volatile agent to handle, it is no wonder that fires are of frequent occurrence, and it is rare, indeed, that Baku is without its blaze. As a rule the reservoirs and the refineries escape, and it is merely the "gusher" which catches fire. This, however, is bad enough, as many of the oil fountains are worth anything from $25,000 to $250,000, and once alight no human ingenuity can stay the work of destruction until the whole of the oil being belched from the earth is burned away.

The accompanying illustration, taken from a photograph reproduced in the London Sphere, gives one an idea of the grandeur of the destructive fire.

DAVID R. FRANCIS.

Noted Missouri Politician Elected President of the Great St. Louis Exposition of 1903.

Former Gov. David R. Francis, who has just been elected president of the Louisiana Purchase exposition of 1903, was one of the earliest promoters of that great enterprise. Mr. Francis, like so many politically-distinguished men of Missouri, is a Kentuckian. He has just begun his fifty-second year. At 16 he came to St. Louis, was graduated from Washington university in 1870, and, entering commercial life, he became president of the Merchants' exchange in 1883. He was a delegate to the democratic convention of 1884, and in 1885 he was elected mayor of St.

Louis, defeating his republican opponent, who four years previously had received a majority of 14,000 votes. The new mayor became so strong politically that he was given the nomination for governor in 1888, and few candidates for that post have had a more united and enthusiastic following. In the closing days of the last Cleveland administration Mr. Francis was appointed secretary of the interior, and served in that position until the inauguration of President McKinley the first time. When the democratic party split on the silver issue in 1896, he took sides with the sound money faction, and has remained that kind of a democrat ever since. He is already mentioned as a presidential possibility for 1904.

SIMPLY "DRAGGED OUT."

The experience of a working girl, living in a New Jersey town, with Ripans Tabules is interesting, because it reflects in a measure the condition of thousands of other working girls who are confined in factories and stores and who might benefit their health by using the Tabules.

"For years I have suffered from severe attacks of indigestion," she says, "accompanied by all its attendant evils—headaches, heartburn, etc. I have tried many remedies, but could get no relief. Several of my friends recommended Ripans Tabules to me, but having tried so many medicines I had lost faith in everything. I was simply dragged out and passed a miserable existence. To please my friends I consented to a trial of Ripans Tabules. Not expecting any change in my condition, I was most agreeably surprised. After taking two or three cartons (being very careful to follow directions) a complete change was wrought in my health. I can not say enough in praise of them. I am recommending them to my friends. It is the most wonderful cure of the age for that great American monster, 'dyspepsia,' which is making life a burden to so many all over our fair land. If any written or spoken word of mine would induce sufferers from this dread disease to use Ripans Tabules I should feel happy conscious of having done something to alleviate human suffering."

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and 1000 testimonials will be sent free to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

THE KITCHEN GARDEN.

How Even the City Woman May Have Hers—In a Box.

Last summer I visited two gardens, and I don't know which one gave the more pleasure to its owner. The first was situated beyond the city limits, where land was cheap and plenty. It was a small kingdom in itself and contained every vegetable known to that section of the country.

The other garden was in a flat. A flat! I hear you exclaim. Yes, and it was not even in the back yard; but, being a kitchen garden, it was most appropriately placed in the kitchen. Long boxes lined with zinc were fastened just outside each window sill, and, in addition, brackets, which supported pots, were nailed to the sides. These were filled with tender growing things. In one box were globe radishes, in another lettuce, and a third, placed in the pantry window, held little onions. The flowerpots were filled with fragrant herbs for soups and flavorings. "You can't imagine what a comfort our hanging garden has been to Tom and me," the owner said. "It almost makes us forget we are imprisoned in this hot city. And then, too, you should taste our radishes and lettuce. So different from those which have been standing for hours in the market! Next year I am going to place boxes in all of our windows, and we will have in addition some cucumbers and small tomatoes. They only take four or five inches of soil, you know, and the cucumbers trail most artistically over the edges of the boxes."

Why don't other women try the experiment? Besides the vegetables mentioned, a number of herbs can be grown, such as parsley, thyme, savory, chives and marjoram. It is only a question of well fertilized soil, good seed and deep boxes. For the rest these green things are much less trouble to raise than flowers and far more fascinating.

CHILDREN'S PLAY HOURS.

Modern Instructive Games and the Evil of Overdoing Them.

IN the old days before the spirit of kindergarten reigned over the land a child's play hours were its own. Wrapped in a scarlet tablecloth and crowned with a gorgeous gilt paper circlet, the small boy could fancy himself a king and the small girl, muffled in borrowed fineries, a beautiful princess.

But, alas, such foolish trifling are displeasing to the spirit of kindergarten. The child must learn, must absorb knowledge unconsciously and continually; hence the scientific toys, the instructive games and the educational puzzles that flood the market. There is even an attempt to make the study of mathematics and languages appear like a game to the luckless baby whose brain is to be crammed with them.

A short time ago The Strand Magazine gave an example of this sort. According to the narrator, who is the infant's adopted father, a little girl 3 years old had learned in the guise of play to translate French and German into English and to read all three languages, to read numbers as large as octillions, to draw almost any geometrical form, to name all the bones of the human skeleton, to analyze flowers, and she had obtained a very good general idea of geography, zoology and various other branches of knowledge. The father expressly stated that all this was done in play and that the child preferred it to the ordinary nursery games. It makes one wonder whether the poor little mite ever knew the joy of a careless romp in the sunshine or indeed whether there was time for any such thing in the father's elaborate scheme of education.

"MAKE BELIEVE."

Knowledge is all very well, but it is the most foolish thing in the world to forget that a healthy body is a child's best equipment for the battle of life, for a healthy body usually carries with it a good heart and a healthy brain.

Uncle Sam's Mail Service the Acme of Perfection.

Foreign Systems Seem Puerile When Compared with Ours—Work of the National Dead-Letter Office.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE illiteracy of Europe rests as a heavy burden on the dead letter office of this republic. Upwards of half a million letters annually come to this country from Europe with addresses which are insufficient, illegible or undecipherable. They must be returned to the countries whence they come. Consequently this European illiteracy is costly, not only to the countries whence the misdirected letters come, but also to us.

The fact is well known that our own people furnish employment to hundreds of employes because of their inability to properly address their communications; but the illiteracy of foreign correspondents is incalculably greater than that of our own people. In our republic the majority of the errors are caused by carelessness, but ignorance is at the bottom of the enormous number of errors committed by those in foreign countries.

Compared with our own perfected dead letter office system those of foreign countries seem to be in their infancy. Many evidences are shown by the experiences of our officials, indicating that the foreign governments do not attach such importance to the delivery of obscure addresses as our government has always manifested. For example, when Levi P. Morton was minister to France, a letter addressed "Levi P. Morton, Paris, France," was returned to this country marked, "inconnu;" that is, "unknown." And yet the American minister was living in Paris at one of the leading hotels. No effort was made to deliver that letter, or it could have been delivered.

Many letters from this country addressed to Walter Besant, Algernon Swinburne, Alfred Austin, and other literary lights, with only "England" on the envelope, have been returned to this country marked "insufficient address." Letters of that character from European countries for eminent men of letters in this country are always forwarded to their proper addresses, and without delay.

All printed matter received at the dead letter office from Canada, Great Britain, Germany, Switzerland, South American countries and Australasia is destroyed, in accordance with a special agreement. Most of this stuff consists of newspapers and trade circulars. The countries mentioned do the same with similar matter that reaches them from the United States. But France, Italy, Russia, Spain, Portugal, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Belgium want every bit of their printed matter back, and it is returned to them.

Take Russia, for instance. All unclaimed matter from that country is sent back to the Russian post office department at St. Petersburg every week, including printed stuff. The material is done up in bags. If there is reason to believe that a single parcel or letter holds anything of value, the bag containing it is registered. Many of the letters returned to Russia come to Washington from the post office at Boston, in which city there is a large Russian colony. "Returns" for Newfoundland and small dependencies in various parts of the world are made in big envelopes, the bulk of matter sent being small.

In the same way we get our dead matter back from foreign countries—weekly from some, monthly from others. The "returns" sent to us amounted last year to 250,000 pieces—only a little more than one-third as many as we forwarded to governments abroad. One reason for this great difference is found in the fact that addresses in Europe are more certain and permanent. Immigrants coming to the United States give their first addresses to relatives and friends on the other side of the water. Pretty soon they move, and track of them is lost. Native Americans are mostly educated and address letters to foreign parts with accuracy; foreigners here when they write home are sure of the addresses.

The number of letters returned to Italy is very great, most of them for non-payment of postage. Under the regulations of the postal union, letters may be sent unstamped and will be delivered, but the recipient must pay double—i. e., ten cents on an ordinary letter. Such an unpaid letter is marked with a big T, which stands for the word "taxee," meaning "taxed" or extra rate. The Italians are very thrifty people, and it often happens that the sender in that country prefers to leave the payment to the addressee, who, in America, is usually of the same nationality. On delivery of the letter he refuses to receive it and pay the ten cents demanded. There may be nothing important in it, and he is not willing to squander that amount of money on an uncertainty. His friend or relative having written, it is safe to conclude that the writer is well.

Hundreds of letters, though actually delivered to the intended recipients, are returned to Italy every year. At least 75 per cent. of the mail matter sent from that country to the United States is not paid in advance. What has been said on this point applies in a somewhat less degree to the Swedes, who are likewise a thrifty people. It is observed that immigrants from abroad retain their thrifty habits on this side of the water. In the next generation, however, they lose them entirely. Their sons and daughters have all the wants and requirements of Americans. The continental peasant is content to live on bread and potatoes, but his American-born children must have meat three times a day.

Some of the articles found inclosed in parcels from abroad, which, unlike letters, may be opened, are very odd. They will often contain such things as one sock, one shoe or one glove, the customs regulations forbidding the sending of pairs of such things. Pieces of lace and valuable embroidery are discovered wrapped up in the newspapers which are devoted to destruction when not delivered. These are disposed of at the annual auction sale, held at the post office department. Rosaries and crucifixes are sent in a similar fashion in great numbers. At every yearly sale hundreds of these are disposed of, many of them having been blessed by priests and forwarded by people in Catholic countries for use by friends in our country.

Comparatively few of the foreign letters which reach our dead letter office can be delivered to the persons addressed, because it is not permissible to open them. If one of them happens to be open when received here, it is sealed with a special stamp, bearing the words: "Post Office Department—Officially Sealed." The first stamp of this kind bore the words: "Post obitum," meaning "after death." A specimen is to-day worth ten dollars. It is difficult to procure sealing stamps, and collectors offer high prices for them.

Stamp collecting fiends bother the foreign division of our dead letter office very much. The average person afflicted with that mania believes that he can get all manner of stamps for the asking. One of them recently wrote: "You must have thousands of foreign letters which you can never deliver. Please send me a good collection." All such letters are answered with a reference to the law making the removal of stamps from letters subject to a fine of $300, with or without imprisonment.

One great difficulty in the delivery of letters addressed in foreign countries is that the writers give defective or insufficient superscriptions to their communications. Only an expert would have known that a letter addressed: "Teserero General de Nacion," meant "Treasurer of the United States." But it did; and was properly delivered, and it contained a considerable sum of money.

A letter addressed to "Br Ameruky, D. Branz, Kemielbunkport, Americo," was sent to the postmaster at Kennebunk Port, Me., and by him forwarded to Portland, where it was delivered to D. Branz, in an alley in the rear of No. 34 North street. Another letter addressed "Br Ameruka," meaning British America, was superscribed "Elizabeth Afenue 515, Joseph Miron, House furnishing goods." That seemed like a hard one, but the experts in our dead letter office found Elizabeth avenue at Elizabeth, N. J., and delivered the letter there.

These are merely samples of the hundreds of thousands of difficult cases which are handled every year by our expert clerks in the dead letter office; and the work increases each year because of the increased illiteracy of Europe. On this point the superintendent of the dead letter office says: "There is also a great deal of illiteracy and carelessness in our own country. I think that the art of letter writing and of addressing envelopes ought to be a practical part of the work of our school children."

That's a good idea. It could be taught with the lessons in penmanship.

England Is Building a New Empire in Africa

The Railroad Train Now a Common Sight in Uganda and Rhodesia

OUT of the heart of Africa England is building an empire that will in time rival in extent her vast possessions in Asia, America or Australia. In almost the same territory where a third of a century ago Dr. Livingston, the English missionary and explorer, was cut off from the outside world by a horde of savages, and where the American Henry M. Stanley found him after a perilous journey through the tropical forests and jungles, the passage of railroad trains and steamboats are daily occurrences. Steamboats are running on Lake Albert Nyanza, around which is located so much of modern Central African history. Other steamers are plying between the principal native villages around the shores of Lake Victoria Nyanza, and all of them are flying the union jack at their masthead. The negro that ten years ago formed the only means of conveyance for merchandise between the eastern ports and the vast territory lying about the headwaters of the Nile and Congo rivers have given place to the railroad train.

Here is a vast territory that has for centuries been lying on the very verge of civilization, and yet it has not, until within the last third of a century and less, felt the least of its influences.

It was Stanley, at that time an American citizen, who undertook the exploration of this vast territory that England is to-day developing so rapidly, at the point where Livingstone had left off at the time of his death. It was Stanley's explorations that first gave to the world a right conception of this great central portion of the African continent. It was Stanley who found the source of the white Nile, who explored the shores of Lake Tanganyika, a body of water over 400 miles in length; Lake Victoria Nyanza, Lake Albert Nyanza and a score of others that are to-day the home of the steamboat, and around whose shores are to be found many evidences of advancing civilization. To Stanley and to James Gordon Bennett must be given much of the credit for the exploitation of this territory from which England is to-day building a new empire.

But this African empire does not all lie around these great fresh water seas that are so intimately connected with the history of Livingstone and Stanley. Farther south, and yet almost in the very center of the continent lies British or Central Africa and Rhodesia or British South Africa, both of which are forging to the front in the race for supremacy between the newer of Britain's African colonies. British East Africa, which extends from the shores of the Indian ocean for a distance of a thousand miles right into the center of the continent, contains more than 1,000,000 square miles of territory with a population of two and a half millions of people, of which less than 1,000 are Europeans. Still further into the center of the continent, and adjoining British East Africa, lies Uganda, with its 120,000 square miles of fertile soil, and 3,000,000 of people. Through this territory the railroad from the coast has been extended, and a valuable commerce in ivory, cattle, wild coffee and rubber is being rapidly developed. Both of these colonies are attracting the attention of British emigrants, and there is an increasing stream of Europeans seeking new homes and fortunes in them. The day is not far distant when they will number among their population a considerable percentage of Europeans.

As Livingston and Stanley are the prominent figures in the early exploration and exploitation of British East Africa and Uganda, so Cecil Rhodes is the prominent figure in the exploitation of British South Africa or Rhodesia, though entirely different motives actuated the men operating in the two localities. Livingston was the explorer and the missionary, and above all the missionary. While, like a faithful servant, he sought for such geographical information as would be of benefit to the government which at first employed him, his greatest desire was to carry the Gospel of Christ to the natives of the Dark Continent. Stanley followed him, not to take up his missionary labors, but to take up his work as an explorer where his friend had left it, and accomplish, if possible, what Livingston had failed to—the discovery of the sources of the Nile and the Congo rivers. Neither were interested particularly in the commercial exploitation of the territory.

When Cecil Rhodes began his extensive operations and colonization in the territory that now bears his name, it was with a sinister motive. Rhodes had tried several schemes for the weakening of the Transvaal. He was ambitious to make all of South Africa English, and the Transvaal government, with the financial aid secured from the Johannesburg gold mines, was gaining in strength so rapidly that Rhodes feared they would soon pass beyond the need of England's help. It was with a view of enticing the Boer farmers from their own land by liberal land grants in the new territory, and at the same time gaining undisputed possession for England of that great stretch of territory lying in the heart of the continent, and upon which England, Germany and Portugal, with adjoining possessions, were looking with longing eyes and hoping for an opportunity to invade it and take possession.

It was Cecil Rhodes who made the opportunity; it was Rhodes who organized the company that was to push English colonists into the very center of the coveted territory; it was Rhodes who bought of the savage chieftain, Lo Bengula, the native ruler of the territory, the treaty rights to enter the country and exploit it, rights that had to be demanded later at the mouth of the rifle and cannon by the armed troops of the British South Africa company.

The Rhodesia pioneers left Cape Town April 15, 1890, to push their way through unexplored forests into what was believed to be the long lost "Land of Ophir." Rhodes had lost no opportunity of advertising the richness of the new country to which he was sending settlers. Emissaries of his had displayed specimens of gold and other precious metals and uncut diamonds, all of which were supposed to have come from this unknown land, more in the hope of inducing the Boer farmers to forsake their pastoral homes that they might share in the richness of the new country than for any other reason. In this Rhodes was not successful; the Boer farmers would have none of him and his new land of gold, but though he failed in this, he accomplished the greater, though to him lesser, object of giving to England undisputed possession of a great territory of half a million square miles in extent.

Fort Salisbury was completed, and the city of the same name founded, September 12, 1890, when the country was taken possession of in the name of the queen of England. The troops of pioneers were then the only white men in the territory. They had reached it by cutting roads through the heavy forests, by bridging streams and by suffering untold hardships, but they had founded a new empire for England.

Over the route through which they cut a road for the passage of their wagons, railroad trains travel each day to and from Cape Town, 1,500 miles away. The little settlement of 300 pioneer Europeans has grown to many thousands who are to-day enjoying all the pleasures and conveniences of life in civilized communities. Good schools are to be found everywhere; the postmaster has followed the railway, and 55 post offices handle the mail of the colony; 2,536 miles of telegraph wire connect the important points, and this is augmented by an extensive telephone system. There are theaters, churches and clubs in every town and village, and Rhodesia stands to-day a well forged link in England's chain of empire, from which other pioneers are pushing northward to the northern boundaries of what is now considered English territory in Central Africa.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The baseball team of the Vaquero Club, a sophomore eating club at Princeton University, will cross bats with the Leal School team on Pettis' field, Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The Underwoods defeated the Plainfield Terrors in a baseball game played yesterday afternoon by a score of 13 to 6. The batteries were: Underwoods, Wm. Newman, Neil Scott, Jack Davies and Ralph Peterson; Terrors, C. Grobe, J. McBride and Geo. Moore.

As the time approaches for the game to be played the interest taken in the baseball contest scheduled for Memorial Day between the Warren Engine Company and the West End Hose Company nines increases. Each team practices every weekday evening and both are rounding into form.

The Watchung ball team, Plainfield's crack juvenile nine, defeated the Somerville A. A. on Pittis' field, Saturday, by a score of 9 to 5. The game was an exciting one and was witnessed by a large crowd. The battery for Watchung's was Minford and Wills, and for Somerville's Miller and Hoffman. Miller struck out sixteen men and Miller five. A return game will be played at Somerville Decoration Day morning.

The crack nine of the Orange High School is booked to meet the team from the Plainfield High School on the Plainfield avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Orange boys have a strong team and have been making a good showing with the school nines in the vicinity of Newark. It will be its first appearance in Plainfield this year and a comparison with the local teams will therefore be specially interesting.

GOLF.

In addition to play for the Golf Committee cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course next Saturday afternoon, the preliminary round for the Chapman cup will be a feature.

RICHARD WATSON GILDER'S INSCRIPTIONS.

The Pen of the Gifted Editor Gives a Finishing Touch to the Exposition. He Proclaims a Prophecy and Pronounces a Benediction.

When the people of the two Americas visit the Exposition city just erected "by the great waters of the North," many will recognize the style of Richard Watson Gilder in the classic and poetic inscriptions which adorn its Propylæa, Stadium, bridges, palaces and temples. The Exposition was peculiarly fortunate in persuading the scholarly editor of The Century to put the finishing touch on the artistic masterpiece. Those who read the legends will feel that their author is a man who "has upheld the ideals of Liberty and Justice" and who throughout a laborious life now in its prime has been "faithful to the things that are eternal," one who "has never shunned the dust and sweat of the contest and on whose brow" already "falls the cool shade of the olive" and rests the wreath of the victor's laurel.

INSCRIPTIONS FOR THE PROPYLÆA.

PANEL I.

> Here, by the great waters of the north, are brought together the peoples of the two Americas, in exposition of their resources, industries, products, inventions, arts and ideas.

PANEL II.

DEDICATORY INSCRIPTIONS UPON PRINCIPAL BUILDINGS.

MACHINISTS' STRIKE EXTENDS TO POND'S.

appoint assistants if it becomes necessary. The names of the committees were not made public.

It is not at all improbable that the local manufactures will be forced to a conference within a short time. Pond's not being a competitive shop to the press works, there seems to be a division as to the mode of proceedure and a meeting will settle several matters.

MAY CLOSE SCOTT'S WORKS

No Change in Situation There—Mr. Scott Contemplates Closing all Departments.

No apparent change has yet manifested itself in the condition which existed yesterday in the great machine shops of the Scott Press Works. The strange silence still continues. The draughting, painting, carpentry and moulding departments, however, are as active as usual for there is no reason why they should be otherwise.

In the comfortable inner office connected with the works sat Mr. Scott, the owner, surrounded by his clerical force this morning. He did not seem disturbed over the situation presented. No negotiations, Mr. Scott said, had been made with the strikers and neither had any conferences been held by the local press works' owners.

In substance according to his statements Mr. Scott is resting on his oars and is prepared to keep the machine shops closed so long as the men desire to hold out. He says that he is considering shutting down in the other departments inasmuch as the material they now turn out needlessly accumulates.

Under present conditions no conference is likely to be held by the owners of the several local press works, declares Mr. Scott, and none has been suggested. Mr. Scott says that matters are in shape for him to take a vacation which he states he has not had for some time, and he declares that he is considering going away for the present.

STRIKE EXTENDS TO POND'S.

Two Hundred Machinists Quit Work There Shortly After Eight o'Clock.

In answer to the motion passed at the open meeting held last evening, 200 machinists at the Pond Tool Works dropped their tools shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and joined the strikers. But fifty machinists remained at work in the big plant at noon and nearly half of these were wavering. The others are men who believe in upholding their committee in the ageement made yesterday to wait until Friday for an answer from the company.

The men assembled at the factory at the usual hour this morning but the result of last evening's meeting was whispered about until every man was made aware of the motion asking them to come out before 8 o'clock. The original committee, consisting of Robert Gow, Robert Hangliter, William Newman and John Thompson, proceeded at once to the office to acquaint the officials with the situation. As they filed by the busy men, the cry went up "If you are not back by 8 o'clock, we quit the shop."

At 8 o'clock they had not returned, and there was soon a general stopping of machines. Fifty men walked toward the door, where they were soon joined by as many more. Outside the works a crowd of 200 men from the other shops was anxiously awaiting their appearance, and as the first man emerged he was greeted with a prolonged cheer. The others following in quick succession, and the joy of the outsiders knew no bounds. Before noon the total number out had reached nearly 300.

A few of the men are still at work, but the greater majority are remaining out. After much effort it has been impossible to reach anyone authorized to speak for the company as to the existing conditions and consequently no report has been obtained on its side of the situation.

FEW MACHINISTS WORKING

Potter Press Works Has Other Departments Working But May Close Down All of Them.

At the Potter Press Works the situation remains unchanged. The entire force of molders, pattern makers, and helpers are at work while about ten men remain in the machine shop. As long as the latter stay the factory will continue operations, although work is rapidly accumulating. The striking men are using all manner of persuasion with the non-sympathizers but as yet they show no outward signs of weakening. Still there is a possibility of them quitting work before the week is out and if so, the works will in all probability close down.

CAMPBELL'S STILL CLOSED.

The situation remains the same at the Campbell Press Works. Not one machinist has made his appearance at the shops. A few helpers are engaged in cleaning up the place, but with this exception there is no sign of activity about the establishment. No overtures have been made on eitheir side and none are expected.

AT THE ALUMINUM WORKS.

The situation at the Aluminum Plate and Press Works remained the same this morning. The same number of men are still at work, and thus far no overtures have been made by either side, although they are both hopeful.

NO SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE IN SIGHT; SHOPS CLOSED; STRIKERS PLAY BALL.

Press Works Have Completely Closed Down While Machine Shop At Pond's Is Not Running.

NO ATTEMPT MADE TO FILL STRIKERS' PLACES.

PRESS COMPANIES WILL AWAIT ACTION OF THEIR BIG COMPETITORS IN OTHER CITIES.

Officials Of Niles-Bement-Pond Company Cannot Get Together Until Friday—Meanwhile The Pastime Committee Has Provided Entertainment For Strikers—Two Baseball Games Played.

The third day of the strike of the machinists is now nearly over and there is no more prospect of a local settlement than there was when the men first quit work. No attempt is being made to run any of the local machine shops. The few men, who remained at work after the union men went out, have been laid off. At the Potter Press Works the fires were drawn last evening and all the men, except those in the clerical departments, told that work would be stopped for the time. At the Pond Tool Works the machine shop is quiet, but the foundry and the draughting room are still busy. No attempt is being made to do anything at the Scott Press Works.

The strikers have organized and their pickets surround all the shops. The pickets are under the charge of the strike committee, which is composed of three men from each shop. A pastime committee, composed of one man from each shop, arranged two baseball games yesterday afternoon to furnish some form of amusement for the strikers to keep them off the streets.

So far, nothing has been done to settle the strike as far as Plainfield is concerned. The officials of the local press works say that the competition in the printing press business is so close that they cannot raise the wages of the men unless the big concerns in the same line agree to do likewise. They are, therefore, waiting to hear from the latter. Superintendent J. T. MacMurray, of the Pond Tool Works, says that it will be impossible to get the officials of the Niles-Bement Pond Company together before Friday, so the decision of that company on the mooted question may not be expected before that time.

The men, as members of the International Order of Machinists, have really nothing to say. The question of arbitration rests with the national organization so the only thing that the local branch can do is to keep the men out of mischief and provide for them if in want.

Up to the present time, the only sign of disorder was a stone thrown through one of the windows at the Potter Press Works narrowly missing one of the men. The strikers have acted in an orderly manner and there has been no need for extra police protection.

No attempts have been made to fill the places of the strikers. A rumor was afloat last evening that a gang of non-union men was to be brought down from Bethlehem to work at the Pond Tool Works. Superintendent MacMurray made the statement this morning that the company was making no attempt to secure more men.

While the police have not yet been called upon to take any action, Chief Kiely is prepared to meet any emergency which may develop. He does not anticipate any trouble, however, unless an attempt is made to bring in non-union men from the outside, in which case he fears that some of the hot headed ones will make trouble.

NOTHING NEW AT SCOTT'S.

Mr. Scott Doesn't Think That His Men Have Treated Him The Way They Should.

There is nothing new to report from the Scott Press Works. Matters are unchanged as concerns that immense shop.

Mr. Scott exhibits the same serene appearance that has characterized his attitude ever since the strike was declared. He says that there is nothing new in the situation and he is willing to await the developments.

When seen by a Press reporter this morning Mr. Scott was in a jovial frame of mind. A good night's sleep and no cares to burden his mind, he said, made him feel very good. With emphasis, he declared that he cared not whether the men stay out one week or six months, as under the provisions of his contracts which contain a strike clause, he can not suffer much loss.

His sympathetic nature, he remarked, had been rudely shattered of late. Some years ago, Mr. Scott said, his works continued to run on full time when the others were either forced to close down entirely or run on short time. The Scott plant was then kept open so that the workingmen might not suffer. Some of the stock made at that time, he says, is still in the shop and it serves to remind him of the helping hand he extended to the men.

"The men whom I have befriended the most," said he, "seemed to be the first to desert. One old man to whom I gave employment on a request of a charitable organization toddled out with the rest much to my surprise," said the owner and continuing he said that he was at a loss to see where this aged workman could obtain employment. His gentle nature will not be in evidence in his future dealings with his employes.

Throughout the conversation Mr. Scott wore a smile. Today he goes to New York on a pleasure trip. No conference has been thought of nor will one be held between the press works owners, says he.

POND'S NOT LOOKING FOR MEN

Machine Shop is Shut Down—Mr. MacMurray Says It Is Up To The Men.

Although 250 machinists started work at the Pond Tool Works yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock, a thorough search at noon would have revealed but fifteen of that number. The others had straggled out by tens and twenties all through the morning, despite the fact that their committee was conferring with the officials in regard to the situation.

The quitting was not a concerted move but seemed to be contagious. A man would be engaged at his machine with every expectation of staying when suddenly his neighbor would throw down his tools and walk out. His action would be instantly followed by several others and the sight of their determined faces would prove too much for the man who intended staying and he would be at their heels

WARDEN HAWKINS IS AFTER BIRD SLAYERS.

Small Boys Must Stop Practice of Killing Song Birds With Their Flobert Rifles.

WARNED SOME OFFENDERS.

NEXT TIME WARDEN HAWKINS WILL TAKE SEVERE MEASURES.

Visited Town Yesterday on That Errand—He Found Body of Robin, Just Shot, in Tunnel of the Railway Station.

To check the pernicious habit of thoughtless boys in this neighborhood, who have been using Flobert and air rifles with destructive results of late, State Fish and Game Warden Charles M. Hawkins, of Roselle, is spending some days in this city at present, sounding notes of warning to these evil-disposed lads.

It has become a custom of the boys, in the spring especially, to arm themselves with one of the lighter weapons and to go on a hunt for robins and other birds, which the State has long seen the necessity of protecting from destruction. These birds are rapidly disappearing and because of the rapid decrease the State has adopted stringent measures to cope with the evil. The foregoing is the substance of the remarks made by Mr. Hawkins to a reporter of The Press last evening, when interviewed on the subject.

While in the city yesterday Mr. Hawkins made a vigilant search for some of these young vandals and met with some success. In a stroll between Front street and the mountain, he came across at least four youths, who carried Flobert rifles. He explained to them that they were violating the law in having in their possession the guns and gave warning that they could expect to be dealt with according to the provisions of the law should they be caught handling the weapons in the future.

When he had finished his trip about the city, Mr. Hawkins had occasion to pass through the tunnel at the North Avenue station. In that underground passage, he spied a young dead robin, still warm, with a broken leg and several slugs in its neck. From all appearances the bird had been killed shortly before. This state of affairs, he says, is what is met with time and again and it is to break up the nefarious practice that occasions his visit to this city.

In quoting the State law, Mr. Hawkins said that it is a misdemeanor to kill, catch or have in one's possession or to offer for sale the whole or any part of a bird, other than the regularly classified game birds, which are excepted. Notwithstanding this statute, violations, he said, are frequent and consequently he purposes to enforce the provisions of the law with the utmost severity.

Mr. Hawkins declares that he will return to Plainfield in the near future with the intention of opening an active crusade against these youthful destroyers of song birds.

BLOCK SIGNALS.

Are Now Being Installed on Middlesex and Somerset Company's Line.

The work of installing a system of block signals along the lines of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company was started several days ago. The system on the Milltown and South Amboy division is about completed and will be used this week. By this system long waits will be avoided and head-on collisions made impossible. It is operated by electricity, a current of which is controlled by a lever fastened to a pole at each switch on the line. There is also a light at each switch operated by the current.

When a car reaches a switch the motorman's first duty is to see whether the light is turned on. If it is, he must wait at the switch. If the light is out, the conductor turns it on by moving the lever. This also turns on the light at the next switch ahead and holds that car there until the other car passes it. Much time will be saved by the new system, and cars will not be compelled to lose so much time as under the old system.

Wouldn't Press Complaint.

John Callahan and William Ashton, the two boys arrested for stealing a ham from the store owned by the former's father, were released from the city jail yesterday afternoon after having been confined since morning. Mr. Callahan refused to press the complaint.

QUIET BOROUGH WEDDING.

MARRIAGE OF MISS MARY ADELAIDE LEWIS AND GEORGE W. BIRD.

Took Place at Home of Bride's Parents on Grove Street at Twilight Last Evening.

A quiet and unostentatious wedding was celebrated at twilight last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Lewis, of 148 Grove street, when, in the presence of a merry throng of friends, their daughter, Miss Mary Adelaide Lewis, and George W. Bird were pronounced man and wife.

The home had been prettily decorated for the joyous occasion. In the parlors, the walls were hidden with masses of blooming dogwood interspersed with white lilacs and other flowers which lent an air of cheerfulness.

In one corner of the front parlor, a bower of dogwood was tastefully arranged, and it was here that Rev G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church, performed the nuptial ceremony. Precisely at 7 o'clock, after the bridal party made its entrance, while Miss May Mulford, a friend of the bride, played the wedding march, the happy assemblage grouped themselves about the officiating clergyman and witnessed the impressive wedding ceremony.

When the benediction was said, the young couple received the congratulations of the large company of friends and then all repaired to the dining room where the dainty dishes of a choice menu were served to the guests.

The bride was gowned in landsdowne. John M. Lewis, Frederick C. S. Cutter and Armstrong Mulford were the ushers. There were no bridemaids. The bride received a goodly number of gifts, consisting mainly of Dresden china, cut glass and silverware, together with a handsome suite of furniture and household ornaments.

Mr. and Mrs. Bird left late in the evening for their wedding trip. On their return the young couple will reside at the bride's home on Grove street.

TROUBLE FOR TROLLEY.

Equity Proceedings Begun Against Johnson Brothers' Syndicate.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, May 22—Equity proceedings instituted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will delay the construction of the Johnson Brothers' syndicate trolley line between New York and Philadelphia.

In the bill filed it is alleged that the syndicate intends to operate a passenger and possibly a freight line under a coalition of franchises of railroads and railways, which is contrary to the general laws of the State, as well as against public policy. The purpose of the syndicate as alleged is claimed to have been unknown at the time the charter was granted.

The syndicate promoters claim that the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Union Traction Company, of Philadelphia, are back of this move to block its progress.

NO EXTRA SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Governor Voorhees Made Public Announcement Of That Fact Yesterday.

HIS REASONS FOR SO DOING

STATEMENT MADE IN LETTER TO NEWARK BOARD OF TRADE.

Extra Session Was Urged To Secure Legislation For Prevention Of Pollution Of Passaic River—Governor Gives Reasons.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, May 22—Governor Voorhees, in a letter to President Tompkins, of the Newark Board of Trade yesterday, announces his determination not to call an extra session of the Legislature, which was urged for the purpose of securing legislation for the prevention of the pollution of the Passaic river.

In his communication the Governor discusses the subject at length, saying that he considers it one of the most important which now confronts the State. At the same time he points out that the vastness of the proposition is such as to make unsafe any snap judgment. Having carefully reviewed the obstacles which prevented the desired action by the last Legislature, the Governor feels convinced that the same conditions would prevail should he call the lawmakers together again.

The Governor deplores the present state of affairs, but says that the failure of the Legislature to act was due to neither personal nor partisan motives. He suggests that the delay will not be entirely without beneficial results, as during the intervening time before the Legislature again meets the efforts of the press, except such as take a local or partisan stand, will develop a more general sentiment in favor of remedial legislation and cause a demand that the existing evils be abated. He also points out that on the lines mapped out by the State Sewerage Commission probably as much may be accomplished during the next ten months without further legislation as would be gained should the desired laws actually be passed now, which the Governor regards as practically hopeless.

HOUSE SOCIAL.

Given by Women's Missionary Society of Grace M. E. Church.

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace M. E. church held a social at the home of Mrs. J. E. Lowell, of Fairview avenue, last evening.

A musical entertainment was provided. Dyckman W. Winckler rendered some violin solos and Charles Adams entertained the assemblage with phonographic selections. Miss May Carney played a few piano solos.

During the evening a letter of thanks was read from a western missionary for a barrel of clothing donated by the society. Light refreshments were served to the guests.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY.

Friends Gave Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Middlesworth a Surprise Party.

A pleasant dual celebration took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, when Mr. and Mrs. John Goodman, of East Front street, observed the anniversary of their birthdays. The happy event occurs on the same date and their relatives arranged to give them a surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. VanMiddlesworth invited the celebrants to supper, and there they met a house-full of relatives and friends.

NEW WELL AT WATER WORKS.

IT IS TO BE USED IN CASE OF EMERGENCY.

Work of Digging It Will Start in a Few Days—Will Be 500 Feet Deep.

Preparations have been under way for a short time past to dig a new well at the Plainfield Water Supply Company station. The reason for this is that the company desire to have an extra well in case of emergency and they also want to learn how far down it is necessary to go to secure an abundant supply of water. This new well will be 500 feet deep. In view of the fact that the other wells are only fifty feet deep, one can imagine the work it will require to go 500 feet.

There is not the slightest danger of the water supply giving out, in fact, there is no apparent decrease in the supply from what it was when first discovered. It has often been said and it is generally believed that there is no end to the supply of water under Plainfield and in digging the new well the work will be attended with no little interest by those who are directly interested in the company. The machine is already set and in a day or two the work of digging the well will be started.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Members of Martha Washington Council, D. of A., Gave Entertainment Last Night in K. of P. Hall.

A musical and literary entertainment was given under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America, in Knights of Pythias Hall, last evening. There was a large attendance, including the members of Old Glory Council, of this city; Star of Elizabeth Council, of Elizabeth, a delegation from several councils in Newark. The members were honored with the presence of State Councilor A. H. Johnson, of Newark, and Vice State Councilor Miss Ida Blake, of Trenton. They both made short addresses of interest to all.

George B. Allen presided and announced the various numbers. There were recitations by W. R. Mattox, Samuel Allen, Miss Virginia Anderson and Miss Gussie Geyer. Mrs. John Manley sang a popular selection and Fred Kanen played mandolin solos, accompanied by Mrs. Buckley. Each number was well given and heartily applauded. After the entertainment refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

ENDED SEASON.

Members of Twentieth Century Euchre Club Spent Pleasant Evening.

The Twentieth Century Euchre Club met last evening, for the last time this season, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leek, of East Second street, and a very pleasant time was had by the members. HOPE CHAPEL BOYS BID HIM FAREWELL.

Farewell Reception Given To Rev. Fred B. Newman By Young Men's Association.

HELD AT THE CHAPEL.

MEMBERS GAVE AN ENTERTAINMENT DURING THE EVENING.

Mr Newman Was Formerly President Of The Association—Members Presented Him With a Valuable Set Of Books.

Wishing to bid their former president a formal farewell, sixty members of the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel tendered a reception to Rev. Fred B. Newman, who will leave in a few days to assume charge of his first pastorate at Trenton. Mr. Newman was instrumental in the formation of the association and has been a potent factor in its development ever since. He was always among the boys at their sports and games, and when the announcement came that he was to leave them, it was far from being welcome. But as a farewell was to be said, they chose last evening as the time when it was to be done.

The first part of the reception consisted of a vaudeville programme by association talent. Augustus Feiring, who possesses a splendid tenor voice, sang a pleasing solo in which all joined heartily in the chorus; Matthew Sweeney gave an original monologue which provoked much laughter; Irving DeHart sang and gave a one act tragedy in which he assumed three characters. At the close, Rev. G. K. Newell gave an appropriate address.

The new president, Judge William N. Runyon, spoke briefly and in conclusion informed the astonished Mr. Newman that the boys had something for him which would help him remember them far more than by a mere bidden farewell. He was then presented with a handsome set of useful books. Mr. Newman was greatly taken back but found words to thank the boys and, in parting, left a few excellent words of advice.

Under the auspices of the committee in charge of the affair, consisting of D. B. Martin, Ben Evans and Percival Hand, refreshments were served and before leaving for home the young men and a number of friends were photographed in the new gymnasium.

A committee comprising A. J. Stiglitz, Francis J. Blatz, George Kiertine, Dr. Dundon, H. P. Greenwood, was appointed to arrange an entertainment for the next meeting to be held June 4.

Bon Ami.

It is said that an observing grocer once remarked to a customer that there was needed in his community, a fine scouring soap. That the trouble with preparations then offered was that they scratched and actually wore out surfaces on which they were used. In fact the complaint so often made by housewives that nickel, copper and tin utensils were not as well made as they used to be, that is, did not wear or last as long, was due to the coarse scouring soaps used on them, and not to any change in the process of manufacturing these articles. True these coarse scouring soaps made cleaning somewhat easier than the use of water only, but at the expense of wearing out the articles cleaned. Therefore the need of a preparation that was coarse enough to clean and polish easily and at the same time fine enough not to wear out the surface on which it was used. From this observation of the grocer sprang Bon Ami, the finest cleaner made and which is of necessity the most economical cleaner made, not from the standpoint of the price per cake, but from the standpoint of the wear and tear saved on the articles cleaned.

Pan-American Baggage.

In view of the large quantity of baggage that will be checked to Buffalo during the Pan-American Exposition, and which will tax the terminal facilities of the railroad lines to the utmost, the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company gives to the public some valuable information and suggestions which it will be to the interest of all passengers to act in accordance therewith, viz:

First—That all baggage should be plainly marked with owner's name in full, and permanent or home address.

Second—In view of the crowded condition of baggage cars en route, and of the baggage rooms at the various stations in Buffalo, during the Pan-American Exposition, the checking of satchels and other hand-baggage should be avoided, and passengers should keep such in their possession. It is imperative that all baggage shall be in good order before it is checked at starting point.

Third—It is important that baggage be identified and checked by the owner at initial point. This should not be delegated to hackmen, expressmen or others, and in no case should it be done by an "obliging friend" or chance acquaintance, experience having demonstrated that in a large majority of cases, estrays, loss of baggage or other complications are the result of the failure of the owner to act for himself.

Fourth—Passengers should in all cases keep a memorandum of the check numbers and the full lettering of all railroad, omnibus or express checks, and the date and point at which they were obtained. Passengers should not give any baggage or baggage checks to an expressman unless a check or receipt is given by him in exchange, and as an additional security take his badge number as a means of identification if needed. Uniformed agents of the C. W. Miller Transfer Company will pass through all trains approaching Buffalo, or be at depots to give transfer checks in exchange for railroad checks in exchange for railroad checks for the delivery of baggage to all hotels, boarding houses and private residences.

Fifth—To avoid paying storage charges on baggage, bicycles, etc., passengers should arrange to have same claimed immediately on arrival and taken away.

Sixth—All baggage to be checked out, when delivered to the various stations in Buffalo, should bear a transfer or express claim check; or, if it does not, a depot claim check will be issued at the time the baggage is delivered at the station. It is important, therefore, that no baggage be delivered to any parties to be taken to station unless a claim baggage check is received in exchange, as this will enable the owner to claim the baggage at the baggage room. c

MACHINISTS GAINING

President O'Connell Predicts an Early Settlement.

MORE FIRMS GRANT NINE HOUR DAY

Some Shops Refuse to Yield to Demands of Strikers—Locomotive Works at Dunkirk Shut Down Indefinitely.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—President O'Connell states that the advices received at headquarters here indicate that an early settlement of the trouble between the machinists and employers will be effected. Information at hand shows that during yesterday over 120 firms had settled by granting the nine hour day.

Mr. O'Connell said that so far as he knew about 6,000 men are out in San Francisco and about 3,000 in Cincinnati. In Chicago nearly all the important shops have settled with the men. The reports from the south, he said, show that all through that section settlements are being effected.

Half the firms in Philadelphia, he said, have come to terms, and the others are expected to follow suit. There has been no news of a clash anywhere.

None of the government yards can be affected by the strike, as an eight hour day prevails in all government work. Word has reached the department that government employees are contributing funds in support of the strike movement, but no attention will be paid to this matter.

The Strike In Outside Towns.

NEW YORK, May 22.—More men went on strike in Newark, N. J., yesterday. They numbered 50 from three shops. One firm gave in, but the Crocker-Wheeler works closed its doors, as threatened. One hundred men refused to go to work in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western shops at Kingsland, N. J. Master Carbuilder Canfield arrived in Hoboken from Scranton, Pa. He refused to be interviewed regarding the situation beyond saying that the company had all the men it needed at all the shops along the line. At Jersey City the 40 machinists employed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey are out, and policemen are guarding the shops.

Locomotive Works Shut Down.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 22.—Because 700 machinists employed at the Brooks Locomotive works struck for a nine hour day and 12½ per cent increase in pay President Frederick H. Stevens directed Superintendent McNaughton to issue an order closing the works until further notice. This throws 2,600 men out of work. The Brooks company is one of the firms included in the American Locomotive company, and it is impossible to say how long the lockout will last. The locomotive works is the principal industry of the town, and its closing will be a serious blow to business men.

Cincinnati Strikers Winning.

CINCINNATI, May 22.—The strike situation here remains favorable to the strikers, six more firms having signed agreements with the union, and consequently about 100 more men will go to work at once. The drill hands and laborers and others in these shops who struck with the machinists will also return. This makes in all 20 shops that have signed the agreement, and it is said that a number of others are negotiating to the same end. There are still about 2,500 machinists out.

Crowley Gets Four Years.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 22.—The trial of Harold Crowley of Lockport, N. Y., son of ex-Congressman Crowley and a former employee of the postal department, on a charge of misappropriating postal funds was concluded at Ponce Saturday night after lasting two days. He was sentenced to four years' hard labor. It is probable that an appeal will be taken to the supreme court. At the time of his arrest last March it was alleged that Crowley had appropriated $370 of postal funds registered in Ponce and en route from Yauco to San Juan. The package was missed March 25, and Crowley intended to sail from San Juan March 27. He had previously borne an excellent reputation.

Money Package Missing.

KANSAS CITY, May 22.—A package containing $8,000 in currency was consigned two weeks ago by registered mail from the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City to a bank in Great Bend, Kan., and it has never been delivered. The officials at the postoffice deny any knowledge of the matter, but inspectors have been at work on the case since May 13, when investigation was made at Larned. It appears that the theft must have been committed in the postoffice at Kansas City, the registry branch at the Union station or at the postoffice in Larned.

Smallpox In New Jersey.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 22.—Imlay Gifford, 26 years old, is the fifth person to die from smallpox in Gloucester City. Three new cases were reported. South Amboy is much alarmed over the spread of smallpox. Harry Dowdell, a railroad employee, was the first victim, and now his four children are down with it.

NEW YORK, May 22.—George Foster Sandford of New Haven, a graduate of Yale and at present Columbia's football coach, was married yesterday afternoon at Asbury Park, N. J., to Miss Amanda Clow of that city. After their wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Sandford will reside in New Haven.

INSURGENTS ATTACK

Four American Soldiers Reported Slain.

A WEATHER BUREAU PROJECTED.

The Commission's Bill Virtually Continues and Supports the Present Jesuit Observatory at Manila.

MANILA, May 22.—The insurgents yesterday made an unsuccessful attack upon the village of Nacarlan, in Laguna province. A private of the Eighth infantry was killed in the engagement.

The official report of the recent engagement near Pasaco, in South Camarines province, says that three American soldiers were killed, and one native scout was captured.

General MacArthur has ordered reports from all the civil departments, preparatory to his own final report.

The commission has prepared a bill to create a new weather bureau. This bill practically continues and subsidizes the present Jesuit observatory in Manila. This bureau has always been competently administered and was supported by the Spanish government and was later financially assisted by the American military authorities. The professor in charge of this bureau will be appointed the new director thereof at a salary of $2,500 a year. The director will make all appointments to the auxiliary weather bureaus throughout the archipelago, subject to the civil service regulations.

Floods In North Carolina.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 22.—A special to The Observer from Asheville, N. C., says: "The heaviest and most disastrous rain fell yesterday in Asheville and the surrounding country that has visited this vicinity in years. Bottom land is ruined, and hillsides are yawning gulches. Bridges are gone, and many roads are impassable. The water is up to the floors in many dwellings and has reached the fires in the electric light plant. The city is in darkness. The waters of the French, Broad and Swannanoa rivers have reached the highest point on record. The water is a foot deep in the ice factory and flour mills. At Biltmore the Southern railway tracks were washed out of place and twisted into all sorts of shapes.

Brooklyn Tunnel Approved.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Both the board of aldermen and the council have approved the report of the railway committee on the Brooklyn rapid transit tunnel. The council also approved the report of the railway committee on the change of the Manhattan rapid transit tunnel route at Fort George unanimously, there being 24 votes in its favor. The Brooklyn tunnel will run from the end of the Manhattan tunnel at Park row along Broadway, State and Whitehall streets to the Battery, under the East river to Joralemon street, Brooklyn, to Fulton street, to Flatbush avenue, to the Long Island railroad station.

Bausch in the Woods.

NEW YORK, May 22.—A posse of citizens in command of Deputy Sheriff Carman and Constable Hults are searching the woods near Port Washington, on Long Island, for John Bausch, the slayer of Arthur Gschwindt. John Connors reported in the village that he had seen Bausch in the woods which border on the Port Washington road. Connors followed Bausch into the timber, but was soon reminded of his folly by the latter leveling his revolver at him and firing several shots. The woods are being surrounded and will be thoroughly searched for traces of the murderer.

ALBANY, May 22.—Governor Odell has honored the newspaper profession by selecting two of its members to be commissioners to the Charleston exposition to be held in December. Mott of Oswego, William Gorham Rice of Albany, S. Christy Mead and Simon Hess of New York city and Harrison L. Beatty of Bainbridge.

Floods In Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, May 22.—An unprecedented rain has fallen in upper east Tennessee, sweeping away bridges and washing out tracks of railroads. Trains from North Carolina are blocked. Trains from Chattanooga are also delayed by washouts at Athens. The last reports at 6 p. m. from points north and east of Knoxville state that the streams are swollen above anything ever known. All telephone and telegraph communication in that direction are now broken, and the wires are down.

Mrs. Bonine Held.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The coroner's inquest into the death of James Seymour Ayres, the young census office clerk who was shot and killed in the Hotel Kenmore last Tuesday night, ended at 1:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the jury brought in a verdict holding Mrs. Lola Ida Henry Bonine for the action of the grand jury. The jury says the fatal shot was fired in a struggle between Ayers and Mrs. Bonine.

Kept to Her House For Fifty Years.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Mrs. Hester Thorpe, widow of Frederick Thorpe, is dead at her home in Flushing, aged 72 years. Mrs. Thorpe had not been outside of her house for 50 years. She never saw the steam or trolley cars in Flushing. She was very suspicious of everybody and would not face people, but conversed with relatives with her back turned.

Kipling Loses His Suit.

NEW YORK, May 22.—In the suit of Rudyard Kipling against George Putnam's Sons for infringement of copyright on the "Outward Bound" edition of Kipling's works Judge Lacombe, in the United States circuit court, took the case from the jury, directing a nonsuit. COLONEL MILLS UPHELD.

War Department Stands by Head of West Point—Dismissals Ordered.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Secretary Root has approved the action of the board of officers at West Point which recommended the dismissal of five cadets and the suspension of six others. This sustains the course of Colonel Mills and the other officers in the recent disturbances at the academy.

Colonel Mills, superintendent of the Military academy, had a long consultation with the secretary of war relative to the affair. The papers in the case had been in the department for some time.

Superintendent Mills explained the condition at the academy, insisting that many of the published reports were exaggerated. The present difficulty grew out of the attempt to suppress hazing and the restrictions that have been made in this direction since Colonel Mills became superintendent.

The superintendent spoke in the highest terms of the cadets and thought it was only a question of a short time before the customary conditions would be resumed. The matter of discipline was in question, and that must be maintained.

The secretary was much interested in the statement of Colonel Mills. General Davis, the next judge advocate of the army, who recently has been stationed at West Point, was present during the greater portion of the interview.

The names of the cadets dismissed and suspended will be announced at the Military academy at noon today.

THE FIRST SPIN.

New Cup Defender Behaves Well on Trial Trip.

BRISTOL, R. I., May 22.—Up and down Naragansett bay yesterday the Belmont syndicate cup defender Constitution was put through her first paces and acquitted herself, as Mr. Duncan, her manager, said, most satisfactorily.

Starting out in a dying out westerly breeze, she showed herself an excellent drifter, while in the afternoon a fine southwester sent her scudding about the bay in a lively fashion, with little fuss and scarcely any feathery foam under her smooth bow or in her clean wake. Every point of sailing was tried. She was hauled flat on the wind, thrown about half a dozen times, given a good broad reach and finally sent home before the wind with her boom off to port, and at no time did she act listless or show any lack of speed.

It was a builder's trial and confined entirely to six or seven miles of deep water below Bristol harbor, no attempt being made to show her off to the Newport colony.

CUBANS TAKE NO VOTE.

Minority of Committee on Relations Change Their Base.

HAVANA, May 22.—At yesterday's session of the Cuban constitutional convention Senores Gualberto Gomez and Silva withdrew the minority report of the committee on relations and substituted for it the old majority report of the committee which was drawn up before the commission went to Washington and was signed by Senores Gualberto Gomez, Silva and Villuendas, but which was never acted upon by the convention because it was a rejection of the Platt amendment, particularly in respect of the right of intervention and the coaling stations.

Senor Sanguily made a bitter attack upon Senor Gomez and the radicals, asserting that the United States had always been fair and honorable in their dealings with Cuba, that the policy of the Washington government was to establish the republic and that the concessions asked by the United States were necessary to maintain the republic. He spoke for nearly two hours.

The convention adjourned without coming to a vote.

DEATH OF BOUTELLE.

Former Maine Congressman a Victim of Pneumonia.

BOSTON, May 22.—Former Congressman Charles A. Boutelle of Bangor, Me., died yesterday at the McLean asylum, Waverley, where he had been confined for a year with brain trouble. Death was due primarily to pneumonia, which developed last Sunday. Mr. Boutelle's daughter Grace, who has been at the head of the household since her mother's death in 1892, was at the bedside.

Mr. Boutelle was 62 years of age, and on his retirement from congress last winter was placed on the retired list of the navy as a captain, an office to which he was eligible by reason of civil war and congressional committee services. Three daughters survive.

Mr. Boutelle's illness dates from Dec. 21, 1899, when he was seized by a fit of unconsciousness while at a hotel in this city. He was carried to his room and later became delirious. At midnight it was announced that Mr. Boutelle was suffering from an attack of congestion of the brain, which, it was hoped, would be only temporary.

Later Mr. Boutelle was taken to his home in Bangor, but immediately returned to McLean asylum, where he has since remained. His mental condition, it is stated, had improved considerably.

Lake Erie Very Low.

OTTAWA, May 22.—Lieutenant Colonel Anderson, chief engineer of the marine department, who has just returned from a tour of inspection on the upper lakes, reports that the water in Lake Erie is lower than was ever known to be the case before, due to a series of dry seasons, the drain made by the power development works at Niagara falls and the fact that dredging in Tonawanda canal has made it easier for water to escape from the lake. Colonel Anderson thinks it is imperative upon the United States authorities to adopt some remedial measures at an early date, otherwise the lowness of the water will offer a serious obstacle to navigation.

General Porter Dead.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 22.—General Fitz John Porter died yesterday. He was taken suddenly worse Monday morning, but immediate collapse was not looked for until midnight, when it was seen that he could not long survive. Both his sons and his physician were with him when he died. His daughter did not arrive until later. Aside from his military and civic record and the various promotions for gallant conduct which he received during his career as a soldier and which brought General Porter before the public, the most prominent incident of his life was his dismissal from the army and the long and bitter fight which he waged for restoration.

Prominent Democrat Dead.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 22.—Wilbur F. Porter, mayor of this city and Democratic nominee for governor of this state in 1896, is dead, aged 68 years. Mayor Porter was born in Herkimer county, this state, and resided in this city nearly all his life. He was widely known as a criminal lawyer and counselor. He was six times chosen mayor, being the nominee of both parties one year. Governor Flower appointed him a member of the state board of claims, which office he held for six years. He was nominated for governor in 1896 by the regular Democratic organization, when the party was split on the money issue, and he was defeated.

CHILDREN REVIEWED

The President Addresses Fifty Thousand In San Francisco.

MRS. M'KINLEY'S HEALTH IMPROVING

Return Trip May Be Undertaken on Saturday if No Relapse Occurs. A Visit of Inspection to the Soldiers' Encampment.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—The convalescence of Mrs. McKinley is very rapid, and she is fast regaining her normal strength. She was able to sit up yesterday and read the papers. So marked is her improvement that it is very probable the presidential party will start for Washington next Saturday. If no untoward developments should occur, it is thought Mrs. McKinley will be able to endure the journey by that time.

President McKinley reviewed nearly 50,000 school children of this city. Both sides of Van Ness avenue from Jackson to Market streets were lined with cheering and enthusiastic children as the president and members of his party and local officials in carriages were driven from Jackson to Market and back the avenue to Jackson. The president was the recipient of a continuous ovation. Almost every child had been provided with a good sized American flag, and their voices and flags were worked in unison. Each little girl wore white, and most of them had red sashes. Thousands of the youngsters had large bouquets which they threw at the president as he passed along.

The avenue was rich in color. In addition to the thousands of flags carried by the children the residences were decorated with bunting and flags, and the school banners of silk bearing the names of every school in the city were conspicuous objects along the line of march. Half way between California and Sacramento streets the president's carriage brought up, and the other conveyances came to a standstill.

"Speech, speech, speech!" rang out along the avenue, and the children swarmed about by the thousands. President McKinley sat in his carriage, reaching down and shaking hands for several minutes. He finally rose and was greeted with cheers. The president spoke briefly, saying in part:

"I desire in a single moment to express the pleasure which has been given to me to meet the 45,000 school children of the city of San Francisco. It has given me an introduction into the countless homes of your great city and has permitted me to witness the sunshine which this vast number of young people bring to the firesides of the city. I know of no richer possession than the scholarship, no nobler ambition than to obtain it. We cannot all be great scholars, but we can all have good scholarship. I want to assure you young people that there is nothing so essential to your easy advancement and success in after life as a good education.

"Nothing has given me more pleasure in my long trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific than the scene which we have witnessed here. Every child waving the flag of our faith and our hope and every little heart filled with the love of country! What an army for liberty and union and civilization! Why, we have in the public schools of the United States fourfold more children than there were people when this government was founded, and all of them proud of their country, and all of them revering its institutions, and all of them meaning that when the time comes for them to take the responsibilities of administration they will be prepared to do their duty and pass along this free government with ever increasing virtue, intelligence and patriotism.

"I thank you and wish for all of you the realization of every worthy ambition."

After reviewing the school children President McKinley and party drove to the Presidio.

General Shafter and members of his staff were on hand to welcome the commander in chief, and he was escorted about the grounds and shown the camps where thousands of volunteers going to and coming from the Philippines have been quartered as well as the camps of the regulars.

Senator Grady Recovering.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Senator Grady, who was removed to a private sanitarium at Canandaigua, N. Y., toward the end of the last legislative session suffering from acute nervous troubles, will return to his home in this city, so his friends learned, in the first week in June. When asked how he felt, the senator is quoted as saying: "I never felt better. The rest has done me a world of good, and I hope to be home soon. I would go now were it not for the advice of my physician, Dr. McDonnell."

Children Eaten by a Bear.

JOB, W. Va., May 22.—The three young children of E. P. Porterfield of this place were found near the settlement of Canaan dead and mutilated. They had evidently been killed by a bear. Their skulls were crushed, their bones were broken, and the marks of the animal's teeth could be seen on what remained of their flesh. The bodies were so mangled that they were only recognized by pieces of their clothing.

Protection of Birds.

The damage often wrought by the small boys and the Flobert rifle is too well known to need rehearsing here. There exists in the mind of the small boy the one overwhelming desire to kill something and it is the poor sparrow or more valuable song bird which generally falls victim to that insatiable desire. There is a city ordinance which forbids the use of any firearm in the city limits. There is also a State law, the provisions of which are not generally known, however, which does not permit a person, under fifteen years old, to use any kind of a firearm except under very limited conditions.

It was to warn the youth of Plainfield and North Plainfield as to the provisions of the latter law that State Game Warden C. M. Hawkins visited this section yesterday. This time he came to warn. When he comes again, it will be to take more severe measures to enforce this law. The Plainfield boys do not differ from those of other cities. There are many of them who own Flobert rifles and who have violated this law many times.

For the benefit of those who may be interested in the exact provisions of this law, we print that section which refers to it. It is as follows:

"It shall not be lawful to sell, barter, exchange, hire or loan to any person under the age of fifteen years, any gun, pistol, toy-pistol or other firearms, or for any person under the age of fifteen years to purchase, barter or exchange any gun, pistol, toy-pistol or other firearms, nor for any person under the age of fifteen years to carry, fire or use a gun, pistol, toy-pistol or other firearms, except in the presence of his father or guardian, or for the purpose of military drill in accordance with the rules of a school; and any person offending against this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

The misdemeanor referred to is an indictable offence and the penalty therefor is a fine not more than $1,000, or imprisonment for not more than three years, or both at the discretion of the court.

Let, therefore, the youthful shooters of the city and borough take warning. A continuance of this practice is sure to mean a severe lesson for somebody. Parents should aid in the strict enforcement of this law and also in preventing the wholesale destruction of song birds by these youthful gunners, who are old enough, according to law, to be trusted to handle a gun.

The third day of the great strike of machinists is nearly over and still no settlement has been reached as far as the local shops are concerned. The only change in the situation yesterday was the successful attempt on the part of the strikers to call out the machinists employed at the Pond Tool Works. As each day passes, the situation in Plainfield becomes more and more serious. While local conditions are not responsible for the strike which extends all over the country, the effects are felt here such as strongly by both employers and employes as anywhere else. Let, therefore, both bosses and men use every means to bring about a peaceful and prompt settlement. And until that settlement comes, let the men now out of employment be particularly careful to avoid any possible trouble.

The members of the congregation of the Crescent Avenue church evidently appreciate the good work that is being done at the various chapels by the way in which they contributed to the fund for the current expenses of the chapels. The collection for that object was taken last Sunday. The amount asked for was $4,500 and almost that sum was contributed at once. There were a number who were not present at the service and who will want to add their share so that there is no chance but that the amount will be fully made up.

One of the most delightful outings which are possible for the young men and boys of Plainfield are the state Y. M. C. A. camps for boys which are held annually, one in the hills of Sussex county and the other on the shores of Lake Champlain. These camps have already been very popular with Plainfield boys and will undoubtedly see a number from this city during the summer. The management of the camps is particularly desirable and the surroundings are healthful both morally and physically.

"Absent-minded," would be the mildest term we could use to apply to the man who put all the fuel in his furnace and neglected to apply the match, remarks Prosperity. The merchant who fills his store with goods and does not advertise has the disease in a more dangerous form.

The employes of the Hibbard-Bodman-Ely Safe Company are highly pleased with the situation at that factory. The owners of that concern decided, without any demand from the men, to grant the nine hour day with ten hours' pay.

The Monday Afternoon Club has concluded its meetings for the season. That organization of Plainfield's women is one of the most successful of any of its kind in the State and its meetings during the past winter have been very successful.

If the word of the officials of the weather bureau holds good, this section will have its first real hot wave of the season before many days are over.

Some exciting baseball games are promised on local diamonds this week.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It would cost a little trouble and expense for the trolley companies to take in their open summer cars during the cold and drizzling weather, and only a few funerals will result from keeping them in use. So people ride, shiver, sicken and die.—New York Herald.

The Freeholders of Mercer county and the Delaware and Raritan Canal people have reached a compromise, under which the canal will be closed Sunday from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. This concession is the result of the protests of the ministers, who are expected to be placated by the fact that the employes will now have a chance to go to church.—Newark News.

After serving the New Jersey Central Railroad Company for nearly fifty years, H. P. Baldwin has retired from the position of general passenger agent, of his own accord. The company has pensioned him for the balance of his life, in recognition of the most valuable services he has rendered to that corporation. Mr. Baldwin, more than any other man, is deserving of credit for the beautiful chain of suburban homes along the Central road by carefully considering the needs of the commuters and giving them a train service unexcelled. He has certainly earned a right to spend the remainder of his days at ease, in the full enjoyment of which he will have the best wishes of the many newspaper men along the Central lines, to whom he has always accorded every possible courtesy.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. SUNDAY-SCHOOL GAVE SOCIAL.

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR HELD AT PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Was Arranged For the Members of the Sunday-School—Enjoyable Programme Given.

The Sunday-school social held last evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church was the first of the kind ever given for the Sunday-school. It was a complete success, a large number of the members of the main school and of the home department being present. John Peters, of New York city, sang several baritone solos, which were greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Miss Arline Brown and Martin Stutzman, members of the school, held the close attention of all with several comic recitations, and they were obliged to respond to an encore. Mrs. Fred V. Green presided at the piano, rendering several solos during the evening.

At the conclusion of the programme the school entered heartily into the games proposed for their amusement, the younger ones being led in thier sport by Mrs. E. Frank Vail. The evening closed with refreshments, cake and ice cream, which were served in abundance.

Such a marked degree of success attended the efforts of the superintendent of the school, George E. Hall, and the entertainment committee, that these socials will doubtless be continued in the fall. The committee was composed of Miss Bessie Giles, Aaron D. Thompson, Jr., E. Frank Vail and Joseph M. Hawkins.

FOR ENDEAVORERS.

Interesting Side of the Work Being Carried on by Young Christians.

(Conducted by Press Department Union County C. E. Union.)

Tuesday evening, May 28, the Union County Christian Endeavor Union will hold its spring rally in Westminster Presbyterian church, Elizabeth. The programme will also include the annual election of officers and other business incidental thereto. The executive committee is arranging a very pleasing programme and has been fortunate in securing for the speaker Rev. L. R. Dyott, first vice-president of the New Jersey C. E. Union. Rev. Mr. Dyott has recently severed his connection with the First Methodist Protestant church, Newark, to accept a call to the pastorate of a Congregational church in Brooklyn. He is well and favorably known as a Christian Endeavor speaker and the announcement that he is to make an address always attracts large audiences. It is believed that the county rally on the 28th will be no exception, and Endeavorers can materially assist the committee by making their friends acquainted with the fact that the meeting is to be held. Three-minute reports from the heads of departments in the county organization will be given, and there will be special music of a pleasing character.

Richard Barkalew, of Newark, has spent several days in Plainfield at the home of his brother, L. E. Barkalew, of Lincoln place, and at the home of his niece, Mrs. Fred D. Dunn, of Sandford avenue.

GROOM FROM PLAINFIELD.

COUPLE QUIETLY WEDDED BY JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

Appeared in Office at Jersey City—Wanted to Wed on the Quiet—Groom Was J. F. Ackerman.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, May 22—The first marriage ceremony performed in the new office building of the Commercial Trust Company took place Monday in the office of Stebbins & McCoobery. Justice of the Peace Joseph McCoobery tied the knot. The couple said they were Miss Elvina Strange, of Roselle, and John F. Ackerman, of Plainfield. The witnesses were Louis A. Bossell, a professor of elocution, and John J. McNamara, of the Pennsylvania ferry service.

"Say," said the bridegroom, whose mustache was just beginning to bud, "we want to get married on the quiet, and don't want anything published. Everything is all right, though, and you can go ahead."

Justice McCoobery put the usual questions and received satisfactory answers.

"Mind," said the bride, "don't say a word about this."

The bride gave her age as twenty-three years, and the bridegroom admitted having lived twenty-one years.

Both were well dressed.

After the ceremony Justice of the Peace McCoobery kissed the bride.

"It's usual," he explained to the bridegroom, as he noted the surprised look on the latter's face.

"Here's your fee," said Mr. Ackerman, as he handed the Justice a $2 bill. "To tell you the truth, if I gave you more I would not have freight home," he added.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Despite the fact that there were many persons wha suffered as a result of the troubles in the stock market recently, there were a few who managed to come out ahead. One Plainfielder counts himself a lucky man in this respect. He purchased a good-sized block of Northern Pacific and sold it fifteen minutes later, making a clean $25,000 on the deal. The lucky man does not make a practice of dealing heavily, but his keen eye won him a nice bonus and he is congratulating himself.

. . . . . .

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, in commenting on his career as a journalist, has testified to his indebtedness, as a man of many modes of activity, to the training which journalism gives one by teaching him to observe, to describe accurately what he observes, and that promptly. In short, he holds that precision and range of sight foster insight. Swiftness and accuracy in forming and expressing opinion save time, lesson friction, and enhance authority. Dr. Hale's rules for writing are these:

1. Know what you want to say.
2. Say it.
3. Use your own language.
4. Leave out all fine passages.
5. A short word is better than a long one.
6. The fewer words, other things being equal, the better.
7. Cut it to pieces.

LITERARY.

The Smart Set for June opens with a $1,000 prize novelette entitled "The Middle Course," by Mrs. Poultney Bigelow. Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood contributes to the number a very timely article, "The Wandering American." A humorous and intensely readable story is "The VanKuyper Verdict," by Fanny Gregory Sanger. Gelett Burgess contributes an amusing story, "The Midnight Matchmaker," and there is a scintillating article by Edgar Saltus entitled "Vanity Square." Harriet Prescott Spofford writes a strong psychological study, "The Conquering Will," and a unique and fantastic $100 prize story is "In My Wife's Eve," by John Regnault Ellyson. There are two stories by titled contributors in the number, "The American Widow," by Prince Vladimir Vaniatsky, and "Of Many, One," by Baroness von Hutten, both clever and entertaining tales. The poetry of the number is exceptionally readable.

Your Child's Eye Sight.

You are responsible for the sight of your child. Watch out for frowns, for squints, and when he reads or looks at a picture book does he hold it too near or too far? These little things grow faster than the child and in many cases can be overcome if discovered in time.

We especially insist on you bringing the children in.

You may save them a lifetime of strain and weak sight. Defects of vision never disappear of their own accord and in most cases grow worse. It's not much trouble to be sure your Eyes are right.

GOVERNOR ALLEN'S REPORT.

Suggestions as to Form of Government—Congressional Action Upheld.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Governor Charles H. Allen of Porto Rico has presented to the president, through the state department, his first annual report. The governor expresses the opinion that a scheme of colonial administration such as is followed in the Danish, French and English West Indies might be safely instituted, with variations dependent upon the future policy of the home government. The governor refers to the many suggestions offered that the form of territorial government adopted in the United States be applied to Porto Rico, but points out that a standard form of such government, while useful in the United States, would not apply successfully to this island possession. He calls attention to the fact that, while in such close proximity to the United States, Porto Rico has been a comparatively unknown island to Americans.

"I feel as the result of a year's close study on the spot of all the conditions surounding the problem," says Governor Allen, "that congress went quite as far as it could safely venture in the form of government already existing on the island, and as the result of such experience and observation I fully believe, with good men devoted to the work, the island will develop faster under such form, its people through experience and education will advance more rapidly in their knowledge of civic virtues under a guidance of present methods, than could be gained in any other way."

In conclusion Governor Allen urges the introduction of fresh blood and Anglo-Saxon push and energy as the means of lifting the little island out of its lethargy and by thrift and industry develop its riches to their fullest measure.

No Special Session.

TRENTON, May 22.—Governor Voorhees has sent a lengthy letter to President Tompkins of the Newark board of trade explaining his decision not to call a special session of the legislature. The calling of a special session had been requested by the Newark board of trade with the purpose of securing the passage of an act providing for a district sewerage commission for a district comprising municipalities in Essex and Passaic counties bordering on the Passaic river. The commission was wanted with power to abate the nuisance of the pollution of the Passaic river. Governor Voorhees in his letter recognized the importance of the legislation desired, but reminded Mr. Tompkins that the bill introduced last winter by Senator McCarter to accomplish the desired purpose was defeated in the house. The governor said that from investigation he had made he was satisfied a bill could not be passed if a special session was called.

Connecticut Legislation.

HARTFORD, May 22.—At the session of the general assembly yesterday the senate passed a bill placing a tax of 1 per cent on the stock of all private corporations except savings banks and charitable and religious institutions. The bill giving property of persons dying intestate to parents instead of to brothers and sisters, as is now the practice, was passed in concurrence with the house. The house passed the voting machine bill permitting towns to purchase and use voting machines and establishing a voting machine commission. A measure appropriating $450,000 for public road improvements was also passed. The chairman announced to the house that the total biennial appropriations of the session already amount to $5,612,150, which is $267,000 more than the estimated receipts and nearly $686,000 more than was appropriated in 1899.

New Boer Invasion.

LONDON, May 22.—A dispatch from Middelburg, Cape Colony, says an important concentration of the Boers is proceeding in the Zuurberg. Many fresh invaders are crossing the Orange river in Cape Colony, and Commandant Fouche has also joined the burghers in that district. The total strength of the Boers in that district is estimated at between 1,000 and 1,500. There is an unconfirmed rumor that General Christian De Wet is again in command of the Boer invaders. The British military officers are cognizant of the movements of the Boers and are prepared for them. A dispatch from Cape Town says Commandant Kritzinger, with 200 men, has passed through Colesberg. It is also said that General Hertzog's commando has been without bread for five months.

Lived With Fractured Skull.

NEW YORK, May 22.—After walking about with a fractured skull for two weeks before he felt ill effects from the injury Adolph Johnson of Brooklyn died in the Long Island College hospital yesterday, and Michael Thorpe, a liquor dealer, was arrested and arraigned in police court, charged with giving Johnson the blow that caused his death. Thorpe denied striking Johnson with any intent to seriously injure him, but he was held without bail for further examination.

The Boy and the Dog.

There is no truer friendship than that of the boy and the dog. There are no happier days to which the grown man may look back with a tender regret for their passing than the days spent in the old home fields with the faithful four-footed companion of youth. Confidence between boy and dog was perfect. The dog perhaps was not a thoroughbred, and had come into the world minus a pedigree, but the boy accepted him for what he was, and in the blessed ingenuousness of youth may even have found an occasion of added pride in the dog in some characteristic which he now knows was highly to the animal's discredit as determined by the bench show standards. And as for the dog, on his part, too, he took the boy for what he was, asking of him no more than that he should condescend to make of himself a demigod for unstinted confidence, affection and worship. If the scientists would devise a way to represent the carefree happiness of boyhood days in some equivalent of foot-pounds, the amount of it justly accredited to the companionship of boy and dog would be expressed in many tons.—Forest and Stream.

An Honest Race.

"Well, gentlemen," said the commercial traveler, "I never hunted bear myself, but I heard a story the other day of some fellows who found one up in Montana.

"They were prospecting right up in the big bear country, but they let the bear alone, and the bear let them alone. One night they camped in a deep canyon, and while one was cooking supper the other started out with his shotgun to get some birds. Lots of birds up there. So tame you can almost kill them with a stick.

"Pretty soon the man with the shotgun ran up against a grizzly, and Mr. Grizzly was mad about something, and started for him. The man hit the trail hard for camp, the bear right after him. When the fellow who was cooking the supper heard the landslide coming down the mountain, he saw what was up and grabbed his gun to shoot. But he was afraid to shoot for fear of hitting his partner, so he couldn't do anything but yell.

"'Run, r-u-u-n!' he howled, dancing around to try to get a shot.

"'Run!' panted the other fellow. 'Run? You fool, do you think I'm throwin' this race?'"—Portland Oregonian.

A farmer in Matagorda County, Texas, who had suffered from indigestion for nearly five years, had the good fortune to have a wife who had tried Ripans Tabules and who recommended them to her husband. In speaking of his former digestive troubles he says: "After eating, my stomach would become distended and food become sour. I was also troubled with palpitation of the heart. After I had taken two or three Tabules that fullness disappeared, and I have never since felt the least symptoms of palpitation of the heart. My wife, who was troubled with headache, tired feeling and colic, says she felt better after taking the very first Tabule."

Fashions For Brides

WHEN roses bloom right outdoors in the garden, then is the time for brides—that is to say, for the plain, everyday brides without any nonsense, for there are what one may call hothouse brides who would not care to be married at all unless they could have orchids and imported orange blossoms and nightingales' tongues for the wedding breakfast. And with this kind of a bride there must be a veil so old that it is ready to fall to pieces, and this must have belonged to the family for many generations, and probably it has done service, but in what particular family deponent saith not. There are so much humbug and hypocrisy in this poor old world!

Anyhow, sweet a bride is because of her utter trust and her hopes and belief. We all have for her a kind of sympathy, and any bride holds court like a newly crowned queen. We all wish that her reign may be long and peaceful. Well, here is one of them, and she is dressed in the prettiest of gowns and looks as sweet as the bride always should. The dress is of the new lansdowne in a creamy white, the real and not the sleazy imitation which really makes more elegant dresses than any silk save the very heaviest of peau de soie. The skirt is lined with white taffeta to give it the requisite fullness in the draping.

It is made with a demitrain and is smooth and plain in front and has the back laid in two double box plaits. The taffeta skirt lining has a full balayeuse of stiff net with ruffles of lierre lace each side and tacked to the net. The plain waist is pointed in front and back and is laced in the back. There is a drapery of white tulle across the waist, and this forms a small rosette and then falls to the bottom of the skirt, being shirred and gauffered at intervals. It is like a sash. The sleeves are plain, with a little silver galloon at the neck and wrists. A pretty bunch of orange blossoms fastens the tulle at the left shoulder, and another one is placed at the top of the head. From this the misty veil falls to the bottom of the dress. Tulle is prettier than the richest lace for this purpose, and it can be used afterward to make such dainty hats and all sorts of ties and things.

Frocks for bridesmaids depend much on the future use to which they are to be put. All that is required is that they should be of some bright, pretty color and in that way set the bride's dress off by contrast. If there are several, they should each have a different color and yet all be dainty and not overshadow the bride. All wedding dresses, even for the most formal home weddings, are made high in the neck, and good taste suggests the same for the bridesmaids. There are so many dainty lace effects for the neck which, while covering it, still give as dressy and formal effect as one could desire at any wedding.

FOR CHURCH WEAR.

The bride wears two button gloves and white kid slippers, and all her lingerie is white and as lavishly trimmed with lace as her means will allow. But somewhere hidden away there must be a knot of blue ribbon, and she must wear a borrowed garter, which, to insure real happiness, should be yellow. Those who believe in the "evil eye" or evil influences are to have a clove of garlic secreted somewhere, and nothing can harm. This clove of garlic must not be peeled, but just broken loose carefully from the parent bunch. If it should get broken or by any mischance peeled—well, its evil influence would manifest itself another way. It is considered strong enough to put all the evil influences to flight while unbroken, but I fancy the good ones would take flight, too, in the other case. Many more brides than we know of wear a clove of garlic.

Why the Judds Concluded Not to Move This Spring.

Tactful Chicago Housewife Sees a Luring Advertisement and a Letter Is Written—And Then a Reply Comes.

With the first breath of spring came the moving fever into the home of J. Rutherford Judd, says the Chicago Chronicle. For five years furniture vans annually had passed his door. To be sure there had been changes above, below and to the right in the Shore apartment building, but the lares and penates of the Judd establishment had remained permanent. Little Mrs. Judd was the first to succumb to the fever. It came in at the front door with the daily paper. In a moment of idle curiosity she looked over the "to-rent ads." and her serene mind was disturbed. Without her husband's knowledge she clipped the luring lines which beckoned to a finer suite of rooms.

There was one more room to be had and the rent was the same, to say nothing of the more finished attractions which the real estate agent set forth. It was just what the Judd family needed, as the children were growing, and the extra room would fill all requirements. She would not count the alcove room in her own flat for a room, although it was not much smaller than the parlor.

Having come to the conclusion that the household gods must be disturbed, she proceeded in a woman's way to convince her husband a change was necessary. So tactful was she that the man never suspected he was being led, and he assumed all the responsibility for suggesting the scheme. The same "ad." appeared a few days later, and Mr. Judd read it this time and came to his wife in triumph to tell of his discovery.

The location of the house was not given definitely, but it was in the same neighborhood. This would be fortunate, as it would save hauling of furniture a distance as well as leave them near their friends. No other address than "P. O. Box 36" was given. A letter was framed and sent. "For rent" signs appeared in the front window to keep company with those in the flat above. The Judds discussed the new home and enlarged on the flattering plans which the real estate genius had drawn.

"It's the funniest thing, I can't seem to locate that flat the fellow advertises," said Judd at the breakfast table. "I am certain I have seen it or dreamed about it or something, for it seems so familiar."

"Well," answered his wife, "I hope we get an answer to-day, for it is getting near the first of the month. I feel as if we had the place rented and had moved in, for I have planned where we shall put our things, and I am going to finish the extra room in blue."

That afternoon Mrs. Judd looked over the mail, but did not find the answer she was hoping for. There were two letters she did not open, for they evidently referred to business, and she was supposed to leave that to the head of the family. One had the name of the landlord in the upper corner and the other was a bill. When Judd came in at night his first question was about the new place, but he was disappointed. After supper he glanced over his mail. He looked at the bill and opened the letter from the landlord. In so doing a newspaper clipping fell unheeded to the floor. Mrs. Judd picked it up.

"Why, here's the 'ad' we answered," she said, recognizing the slip. Judd did not reply, as the letter seemed to be interesting. His wife leaned over his shoulder and they finished the letter together, then looked each other in the face, finally laughing as the truth filtered to them. Judd did not move nor did his wife say "move" even to her intimate friends, for this was the letter:

"Yours received in reference to inclosed clipping. If you prefer the flat above yours you can have it for the same price. It is similar to yours in every respect except the wood finishings, which are done in cherry, yours being in oak."

Vacant Lot Cultivation.

Vacant lots have been successfully cultivated in Philadelphia under the direction of the Philadelphia Vacant Lots Cultivation association. During the past years gardens were provided for 480 families, consisting of 2,486 persons. The aggregate receipts from the various farms showed a total of $24,560. This is six times the amount expended by the association on the lands. Five families became so adept at gardening that their savings have enabled them to hire ample farms of their own. Thirteen families were given Belgian hares for experiment last year, and the successful results attained will cause the association to take up this line of industry on the farms this year.

Professional Cycle Racing Will Be Popular This Summer

THIS is to be the banner year for cycling. Despite the gradual falling off in the membership of the League of American Wheelmen and the loss of public interest in road races and amateur meets, the close student of the situation cannot help seeing that professional cycle racing is going to prosper this season. Setting a minimum of the patronage that will be given to these cycling meets, the fact remains that many racers will make good money. Their compensation is assured by the control of the sport by the officials of the National Cycling association. If the promoters of the meets do not make money, there will be others who will finance the undertakings.

One of the members of the board of control of the N. C. A., George Greenburg, recently said that he thought there would be more money raced for by speedy professionals this season than ever before. Last year, although the average reader of sporting news did not realize it, the amount given to racers was greater than at any season since 1895. The N. C. A. will issue permits this year for nearly 1,000 race meets. There are 23 tracks in the United States that will give meets. Some of these courses will have weekly meets. Especially strong is the sentiment in favor of these meets in the east. While Mr. Greenburg was in attendance at the annual meeting of the N. C. A. he was approached by a race meet promoter who was anxious to get an exclusive privilege to hold meets in a Rhode Island city. The enthusiastic promoter offered Mr. Greenburg $1,000 if he would vote for the franchise and foil a rival bidder.

Letters in the offices of the N. C. A. board of control members indicate that the three great holidays of the season, Memorial day, Independence day and Labor day, will be occasions for the racers to earn big money and for the spectators to see a revival of cycle racing. Applications have been made for 75 big meets for these days, and probably there will be as many minor affairs. Last year over 200 minor meets were given sanctions. There will be 32 meets in the grand circuit this year. A conservative estimate of the value of prizes, both money and trophy, to be distributed to the pedalers this season places the sum at $300,000. During last year the "profs" gathered in a known total of $110,000 and the amateurs raced for about $45,000 worth of medals, diamonds, etc.

There is another matter that shows which way the straws are pointing—the manufacturers of wheels have suddenly resurrected their dormant interest in racing men, and this year will pay the usual salaries to cyclists who pedal their wheels about the circuit. Furthermore, the dealers, who have had to adopt aggressive methods of advertising to move the big stock of machines stored in their rooms, will revive their old policy of fostering the sport at minor meetings by donating prizes.

Cyclists who follow pace and provide the best entertainment for the public will divide about $190,000 as their share of the season's plums. The sprint riders will have about $56,000 in sight for their reward, and the amateur pedalers will have guarantees of about $60,000 worth of trinkets, gold medals, diamonds, etc. There are about 100 men whose entire time is devoted to becoming proficient in handling the motors that furnish pace for the expert riders. It is estimated that these daring fellows will earn about $60,000 this season. To be assured of profit the promoters of the circuit and city meets will have to take over $300,000 from the patrons of the sport.

If the pace followers were to be asssured of large purses everywhere and small expenses they would be a favored lot of young men. But it is doubtful whether the best of them will net more than $2,000 each for the season's risks in pedaling around the high-banked tracks and following those ponderous motors. Harry Elkes, the Glens Falls boy, will have two racing teams of motor men this season. John Nelson, the Chicago lad who has amazed thousands with his marvelous riding; Jimmy Michael, the "Welsh Rarebit," who appears to be a perennial winner on the wheel; Will Stinson; Archie McEachren, the Canadian; A. W. Ross; Floyd McFarland, the big Californian; Tom Cooper, the former champion, and now an owner of considerable property at Detroit; A. A. Chase and A. E. Walters, the Englishmen; Nat Butler and Eddie McDuffie, of Boston; Charles Turville, and Eduoard Taylore, the Frenchman, all will have high-salaried pacemakers with them on their trips about the country.

Frank Waller, Jimmy Moran, Johnnie Lake and other wonderful riders will each have a small army of pacemakers in their outfits. The make-up of several of these pacing teams has been announced. But the men, as a rule, are not former experts on the single wheel. They are "just born pacemakers."

The edict has gone forth that the riders of wheels this year who want to appear in good form will observe conservatism both in color and design of their apparel. Loud checks,

HARRY D. ELKES.
Middle-Distance Cycle Champion of the World.

bright colors and dazzling hosiery are tabooed. Dark colors and genteel styles will be the order. For men the rule will be a sack coat of blue black, pants of a very modest check or solid color, dark stockings with just a trace of color in the roll, low shoes, patent leather or tan; leather belt (black) and madras shirt with attached collar and a dark tie.

The style for women will be shirt waists, Eton jackets and skirts of dark cloth, the skirts to reach well down to the ankle; black stockings and low shoes, tan or patent leather. Men will wear caps of the golf pattern, but modest in color, and the women will suit their tastes in headgear. But the leaning of the style setters is toward the Alpine pattern of hat.

It is taken for granted that a very large percentage of the trade in wheels are now in the hands of the combination formed to dominate the wheel world in the United States. When I wrote to an official of this combination to request information on the probabilities of the trade for the coming season I received the following reply:

"Based solely on facts, the statements that the aggregate sale of American bicycles will be from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. larger this year than was that of 1900 may be safely accepted by the most conservative trade critics. Further than this, the demand from all quarters for the highest grade wheels is to a most satisfactory extent largely in excess of such demand in 1900. More $50 wheels and fewer $25 wheels of the chain type and from 20 to 25 per cent. more chainless wheels will be sold this year than has been the case since these two grades were adopted as standard, or since the advent of the chainless wheel. These are the facts, as near as we can arrive at them, by orders from agents in various parts of the country. The causes are easily arrived at by those who have watched the development of the trade in the last two seasons."

The combination officials say that bicycles were never so well nor so economically constructed as now; the system of producing and marketing them was never so nearly perfect, and where formerly manufacturers, stimulated by the lash of competition, were playing at cross purposes to their own disadvantage and at the cost of the purchaser, the cycle building industry of the United States is to-day under the control of one great corporation that claims for its products all of the virtues that a book agent would for his wares.

It also must not be overlooked that the greatest cycle meet of its kind ever held in the country is scheduled for the first two weeks in August in connection with the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo. Entry blanks, even at this early day, are in the hands of Director of Sports J. E. Sullivan, and soon will be sent out to every cycling headquarters in the known world. All of the National Cycling association's championships for amateurs will be decided upon the track at the stadium. It will take a week of good sport to conclude these races.

Following the amateurs, who will get gold and silver wreaths as trophies, will come the professionals. The "profs" of Europe and the Antipodes have been informed of the money that may be earned at this meet and arrangements will be made to see that the championships, both for the N. C. A. and the world, will be well filled and hotly contested.

GOLF.

While the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club did not have the best weather for opening the season of golf, that popular club is now fairly started with its schedule of events. To make sure of an event each Saturday, the golf committee placed a cup in competition for play each Saturday during the season, to be won on the point system. Already the interest is on the increase in this competition, and before it is concluded there is sure to be some of the best playing ever witnessed on the course.

To be sure some of the best players who are now at college have not had an opportunity to play for this cup, but a few of the club's best golfers are in the race in earnest. While Townsend Rushmore has not been in the class of those who play par golf, he has this season developed into a most excellent player and is holding his own among the leaders. He and Mrs. N. P. Rogers and Howard C. Tracy are tie for first honors with three points each. Each one of the leaders has started in early and thereby improving the time for getting in good form for warm weather. H. R. Stockton holds second position, while Howard Wright, A. G. Henderson, Howard Huntington and E. A. Stevenson each have 1 1-2 point. W. L. Glenny is last with one point.

It must be considered, however, that Glenny plays from scratch, while some of the others have fat handicaps. Glenny is sure to be heard from later on, and if he does not give some of contestants a lively time his many friends and admirers will be greatly surprised. Then there is Frank Talmage, Frank Reinhart, Messrs. Fisk, Whitney Baker and several others numbered among the younger players who are yet to be heard from. They will undoubtedly make an effort to lower the best score and they will be heard from in many of the events. An encouraging sign this year is the interest taken in golf by the older members who are constantly improving their game.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Yale is the prime mover in a project for the organization of an interscholastic athletic association on a big scale. Capt. Ficke, of the track team, has started the plans a-going and it is proposed to take in preparatory schools in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. This territory includes many of the most prominent athletic feeders of the big colleges, among them being Lakeville, Lawrenceville, Berkeley, Pingry, Cutler. Penn Charter and many others just as well known. Twelve schools have joined the association, and the first meet will be held at New Haven on Decoration Day.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Park baseball team, composd of an active lot of youngsters, is planning to defeat all teams they play this season. Monday afternoon they played the Nischwitz team and defeated them 34 to 7. The battery for the Park team was Barlow and Bird, while Nischwitz and Ward formed the battery for the opposing team. The game was played on the cricket grounds and was witnessed by a large crowd. Tomorrow the Parks will play the Excelsior team and the Watchung team will be their opponents Saturday. Monday afternoon, May 27, they will play Stephany's team. All games will be played on the cricket grounds in Washington Park.

The North Plainfield High School and the Battin High School teams will cross bats at Elizabeth this afternoon.

The North Plainfield Juniors defeated the West End Crescents on the Mountain avenue grounds yesterday afternoon. At the beginning of the ninth inning the score stood 11 to 11 and Conover brought in the winning run. The batteries were Conover, Rowe and Rutledge for the North Plainfield Juniors, and Conway, Mulford and DeCorsey for the West End Crescents.

NO SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE IN SIGHT.

when they reached the door.

At noon the folly of attempting to run the machine department was seen and the few non-sympthizers were notified that they need not return until the trouble was settled. The only departments now running are those of the foundry and draughtsmen's shops.

In speaking to a reporter for The Press this morning, J. T. MacMurray, superintendent of the factory, stated that the situation at present is entirely in the hands of the men. If they had remained at work until Friday, as was agreed upon at the second conference, enough officials could be gotten together to decide upon an answer to be extended to them. As the agreement has been broken they cannot expect the answer.

Mr. MacMurray wished to make plain the fact that with the Niles-Bement-Pond Co. it is impossible to get the head officials together in a few days or possibly weeks, as they are scattered throughout the east and west. The annual meeting is to take place the first of next month and the question is to be discussed at that time. He would not imply as to whether it would be favorable to the men or otherwise.

A rumor was circulated about the streets last evening to the effect that the Pond Company was about to bring machinists from Bethleham, Pa. to take the strikers' places. Mr. MacMurray stated that his company was not looking for men.

POTTER WORKS CLOSED DOWN

Officials Decided to Stop Work Entirely and Wait Developments in Strike.

After running for two days with the machine shop almost deserted, the officials of the Potter Press Company deemed it advisable to close the works entirely and the men in the various departments, who were not affected by the strike, were so notified at quitting time last evening. This adds fifty more men to the number already out of the factory. The fires were immediately drawn and save for a few carpenters and the clerical force, not a man remains at work in any of the large buildings. No overtures have been made by either employers or employes and the former will merely await developments.

When the men passed by the office last evening, ten of the moulders and helpers in the foundry were given their time and paid in full, signifying that they were discharged. It was not done for any reason in connection with the strike as work has been slack in this department for sometime and it was expected a number of men would be laid off whether the strike took place or not.

While the blacksmiths were at work Monday, some malicious person hurled a large stone through a window. It narrowly escaped striking James Ennis, who was standing directly in its path. In company with a number of the other men Ennis rushed out of the building but no one could be seen in the immediate vicinity. So far as could be learned this was the only stone thrown since the strike began and the officials are hopeful of its being the last.

SITUATION AT ALUMINUM.

Running Works at a Loss To Give Employment To Departments Not Affected By Strike.

The situation at the Aluminum Plate and Press Works remains practically the same as yesterday. The same number of moulders, pattern-makers and laborers are at work. Although the works are being run at a loss without the machinists, Superintendent Leary does not feel justified in turning off the men who are willing to work. Mr. Leary says that a settlement is now "up to the men," and it is for them to make a move. No attempt has been made to secure non-union machinists to take the places of those on strike.

THE STRIKERS PLAYED BALL.

Pastime Committee Arranged Two Games on Local Diamonds Yesterday.

The pastime committee of the striking machinists' organization arranged two baseball games for yesterday afternoon.

One contest played on the St. Mary's diamond, between teams representing the Aluminum and the Potter Press Works, resulted in favor of the Potter machinists. The score was 25 to 11. Another game played on the grounds of the Plainfield Athletic Association between the men from Pond's and Scott's, ended in a victory for the former team by a score of 7 to 0.

Both contests were largely attended by the striking machinists.

ALL DAY SESSION OF WOMEN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Begun in Vincent Chapel This Morning—Delegates Present From Elizabeth District.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Elizabeth district is holding an all day session in Vincent chapel.

At 10 o'clock this morning the meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Carlton, of Elizabeth. After a short devotional exercise led by the president, the morning business session began. Mrs. J. C. Pierson, of this city, as recording secretary, read her report, which gave a full detail of the labors of the society.

The committees appointed by the chair were: On resolutions, Miss Clara Welch, of Westfield; on enrollment, Mrs. J. C. McNaughton, of Plainfield, and on home missions Mrs. Maier, of Elizabeth. Reports from the several auxiliaries which form the society were read by their secretaries and in each case the information gleaned showed a very satisfactory condition of affairs.

Aluminum Twice Discovered.

Aluminum was discovered in the reign of Tiberius, 1,939 years ago. An artificer made a beautiful aluminum cup and presented it to his emperor. Tiberius sent for the workman and questioned him. The artificer stated that the cup was made by a process known only to himself and the gods. Tiberius, fearing that it would lower the price of silver and gold, ordered the unfortunate artificer to be beheaded, saying, grimly: "That is a secret not best for man to know. It were better to let the gods keep it."—Science.

NO CHANGE IN LOCAL STRIKE SITUATION; MEN REFUSE TO RETURN PENDING DECISION.

Superintendent MacMurray Held Conference With Striking Men From Pond's With No Apparent Results.

WANTED THEM TO WORK WHILE WAITING.

PROMISED THAT A DECISION WILL BE MADE BY THE COMPANY OFFICIALS FRIDAY.

Not a Man Returned This Morning—Situation at Other Shops Has Not Changed—Men Hear Talks by Local Organizer From New York—Strikers Are Quiet and Orderly.

The only local happening of importance during the last twenty-four hours of the machinists' strike was an unsuccessful attempt of Superintendent J. T. MacMurray to persuade the men to return to work at the Pond Tool Works. It was impossible for the officials of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company to get together before Friday and Mr. MacMurray wanted the men to return until then when a decision would be given. It was intimated that the company was likely to grant the demand. Not a man returned to work this morning and the situation remains where it did when the strike began.

There was no attempt at activity in any of the local machine shops. The Potter Press Works is practically deserted. At Scott's, there is no change. While the foundry and draughting room at the Pond Tool Works are still busy, it is possible that they may be closed if the strike continues much longer. No attempt has yet been made by the officials of the local press works to take any united action.

The conference at the Astor House, New York, last evening, between representatives of the National Metal Trades' Association and the International Association of Machinists, was watched with much interest by Plainfielders in the hope that some settlement, which would affect Plainfield, might result. There was no agreement reached, however. The strike at the Hoe Printing Press Company's factory, which is of special interest to the local press manufacturers, shows no signs of a settlement. The point in special dispute there is the right of the company to employ partially trained machinists at less than union wages. When this is decided it is believed that the question of the nine-hour day will not cause much further trouble.

The local strikers show no disposition to return to work. They were addressed this morning by a prominent union leader from New York, who urged them to stand firm and not concede a point. The general good order continues to prevail. Many men are to be seen on the streets all day, but the baseball games have attracted many, and those who have wandered about the city streets have been perfectly orderly and well behaved.

MAC MURRAY MET STRIKERS.

Asked Employes at Pond's to Return to Work Until Friday When Answer Comes.

In response to an invitation from Superintendent J. T. MacMurray, nearly the entire force of strikers from the Pond Tool Works assembled in Washington Hall yesterday afternoon. None of the men from the other shops were allowed entrance.

Mr. MacMurray was present and addressed the gathering. He made a strong appeal to the men asking them to return to work this morning. If they remained until Friday night an answer would be given to their demands, and he intimated it would be favorable to them. The committee and also the men had agreed Monday to wait until Friday. He had so informed the officials of the company, but Tuesday the agreement was broken, and when the directors' meeting takes place he can not uphold them in their action.

Mr. MacMurray's talk was brief and on its conclusion a few remarks were made by Robert Gow, one of the committee, which entered into the agreement which has been so sorely regretted by the men. No direct answer was asked of the men in regard to their intentions and they left the hall without volunteering one.

NO MEN RETURNED TO POND'S.

Refused To Return To Work Pending Decision Of Officials Of Pond Company.

Although told by Superintendent MacMurray at the conference held in Washington Hall yesterday, that their places would be open to them, not one of the Pond men appeared at the factory this morning. They were asked to remain until tomorrow night, when they would receive an answer, and if it was not satisfactory, they could quit. The majority of the men declined to accept, and these prevailed upon the wavering ones to remain away. The moulding and pattern shops are running with the full force and will continue to do so for some time.

OFFERED WORK TO STRIKERS.

The Locomotive Works Located at Paterson Will Give Ten Hours Pay For Nine Hour Day.

A communication was received by the strikers' committee yesterday from the co-operative works at Paterson, formerly the Rogers Works, to the effect that they were in need of machinists and would give employment to all Plainfield union men who applied at the factory. They would be required to work but nine hours a day and would receive ten hours' pay. The company claims to be in need of 400 men.

MR. SCOTT OF SAME MIND.

No Change In Situation At The Local Press Works—No Settlement Yet.

Another day has elapsed, but matters continue the same at the Scott Press Works. From the statements of the owner of the big establishment, there is no likelihood of any change so far as he is concerned.

This morning, Mr. Scott was in his customary place in the private office of the works. But he was not busily engaged; on the contrary, he was leisurely perusing a magazine.

"There is nothing new," said he, when a Press reporter was ushered into his room. "I see the Press says I was feeling good yesterday. Well, it was my birthday. I was fifty years old, but felt as young as thirty. In fact, I felt like grabbing a shillelah and going to a Donneybrook fair."

Mr. Scott says he has not yet decided whether to close down in the auxiliary departments to the machine shops at the close of the week, or to keep them running. There has not been any change in the attitude of the

ANNUAL MEETING OF HOME MISSION SOCIETY

Concluding Session Was Held at Vincent Chapel Yesterday Afternoon.

WHAT HAPPENED THERE.

MISS CARLTON CONDUCTED THE "ROUND TABLE" PLANNED.

Several Interesting Addresses Made on the Work of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Churches—Reports Made.

The annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Elizabeth district was continued yesterday afternoon in Vincent chapel. There was a good attendance, besides the forty-one delegates present. Miss Carlton, the president, occupied the chair. The programme opened with a very interesting Bible study conducted by Miss Priscilla Foster, a deaconess from the Brooklyn Home. After a soprano solo, "Perishing, Perishing," by Mrs. Stephen H. Tugwell, the minutes of the morning session were read by Mrs. J. C. Pierson.

In the absence of Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff, who was to have conducted the round table, her place was taken by Miss Carlton. Questions pertinent to the work of the society were asked and intelligently answered. Many helpful suggestions as to how to promote the best interests of the society and increase its growth and influence, were offered.

Mrs. Frost, of the Deaconess Home at Newark, gave a very helpful and entertaining talk concerning the work at the home, and she made an earnest plea for pledges to support that work. Miss Miss Shiffer, a deaconess from the Newark Home, gave an interesting talk about the kindergarten work carried on there. She told how easily and quickly the children are taught and how anxious and ready they are to learn the many things taught for their good.

The report of Mrs. Taylor, treasurer, showed a balance at last report of $15.38. There was expended for postage, paper and envelopes, etc., $4.65, and the present balance is $11.73. The committee on resolutions tendered a sincere vote of thanks to the First M. E. church, its pastor, the deaconesses and all who in any way had contributed toward the success and pleasure of the annual meeting.

The report of the national meeting, to be held in New York next October, was presented by Mrs. C. M. Blaine, conference treasurer. She told of the need of all contributing toward the expense of entertaining delegates at that meeting. This matter was widely discussed, and the support of all was pledged for the object specified. This concluded the session and the meeting adjourned with the singing of a hymn and the Mizpah benediction.

The evening was devoted to an illustrated lecture given by Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff, of New York, president of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. She is closely identified with the many branches of home missionary work in the Methodist church and is thoroughly conversant with every phase of it. In the series of pictures thrown on the canvas those present learned of the great work being carried on by the Methodists.

Commencing with the work among the negroes of the south, Mrs. Woodruff depicted life in the west, northwest, among the mountain whites, Alaska, Washington and Porto Rico. Each branch was of special interest. In the work among the Indians and mountain whites there has been a marvelous change, as well as among the Chinese in San Francisco.

A great many pictures were shown of industrial schools that are maintained by the Woman's Home Missionary Society. In every case there is an appearance of thrift and enterprise. The pictures of Porto Rico shown were taken by Mrs. Woodruff's brother. At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was given to the speaker.

A feature of the evening service was the solo "The Holy City," sung by Mrs. Clayton M. Nagle. Miss Gertrude Sharp was the accompanist.

Crusader's Degree For Two.

At the regular meeting of Freedom Castle, K. of G. E., held Tuesday evening, two candidates were given the crusader's degree.

Something New.

The Salvation Army will give a shadowgraph service Tuesday evening.

PLAYING WITH MACK

William J. Romain Is Now Appearing In "Tom Moore" In New Haven.

William J. Romain, the actor, who has resided on West Seventh street, has engaged with Andrew Mack for next season, and will appear with Mr. Mack in his new play, "Tom Moore," at the Herald Square Theatre, September 3. Mr. Romain has had much success as an actor since 1888, when he played at the Lyceum Theatre, New York. A successful season is predicted for him in the new play.

"Tom Moore" is being given a trial this week at New Haven and Hartford. The play is by Bert Sawyer, who has had other successes, "The Lash of the Whip," etc., and this one, as far as one can tell, promises success.

VALUABLE CURIO.

A Bolo Carried by a Filipino Spy In The Employ of The United States.

Dr. Pocock has in his possession a curio of considerable interest. It is a Philippine bolo, or small sword, which was presented to him by Dr. M. S. Simpson, who spent much time in the Philippine Islands. The bolo belonged to one of nine native women who were banded together as spies in the service of Uncle Sam's soldiers. The woman, who owned this particular bolo, did valiant service and was especially brave.

Dr. Simpson narrowly escaped being killed by a Filipino who carried a bolo and was about to thrust it in his back when one of his friends knocked the Filipino down.

The bolo is not very long and is carried in a bamboo case with the front and back open. It can be used effectively with the case on or off. It is a dangerous looking affair and capable of doing untold damage in the hands of a desperate person. They are used quite generally by the natives of the Philippines. Dr. Pocock prizes his gift very much and takes great pleasure in showing and explaining it to his many friends.

PRINCETON OUTPLAYED BY LEAL'S SCHOOL.

Local School Boys Defeated Team Of Collegians By Score Of 5 to 3.

PLAYED AT PITTIS' FIELD.

VAQUERO CLUB NINE PUT UP A GOOD GAME.

Clever And Systematic Play Won Game For Plainfield—Freshman Pitcher In Box For Visitors—Game Was Very Exciting.

The nine of the Vaquero Club, of Princeton University, was defeated by the Leal's School team on the diamond of Pittis' field yesterday afternoon in a game that amply demonstrated the clever and systematic ability of the local team. The fine score, 5 to 3, in favor of the Leal's boys, brought gladness to the hearts of the winners' supporters, not the least among whom were the large number of fair young women gracing the game by their presence.

From start to finish both teams appeared to work hard to conquer but the local boys were masters of the situation at every stage of the exciting contest. The team from Old Nassau, however, was composed of some fine material. Newman, its pitcher, regularly occupies that position on Princeton's freshman class nine. In the box for his team yesterday afternoon he made a great record for himself and received fairly good support. Much interest was taken in Thomas Thomas's work as catcher for the orange and black's team. But a couple of years ago he filled a similar position on the Leal's School nine.

There were a few heavy hitters on their team but it was only occasionally that Ralph Schoonmaker, who pitched for Leal's, gave them a chance to connect with the ball. Schoonmaker's work was commendable on the whole. At times his delivery was a little high, but this defect was remedied before the game was far advanced. William Schoonmaker, on third, distinguished himself as did also Brown on first base and Tilney behind the bat.

The features of Leal's work were well scattered hits and good base stealing. Griggs, Tilney, V. McGee, W. Schoonmaker and Brown were the quintette of Leal's who brought in the winning runs.

In two innings only did the Princeton boys score and these were the fifth and eighth. The climax of the game was reached in the beginning of the ninth inning. With two men out and two on bases, Reed, of the Vaquero's team, drove a fly to centre field. Griggs leaped in the air and brought it down safely while the Leal's enthusiasts went wild with joy.

The positions follow:

Vaquero Club.	Leal's School.
Young, lf.	Brown, 1b.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Case of James Brown, Charged With Illegal Liquor Selling, Laid Over.

The hearing in the case of the City of Plainfield against James Brown, charged with the illegal selling of liquor, was postponed yesterday afternoon for one week.

In asking City Judge Runyon for a continuance, Walter L. Hetfield, of Hetfield & Hetfield, counsel for the accused man, coupled his request with an attack on the complaint lodged against his client. Mr. Hetfield filed a motion for a dismissal of the charge on the ground that the complaint on record does not specifically set forth where in this city the alleged illegal sale of liquor was made.

WEDDED AT BRIDE'S HOME.

MARRIAGE OF MISS EVA M. DAYTON AND F. H. MARTIN, JR.

Took Place Last Evening Before Many Relatives and Friends—Both Are of Plainfield.

The home of Mrs. Arretta Dayton, of East Front street, was the scene of a brilliant gathering last evening, when her daughter, Miss Eva M. Dayton, was united in marriage to F. Howard Martin, Jr., of West Front street. Ninety guests from New York, Newark, New Brunswick, South Orange, Metuchen, Dunellen and this city, witnessed the ceremony which was performed in the parlor by Rev. Lester Leggett, of Albany, N. Y., uncle of the groom. The Episcopal form was used, the young couple kneeling at a small altar.

The bridal party took their places before the clergyman, while the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Charles Carpenter, of Dunellen. The groom was accompanied by his cousin, Arthur Leggett, of Asbury Park. Miss Dayton was unattended.

The bride entered the room escorted by her brother, Percy S. Dayton. She was attired in a gown of white silk trimmed with Duchesse lace and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The few words which made them man and wife were pronounced in an impressive manner.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and congratulations were extended. The table was tastefully decorated with carnations, smilax and other cut flowers. The parlor decorations were greatly admired, the room being filled with all manner of beautiful plants and flowers, lilacs and lilies predominating.

At the conclusion of the supper, Mr. and Mrs. Martin departed amid a shower of rice for the commencement of their wedding journey, which will embrace a visit to the Pan-American Exposition. On returning they will reside on Washington avenue.

Both the young people are popular among a large circle of acquaintances, as the unusually large number of handsome presents attested. Mr. Martin is an employe of a large insurance firm at the New York office.

BICYCLE GONE.

Young Man Hired a Wheel From Rogers and Hasn't Been Seen Since.

What, at present, appears to be a planned scheme to obtain a bicycle without cost was cleverly executed in this city Tuesday.

On that afternoon a young man presented himself at the desk of the Hotel Imperial and registered as "Jno. P. Shaw, Lakewood." After stating to the clerk that he expected some friends from New York and engaging accommodations for them, he departed.

Shortly afterwards an employe in Wm. H. Rogers' bicycle store stopped in the hotel and inquired whether the individual in question was a guest at the hostelry and was inadvertently informed that he was not. Later, in company with the bicycle store clerk, the man giving his name as Shaw called at the hotel and proved that he had registered.

It subsequently appeared that on leaving the Hotel Imperial, the young man had gone directly to Mr. Rogers' store and endeavored to rent a wheel for a few hours. As reference he mentioned the Hotel Imperial. He was furnished with a Spalding chainless wheel of the 1899 pattern.

Since then nothing has been heard of him and Mr. Rogers has concluded that he is the victim of a bunco game.

Auguste Saltzman Sailed Today.

Auguste Saltzman, who will represent the fire chiefs of the United States at the chief's convention to be held in Berlin in June, sailed this morning from New York on the steamship Augusta Victoria, of the Hamburgh-American Line. A number from Plainfield went to New York to see Mr. Saltzman sail.

WHITE CAPS THREATEN TO BURN DOWN HOUSE.

Anonymous Letters of Threatening Nature Are Being Sent to a Colored Family.

DEMAND THEIR REMOVAL.

POLICE ARE TRYING TO DISCOVER THE AUTHORS OF LETTERS.

All Are Signed "White Caps"—Mrs. Johnston, the Victim, Lives at West Fifth Street and Monroe Avenue.

Because she invaded the hitherto regarded sacred precincts of the white people, Mrs. Ella Johnston, widow of the colored preacher who died last summer, has been notified by persons, signing themselves "White Caps," to move from the corner of West Fifth street and Monroe avenue under pain of bodily injury. Two notes have been placed on Mrs. Johnston's doorstep, both of which were couched in the most threatening terms, one of them intimating that that the house would be burned if she did not locate elsewhere.

Mrs. Johnston and her children have occupied the house but a short time, but the communications have not intimidated her in the least. She has applied to the police for protection. The latter have promised to do all in their power to trace the authors of the notes.

The first note, which Mrs. Johnston found on the porch, was addressed to the "new colored family" and read as follows: "You are cordially invited to leave this block, as we, the joined neighbors, will not tolerate any colored folks on this street. Forewared is forewarned. You better get out while you have all your limbs or we will make it hot for you by fire."

It was signed "White Caps," and was written in a large scrawl. At the bottom an effort had been made to depict a skull and crossbones, but it resembled a schoolboy's first attempt.

The second was addressed in the familiar term of "The Black Johnstons," and contained the following: "You black niggers, you better take yourself off this street mighty soon. You had a good gall to move up here with all the nice white folks. I will give you fair notice to go. If you don't, you will regret it as long as you live. You needn't think this note is wrote for fun, it means a warning for you to leave in peace, for you will have to go anyway, for all the neighbors say you will be forced out, so take a white man's advice and go, go, go. Mr. White Cap."

This epistle was drawn in red letters, and the poor wording and spelling were evidently intended to help conceal the identity of the author.

The owner of the property, Mr. Perrine, of Westfield, has informed the family he will assist them in maintaining their rights against the objections of their neighbors.

THIEVES AT AUCTION.

Helped Themselves to Property of A. E. Laine at South Plainfield.

John J. Callahan Writes Concerning Charge Made By Another Paper.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Kindly allow me through the columns of your paper to vindicate myself before the public of the charge of suspicion of being complicated in an East Third street affair Sunday night, which shone forth so conspicuosly in the columns of the Courier-News.

True, we were suspected, but from what standpoint I am unable to say, other than that we committed a slight offense, which was entirely domestic. Having proved ourselves to the Plainfield authorities free of any complicity in the affair, I take this measure of proving myself so before the public.

THE GUEST OF SIR KNIGHTS.

President Addresses Large Gathering of Templars.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—President McKinley was a guest of the Knights Templars at the Mechanics' pavilion yesterday afternoon. The president arrived at the pavilion about 3 o'clock, coming direct from the Scott residence. The president was met at the pavilion by a procession of 1,400 knights from this city and other cities of the state in full regalia and escorted inside the building, where 12,000 people had already assembled. The appearance of the president on the platform caused a demonstration that shook the large building.

General W. H. Barnes introduced President McKinley. Following this introductory address a choir of 150 voices sang the "Templar's Prayer," with the accompaniment of a band of 60 pieces, and the effect was most impressive. Then President McKinley responded to the address of welcome.

Mrs. McKinley passed another comfortable day. Secretary Cortelyou said last night that she continues to improve and is now doing nicely. When asked if he could state definitely when the president would leave for Washington, Secretary Cortelyou replied: "I can only say that the presidential party proposes to depart on Saturday if Mrs. McKinley's condition will permit. There is a possibility, however, that a start will not be made until Monday. All depends on the state of Mrs. McKinley's health."

WILLING TO SURRENDER.

Cailles Getting His Force Together Ready to Give Up.

MANILA, May 23.—Senor Dancel, an accredited intermediary, has returned here after having had a very satisfactory interview with the rebel commander General Cailles, who has been declared an outlaw. Senor Dancel says Cailles is anxious to surrender with his entire command, provided his men are liberated as soon as they take the oath of allegiance. Cailles says that personally he is not afraid of an investigation of his various acts. He says that he never violated the laws of war and that he always showed consideration for his prisoners.

Cailles is now concentrating his entire command with a view to facilitating the surrender of all his force. He is also taking vigorous action to prevent any stragglers from escaping and becoming ladrones. Senor Dancel asserts that the surrender of Cailles will cripple General Malavar, who has been relying on the former to make diverting raids.

INDEMNITY QUESTION

President Following Chinese Settlement.

A MODERATE DEMAND FAVORED.

A Proposition to Accept the Bonds of China at Par, With 3 Per Cent Interest—Minister Rockhill to Urge This Point.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—President McKinley and Secretary of State Hay have been in constant communication with Washington during all their journey west. Dispatches from foreign embassies have been continually arriving, and the Chinese situation has received special attention. The president has been anxious lest the difficulties thrown in the way of an arrangement by the demands of some of the powers might lead to indefinite delay and a consequent increase of the indemnity to be exacted. The points to be settled are, first, the total amount of the indemnity and the share of each power; second, the method of payment.

In regard to the first point the president has constantly endeavored to moderate the demands of the powers to an amount which China might pay without financial ruin or territorial dismemberment. He has thought that $200,000,000 was the maximum amount indicated by the best authorities consulted, and he has proved the willingness of this government to make every sacrifice in the interest of the integrity of China and the restoration of normal relations by cutting down our already moderate claim one-half if other powers would make proportionate reductions. These propositions have not been accepted by the other governments, though Great Britain has shown a disposition to a considerate treatment of the matter.

As to the method of payment it is understood that there are various propositions before the conference of ministers in Peking. One is a loan to be contracted by China, guaranteed by the powers, which it is thought might be floated at 4 per cent, with a commission of 5 or 6 per cent. Another is a loan, not guaranteed, which would probably require an enormous commission and a heavy rate of interest, some 7 per cent. Neither of these propositions was acceptable to the president. Two weeks ago he proposed that each of the powers should accept for its share of the indemnity the bonds of China at par and with interest at 3 per cent, provision for meeting the interest and for eventual payment being taken from the likin, the salt duties and increased import taxes. Mr. Rockhill has now been instructed to urge these views anew upon the attention of his colleagues.

The attitude of the British government as set forth in the recent speeches of its representatives in parliament indicate that Great Britain, though not willing to go so far as this country in moderating the demands of the powers, is inclined to accept measures which if adopted may bring the negotiations to a conclusion.

BOXERS DEFEATED.

Chinese Troops Rout Christian Persecutors.

PEKING, May 23.—Li Hung Chang reports that Chinese regular troops under Colonel Cheng have engaged a force of Boxers who were persecuting Christians in the Anping district. The regulars pursued the Boxers and killed 60 of them. This band of Boxers is well known in Pao-ting-fu.

Tao, the viceroy of the Kwang provinces, has memorialized the throne for the abolition of the eunuchs at the court on the ground of the corruption of the system. The viceroy says China is the only country that maintains this system and is the laughing stock of the world.

Viceroys Chang Chih Tung and Liu Kun Yi have sent a memorial to the throne asking for a reduction in the number of officers such as taotais, prefects, etc.

Dying of Starvation.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Mrs. Mary Spera and her 1-year-old baby are dying of starvation. They are at Bellevue hospital, but the doctors think that it is too late to save them. A 4-year-old daughter they expect to restore to health. There was a fourth child, a tiny baby, but it died of starvation. This is the family of John Spera, a shoveler, whose illness has prevented him from doing any work for a long time. The Speras lived in four rooms of a rear tenement on the Bowery. They have had no food since Christmas except what the neighbors, themselves very poor, had given or what the sick father has been able to get by begging on the streets. Their plight was called to the attention of the police by the owner of the tenement, who has allowed them to remain in the rooms, though they have paid no rent since the $2 deposit they gave him when they moved there three months ago. The father would not go to the hospital, saying he could support himself.

Faith Curist Fined.

WHITE PLAINS, May 23.—J. Luther Pierson, the faith curist and Dowieite churchman of Valhalla, who allowed his 2-year-old adopted daughter to die without medical attendance, was sentenced by County Judge Lent to pay a fine of $500 or in default of payment to be confined in the county jail for 500 days. Pierson apparently was unruffled by the sentence and informed the court that he would not pay the fine. He was therefore locked up in the county jail. He will remain for a period of a year and a half unless his fine is paid.

North Carolina Roads Still Blocked.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 23.—No trains have come in or left Asheville since Tuesday. The main line of the Southern railway to Knoxville on the west and Salisbury on the east is blocked by landslides caused by the recent rains. It is said schedules will not be resumed east across the Blue ridge before tomorrow. News coming from the mountain districts indicate heavy losses to farmers along the small streams by the destruction of growing crops.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The monthly statement of the collections of internal revenue shows the total receipts for April, 1901, to have been $26,941,579, an increase as compared with April, 1900, of $3,689,926. For the ten months of the present fiscal year the receipts aggregated $254,072,488, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of $10,885,278.

EDISON'S INVENTION.

New Storage Battery to Revolutionize Traffic.

LONG STANDING DEFECTS OVERCOME.

Electrical Wizard, After Two Years' Labor, Has Perfected a Battery of Half the Weight and Thrice the Capacity of the Old Models.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Thomas A. Edison has invented a lightweight storage battery which, according to the opinions of some electrical experts, will entirely solve the problem of applying electricity profitably to the propelling of vehicles and boats. Mr. Edison himself thinks that his new battery will revolutionize road and water traffic.

When seen in his laboratory at West Orange yesterday, Mr. Edison talked freely about the commercial possibilities of his new battery. "For many years past," he said, "men have been trying to produce a storage battery sufficiently light to be of practical utility. Of recent years hardly any success has been met with in this direction.

"I have been experimenting for the last two years to produce a battery which would be without the defects alluded to, and I think I have succeeded. The present types of storage batteries deteriorate very rapidly. In the experiments I have made with the new battery there has been no evident deterioration. Another advantage is, technically speaking, its large storage capacity per unit of mass. In other words, it is less cumbersome and yet promises greater power. Lead batteries weigh from 125 pounds to 180 pounds per horsepower hour. The weight of my battery is only 55 pounds per horsepower hour. Again, the old battery takes from four to five hours to charge. The new battery can be charged in half that time, and, moreover, can also be discharged with greater rapidity than can the old batteries. The fault with the lead types is that when you want more power, when you are climbing a hill, for instance, in an automobile, you cannot get it without great deterioration. This trouble I have obviated.

"Careless treatment will not affect my invention. As a general rule the public do not understand how to care for batteries. In the case of the existing batteries it requires electrical knowledge to understand them. I realized that a practical battery must be one which the average individual could easily manipulate. All you have to do with the new cell is to fill it with water.

"As regards cost, I believe that after factory facilities now in course of progress have been completed I will be able to furnish the cells at a price per horsepower hour not greater than the prevailing price of lead cells. This will really mean a great reduction in expense, because while the lead batteries will only carry a vehicle about 30 miles the new one will go 75 to 100 miles with one charge. Practically, therefore, it means that you will be able to travel the longer distance for the same price as it hitherto cost to go about 30 miles.

"The problem I set myself to solve was how to use electricity for heavy trucking. The deterioration and particularly the weight of the old batteries prevented their profitable use for the transportation of merchandise and big loads. With the light battery there is a great future for electrical trucking. Apart from the lessening of weight, an extremely important factor, it will be possible for a truck to be taken out in the morning and kept at work all day without recharging. I have been experimenting for four or five months with this battery on trucks. I have run the trucks over all kinds of roads and up and down heavy grades with the greatest success and without deterioration of the batteries.

"I might call attention also to the fact that the battery besides being valuable for river and street traffic can be utilized in connection with tidal power. The lead cells did not accumulate power quickly enough from the rise and fall of the tides to come within the commercial limits of tidal power, but the rapidity with which the new battery can be charged overcomes this drawback."

Mr. Edison said that he had already started the building of factories at Bloomfield and Silver Lake, N. J., for the manufacture of the new batteries.

Creed Revision Comes Up.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—That creed revision is the leading issue of the Presbyterian general assembly was strongly evidenced during yesterday's sessions, when almost every speaker took occasion to mention the subject during the course of his address. Shortly before adjournment Rev. Dr. Richard S. Holmes of Pittsburg startled the commissioners by launching into a discussion of the question, but when he stopped long enough to announce that he was simply leading up to a point in connection with his appeal for assistance in removing the mortgage from the New York Presbyterian building no objection was offered. A motion was made to hold the meetings of the assembly during the debate on revision at the Academy of Music, but was not acted upon, as the order of the day took precedence.

Boy Dies After a Fight.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Warren Monroe of Jersey City, aged 15, is dead in a hospital from the effects of a blow alleged to have been given by Thomas Lematto of the same city and age. About a week ago the boys quarreled in the street because Lematto tripped the other. During the fight which followed Lematto is said to have struck Monroe on the head with a piece of iron. Lematto is held on a charge of murder.

Great Britain Undisturbed.

LONDON, May 23.—Sir Robert Giffen, in an address before the institute of bankers in London, said it was sheer nonsense to assert that Great Britain was living on her capital in her dealings with foreign countries. He declared also that the South African war's expenditure came out of income and not out of capital, adding that the war had scarcely disturbed business at home.

Russian Loan In Good Demand.

PARIS, May 23.—It is estimated that the new Russian loan will be subscribed for at least seven times. When the lists, which opened yesterday morning, were closed, crowds were still waiting their turn outside the Rothschild and other banks where subscriptions were received. The stock was quoted in the afternoon at a premium of 4½.

CORNERSTONE LAYING.

New Russian Church to Be Erected In New York.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The cornerstone of the new Russian church which is to be erected on the north side of Ninety-seventh street between Fifth and Madison avenues was laid yesterday with splendor and impressiveness. The church's site is walled upon three sides by towering apartment houses. The windows were black with silent faces, and the streets were crowded. In the middle of the field a stage had been erected, and all around were white tents. Upon the stage 12 priests, robed in cloth of gold, their sleeves embroidered in silver and scarlet, high cylindrical hats upon their heads, stood around a desk covered with purple cloth and embroidered with silver crosses. Upon it lay a silver bowl holding holy water and many hundred candelabra, with long wax candles. Father Alexander Hotovitsky, rector of the Seventh Avenue Russian church and master of ceremonies, stood in the midst, a heavy golden cross about his neck, his high hat deep purple, his robes of purple velvet.

Count Cassini, the Russian embassador, and a throng of emissaries and secretaries from Washington and officers and sailors from Philadelphia, where the battleship Retvisan is on the ways, marched before the priests. Count Cassini and his attaches wore long coats heavily embroidered with gold. Here and there was a flowing crimson sash. The Russian naval commander from the Cramps shipyard came in, surrounded by 20 sailors in the typical uniform of the Russian navy.

The church service was chanted in a magnificent manner by the sailors. A procession formed, and the priests, with bowed heads, marched around and around among the gorgeous officials and their wives. They marched for a long time. They were sprinkling every corner of the site with holy oil and water. They placed a large wooden cross where the altar of the church will stand. They sang the eighty-fourth psalm, and the archbishop set the cornerstone in place and poured holy oil over it. Father Hotovitsky then delivered an address. The benediction was bestowed, the litanies were repeated, and each priest, kneeling, was presented with a cross, and the sailors were given emblems, and the chant broke forth again. Father Hotovitsky kissed the bishop's hand, and the bishop kissed him upon the forehead, thus ending the ceremonies.

WHAT FUNSTON ATE.

A Diet of Snails and Devilfish When After Aguinaldo.

LAWRENCE, Kan., May 23.—General Funston and his followers on their trip to capture Aguinaldo were reduced to a diet of snails and octopus, according to a letter, dated San Isidro, Philippine Islands, April 5, and received from the Kansan by Captain Adna G. Clark of Lawrence.

"It was one of the very hardest tramps I have ever taken and tried us to the limit," says General Funston. He spoke of passing themselves off as prisoners of the Filipino band, of the lack of food and says:

"It is a galling thing for a man who has been brought up in Kansas to come down to a diet of rice and snails and be yanked along over the rocks at the rate of 15 miles a day. I did one thing, however, which I want put to my credit in case I should come back to Kansas and try to break into politics. I helped to eat an octopus. It was the real thing, a devilfish with a number of arms, each about 18 inches long, which we were fortunate enough to get where it had been left in shallow water at low tide."

NO VOTE TAKEN.

Cubans Listen to a Long Speech Against Platt Amendment.

HAVANA, May 23.—No vote was taken at yesterday afternoon's session of the Cuban constitutional convention on the Platt amendment. Senor Juan Gualberto Gomez spoke for nearly three hours against the amendment. He argued that it would be useless to accept it, as the Cuban people would always be divided on this issue, and he thought the majority of them would always be opposed to it.

"What assurance have we," asked Senor Gomez, "that this will be the final amendment the United States will impose? First came the joint resolution, then the treaty of Paris, and now this Platt amendment. What will the next congress have? Let the United States government take what it wants against our will, but let us never consent to this imposition."

A Fatal Train Runaway.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 23.—Conductor John Early of Pitcairn was killed and Fireman L. E. Lingenfelter injured as the result of a train running away on the mountain west of here. The train crew lost control of the engine and 43 cars of coal just after leaving the Gallitzin tunnel, and, starting down the eastern slope, the cars shot down the mountain at terrific speed. Two empty engines in charge of Engine Drivers John Riley and J. F. McNulty of this city were standing at McGarvey, near the end of the grade. These men heard the distress signals and quickly arranged to assist in stopping the train. They ran ahead, but were soon overtaken by the runaway. The combined efforts of the three engines finally brought the train to a standstill.

CADETS LEAVE WEST POINT.

The Action of Colonel Mills Is Generally Approved.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 23.—The cadets who were yesterday dismissed from the Military academy and those who were suspended have all departed for their respective homes. There was no demonstration on the part of the other cadets, and all is quiet here.

There is not likely to be an uprising among the comrades of those relegated to civil life, as was anticipated from some sources. There is a distinction between dismissal and a discharge from the Military academy. When a cadet is dismissed, it is final, and he can be reinstated only by a special act of congress. He also forfeits his traveling pay. In the case of a discharge a cadet may reenter the academy by a reappointment and the approval of the academy board.

There are no words of censure here from any source for the course Colonel Mills has taken in his effort to maintain discipline. It meets with hearty approval. Among the enlisted men he is regarded as the best and most efficient superintendent the Military academy ever had.

The names of the cadets who have been dismissed from the Military academy as the result of the recent disturbances there are as follows: Henry L. Bowlby, Nebraska; John A. Cleveland, Alabama; Traugott F. Keller, New York; Raymond A. Linton, Michigan; Birchie O. Mahaffey, Texas. All the cadets are of the second class.

The following cadets have been suspended: Olan C. Aleshire, Illinois; Benjamin F. McClellan, Mississippi; James A. Shannon, Minnesota; Charles Tolford, Utah, all of the second class. Also Thomas N. Gimperling, Ohio, and Harry Hawley, New York, of the third class. These cadets are suspended without pay until April 1, 1902.

A crisis in the affairs of the academy as they relate to discipline has been reached. Following the Booz inquiry, the upper class men prepared a written agreement which contained 12 articles defining the meaning of the word "hazing." They agreed to stop the practice. This was signed by the cadets, presented to Colonel Mills and signed by him.

Despite these regulations, it is asserted that the boys have continued hazing in a somewhat milder form. There have been frequent clashes in preserving discipline as Colonel Mills construed it. Recently there was a disturbance in one of the mess halls, the men engaging in rough play and the throwing of edibles. The cadet officer in charge failed to report the infraction of the rules, and he was suspended and reprimanded.

This aroused the ire of the upper class men, and they made a radical demonstration in front of the quarters of Colonel Mills, which ended in their swinging a fieldpiece into position and training it on his windows. Whether they intended to fire it has not been brought out, as they were discovered by one of the sentries and driven away.

ROOSEVELT ENTERTAINED.

Vice President Visits Niagara and the Midway—President's Visit Off.

BUFFALO, May 23.—A trip to Niagara falls as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ely, a dinner in their honor and a visit to the exposition grounds to view the illumination in the evening made up the programme for the entertainment of Vice President Roosevelt and his party yesterday.

A drenching rain was falling when the vice presidential party arrived at Niagara falls, and the plans for entertaining them there were necessarily curtailed. After luncheon at the Prospect House, President Ely of the International Traction company took his guests for a trolley ride through the picturesque gorge, returning to Buffalo in the afternoon.

After enjoying the beautiful electrical display at the exposition grounds last night the vice president, accompanied by Director General Buchanan and other exposition officials, visited the Midway. The denizens of that gay thoroughfare of fun and amusement were expecting them and gave their distinguished visitors a great reception. The Indians especially were very enthusiastic and will hold a grand council today, to which the vice president will be invited.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. McKinley the president has been obliged to cancel his engagement to be present at the exposition on the 13th of June. Whether or not he will visit Buffalo later will depend largely upon Mrs. McKinley's health. The exposition officials had planned to have special ceremonies at the grounds on June 13 in honor of the president, and it was expected that many other distinguished men would be here on that date.

Increased Steel Production.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The bulletin of the American Iron and Steel association says: The production of open hearth steel in the United States in 1900 was 3,492,552 gross tons against 2,947,316 tons in 1899, an increase of 455,236 tons. The open hearth steel made in 1900 was produced by 92 works in 17 states. Only 76 works and 14 states made open hearth steel in 1899, the new states to enter the list in 1900 being Delaware, Kentucky and Tennessee.

No More Sunday Racing at Vailsburg

NEW YORK, May 23.—Chief Justice Depue of Newark, N. J., took action which will probably result in the closing of the Vailsburg bicycle track on Sunday. He called attention of the grand jury to the fact that races where prizes are given are in violation of the statute and places where such practices are habitually permitted are indictable as being disorderly.

SHAMROCK WRECKED

King Edward and Sir Thomas Have a Narrow Escape.

YACHT RUINED BY SUDDEN SQUALL

The Gale Came Without Warning Just as the Trial Race Was to Begin—Damage to the Challenger Nearly $10,000.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 23.—King Edward VII, the group of friends with him, Sir Thomas Lipton and his guests, among whom were ladies, all had a narrow escape from death yesterday in the terrific squall which dismantled the Shamrock II just prior to a trial race in the Solent.

Without the slightest warning and as the racers were maneuvering for the start off the Brambles yesterday, the squall struck both Shamrocks and the Sybarita, the big yawl which was to race with them.

Mast, spars, sails and all rigging, snapping under the sudden strain of the wind's fury, striking broadside, were ripped out of the new cup challenger and carried by the board.

King Edward and the other distinguished guests, who were on deck at the time alertly watching the maneuvers of the racers, escaped as by a miracle the path of destruction blazed by splintered spars and lashing wire rigging.

The Shamrock II was in a moment reduced to a drifting hulk, helpless and motionless, save for her rolling plunges in the trough of the sea.

From the suddenness with which all the spars and canvas ripped out of the challenger it looked as though everything had been blown out of her with one gust. The wind was fresh at the time of the accident and was blowing occasionally in stronger gusts, but there was nothing in the weight of it to threaten disaster.

It is probable that the whole gear would have stood the strain well enough had it not been for a weakness in the eye of the plate by which the bobstay was secured to the stem. This eye was the first thing to break, and when it gave way the unstayed bowsprit was unable to stand the pull.

Sir Thomas Lipton fears it will be impossible to repair the Shamrock II in time for the cup races.

It now looks as if the contest were off for this year.

Sir Thomas Lipton will cable to the New York Yacht club.

The damage done to the challenger is estimated at $10,000, as nearly every scrap of her gear is gone.

The ladies on board the Shamrock II were the Marchioness of Londonderry and Mrs. W. G. Jameson.

The Shamrock disaster caused much excitement in London, and there were many inquiries at Marlborough House. A telegram was received there shortly after 4 o'clock from Major General Sir Stanley Clarke, equerry in waiting to the king, announcing his majesty's safety.

There are but few other details to relate. It appears that the masthead man had providentially been ordered down just before the accident. A few of the crew got a wetting, but otherwise nobody was hurt. King Edward calmly lit another cigar and continued smoking, after assuring himself that everybody was safe. Later he steamed around the wrecked vessel and carefully inspected the broken bobstay.

A conference between Sir Thomas Lipton and Mr. Watson will be held on board the Erin today to decide upon future measures. Meanwhile the engagements to race in the exhibition contests on the Clyde have been abandoned.

A Missionary Murdered.

BOSTON, May 23.—Rev. W. S. Ament, D. D., of Peking, the missionary of the American board now in Boston, has received a letter, under date of April 20, from his associate missionary in the north China mission, Rev. George D. Wilder of Tien-tsin, which gives an account of the massacre of Rev. Joseph Stonehouse, a missionary of the London Missionary society. Mr. Wilder says: "About ten of Mr. Stonehouse's murderers have been arrested and tried. Some of them confessed. One of them helped to kill one of the north China missionaries of the American board and his wife last fall. This whole gang was in the affair of Mr. Stonehouse. We have not heard of any punishment being inflicted."

A Prince Banished.

BERLIN, May 23.—Under dynastic law the young Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, Charles Auguste, has compelled Prince Bernhard of Saxe-Weimar and his wife to leave for the United States. Prince Bernhard was married in London in 1900 to the widowed Countess Lucchesini, the daughter of a Lubeck hotel keeper named Brockmueller. Since their marriage Prince Bernhard and his wife have lived at Wiesbaden. The grand duke has granted Prince Bernhard a reasonable allowance.

Ice Prevents Navigation.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 23.—Reports from the strait of Belle Isle show that a vast body of ice is packed against the Labrador coast, preventing all prospect of shipping traveling that region. It is also reported that icebergs are sweeping south along the eastern seaboard of Newfoundland. Belle Isle waters are not likely to be navigable by ocean steamers for some weeks to come.

Scotland's Population.

EDINBURGH, May 23.—The census of Scotland, just completed, shows a total population of 4,471,957, or an increase since the last census, taken ten years ago, of 446,310. For the first time Scotland's population exceeds Ireland's. The population of Glasgow is 760,423, or an increase of 142,371, and that of Edinburgh 316,479, or an increase of 51,683.

New Ocean Record.

Progress Of The Strike.

While there may be some hot-headed men among them, the great bulk of the striking machinists in Plainfield are careful, thoughtful men. Their actions during the last few days have borne out the truth of this statement. The remarkably pleasant relations between employer and employe, which existed previous to the strike, are undoubted responsible to a certain measure for this state of affairs. The men, who have been chosen by their fellow workmen to control them during the progress of the strike, are to be commended, however, for their earnest effort to prevent any possible trouble on the strikers.

Many of the men have remained at home, but for those who did not care to spend their time in this fashion, the committee arranged for baseball games. The young men were chiefly interested. They kept the crowd from wandering about the streets or gathering in saloons and at street corners.

If the committee continues to keep the ranks of the strikers so orderly, the members will be entitled to the thanks of the whole community. The strike was not brought about by local conditions, nor can local arbitration immediately settle the dispute without the aid of outside agencies. It is therefore the duty of men, now out of employment, to continue their present peaceful and law-abiding course so as to retain the sympathy of the people at large.

The strike is greatly to be deplored, but there will be a cause for general satisfaction on the part of all if the men can point out when it is all over that they cannot be charged with a single act that even hinted at disorder or violence.

Little has been said about the recent action of the Common Council in authorizing the fire committee to equip the chemical engine with rubber tires. At first thought it does seem like a needless extravagance, but the members of the committee have looked into the subject and declare that the adding of such tires to the chemical engine will really be an economy. Every time the engine comes in after a run, they say, bolts and nuts all over the apparatus are loosened. The apparatus is one of the best, but the jolting is sure to bring it about. Rubber tires, they claim, will reduce the wear on the apparatus greatly and give it a much longer life.

The action of Governor Voorhees, in deciding against a special session of the Legislature in order to consider some remedy for the pollution of the Passaic river, was not an entire surprise. A number of the Republican leaders in the State had expressed themselves on the subject and their opinion was almost entirely against such an act. It was, however, a great disappointment to the Board of Trade of Newark and the members of that organization were free in saying so. The subject will not have to be delayed until the next regular session of the Legislature next winter.

The agitation over the question of municipal ownership appears to have lost interest somewhat. The subject is still before the Common Council although nothing of a definite nature has been done. The letter from President Frank Bergen, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, which was secured by the street committee, was a very interesting communication. It is a question, however, whether it entirely satisfied the people of Plainfield who have been so desirious of a city water works.

After a second year's experience with newspaper advertising, changing the matter every day, O. L. Brown, New Jersey manager of the Bankers' Life Insurance Company, is quoted by the Philadelphia Record as follows: "A properly advertised company, doing business through good agents, will sell twice as many policies as a non-advertising company, equally reliable and with the same agents, will dispose of."

To Rev. Frederic B. Newman is due much credit for the work he has done in building up the Young Men's Association at Hope chapel. In this work he has been ably assisted by City Judge William N. Runyon. Now that Rev. Mr. Newman has been called to another field, there is no one better qualified to take his place at the head of that live organization than Judge Runyon.

To attain the most satisfactory results, a trolley line should be double track for its entire length. Circumstances often do not permit it and it is necessary to build turnouts at intervals along the line. A system of block signals does much to relieve the single track line from many dangers and also to expedite the traffic.

A special meeting of the Common Council will be held this evening at which it is expected that something will be done about the collection of back taxes according to the provisions of the Martin Act. There is likely to be some other business of importance.

The Jersey Central Railroad has just secured a number of new passenger cars which are said to be the equal of any in the country. They are reported to be particularly well equipped besides being very pretty and airy.

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace.

The marriage of Miss Emma Apgar and Herbert Walters, both of the borough, which took place at Tottenville, S. I., yesterday afternoon, was a very quiet affair. OBJECT TO HOSPITAL SITE.

PARK AVENUE PROPERTY OWNERS WRITE REGARDING IT.

Believed It Is Too Far From Those Who Most Need It And From The Sewage System.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—We have heard from time to time about the proposed new hospital for our city. No doubt one is needed in a proper location, but certainly not in a location where residential property will be injured and also far away from those desiring the use of the free dispensary. The location should be one where it will be near those desiring the use of this dispensary and easy of access. The Board of Governors, however, seems to think differently as we learn the proposed site is on Park avenue as far away as possible from those who are likely to need the dispensary and other benefits. Why was it necessary to locate on a public avenue which is one of the main (if not the main) artery to the city and one which is frequented by all who drive for business or pleasure, and further, which is the main avenue to many if not all the leading cities and towns near by and which the Board of Governors surely must know would arouse those living in its immediate neighborhood to action against same? If not, why was the matter kept quiet as possible?

Do the members of the board believe in antagonizing the people of our city, that they are serving the best interests for which they were elected? Certainly not. Then why not select some other site where the property is not as valuable and property owners do not so strongly object and where there is a sewage system already in force. The location of the proposed site is such that some system of sewage must be adopted immediately or there will be a further trouble which will be a serious menace to the health of our city. Further, to put in an additional system of sewerage at this time will add largely to our tax list (which is already high enough) and come directly on the people of Plainfield, as public buildings, similar to hospitals, are free from taxation.

It is generally understood that no contagious diseases will be admitted, but that there will be an isolated ward. Why an isolated ward? Simply for isolated cases, which are nothing more or less than contagious diseases, and for which there would be no objection in a proper location. In its present proposed location without sewerage there is and there should be the strongest objection possible by one and all who have at heart the best interests of the health and property of this city.

As to the property owners close to this proposed site, they fully realize the damage that will be done to their property which will be greatly depreciated in value without any recourse.

We hope the gentlemen comprising the present Board of Governors will look at this matter in all fairness and justice to the property owners and tax payers directly affected and hesitate long before committing a serious error.

is characteristic of our examinations. Our tests are unerring and your Eyes are always safe in our care.
We study the face of the patient and fit glasses that will improve the appearance. Some faces are marred by specs because not properly fitted.

Let us show you how we can make you look. We can relieve that squint, take away those frowns, and in many cases overcome headaches and relieve much nerve strain, which if left uncorrected will cause irreparable harm. From the wee child to the gray-haired sire we offer this careful service, we can't afford to make mistakes and each pair fitted sells others.

THE PIG-HEADED MAN

He Gave an Exhibition of Himself on a Street Car.

First He Wouldn't Pay His Fare and Then He Would, and Both Times Made a Lot of Trouble for the Conductor.

He looked just as pig-headed as he turned out to be. There was no doubt about his being a stranger in a strange land, for while his clothes were not rustic in appearance there was an unfamiliar cut about them. And then he carried a traveling bag and wore spats.

When the conductor of the Fourth avenue car called for his fare, says the New York Sun, the stranger dug down into his pocket and drew out a bill. The man in blue, who bore on his right sleeve three gold service stripes as proof of wonderful forbearance with all kinds and conditions of people, squinted at the bill and shook his head.

"That ain't no good in this country," he said.

"Of course it's good," said the stranger, still sticking it forth. "It's a Canadian five-dollar bill."

"Can't take it," repeated the conductor. "They won't take it off me at the office."

"Well, you've got to take it," said the stranger, "or stop the car and put me off. It's money, and good money."

The conductor acted like a human being. He took the bill and looked it all over again. Then he referred it to a passenger.

"I never saw a bill like that before," he said. "What do you think of it?"

The passenger told him that he was right in not accepting it because it was not a legal tender in this country, and because he could not get rid of it except at a discount, even at a bank. So the conductor passed it over to its owner once more.

"You're in America now," he said, good-naturedly. "You'll have to pay American money. If I took that I'd be stuck with it myself."

Still the stranger was pig-headed.

THE PIG-HEADED MAN.

"Well," he said, "you'll have to stop the car and put me off. That's all."

Then he settled back doggedly and scowled. The controversy had attracted great attention in the car. Everyone was looking at the stranger, and a man who sat across from him, thinking that the five-dollar bill was all the stranger had, gave the conductor a nickel for the fare and the other passengers took it for granted that the controversy was all settled.

But not so. The pig-headed young man arose with a grunt and again dug into his trousers pocket. This time he pulled out several American one-dollar bills. One of these he offered to the conductor.

"I got your fare," said the conductor.

"No, you haven't," insisted the stranger. "I haven't paid."

"But this man paid for you."

"He's not me. Change the bill."

"I ain't got the change," insisted the conductor.

The man with the spats was getting red in the face. He offered the one-dollar bill to the man who had paid his fare. The man would not take it.

"I can pay my way!" exclaimed the stranger. "Give me the change.

"Haven't got any," said his benefactor, with a grin. "It's all right. Sit down."

But the stranger would not. He went from passenger to passenger, asking for change, poking his one-dollar bill into their faces. They all thought it was Canadian and examined it closely while the stranger rocked around the car.

At the end of the line he found a man who could give him four quarters for the bill. He offered a quarter to the man who had paid his fare. The man would not take it. Then the stranger started up the line to get change for one of his quarters.

At last he got five nickels. He gave one of them to his benefactor, drew a deep breath and sat himself down again, glaring at everyone. After two minutes' thought he remarked:

"I'm pretty pig-headed when I get started."

No one in the car undertook to deny this assertion.

I heard different people speak very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, concluded to try them, got a box from my druggist, Mr. L. W. Randolph; and used them according to directions with the above results. I do not hesitate to give my endorsement of a preparation like Doan's Kidney Pills."

BRAVE WOMEN.

If Your House Should Suddenly Take Fire, What Would You Do?

Constant drilling in company makes soldiers mechanically fearless. Training will do correspondingly as much for women and children as for men. Women are believed to be cowardly and excitable. They are not. When they have been trained by drill, they are both cool headed and heroic. They have proved it lately in several different parts of the country, even in the case of a house on fire and themselves in two instances surrounded by helpless children.

There was that great mission building fire in New York on the east side. Sunday school was in session. There were 3,000 pupils, gathered from the city's slums and poverty stricken tenements. The building was several stories high, and the primary pupils, 6 to 8 years old, were on the top floor.

Miss Stressler was the superintendent of this top floor room. A lesson was progressing when the janitor came in and whispered something to Miss Stressler. She smiled, looked at the children and rapped for attention. How were they to know what that smile hid?

"Children," said Miss Stressler, "we will play the fire drill."

She went to the piano and began the fire march—tumty-tum, tumty-tum. The young ones knew what to do. They left their seats in exactly the order in which they had been drilled, marched in perfect step, part to the staircase, part to the fire escape outside the windows. Calmly, even merrily, the little ones went down, one detachment by the stairs, another by the fire escape. They were so perfectly trained that they hardly noticed the unusual feature of the march—that this time they met as they descended big, helmeted firemen running up the fire escapes with scaling ladders and with a line of hose over their shoulders. They did not know it, but the play was in earnest that time.

The great building with the 3,000 children had caught fire in the gymnasium lockers upon the top floor, the very floor where the primary pupils were at their lessons. In every other room the women teachers were as calm and brave as Miss Stressler. Each time the superintendent said:

"Let us play the fire drill."

The teacher played; the children marched out to safety, keeping time to the tone beats. That was all. But the brave teacher's heart must have been beating a quicker time than her music.

An incident almost identical occurred in another place, near the same time. Flames burst out in a children's hospital in the dead of night. Many of the little ones were ill, confined to their cots. But the ones that could walk about had also been trained in that invaluable fire drill. There was here no piano to lead the march, but the brave women nurses issued their commands like generals. The children were wakened and directed to march down stairs. They obeyed mechanically almost before they were awake. Those unable to walk were carried in the nurses' arms and at length every one of the 100 little waifs and invalids was safe in a building in another part of their grounds, while the flames ate up their tiny white cots in the house from which they had escaped.

Yet one more instance of how trained women—trained girls, this time—keep their heads on and are full of resources in danger.

One of the buildings of Bryn Mawr college, the only wooden one on the grounds, took fire at night. The girl students were awakened at once. Did they scream and drop over in a faint, as men novelists and reporters are so fond of representing? No; they did not. These fine, athletic Bryn Mawr students have a fire brigade, with captains and squads and hose and buckets and extinguishers, every mother's daughter of them having her own particular assignment and filling it. Within ten minutes from the time the bell sounded alarm that brigade of girl firemen was on hand with hose pipes and extinguishers, and very quickly the flames were out. Hail and welcome to the Bryn Mawr girls' fire brigade! Let the other women's colleges go and do likewise.

In country schoolhouses—yes, in every family in this land—that invaluable fire drill ought to be instituted. Mothers and women teachers, if the house should take fire, what would you do?

Only Man Who Knew How to Can the Meat Is Dead—May Not Have Told the Secret.

James McMenamin, the only successful canner of crab meat in the world, has just died in the hospital at Baltimore, and it is feared that his secret has died with him, reports a New York exchange. He is believed to have made $1,000,000 out of crab canning by running a large cannery at Hampton, Va., for six months in the year, but he kept the process hidden even from his workpeople, and unless his will divulges it or he confided the secret to his sons before his death, the canning plant will have to be shut down and nobody may ever know why its proprietor succeeded where others failed.

Mr. McMenamin went to Virginia from Massachusetts in 1878. While working as a clerk for Mayor Whitehead, of Norfolk, it came out that he knew how crab meat could be canned without losing its flavor and Mayor Whitehead helped him to establish a small cannery at Hampton. In time the small cannery was replaced with a bigger one, but never has the big one been able to meet all the demands upon it for canned crab meat.

During the six months of the year when the cannery was open the proprietor was the busiest man in it. A large force of colored women picked the meat from the crabs. It was sent to a locked room in which Mr. McMenamin personally attended to its preparation. Then it was sealed in the cans.

Last year the demand for canned crab meat was unprecedented and the man with the secret, when he died, was wondering how he could increase the output for this year.

NIGHT AMONG WHARF CATS.

When Darkness Comes There Is Much Noise and Many Battles Along the Water Front.

It is astonishing how many outcasts of the feline family inhabit the wharves bordering on the harbor basin of Baltimore, says the Sun of that city. Along every line of docks on the water front a band of cats, both large and small, have adopted the surroundings as their homes, and nightly come forth to wage war upon the venturesome tom of an adjoining clan who has imprudently ventured into the enemy's country.

The cats rarely venture from their lairs during daylight, but at nightfall, when traffic is suspended, the water fronts are alive with the flitting forms and the air is resonant with the voicing of their seemingly numerous troubles.

Men whose business takes them along the water front at night tell many stories of feline battles. One of the most characteristic is of two cats approaching a rat, each unknown to the other, and springing upon it at the same time. The rat escapes and the cats fight until one falls dead and the other limps away.

Another story illustrates the adeptness of cats in water. The overturning of a loose board throws three kittens and their parents into the dock. The mother swims to safety with one kitten on her back and another in her mouth. The father follows with the third kitten in his mouth.

SAMOA WITHOUT MINERALS.

Wild Stories of Gold-Bearing Sands Denied by Consul-General Osborn.

Consul General Osborne at Samoa writes to the state department, says a Washington report:

"There have been so many letters of inquiry sent to this office concerning the discovery of gold and other precious metals in these islands that I feel it my duty to report upon the subject. United States papers have published statements in regard to the gold-bearing sands of Samoa, and it appears that many people have paid for expenses of development, etc. I have from time to time made investigations, and if there are minerals—either gold, silver, mica, nickel, zinc, tin, or any other—in these islands, I have been unable to find them or to find any person who has any knowledge of the fact. If there is any 'gold mining company of Apia' (as reported in United States papers), the records do not disclose the fact, and the officials have no information upon the subject. No steamers, schooners or other vessels are engaged in transporting sands or ores to Sydney, or to San Francisco, or elsewhere; no such persons as those named as constituting the 'gold-mining company' are known here, and, in my judgment, a tremendous swindle is being perpetrated and the public ought to know the facts."

Victoria's Indian Attendants.

The late queen's Indian attendants have been retired on pensions, says Truth, and several of them have already returned to their native land. The departure of these oriental menials from England will not be regretted by anyone about the court, as they gave an enormous deal of trouble, and, being regarded as privileged persons, they were excessively arrogant and insolent to the British domestics, most of whom both feared and detested them. They were a constant source of worry, fuss and anxiety. The queen's munshi—Hafiz Abdul Karin—who has been a powerful personage at court for the last 15 years or so, is also going back to India with a pension. The munshi and his wife had a charming cottage on the Frogmore demesne, and a house was built for them a few years ago in the Balmoral grounds.

American Negroes Building Nations in Africa

This Country Has a Special Interest in Liberia and Sierra Leone.

WHILE the world is interested in the rapid development of Africa, it is well to remember that there are at least two small spots in the dark continent in which this country is interested, and which were originally settled by Americans. One is Liberia and the other Sierra Leone. Both were founded as a home for the African negro who had been transported from his native land to America against his wishes.

Sierra Leone was the first of these two African colonies to be established, and came as a direct result of the American revolutionary war. Some 400 runaway slaves had joined the British force in America at the time of the revolution. They had found it an easy way of escaping from their masters, and had been promised freedom and protection when English arms were successful and the war was over. But the war ended without the success of English arms, and the slaves to remain free had to flee from the country. They sought refuge in Nova Scotia and London. For a time they suffered many hardships and then their condition attracted the attention of Wilberforce, Granville Sharp and other English gentlemen, who undertook to provide for them in return for the aid they had given English arms in America.

For this purpose a stock company, entitled the "Sierra Leone company," was formed the purpose of which was to establish a colony on the west coast of Africa, and to send to it as colonists these runaway American slaves. There were 400 of them and they formed a nucleus around which England began the building of a new addition to the British empire.

In 1800 England placed a fleet of swift sailing cruisers on the west coast of Africa for the suppression of the slave trade, and whenever a slave ship was captured she was taken to Sierra Leone and her human cargo set free to become citizens of England's black colony. For the first few years the additions made to the population in this way were but few, and while the colony numbered 400 blacks at the time it was founded, there were but 500 people there in 1807. But England redoubled her efforts at the suppression of the slave trade and the colony grew more rapidly, so that by the time the century was half over the population numbered more than 25,000 people, all of whom were blacks. During the past 50 years this has been increased until to-day the people number more than 75,000, of whom all but about 300 are blacks.

Sierra Leone lies just north of Liberia, the little independent African nation in which America is interested, and just west of the French Soudan. In extent it is one of the smallest of England's many African colonies and covers an area of but some 4,000 square miles.

The capitol of the colony, Freetown, is a promising African city of some 30,000 people, and is the chief seaport on the West African coast. Though its population is almost exclusively African blacks, it is a progressive place, with substantial buildings in the business center, well-kept streets, churches of practically all denominations, a college of some importance that is affiliated with the University of Dunham and a police system that rivals many of the smaller cities of Europe. It is the English military headquarters for West African colonies, and a considerable military force is maintained there at all times.

There are over 70 public schools in the little colony with an average attendance of close to 7,000 pupils. The only railroad in the colony extends from Freetown to a point some 60 miles in the interior, and is being extended further into the interior. The people are industrious and saving, the savings deposits in the government banks amounting to more than $200,000 in 1898. William Harvey Brown says of this interesting English colony:

"Many different tribes of natives, having all sorts of savage customs and superstitions, were thrust upon this unique colony. Philanthropists have worked assiduously in endeavoring to establish habits of industry among them, and have succeeded fairly well. In religions, most Protestant denominations, Catholics, and Mohamedans are represented. In dress, one sees every grade, from dandies attired in the latest European fashions to people absolutely nude. The buildings vary in the same way, from good substantial stone structures down to the most primitive huts. In what may be called the civilized portion of Freetown, there are churches, schools, shops and hotels. In times past the freed slaves congregated in separate communities, those from any one locality joining together, thus forming the different sections that are known as Congo Town, Angola Town, and so on."

Sierra Leone shows what is possible from the African blacks when a master hand is guiding them. England has succeeded after a century of experiment and hard work in making a prosperous colony out of the horde which she freed from the African slave ships or took from American masters.

Liberia has been less successful in many ways, but the experience of the little nation of black men shows what is possible when they are left alone to work out their own destiny. The establishment of the nation was the outgrowth of an effort made by a number of American philanthropists to provide a home for free American negroes, who were at that time beginning to prove a disturbing element in our country. The American Colonization society was organized in 1816, in which Henry Clay was a prominent figure. Four years later the society founded the colony of Liberia. Then began a slow emigration of American negroes from the home of their forced adoption back to their native climes. From 1820 until 1862 the United States claimed a protectorate over the struggling nation, but the Republic of Liberia proclaimed its independence of this country as early as 1847, and its independence was recognized throughout Europe in the following year.

The government was outlined by the society that founded the colony, and resembles in every feature the government of the United States, with a senate and house of representatives as the legislative bodies, with a president elected every two years, and who has much the same authority, on a limited scale, as is granted the president of the United States.

A RESIDENCE STREET IN FREETOWN, SIERRA LEONE.

For a number of years after the colony was founded the society continued its efforts to secure colonists from this country with varying success. Then other interests demanded the attention of the men who had organized and pushed the society, and it finally died, leaving the negroes to work out their own salvation on the inhospitable African shores. Just how many of them were sent from this country to Liberia is not known. The present population is now a little more than 1,000,000 people, of which it is estimated some 18,000 are Americo-Liberians.

In area the little nation covers some 14,360 square miles, with a coast line of 500 miles. Of cities it has virtually none. Monrovia, the capital, named after President Monroe, of this country, comes nearest to the possibility of being classed as a city. It has 5,000 inhabitants, boasts a great number of churches representing practically every denomination, some insignificant government buildings and a few other public buildings of more or less value. Other towns are Robertsport, 1,200; Buchanan and Edina, 5,000 each; Harper, 3,000, and Greenville, 1,000.

Along the coast the country is low and swampy and fatal to any but acclimatized natives, but in the interior it rises to a considerable heighth above sea level and is comparatively healthy and well suited to the needs of tropical agriculture, which forms the basis of industry. During the last half century much internal disorder has prevailed, but one thing can be said in favor of the nation, that it makes an effort to deal honorably with foreign countries. Its public debt amounts to $500,000, borrowed in England in 1871, and the unpaid interest, which now amounts to more than the principal. Liberian bonds are of no great commercial value at the present time, and yet the European capitalists who hold them expect the nation will some day pay both principal and interest, and each successive administration promises to make a start at doing so. SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Dupee, the regular pitcher on the Leal's team, is still suffering with a sprained back. He will not be able to play on the team for a fortnighnt.

Whiteside, who played right field on the Leal's team yesterday afternoon in the game with the Vaquero Club's nine, was hit on the head by a swiftly pitched ball. Fortunately he was not seriously hurt.

The Vaquero Club, an eating society, of Princeton University, came to Plainfield yesterday afternoon with the intention of serving goose eggs to the Leal's School nine. Much to their discomfort, however, the Princetonians ate crow on Pittis' field before the game was finished. Ralph Schoonmaker as chef had an able corps of eight waiters as his staff.

The Whittier ball team defeated the Lincoln High School second team, of Westfield, on the latter's grounds yesterday afternoon by the close score of 9 to 10. It was a very interesting as well as exciting game as the victors were always hard pushed for the lead. A return game will be played Thursday on the Whittier grounds. The Plainfield battery was Hellyer and Brokaw who did very good work.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

D. C. Allen, of Harrison street, got back from a fishing trip this morning. In the Raritan, near the dam, he landed five shad last evening.

Several more entries have been made in the races which are to form the feature of the Memorial Day out door sports at Dewey Park. Conrad Knoth, who has issued a sweeping challenge to all comers in the three mile foot race open to newspaper men only, has received a few entries lately from Trenton. One editor has replied that it will be impossible for his men to take part, inasmuch as they are all ten mile specialists. The name of Charles Sylvester Cook, a veteran compositor of The Daily Press, has been sent in. The fleet footed Mr. Cook has achieved a reputation as a six day racer, but to lend some excitement to Mr. Knoth's contest, he has reluctantly consented to be entered in the three mile run. Mr. Knoth, however, need expect no handicap from Mr. Cook who is determined to land the cup.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The bowling tourney which has been in progress at Conover's alleys during the past winter, was finished last night. Twenty men were entered and the contest has been a very exciting one. The result was a great surprise to many. The winners were as follows: First prize, Christopher Huff; second, Gus Laggren; third, F. J. Blatz; fourth, D. B. Martin. The prize for the highest score was awarded to Howard Woolston who rolled 201.

WHIST.

The Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club lost the last game in the Metropolitan Cup series to the Park Club last week Thursday evening at Elizabeth, by a score of 13 to 5. The Park Club holders will meet the next challenger this evening in this city. It is to be hoped that the home team will be a winner. The team will probably be F. H. Freeman, captain; E. A. Woltmanr, F. H. Willis and W. H. Drayton.

ORANGE BALL PLAYERS PROVED EASY VICTIMS

Plainfield High School Defeated Orange High School 24 To 9.

PLAYED VERY GOOD BALL.

VISITORS PLAYED A SLOVENLY GAME AND SOON LOST COURAGE.

Plenty of Base-Hits and No End of Errors Were the Means of Rolling Up a Host of Runs for Plainfield—Great Improvement Shown.

After sundry ventures into the mysteries of baseball, the boys of the Plainfield High School are beginning to play ball. They demonstrated that fact more fully yesterday afternoon when they simply overwhelmed the team from the Orange High School by a score of 24 to 9. The game was played on the Hope chapel grounds on Plainfield avenue.

In the very first inning, the crowd was made aware of the fact that the Plainfield boys were setting the same pace that they did against Rutgers Prep. School last Saturday. Two doubles and a single, a base on balls and a few errors netted four runs for Plainfield in the first inning, while Orange went out in one, two, three order. Oraage opened the second in similar fashion, while lots of errors, aided by clean hits by T. Mason and Cubberley, brought in six more runs. After that, it simply became a question as to how great a score Plainfield would pile up.

Orange scored first in the fourth inning when a base on balls, a hit and a dropped throw by Monroe allowed Weiset to cross the plate. Three pretty hits to the left of short stop were the means of giving the visitors four runs in the sixth. They scored an occasional run after that, but they did not amount to much.

The city High School boys waked up every other inning and hammered out a few runs. Phelan, the Orange's first pitcher, had enough in four innings. He swapped with Lightype in centre. The latter was somewhat of an improvement but his delivery was well punished as well.

The field work of the Plainfielders was remarkably clean, only two errors being scored against them. VanAuken pitched a pretty game although his arm troubled him. Although he was hit safely ten times, he was effective at critical moments. The Mason combination showed vast improvement. At bat, T. Mason, Cubberley and Monroe did the honors, making three hits each.

Something was evidently the trouble with the Orange boys. Their fielding was slovenly and their courage died early in the game. Poor judgment was shown by their base runners.

The teams batted as follows:

Plainfield H. S.	Orange H. S.
F. Mason, ss.	Roff, 2b.
VanAuken, p.	Staunton, rf.
T. Mason, 2b.	Weiset, c.

owners' intention to hold no conference. Every owner appears to be biding his time. Mr Scott was not represented in the conference at the Astor House, in New York, last evening.

The only annoyance to which Mr. Scott says he has been subjected, since the strike commenced, occurred yesterday. A number of pickets, he declares, patrolled in the vicinity of the works, and on more than one occasion some of them endeavored to persuade apprentices to strike. Mr. Scott says he roundly scored the men for this action and declared that while it was immaterial to him yet should the apprentices strike they would forfeit the bounty which is given them at the expiration of their service.

PRESS WORKS REPORTED BUSY

Local Manufacturers Say Strike Has Not Extended to Many Other Press Works.

An important bit of information was learned today by the local manufacturers concerning some of the printing press works thoughout the country. The Daily Press is informed that the manufacturers in Plainfield have learned by wire and otherwise that the strike among press works is not so general as expected.

A list of shops where there has been no trouble at all and where the men have been working full time without making any demands is given. They include the Kidder Press Company, Boston, Mass.; Huber Printing Press Company, Pompton, Mass.; Cranston Printing Press Company, Champlain, N. Y.; Duplex Printing Press Company, Battle Creek, Mich.; Babcock Printing Press Company, New London and Mystic, Conn.; Goss Printing Press Company, Miehle Printing Press Company, Chicago; Cottrell Printing Press Company, Westerly, R. I.

The local manufacturers say that the machinists at the above-named shops have not made any demands on their employers, and that they are perfectly satisfied with the present condition of affairs.

ADDRESSED LOCAL STRIKERS

Organizer Wilson, of International Association, Was Present at Meeting This Morning.

The strikers were addressed in Trades Union hall this morning by Organizer Wilson, of the International Association of Machinists. He bade the men hold out and otherwise encouraged them. It was the intention of the committee to have Isaac Cowen, of New York, present and make an address but he was unable to get to this city owing to other engagements. Mr. Cowen is the national organizer of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers and it was he who made the address at the Monday night meeting when the Pond men were asked out.

OPEN TO STRIKERS.

The Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, has made the announcement that during the strike, that all machinists will be welcomed at its gymnasium and reading-room. The place is open all day, and the men will be accorded the free use of the building, including the bowling alley.

NO CHANGE AT POTTER'S.

At the Potter Press Works the situation is unchanged. A few pattern makers are kept at work and the clerical force remains at the desks. This will be the rule at this shop until further developments arise.

Before Recorder Doud.

Henry Richter and his wife, Elizabeth Richter, together with Arthur McKinley, were a trio of colored people arrested for disorderly conduct on Warren street, Tuesday night, by Marshal Winn. Recorder Doud imposed a fine of $5 on each for the men and $3 on the Richter woman. The fines were paid.

His Third Appearance.

J. W. Bothem, of Jersey City, will address the men's meeting for the third time this season at Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. The vocal and instrumental music will be of special interest.

STRIKERS ARE HOPEFUL OF WINNING; WHILE EMPLOYERS AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS.

No Prospect of Immediate Settlement of the Strike of Employes at the Local Machine Shops.

NO ATTEMPT TO OPEN ANY LOCAL SHOPS.

THE BEST OF ORDER STILL PREVAILS AMONG THE MEN OUT OF WORK.

Now That Men Have Refused to Return to Work at Pond's Pending the Decision By Company Officials, There is No Telling When Answer Will Come—The Strikers Met This Morning.

There is every prospect of a long continuance of the strike of the machinists at the local shops. The men still are firm in their determination to obey the orders of the International Order of Machinists and not return to work until their demand for ten hours' pay for nine hours' work is granted. The officials of the local press works seem content to await developments. Their future action, they say, depends largely on what the other printing press companies through the country do regarding the demand of the machinists.

No one knows what will be done at the Pond Tool Works. Superintendent MacMurray said that if the men would return to work until tonight, the officials of that company could be gotten together and an answer given. The men refused, however, and it is now a question as to when the answer will come. No attempt has yet been made to fill the places of the strikers. Nothing toward that end will probably be done until the company decides what course to pursue regarding the demands of the machinists.

The excitement attendant on the opening days of the strike has passed away and the men are beginning to realize that the strike is likely to prove a serious affair. Excellent order is still maintained by those strikers who are about town. The great majority of them, however, have kept away from the business section and either remained at home or gone forth in search of amusement. Another meeting of the strikers was held this morning, when another labor organizer from New York addressed them. The men are still very hopeful of winning.

The leaders deny the report that they will receive no benefit from the International Order of Machinists because they have not been organized for three months. They say that there is a provision to the constitution which says that the benefits shall be paid when a strike is ordered from national headquarters.

WILL RECEIVE BENEFITS.

Strikers Declare That The Union Agreed to Make Provision For Them.

The statement purported to have been made by Superintendent J. T. MacMurray in the course of his talk to the Pond strikers in Washington Hall Wednesday afternoon, to the effect that none of the International Association men would be in benefit until they had been in the orgaization for three months, is declared by the leaders in this city to be untrue. His authority, they say, is in all probability a clause in the constitution of the society which states this, but there is another clause which makes provision for unforseen contingencies, strikes coming under this head.

It is true the local branch was formed but a month ago, but when ordered out by Grand Master O'Connell, it was with the understanding that all who complied at once would be allowed a weekly remittance after the first week. Men with families or anyone dependent upon them will receive $6 a week and single men $4. This applies to non-union men who went out in sympathy with the strikers. All members of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers who are on strike will receive $4 50 a week.

There is every assurance that the strikers will receive the money for weeks to come as the International Association of Machinists, besides having a prosperous treasury and many members at work, is backed by the Federation of Trades, with two million members who have promised to contribute one dollar each for their support. Although the amount allowed each week is small it means much to the machinists and will be of great assistance to them in maintaining the struggle.

ALL PASSIVE AT SCOTT'S.

Mr. Scott Intimates That Men May Not Be Wanted When They Choose To Return.

The passive condition at the Scott ress Works still continues. Not from any part of that great machine shop are to be heard those familiar sounds caused by the swarm of machinists actively engaged.

Mr. Scott had little to say this morning. In speaking of the prospect of his men returning, he intimated that they may not be wanted when they choose to return. The men in the other departments are at work as usual. This is the situation practically, so far as this plant is concerned, and there is no apparent prospect of a change.

SURPRISE FOR HIS EMPLOYES.

R.H. McCullough Has Announced Reduction in Time For Same Wages at His Mill.

Following closely the announcement made by the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company that union hours would be granted its employes, comes the news that Richard H. McCullough, the planing mill owner, has decided to give his men ten hours' pay for nine hours' work.

This action on Mr. McCullough's part is entirely voluntary. His men are contented apparently with present conditions and not one of them has suggested the change proposed. The new order goes into effect Monday, June 3, and will be permanent.

"They'll all come to it sooner or later," said Mr. McCullough, in speaking of the new arrangement. "I want to give my men the ten hours' pay for nine hours' work before they have a chance to ask me for it. I have eighteen employes and they will all get the benefit of the arrangement," said Mr. McCullough, whose countenance showed that it pleases him to give the men employed in the Steiner place mill this welcome surprise.

URGED STRIKERS TO BE FIRM.

National Organizer Isaac Cowen Addressed Meeting of Local Strikers This Morning.

CITY PLANS ANOTHER MARTIN ACT SALE.

Collector Smith Announced at Council Meeting That Sale Will Be Held June 24.

ORDINANCES ARE PASSED.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL HELD LAST NIGHT.

Adoption of Tax Ordinance, Also Amendment to License Ordinance—Will Secure Bids for Printing of General Ordinances.

A special meeting of the Common Council was held last evening to take action on a few important matters. All the members except Messrs. Clifton, Buckle and Mellick were present. Mr. Mellick came in after the close of the meeting.

The first matter taken up was the adoption on the third reading of the ordinance regarding the assessment and collection of taxes for 1901. This was followed by the adoption of an amendment to the ordinance relating to the peece, morals and good order of Plainfield. This prohibits the posting the posting of bills or notices of any kind on telegraph, telephone or electric light poles. The supplement to the ordinance to license inns and taverns, which provides for the granting of a special license to serve liquors in hotels at regular meals where there is no bar, was also adopted on its third reading. This was especially drafted for the Hotel Netherwood.

Collector F. H. Smith submitted his report concerning delinquent taxpayers whose property is to be sold under the provisions of the Martin Act. According to the Act payment has to be delinquent two years. Accompanying the report there was a list of the properties and the owners. Collector Smith has decided to hold the sale Monday afternoon, June 24, at 2 o'clock, and he announces that there will be no adjournments.

In connection with the report of the collector, Mr. VanHerwerden offered a resolution directing the collector to sell the property to the highest bidder, subject to the provisions of the Act.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh submitted a brief report concerning the termination of the suit of Mrs. Sarah Milliken against the City for alleged damages caused by the sewage beds.

In a communication, Charles Smith, of Craig place, asked the Council to adjust the taxes on his property located at 1113 and 1115 West Fifth street. It seems that Mr. Smith has been paying taxes on the property at 1101 and 1103 West Fifth street, owned by Mrs. Margaret McLoughlin, while she was assessed for his property. The only difference is that Mr. Smith has been paying his taxes on Mrs. McLoughlin's property, while she has failed to pay his taxes. The property owned by Mr. Smith is listed among those to be sold under the Martin Act, and as Mr. Smith desires to sell his property he asks the Council to adjust matters so that he can dispose of his property. This will be done.

The finance committee was authorized to secure bids for the printing of the general ordinances of the city in book form, and a report will be submitted to the Council. This finished the business and the meeting adjourned.

Good Performance Assured.

There will be fun for all who attend the amateur minstrel and "Shades of Night" performances at the Casino Saturday afternoon and evening, given for the benefit of the organ fund at Grace P. E. church. The matinee performance is given for children and many who cannot go in the evening. Both performances will be exactly alike. Those who attend will not regret it.

Thanks From Firemen.

The boys at the fire department headquarters express appreciation for the thoughtful remembrance of Thomas Hibbard, of the Hotel Imperial, in providing them with refreshments after the fire Sunday morning.

To Tell of His Work.

The State superintendent of home missions will speak concerning the work at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, at which time a collection for the work will be received.

A Strawberry Festival.

The women of the Monroe Avenue church are arranging to give a strawberry festival at the church Memorial Day, afternoon and evening.

RESERVOIR COMPLETED.

It Will Furnish Spring Water From Mountain for Dr. Cooley's Baths.

The large reservoir which has been in course of construction on the mountain for Dr. Cooley, for the purpose of supplying water for his baths, was opened yesterday for the first. It is located on the Wadley quarry property and will hold 400,000 gallons of water. Its dimensions are 60x90 and it is ten feet deep. It will be filled entirely with spring water and when full will give a pressure at the retreat of 35 pounds. The reservoir is built of brick and the sides and bottom are of cement. Great care and attention will be given to maintain absolutely cleanliness about the reservoir.

REFORMATORY NEARLY READY.

BUILDINGS HAVE BEEN INSPECTED BY THE COMMISSION.

Place is Well-Equipped According to to the Most Modern Plans For Such Institutions.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, May 24—The new State Reformatory will soon be ready for occupancy. Every cell is completely furnished, and the necessary office equipment is arriving daily.

The Commission met at the reformatory buildings a few days ago and made a tour of inspection. Among those who attended the meeting was George J. Tobin, of Plainfield, who received the contract for the plumbing work.

The interior arrangements of the buildings are thoroughly modern in every respect. The electric lighting system is one of the features of the buildings. Rough brick is the material used for the interior walls. There are eleven miles of piping and plumbing thoughout the several buildings.

For the benefit of invalids in the dome building a recreation section has been set apart. Here the sick can obtain what practically amounts to out door exercise.

The reformatory grounds cover over eighty acres and these are much improved. It is the intention of the mission to fence in these lands.

HUNT CLUB MEET.

Will Be Held At Elizabeth This Year On Memorial Day And Will Surpass Former Efforts.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 24—The unusually large number of entries which have already been made in the several classes indicates that the annual horse show of the Union County Hunt Club to be held on Memorial Day will surpass any of the former efforts of the horsemen identified with the organization.

In the championship contest for the $100 cup the entries are particularly numerous. The representation is evidently scattered throughout the State. From Plainfield, Lewis Hallock, Jr., and Lewis E. Waring will be active participants, and will no doubt be heard from.

Last year Miss Daisy Shepard and Miss Louise G. Fisk, of Plainfield, won a number of the principal events.

Musical Numbers.

Clara J. Mears, professionally known as Mlle. Mira Marisona, who will be the vocal soloist at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon, graduated at the head of a class of 500 in the College of Music of Cincinnati, and later took a post graduate course. Those who were present at the meeting last week will be glad of an opportunity to hear her again. There will also be violin, flute and piano trios to be rendered by Mrs. George W. Saums, Miss Elizabeth Allis and Elmer P. Wheeler.

Arrangements For Swedish Service.

A meeting of the trustees of the newly formed Swedish Lutheran church was held last evening at the residence of Jacob Geier, of Madison avenue. Arrangements were made for the holding of services Sunday afternoons at 3:30 in the German Lutheran church. Miss Lizzie Ebel, of Grove street, was appointed organist.

Purchased Large Property.

One of the most important real estate deals effected this year has just been made through the Mulford agency of North avenue. T. J. Mumford, of Ninth street and Central avenue, has purchased the large property adjoining his which was owned by James Duffy, of New York.

At General Assembly.

Among the Plainfielders who have attended the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church meeting this week in Philadelphia are Mrs. D. N. Groendyke and Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue.

Hospital Directors to Meet.

There will be a regular meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital Monday evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 24.—A special meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders was held yesterday when the appropriations for the year were made. Although the sum to be appropriated is $228,000, there is a balance of $28,000 left from last year, so that the actual amount to be raised by taxation is $200,000. WHOLESALE WORK.

Residents of Watchung Avenue Alarmed at Many Dogs Being Poisoned.

During the past few weeks there has been a wholesale poisoning of pet dogs in the vicinity of lower Watchung avenue. The outrage has reached such a point that the losers of these valuable canines are seriously thinking of banding together for the purpose of ferreting out these villainous persons and giving them the proper punishment. The advisability of offering a reward is also being considered.

In the west end of the city owners of dogs have had similar experiences and their pet dogs have been dropping off with great rapidity. The indications are that the work is being carried on in a systematic manner.

KING'S DAUGHTERS SALE.

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR GIVEN BY THE ADVANCE CIRCLE.

Was Held in the Miller Building on Park Avenue Last Evening, and Was Largely Attended.

During all last evening the vacant store in the Miller building on Park avenue was the scene of a very large gathering. It was the occasion of the ice cream festival and sale of the Advance Circle of King's Daughters, given for the purpose of raising funds for the maintenance of the city nurse and the Fresh Air Fund. These most deserving objects for entertainments which always prove successful, no matter in what form given, proved more than unusually so last evening.

The bare walls of the store had been transformed under the direction of Miss Katheryn Glen and an able corps of assistants. Large streamers of white and purple were hung from all sides and gathered in one large knot in the middle. Around the room were numerous small booths and tables, presided over by a bevy of young women ready to attend to the wants of prospective buyers.

There was no dearth of customers, for the store was well filled all the evening. Probably the one securing the largest patronage was the fancy booth in charge of Mrs. John Groendyke, assisted by Mrs. John Johnson. Closely following this in point of favor was the candy booth, in charge of Mrs. L. A. Hummer, and the cake table, presided over by Miss Sarah Boss.

The ice cream department was in charge of Mrs. J. A. Haynes, and the frozen delicacy was served to the purchasers by a corps of waitresses consisting of Mrs Howard Pope, Mrs. George O. Stevens, Mrs. L. A. Hummer, Miss Katheryn Glen, Miss Lizzie Bittenbender and Miss Brokaw. The entire affair was in charge of Miss Ella Blish, who acted as general chairman in arranging the numerous details for the festival. While it was a decided social success, it was also a financial one, and the members of the circle have cause to take pride in their efforts.

SURPRISED HER.

Seventy Friends Dropped in all Ready for a Good Time.

Miss Muriel Gunn, of South avenue, was given a complete surprise last evening by seventy of her friends. They came prepared for an evening of pleasure, bringing an orchestra and everything necessary to obtain the desired result. Miss Gunn proved equal to the occasion. Prof. O'Reilly furnished the music for dancing.

Refreshments in abundance were served at midnight. The guests included friends from Newark, Elizabeth, Bayonne, Somerville, Cranford and Dunellen. The affair was arranged by Miss Bertha Cook and Walter Higgins, of this city.

THREE GRADUATES OF COURSE AT HOSPITAL.

Graduation Exercises Held Last Evening In Chapel of Crescent Ave. Church.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES MADE.

THREE YOUNG WOMEN HAVE COMPLETED THE PRESCRIBED COURSE.

Graduating Class Pins And Diplomas Were Presented—W. R. Cock Spoke For Board And Dr. Probasco For Medical Staff.

Appropriate exercises marking the graduation of three nurses, from the training school of the Muhlenberg Hospital, were held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last evening. The young women, who have successfully pursued the course prescribed, are Miss Edith Gertrude Anderson, Miss Margaret L. Vanderpool and Miss Margaret Cramer.

The chapel had been specially decorated for the occasion. Tastefully arranged at the back of the platform was a large American flag supported on either side by two smaller flags, one the starry banner and the other the flag of the British empire. Floral decorations, consisting principally of branches of profusely blooming dogwood, gave an air of brightness to the surroundings.

When the room had become well filled with the friends of the graduates as well as of the institution generally, Miss Emma Messler, the efficient superintendent of the training school, and the other nurses advanced and took their places on the platform.

The exercises were opened by an impressive invocation offered by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector of Grace Episcopal church. The address of the president, which followed, was made by Wm. R. Cock, secretary of the Board of Governors of the hospital, owing to the absence of Charles J. Fisk, who occupies that position on the board. In a short speech, Mr. Cock dwelt mainly upon the early history of the hospital, which, he said, came into existence Dec. 28, 1889, although not opened until the following fall. Before concluding his remarks, Mr. Cock referred to the significance of the occasion which brought together such a large number of people. He spoke of the work of the nurses and of their industrious and self-sacrificing labors. The institution, said he, is being amply repaid for the educational advantages extended to the young women by the valuable services rendered by them to the hospital.

After Miss Rosabel Shroeder had sung some pleasing solos, for which Miss Hyatt acted as accompanist, the address on behalf of the medical staff was delivered by Dr. J. B. Probasco. Dr. Probasco read a scholarly dissertation on the growth of the medical profession, which showed that he had made a most thorough study of the subject upon which he dwelt. In closing, the doctor addressed a few timely remarks to the graduates. He impressed upon them that their profession called for a three-fold duty, one to themselves, another to the physician and a third to the patient.

Miss Shroeder again favored the audience with two well rendered solos.

The presentation of diplomas was made by George H. Goddard, a member of the Board of Governors. Mr. Goddard explained that under the regulations Miss Anderson was the only one to whom a diploma could be awarded at this time inasmuch as she alone had attended the school for the full three-year term as required, but that certificates would be awarded to the Misses Vanderpool and Cramer who had completed the regular course of study, but unfortunately had not been in attendance for the full three years' term. Miss Cramer will be awarded her diploma in June and Miss Vanderpool will receive hers in the fall.

Samuel Huntington, another member of the board, who was selected to present the graduating class pins, in a neat speech remarked that the award of these emblems was not restricted fortunately by any condition as to time of attendance on the part of the graduates. The pins, said he, are intended to represent diplomas and are much more serviceable for that purpose than parchment. The three graduates received the pins at his hands.

Refreshments were served in the lecture room of the church edifice, where the fair young graduates, who looked extremely well in their becoming uniforms, were surrounded by a crowd of admiring friends. Congratulations were showered upon them and they were likewise remembered by numerous handsome bouquets.

—If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

BEHIND PRISON BARS

Commissary Rogues Placed In Bilibid Prison, Manila.

UNITED STATES OFFICERS DISGRACED

The Transportation of American Teachers to the Philippines a Serious Problem—Special Accommodations Being Fitted Up.

MANILA, May 24.—The gates of Bilibid prison, Manila, swung last night and admitted a mule wagon bearing three former United States officers, who reluctantly alighted and began to serve sentences in expiation of crimes in connection with the commissary scandals. The sentences, which were read to the convicted men yesterday afternoon, will be promulgated today. The prisoners are Captain Frederick J. Barrows, late depot quartermaster of the department of southern Luzon, sentenced to five years' imprisonment; Captain James C. Reed, late depot commissary at Manila, to serve three years' imprisonment, and Lieutenant Frederick Boyer, depot commissary at Calamba, to one year's imprisonment.

By order of the provost marshal, General George W. Davis, a press representative was accorded an interview with the prisoners. Captain Reed and Captain Barrows seemed comparatively unmoved by their situation. Lieutenant Boyer protested his innocence and seemed vindictive toward Captain Barrows, who, he alleged, was alone guilty of misappropriating bacon.

Major Hale, commandant of the prison, cleared a storeroom to be occupied by the trio apart from the Filipino prisoners, but as Lieutenant Boyer avoids speaking to Captain Barrows other arrangements are probable.

An examination of the effects of Knud Engelskjon, the Norwegian through whom the Mohammedan chiefs of Mindanao made overtures of peace to General Otis and who was recently arrested for embezzlement, discloses the fact that he had been acting as an agent of the insurgents since 1898. He carried as his credentials a letter from the Filipino junta in Hongkong to Aguinaldo, and on a pretense of examining mining property in Mindanao he visited the insurgents. Accompanying him was G. E. St. Clair, an American. The latter pretended to be an Englishman, but yesterday he acknowledged that he was acting as the agent of Colonel Colton, assistant collector of customs in Manila, and S. H. Steel, a Manila lawyer, in an endeavor to secure possession of mining property in Mindanao before the American troops arrived. The insurgents suspected St. Clair's nationality and twice sentenced him to be shot, but he managed to escape. St. Clair was taken into custody yesterday and paroled pending the investigation.

The question of the transportation of the 700 American teachers engaged to come to the Philippines is so serious that Judge Taft has cabled Secretary Root requesting that transports be detailed or that other special arrangements be made, as owing to the movement of troops there are no accommodations on the steamers. Only two arrived by the last two transports.

The commission is solving the problem of procuring accommodations for American teachers in Manila within their incomes by authorizing the fitting up of the government exposition building for lodging purposes. Rooms will be rented there at a nominal cost.

Trying to Keep Indemnity Down.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Mr. Rockhill has confirmed the news from Peking to the effect that the foreign ministers have declined to accede to the suggestion of the United States that the total of the indemnity to be collected from China shall be limited to $200,000,000. It is expected that he will continue his efforts in the direction of keeping down the maximum of claims, even while abandoning, for the sake of harmony, the figure named, and it is believed that he outcome will be a compromise upon a figure between $200,000,000 and the maximum of $337,000,000, claimed by the powers. In the effort to keep down the total Mr. Rockhill looks for support to the estimates submitted by Sir Ernest Satow, the British minister at Peking, and Sir Robert Hart, commissioner of imperial customs, whose report upon the ability of the Chinese to pay an indemnity of about $200,000,000 is now before the state department.

Land System of Telegraphy.

BALTIMORE, May 24.—The multiplex system of telegraphy invented by the late Professor Henry A. Rowland of Baltimore permits of the transmission of eight messages simultaneously over a single wire, four in each direction, at the rate of 40 words a minute. The messages are sent by means of a keyboard similar to that of a typewriter, which can be operated by an ordinary typewriter operator, and are recorded at the other end of the wire by a small machine. It is possible either to print the message upon a sheet of paper or upon a long tape like that which is used in the ordinary ticker service.

Strike on New Bridge.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Another strike on the new East river bridge was declared yesterday, and work on the structure came to a halt. The force that quit numbered 100 men. They belong to the Housesmiths' and Bridge Builders' unions. It is claimed that when the big builders of Manhattan raised wages for similar kinds of work from $3.76 to $4.26 per day the Roeblings' Sons company, for which the strikers worked, failed to comply with those terms, which were the outcome of a new union scale.

Murdered by an Italian.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 24.—James Stacy was shot and instantly killed at Durbin by an Italian, who escaped in the darkness. The men had quarreled. A posse is pursuing the Italian. This is the fourth murder in the locality within three months. The trouble is confined to men working on the new coal and iron extension of the West Virginia Central and Pittsburg railway building from Elkins to Durbin.

Gates Off For Recreation.

LONDON, May 24.—The Daily Mail publishes an interview with John W. Gates of Chicago, who declared that his visit to England was simply for recreation and had no connection with business. Mr. Gates dilated upon the "great era of prosperity in the United States" and the "promising future of the steel trust."

MACHINISTS GAINING.

Strikers Gradually Winning Their Struggle.

NEW YORK SUBWAY WORK STOPPED

This Strike Comes as a Surprise to Contractors, Who Claim That Arbitration Was Agreed on at the Outset.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President O'Connell of the Machinists' association summarizing the strike situation, says:

"The situation now shows that we are largely the gainer in the number of settlements made. The latest adjustments reported show a gain in New England of 1,500 in the number of men returned to work with the demands granted, of 500 or 600 in Ohio and probably 1,000 in Pennsylvania.

"About 1,000 men struck yesterday. There are some additions in Philadelphia and some in the Seaboard Air Line shops in Americus, Ga. Our policy is to discourage bringing out any more men than is absolutely necessary to effect the success of the movement."

Mr. O'Connell says a strike of the machinists on the Seaboard Air Line will occur today, and the strikers will number 500 or 600. Advices to headquarters here indicate that at San Francisco many of the smaller concerns are ready to grant the demands, but are not ready to sign the agreement. At Indianapolis the American Bicycle company is reported as agreeing to the demands, but refusing to sign the agreement.

In this city every establishment employing machinists has signed agreements, one of them, however, the Cahill Typewriter company, refusing to unionize the shop. There are about 100 machinists in Washington outside of government shops. In Boston 39 firms, employing 1,650 men, have signed the agreements thus far, leaving 1,200 men still engaged in the strike. The men are out in the American Bicycle company's shops at Springfield, Mass.; Westerly, R. I., and Thomasville, Conn. The local combination of employers at Bridgeport, Conn., has been broken by the agreement of the Capsule Machine company there. Latest reports show the following additional agreements: Indianapolis, two shops; Grand Rapids, two; Erie, Pa., the Erie City Iron works and the Cleveland and Hendricks Machine company; Pittsburg, a half dozen oil well supply concerns; Meadville, Pa., the Phœnix Iron works.

TUNNEL WORK STOPS.

Walking Delegates Order a Strike All Along the Line.

NEW YORK, May 24.—A general strike on all rapid transit tunnel work began yesterday at the city hall terminal section and spread northward about as fast as the walking delegates could themselves proceed with their announcement of the plans. The delegates visited one section after another. They told the rock drillers, the engineers and other employees that a strike had been decided on. Then work stopped. Some of the associated trades acted in sympathy with the drill runners. There are about 230 of these drill men on the entire line. Some others, it was said, feared violence if they remained at work. Where rock excavation stopped, the day laborers, carters and others were left idle. Where they still had work to do, the day laborers generally stuck to their jobs.

The tunnel strike, so the contractors declare, is a movement to coerce contractors entirely outside the tunnel operations. A demand of engineers and others on the General Contractors' association on Friday last was refused. But the tunnel men have an association of their own and do not, with perhaps one or two exceptions, belong to the general association. The tunnel contractors paid their men the men's own terms and gave them their own stated hours. Authorized representatives of the trades unions agreed that on this basis there should be no strike. Yesterday they changed their minds.

Contractor John B. McDonald called a meeting of subcontractors late in the afternoon to consider the situation. He said that union wages were being paid and the eight hour day observed, and he considered the proposed strike a violation of the agreement made by the men to arbitrate all differences.

Mr. McDonald added: "We are paying the men just what they wanted at the start. We had an agreement with their authorized representatives when the work started that all grievances would be settled by arbitration."

Distinguished Guests at the Fair.

BUFFALO, May 24.—The Pan-American exposition was visited by three distinguished men yesterday—Vice President Roosevelt, Jules Cambon, embassador from France, and Governor William T. Durbin of Indiana. The vice president and Governor Durbin went to the fair together. With them were President John G. Milburn of the Exposition company and other prominent officials, who escorted them to the points of interest. They went to the Midway, saw the rough riding and a sham battle by the Indians, and the vice president christened an Indian baby that was born in the camp about a week ago. The papoose was named Pan Anna Ettseeda. M. Cambon went to the grounds with some personal friends and spent about two hours there.

Liquor Legislation Defeated.

HARTFORD, May 24.—The effort to change the liquor law of the state was defeated in the general assembly when the house rejected both the majority and minority committee reports, each of which was for an increase in the cost of licenses. The majority report favored a fee of $600, with a limitation of one saloon to every 400 inhabitants in license towns. The minority report provided for a fee of $500, with no limitation.

Gilman Estate to Be Settled.

ATLANTA, May 24.—Frazier Gilman, half brother of the late George Gilman of Bridgeport, Conn., has returned home. He said he expected the estate would in a day or two be divided into either seven or nine shares. The heirs, he said, had made up their minds to lose as little as possible by litigation. He will get from $300,000 to $500,000, dependent upon the number of shares. He thinks Mrs. Blakeley Hall will get $50,000.

Boers to Settle In Brazil.

BERLIN, May 24.—From the report of the Hanseatic Colonization company it is learned that a number of Boers have engaged to settle in the company's colony in southern Brazil.

REVISION DEBATE ON

Presbyterian Assembly Begins Important Discussion.

ABLE SPEECHES FOR AND AGAINST.

Calvary Church In Philadelphia Crowded to Utmost Capacity to Listen to the Long Looked For Creed Argument.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—With eloquence born of the solemn importance of the question commissioners to the Presbyterian assembly yesterday began the debate on the revision of the confession of faith. Brilliant leaders of the church advanced their views in a calm, dispassionate manner, and the entire discussion was devoid of acrimony. With a full realization of the great importance of the subject the assembly proceeded to consider and investigate thoroughly every detail of the proposed changes in the creed.

Calvary church was not large enough to accommodate the throngs who clamored for admission. Many of the spectators did not leave the church during the noon recess. Although frequently requested to avoid demonstrations, the audience repeatedly applauded the speakers. Among the spectators were many clergymen of other denominations.

The great question came before the assembly with the reading of the report of the committee on revision by Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey, chairman. This was followed by the minority report read by Rev. Dr. William McKibben of Cincinnati.

A rule of the assembly gives chairmen the right to speak on their reports after they have been received, but before Rev. Dr. Dickey could secure recognition Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Niccolls moved the adoption of the first recommendation in both reports. Rev. Dr. James D. Moffat made a substitute motion to adopt the minority report, and an amendment was offered substituting the minority. Rev. Dr. George D. Baker presented as another amendment a resolution to the effect that as the vote of the presbyteries indicated a lack of unanimity the entire subject be dismissed. Dr. Dickey secured the floor on this amendment and made a stirring address supporting the old confession. Rev. Dr. Horrick Johnson and Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Niccolls aroused the unbounded enthusiasm of the audience by their brilliant presentations of the revision faction's reasons for desiring a change.
